ABOUT THAT NEW HIGHWAY OFFICE

Many People Want to Know How Bill Got Through Both Houses and by Governor.

Under the caption of "What Does It All Mean," the Charleston News and Courier editorially says:

The more closely one examines the Act creating the office of State Highway Commissioner the more remarkable it seems that a measure of such extraordinary importance should have gone through both the House and the Senate and received the approval of the Governor without the public at large having learned anything at all as to its real nature or having given any consideration one way or the other. Undoubtedly it changes very radically the character of the State Highway Department.

The question is whether it does not transform it from an efficient business organization into a political machine.

That such a feat is justified cannot well be disputed when it is noted that the power of engaging and discharging all employees is especially taken away from the State Highway Engineer and the Secretary of the Commission and is conferred upon the State Highway Commissioner. Certainly neither the State Highway Engineer nor the Secretary can be expected to secure efficiency in their respective departments if they have no control over their employees; and it is certainly of the interest of the public should be informed by the General Assembly of its reasons for making a change of this character, one which on its face would seem to violate the basic principles of efficient government.

The public would like to know, too, why the Chief Highway Commissioner should have given arbitrary powers to distribute the funds collected from license and the gasoline tax in such banks as he may personally designate, upon such terms as he may personally agree upon, and without any interest or security prior to the funds being placed in the hands of the State Treasurer; his authority over even entire counties by extending to the depositing of the funds after they are in the hands of the State Treasurer. To give to one man the right to dispose of all employees of the State Highway Department and the authority to use all its five million dollars to do anything like five million dollars worth of anything with enormous power.

At the present time the situation is that there has been passed a bill of the very largest public interest, a bill giving to one man powers which are which any other man in the State would or will be in position to wield and the public did not even know that any such kind was in the wind until the whole thing was over. We have been surprised, for we had learned from the Chairman of the Highway Commission, Mr. Rhett, that so far as he knows no intention of the purpose of this new law was ever laid before the Commission, the first intimation that he personally had with respect to it having been after its passage when, seeing in the newspapers that it had passed, he sent to Columbia and secured a copy of it, being amazed when he discovered its terms, which were wholly out of line with what he had been led to believe it was proposed to do. It is certainly queer that a bill so far-reaching in its possibilities should have been put through under such circumstances and explanations as to the whole business are plainly called for.

NEGRO WHO KILLED MASKED MAN LEAVES HOME AND CROPS

Center, Ala., April 15.—Laying his farm on which crop work is ready has started to grow. Will Sharpe, negro farmer of near Pleasant Gap, soon will be on his way to new fields. Sharpe recently was released from custody after he had admitted to killing a man who was masked and who he had shot and killed. A number of a masked band of men who attempted to force an entrance into his home.

The freedom of the negro was granted after he had admitted the killing, and after the soldier had said he was no longer able to hold Sharpe because his witnesses had appeared to be the case against him.

The band which visited Sharpe and killed him to leave after the consequences, and according to the negro, had tried to enter

FOUND AFTER SIX YEARS.

Soldier Missing by Finger Prints

Had been Located by State, Says News

Had been Missing Six Years and Had Forgotten His Real Name.

Through the medium of finger prints, "James Parker," a former service man now receiving treatment in a Washington hospital, has been positively identified as Joseph F. York, a South Carolina boy who has been missing since June 26, 1919 when he disappeared from the American army in France.

This information was made public by Congressman J. J. McSwain of the fourth district, upon receipt of a telegram from the adjutant general of the United States saying identification of the man had been completed.

A telegram was immediately sent to Mrs. Margaret York, of Lyman, Spartanburg county, informing her that her son had been found after being missing for nearly six years.

York was a member of the headquarters company of the First division during the World War. Early in 1919 he became an infirmer from dementia praecox and was being sent to a hospital when he died, except for a few records of the case of York or "Parker," now show that he was sent to a hospital in Europe, wearing a French uniform at the time he was located. He was brought back to the United States and on February 15, 1920, was discharged from military service being placed in a hospital in Washington. Having apparently forgotten his name, "James Parker," was known as such on the records at the time he was discharged and admitted to the hospital.

