Nations Without God Will Fall.

Religion is necessary to good government. No nation ever existed for any great length of time without religion. It may not have been the Christian religion that was and is the basis of all good government, but there was a religion of some kind, or there was a god, one that could be called a god.

Religion is the basis of the home, and as such is the basis of government. Take away religion, and government fails to function properly. Russia the Soviet Government has undertaken a policy that recognizes no religion. There was a religion before the overthrow of the Czarist government, and up to the time of the soviet revolution, but since that time religion has been one of the fundamental principles of life that has been omitted from our official institution, and efforts have been made to suppress it altogether.

It has not been entirely wiped out, however, for the principles instilled into the minds of our people from infancy cannot be eradicated completely in a few years. However, the conditions in Russia are such that the people are drifting away from their former standards, and gross immorality is gradually taking the place of religion. The people may say that there is no God, but those who have reached the age of understanding know that there is, and however much they may try to live without the religion of their fathers, they cannot entirely break away from it. Those who succeed in doing so rapidly decline to a condition of moral degeneracy that is lamentable. Both the love and the fear of God are necessary to keep the human family in line of duty to themselves and to each other and without God as the basic principle of their home life and their public institutions, the Russian people are breaking down. No government worthy of the name can live without a religion. It may exist for a while, but must eventually go down and out before the avenging spirit of mankind. There is something in human nature that is savage or civilized that acknowledges a Higher Power, a God of the universe, the fountain head from which all that is good in man comes. Take away this faith, and no nation or people can long live.

Never since the beginning of time has there been a people, without some form of religion. The savages of Africa are held in obedience to the laws of their land through fear of what might befall them, if they disobeyed the laws. The native races of North and South America had a belief in a Supreme Being. The people of the world who lived in Europe and Asia long before the birth of Christ had various forms of religion, and in all these, man's faith in the justice of their gods to punish evil doers, and to reward those who kept the faith and the laws of the land. All peoples on the earth, whether Christian or not, have a faith in some form of religion. It is natural. It is inborn, and as necessary to human life as air is to life. Russia may exist for a time without outward acknowledgement of a God as the controlling power, but the time will come when her people will revolt from the degrading principles of Sovietism and return to a faith in the divinity—Selected.

CHESTER NATIVE DIES.

W. F. Buchanan, native of Chester county, Dies at Home in Charlotte at Age of 63 Years.

Charlotte, April 18th.—William Frank Buchanan, of Mint street, died after nearly a year's illness last night about 9 o'clock, at the age of 63. The funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

Mr. Buchanan was born May 12, 1860, at Chester, S. C., where he married Miss Elizabeth McGill, of Richburg, S. C., the couple moving to Charlotte in 1883. Mr. Buchanan was a large real estate holder in Charlotte, a Mason, and one of the oldest members of Excelsior lodge 281, A. F. and A. M.

Mr. Buchanan was a member of the aldermanic form of city government in 1911-1919 under the administration of Mayor Charles Bland. He was largely instrumental in securing permission of the United States government to take eight feet from government property in order that Mint street might be widened and saved. He was a man of large public interest and spirit, and prominent in all civic affairs and a man whose acquaintance and friendship extended to practically all classes of citizens.

It was largely due to Mr. Buchanan's efforts as an alderman that Mint street was paved.

Mr. Buchanan is survived by his widow, and the following children and grandchildren: Four sons, Dr. W. F. Buchanan, Jr., of Washington, D. C.; Harry E. Buchanan, of New York; Carey P. Buchanan, and H. Frank Buchanan, of Washington, D. C.; one daughter, Mrs. F. M. Edge, of Charlotte; and four grandchildren Miss Elizabeth Buchanan, of Charlotte, Margaret and Arthur Buchanan, children of a deceased son, Dr. Arthur M. Buchanan, of McGill, S. C., who died November 6, 1922; and Phillip Edge, Jr., of Charlotte. Another son, Burtus L. Buchanan, of New York, died March 15, 1916.

CLUB HAS MEETING.

Minutes Of The Regular Monthly Meeting of the Young Women's Club of Chester.

On the evening of April 12th, The Young Women's Club of Chester held its regular monthly social meeting at the armory.

In the absence of the president, the meeting was called to order by the vice president, Miss Cora Harlan. She suggested that the club have a picnic before the teachers should leave and this plan was endorsed by all the members. It was decided that the picnic be given the next of May.

As there was no further business to come before the club the meeting was turned over to the social committee.