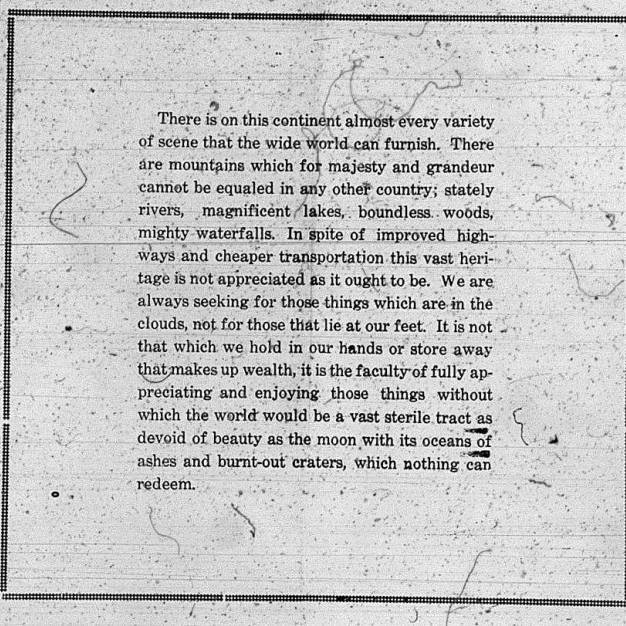

During the greater part of six years nothing had been heard from York and he had been given several weeks ago a representative of the American Legion made application for compensation for "James Parker," and at the same time found that he had identified himself with the records of the battle in which he participated and other information but not his real name.

Belief that "Parker" was Joseph F. York was strengthened by the fact that he had been identified at that time but it was not until the finger prints, with which the name of York was associated, were compared that the doubt was banished.

Because of his condition it is believed that York will be brought to his home, although members of his family, upon being informed their son had been located may make a trip to see him.

SOUTH CAROLINA MUST BORROW FIVE MILLIONS

Columbia, S. C., April 15.—The state finance committee will meet at the capital next Wednesday to borrow five million dollars for operation of the state government until July 1, paying time, according to announcement today by State Treasurer Carter. The bill is drawn, with interest, and a bid on a discount basis will not be considered. Mr. Carter said that the bill will be inserted in the notes will be determined after the bids are received.

There is on this continent almost every variety of scene that the wide world can furnish. There are mountains which for majesty and grandeur cannot be equaled in any other country; stately rivers, magnificent lakes, boundless woods, mighty waterfalls. In spite of improved highways and cheaper transportation this vast heritage is not appreciated as it ought to be. We are always seeking for those things which are in the clouds, not for those that lie at our feet. It is not that which we hold in our hands or store away that makes up wealth, it is the faculty of fully appreciating and enjoying those things without which the world would be a vast sterile tract as devoid of beauty as the moon with its oceans of ashes and burnt-out craters, which nothing can redeem.

AMERICA FOOTS BILL.

John Moody, eminent financier, says even if Europe pays France war debt America must foot bill.

Whether Europe eventually pays her debts of more than ten billions to us, the people of the United States, nevertheless, will be footing the bill in the end.

This is the view of John Moody, eminent economist, financial analyst and author. It is a view arrived at after intensive study, at home and abroad, of the most involved economic problem of the age.

Moody returned recently from an extensive trip abroad where he came into close touch with the men who guide the situation there. He is the author of "The Remaking of Europe" and is said to have as comprehensive a view of the economic situation abroad as any of the leading experts.

"Before the world war," points out Moody, "the United States was a debtor nation itself. With the coming of war, European interests began liquidating their investments here. We had to buy back some $4,000,000,000 of that American securities."

"At the same time foreign production fell off and we began to be kept busy supplying the world. Our exports increased. We soon shifted from the debtor class to the creditor side of the scale—we became the great creditor nation of the world."

"It was the beginning of a situation which has remained—and all ways will remain. For probably never again will we be debtor nation."

Stewart in Fort Mill, Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Arthur D. Burnett, popular young physician of Greenwood, died at his home in Greenwood Wednesday after a few days illness with pneumonia. He was only thirty-five years of age, graduated at Furman University in his class of 1913 and completed his medical course at the Charleston Medical college.

From time to time some local merchants have applied to the city council for permission to operate punch boards, wheels of fortune and other petty gambling devices. Such permission has always been refused, and public opinion has uniformly approved the action of council in holding that gambling, whether it is done on a large or small scale and whether the prizes gambled for consist of money or merchandise.

A carnival company opened on Magnolia street in the city Monday night and all sorts of gambling devices were in operation. Visitors were asked to patronize paddle wheels, ring tossing contests and other petty gambling devices and take the chance of winning candy, blank checks and other stuff.

The Commercial-Tempérance League made a public showing of its indignation at the fact that in 1924 $750,000,000 was spent in the British Isles for bread and $1,634,000,000 for liquor.

The Superintendent R. C. Burns of the Rock Hill public schools was re-elected for the 12th time Tuesday night by that capacity by the board of trustees at their annual election meeting.

While hurrying to catch a train for York last Tuesday morning, William J. Stewart, well known and highly esteemed farmer of Fort Mill, suffered a stroke of paralysis and two cavers of the city ordinances and is in a critical condition.

SEVENTEEN MEN UNDER ARREST

PROF. PETRIE'S PLEDGE.

Former Leeds Principal Gets One Year in Penitentiary or One Month in State Prison for Guilty by Bigamy at York Term of Court.