A miscellaneous shower was then given to Miss Madge Labon in honor of her approaching wedding. Many and varied were the pretty gifts which she received.

The members were then given pencils and paper and asked to write toasts to the prospective bride. Many of the toasts were witty and interesting. The prospective bride then wrote one to the club.

Cones of chocolate ice cream were enjoyed by all the members. The pleasant evening was brought to a close by music by several of the members.

Twenty-eight members were present.

Respectfully submitted,
Lena Williford, Secy.

STOLEN AUTOMOBILES.

Automobile stealing is on the wane. Various cities report a steady decrease in the number of thefts, in spite of the big increase in the number of cars. One city has had fewer cars stolen the first three months of this year than in any similar period within five years, though the number of registered cars has doubled in that time.

Several factors are responsible. Protective laws have been made more drastic, police and courts have been more severe in enforcing the laws, drivers have learned to be more cautious in locking and double-locking their cars. Perhaps the chief credit goes to the automobile clubs and insurance companies, which have stimulated improvement along all these lines to safeguard their own interests.

It may be too much to expect that automobile stealing will ever become as scarce as horse-stealing. It might be, though, if automobile owners were uniformly careful about hitching their steeds and locking the garage doors.

CALCIUM ARSENATE

We have just received a car load of Calcium Arsenate. This Arsenate was manufactured by Riches-Piver & Co., of New York, who made the first Calcium Arsenate the government used in their experiment station in Louisiana. Therefore, it's the best.

For the next 30 days we will sell this Arsenate at 18 cents in order to make room.

We are reliably informed that Calcium Arsenate is very scarce, and we think it would be very wise to secure your Calcium Arsenate now. We were fortunate in getting this early, otherwise we could not begin to sell this Arsenate at this price.

Cotton is too high to take chances in not poisoning and you cannot make it without the use of Calcium Arsenate, and when you buy it, you want to be sure you get the best.

Solicitor Glenn is to be congratulated after his having won the first case he has prosecuted in his capacity as representative of the state, the more so because of the character of the case. It is a fact that sentiment heretofore has been rather loose with regard to the crime of rape among negroes. There has been a general view to the effect that it cannot be proved in this case the defendant had the advantage of a able lawyer as he is to be found in the state. They knew the prevailing sentiment, and they played it to the limit. But the prosecution was able too. The negro, was as guilty as a dog, deserved punishment and the solicitor proved it. In this case the defendant was found guilty of the crime of rape. And then they entered another important element into the case. The jury was a good one—a rattling good one, composed of men who would average well up in character and intelligence with the judge and attorneys. The verdict was in accordance with the law and the facts. Yorkville Enquirer.

The News understands that the State Highway Commission expects, in the near future, to spend a considerable amount of money in repairing the road from Chester to Great Falls. It will be recalled that this road is now in the State Highway system and the maintenance of same therefore comes under their jurisdiction. This change was only recently made. The fact that the commission expects to begin repair work on the road is significant news. Great Falls road today is in worse shape than it has been since the road was sand-cayed a few years ago. The holes are becoming very numerous and in number of places the sand-cay has disappeared. This is one of the most important, if not the most important, highways in Chester county and should be kept in first-class condition.

WILL PROTEST GAME.

Lancaster High Schools Baseball Team Will Protest Game Played With Chester High School. Alleges Injustice in Calling the Game.

The following article is from the Lancaster Citizen of last Monday evening: "The Lancaster high school baseball team has filed a protest of the Chester game with the Catawba Athletic Association, based upon several alleged irregularities and unfair treatment."

"The Chester game was called in the eighth inning on account of rain, though it had been raining since the second inning and was raining no more in the eighth than it had been before. The affidavit filed by Walter Davis as manager of the team and Prof. W. E. Edwards as coach sets forth the following conditions of the protest: "That the ground was wet and slippery and that the game should not have been commenced at all."

"That during the second inning, with the score one to nothing for Lancaster it began raining, but the local umpire would not call the game."

"That the rain continued and the game was also continued until the eighth inning had been completed."

"That during the eighth inning, with the score three to two in favor of Chester, Lancaster had a man on third base and a man off first, with no outs and that then the umpire declared the game called on account of rain."

"That Coach Edwards of the Lancaster team had notified the manager of the Chester team that if the game went to five innings or more, he would demand that it be played on through nine innings, or that he would protest it."

"And, finally, that the Chester players used every effort to delay and hinder progress of the game, which it became evident that the umpire would call it before the conclusion of nine innings."