The following account of the Petrie affair at the York term of court was given by the York Enquirer:

W. Carl Petrie, former principal of the Leeds school in Chester county and Clemson college graduate, pleaded guilty to bigamy in that he had married Miss Helen Coleman of Maryland, assistant teacher in the school, here in session court yesterday afternoon. He was sentenced to one year's imprisonment. He took his sentence readily. The second Mrs. Petrie was not present, nor was the first, who is the mother of his two children. It was one of the most unusual cases heard in court here, in a long while. Standing before the judge was the father with his attorney, T. F. McWay.

Across the way was J. H. Coleman of Ridgeway, father of the somewhat young woman, mother in his eyes. The attorney for the accused said that his client had abandoned his first wife because of her alleged infidelity. It was further claimed that Miss Coleman knew that Petrie was already married.

Miss Coleman, with tears in his eyes, did not deny that statement. He told the court that he had almost heartbrokenly and that because of his daughter he hardly knew what to do about it all, further than the fact that he was satisfied Petrie should be punished. He would not be willing for his daughter to re-marry Petrie in the event he obtained divorce, he said.

Petrie added to what his counsel had said. He told of his infidelity to the jury. He said that the infatuation was returned in full measure. He said the instant marriage. "And finally I simply lost control of myself and agreed to marry her, knowing that I was wrong and my act was wrong."

He gave his tale of his marital difficulties with the first wife in detail. He said that the first wife of the second girl he married coming to the Leeds school and talking matters over with his brother, he said, and finally decided that the brother take her home. He begged to her to be married. He said that he yielded, being unable to resist a love affair.

The solicitor was inclined to leave the matter to the court. The judge had given his own opinion on the matter and perjury. He was convinced that Miss Coleman knew Petrie was a married man.

Petrie took his sentence without a much emotion as would naturally be expected under the circumstances. He expressed his regret for serving in the penitentiary, but that matter is up to the city supervisor with the county supervisor under the law.

From the solicitor it was learned that Miss Coleman had not suffered her teacher before since the affair has taken its turn in law.

Petrie came into court wearing a blue serge coat, striped trousers tucked in leather leggings—a new straw hat in his hand. He had been in liberty for the past two weeks under $1,000 bond.

Charged With Participation In

Multitude of Needlesman, Some Said to Have Made Statements That Are Antagonistic to Confessions.

Raleigh, N. C., April 14.—All though 17 men are under arrest for alleged participation in the mob that took the Needlesman young Hebrew tobacco salesman from the Williamson jail and mutilated him, their apprehension has not stopped the mob. It stands a small chance of getting a state reward money for conviction.

The state's offer was $400 for each man apprehended and convicted, and had the terms of the offer been complied with there would be possibilities of running the bill up to $6,800. But Governor McLean specified that in order to claim the reward the arrested persons should be brought to Raleigh and delivered to the warden of the state prison. And the warden has not received a word.

The governor imposed the stipulation owing to evidences of lack of responsibility on the part of the Martin county sheriff, from whom Needlesman's assailants escaped the keys to the jail.

According to Joseph Williams, from whom Needlesman's assailants escaped the keys to the jail, the men who shot the Needlesman were successful in having the measure killed. The "merchandise" was a large amount of money, which as well as the money, entered a vigorous protest and were successful in having the measure killed. The "merchandise" was a large amount of money, which as well as the money, entered a vigorous protest and were successful in having the measure killed.

But that seems to be the game. The legislature is taking an inch here and a yard there, and here long until every special interest and every special occupation in the state will be taxed.

The Sun is not lost in the law, and has not consulted any one who is not willing to venture his own neck there, and here the opinion that the special taxes imposed at the recent session of the legislature are unconstitutional for the reason that they are special taxes, discriminatory in nature, and do not fall equally upon all, as the constitution requires.

The courts have set aside acts of the legislature upon much less flimsy grounds than these. Here suggested. The Sun would like to see these special taxes tested and set aside by the courts, because they are very unjust and it is thought they were imposed in such a cowardly manner.—Exchange.

Waste Little Given.

The York county Grand Jury this week recommends that magistrates of York county give some solid willy of driving automobile fully under the influence of whisky, the full limit of the law. The grand jury also recommends that magistrates be lenient with drunken automobile drivers and it recommends that they be stopped and the full limit of the law be given.

In the Columbia State of today, a report of the pastor, Alexander Chester, who was the first young people's inter-denominational drink relief ambassador to the schools of that city.

Some gold bottlers are complaining that the recent addition of South Carolina tax has played havoc with their business, sales being the past week having been far below that of the previous week, notwithstanding the fact that the weather has been "considerable warmer. However, it is an ill wind that blows no one good and the local milk company reports that sales have been pretty good for the past few days. One man who operates a stand at one of the local mills bought twelve gallons of milk Wednesday, which he sold for five cents for a half-pint. Many of the up-town folks are now calling at the establishment of the milk company on Hudson street, and the local milk operators stand at a profit of one cent for a half-pint or nine cents for a quart. It is said that some of the fountains throughout the state are now serving sweet milk along with their other line of drinks.