"It would appear that the local team has made 'a case' and action of association officials is awaited with interest. The Lancaster boys are supported in their contention by every one from here who saw the game, and while they will cheerfully abide the decision of authorities in the matter, they do not feel that the conditions under which the game was played enabled them to do justice to themselves and so they filed the protest."

Death of Mr. G. P. Corkill.

Mr. Gilbert Patterson Corkill passed away at the family home on Saluda street early Wednesday morning after an illness of several months. The funeral services were held yesterday morning by Rev. W. G. Moore, pastor of the First Baptist church, assisted by Rev. P. A. Presley, pastor of the A. R. P. church after which the interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Corkill was a native of Chester and was the younger son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Corkill. He was educated in the schools of Chester and Furman University after which he engaged in teaching in this state. His health failing he went West and remained a number of years. He returned to Chester about a year ago. He bore his trouble with Christian fortitude and his death brought grief to many friends in Chester. Mr. Corkill was a life-long member of the Baptist church. He is survived by one brother and three sisters to the end. He was a faithful member of the Second Baptist Church of Chester. The Christian life which he lived before his associates and community at large, was unusually beautiful.

PELHAM REVELS

Our young brother, Pelham Revels passed away Sunday, April 15th, at 11 o'clock A. M. after an illness of two weeks. He made a brave fight against many's greatest enemy but lost the battle. In the spiritual sense however, he is victor, having put his trust in Jesus at the age of twelve. A strange Providence it seems to us, a youth of nineteen and a half years, yet we know that, He who called him, "maketh no mistakes and doeth all things well."

TRIBUTE TO SERVICE.

The following article is from The Yorkville Enquirer of last Tuesday:

The presence of Judge J. K. Henry, who appeared at the opening of the court of general sessions yesterday for the purpose of turning over office of solicitor to J. Lyles Glenn, his successor was made the unprecedented occasion for congratulation, tribute and felicitation on the part of members of the York county bar.

It was during a brief lull in the organization proceedings that the matter was suddenly introduced by Thomas F. McDow, Esq., who began with a reference to Mr. Henry's twenty-eight years as solicitor of his high and important office. Then he proceeded to congratulate Mr. Henry on his deserved promotion to the office of Judge, and assured him of the satisfaction and confidence felt by colleagues throughout the state that it could not be otherwise than that he as just and able on the bench as he had been fair and efficient as a prosecuting officer. In conclusion he took occasion to welcome Mr. J. L. Glenn the new solicitor, and expressed the confident belief that the splendid record that had been made by Mr. Henry would not suffer at his hands.

Messrs. W. M. Dunlap, John R. Hart and J. A. Marion, all the attorneys present at the time, followed, each with a tribute of the same nature.

"Although taken somewhat by surprise, Mr. Henry was hardly less lost for reply. He felt deeply touched by such tributes, which he counted as additional compensation to the pleasure he had found in the discharge of his duty. He paid tribute to the noble citizenship of the Sixth circuit, and said that if he had made a record that was deserving of especial credit, it was largely due to the co-operation and support of these people, more especially of York county. He was ready to testify to the high and honorable character of the members of the bar throughout his district, and said that if there is among them one who is not his friend he is not aware of the fact. He went on to explain that he had come on this occasion mainly for the purpose of turning over the solicitorship to Mr. Glenn, whom he had known from childhood, and who brought with him to the office all the qualities necessary to fill the place with credit to himself and to the state. He told how he had learned from former Solicitor Brawley that the emblem of the office was a copy of the "Public Laws," and that in accordance with tradition and custom this book should be handed down from one solicitor to another; but this particular volume had been lost by one of his predecessors and had never come into his own possession. "But sir," he said to Mr. Glenn, "I could not wish to turn over to you anything better or more precious than the consideration that I myself have received at the hands of the citizenship of the Sixth circuit, and this I am sure you will deserve and receive in the highest measure."

By way of reply Mr. Glenn acknowledged with pleasure and appreciation all of the kind words that had been said to him and of him by his brother lawyers. He said that he had played in Mr. Henry's yard as a child, had made himself at home in Mr. Henry's home and had always regarded him as more than a friend—rather as a second father. Mr. Henry had always been his ideal as a lawyer, as a Christian gentleman and as a citizen, and while he would not promise to equal his record in any respect, "I promise to do the best I can."

Judge Mauldin followed with a high appreciation of Mr. Henry, and some fine encouragement to Mr. Glenn, and concluded his very appropriate remarks by ordering that the clerk get the record of these proceedings on the minutes of the court to the best of his ability.