Mr. Jackson stated that a Chamber of Commerce was not supposed to be a hot-air organization. He mentioned the opportunities of the almost section of South Carolina and pleaded for co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce in the best place. He said that the organization offered to every man an outlet of service and that every man in his "heart wanted to be a builder. Prof. Gaines is a wonderful orator and it is hoped that he will again visit Chester where he will receive a cordial welcome.

The next matter to be considered by the Chamber was the election of officers for the coming year. The nominating committee stated that they had consulted with the members of the board and as follows: M. R. Clark, president; S. M. Jones first vice-president; John W. Whitcomb, second vice-president; directors as follows: J. M. Lathan, Robert Frayer, Mr. McNeill, J. B. Bankhead, J. B. Barnwell, J. V. Brookshire and C. D. Cobby.

CLARK MADE PRESIDENT.

M. R. Clark Elected President of Chamber of Commerce - Prof. Gaines Delivers a Wonderful Address - New Secretary Elected and Aids for Co-Operation of People.

The annual banquet of the Chester Chamber of Commerce was held on Sunday afternoon at the First Baptist church last night and a large number of members and visitors were present. The occasion afforded the "furore" crowds to ever attend an annual banquet.

Mr. R. B. Caldwell, president of the organization, made several remarks about the activities of the Chamber for the past year and then introduced Mr. C. G. "Chubb" the new secretary who is assisting in Chester this week. Mr. Cushman said it was a great pleasure to become connected with the organization, made several remarks about the activities of the Chamber for the past year and then introduced Mr. C. G. "Chubb" the new secretary who is assisting in Chester this week.

Next the speaker of the evening, Prof. F. P. Gaines, head of the English department of Furman University at Greenville, was introduced. His subject was "The Chamber of Commerce as Seen by a School Teacher." Prof. Gaines made a wonderful talk which was greatly enjoyed by those present and pronounced the best talk ever made before the local organization. Prof. Gaines said that he felt at home in Chester, years ago his mother taught her first school at Lowrys during which time one of her pupils was Mrs. S. C. Carter of Chester. He also stated that about fifty years ago his father was a pastor in the town of Chester.

Following the services the body was taken to Rock Hill for interment. The Catwaa Bridge Project.

Assurance that work on the plans of the Catwaa river bridge between Lancaster and Chester counties is under way and that no fear of failure on the part of Chester or Lancaster counties to meet their financial requirements in regard to the structure is given in a letter sent by C. R. Moorehead, state highway engineer, to a group of citizens in the eastern part of Chester county, who had inquired about the status of the bridge. "We were struck," Mr. Moorehead stated in explaining that they had heard further progress could have been made, had Chester county contributed its share. "We are all very interested in this bridge. The highway department has been working on the theory that the money for the structure - which the commission decided at a February meeting to build - is a plan suitable to the two counties involved - will be available. A survey has already been made and plans are now being prepared. Work is expected to begin this year. Mr. Moorehead said. The bridge is to be built at a cost of $15,000-$20,000 being contributed by each of the counties and the remainder by the highway department. This agreement was reached at a February meeting of the commission, the former program calling for an expenditure of $15,000 for the part of the county, which they were unable to raise. It will be when completed one of the outstanding crossings of the state, being a link in the highway that runs through the northern section of the state. Members of the committee were: Mr. O. G. O'Leary, R. Reid, W. Banks Glad, and Henry Jordan.

It will be when completed one of the outstanding crossings of the state, being a link in the highway that runs through the northern section of the state. Members of the committee were: Mr. O. G. O'Leary, R. Reid, W. Banks Glad, and Henry Jordan.

Assurance that work on the plans of the Catwaa river bridge between Lancaster and Chester counties is under way and that no fear of failure on the part of Chester or Lancaster counties to meet their financial requirements in regard to the structure is given in a letter sent by C. R. Moorehead, state highway engineer, to a group of citizens in the eastern part of Chester county, who had inquired about the status of the bridge. "We were struck," Mr. Moorehead stated in explaining that they had heard further progress could have been made, had Chester county contributed its share. "We are all very interested in this bridge. The highway department has been working on the theory that the money for the structure - which the commission decided at a February meeting to build - is a plan suitable to the two counties involved - will be available. A survey has already been made and plans are now being prepared. Work is expected to begin this year. Mr. Moorehead said. The bridge is to be built at a cost of $15,000-$20,000 being contributed by each of the counties and the remainder by the highway department. This agreement was reached at a February meeting of the commission, the former program calling for an expenditure of $15,000 for the part of the county, which they were unable to raise.
