TUESDAY, MAY 15.

From several sources, The News hears that Rock Hill has placed a traffic cop on the street which leads from Rock Hill to Chester, and that recently he has halted a number of motorists and relieved them of a five dollar bond.

One Chester man in conversation with a News reporter Saturday, stated that the cop stopped him and required him to give a five dollar bond. The Chester man stated that he was making just about 22 miles per hour when hailed by the cop. The News mentions this matter in order that its readers may "look out" for the traffic cop.

Motorists who run at a reckless rate of speed should be fined, but all who drive automobiles know that on an open street there is no congestion, that 25 miles per hour is not excessive and should not be considered as speeding. It has been our observation that the average traffic cop is the most inconsistent fellow on earth. He is usually sent out with orders to get the speeders and he usually does so with discretion, making it a point to "nab" motorists left and right in order to make his superior think that he is really doing something. For a traffic cop to use traffic cops who use no judgment is about the poorest advertisement that a town can have and it is only a matter of time when people all over the country begin to knock the place and advise motorists to avoid it.

It must be admitted that reckless and careless motorists should be handled but there is no use in a town acting a fool about reasons for a rate of speed on an uncongested street.

If reports are true as to Rock Hill being the only a neck of a horse before motorists will be advised to avoid the town.

For the first three months of 1923 the South Carolina Highway Commission issued licenses for 79,476 automobiles. This does not include licenses issued for taxicabs, motor cycles, etc., but is for automobiles only. In 1922 for the same period the commission issued licenses for 67,507 automobiles. It will be seen that the increase this year over last year, for the same period, amounts to 11,919 automobiles.

For the first three months of 1923 the commission received $692,725.25 for license fees, as against $608,653.25 for the same period in 1922. This shows a gain of $84,072 in license fees.

It will be recalled that the present gasoline tax in South Carolina is three cents a gallon, the law having been changed by the last legislature. It is now estimated that the tax on gasoline during the present year will amount to approximately $11,200,000. Doubtless when the year is ended the automobile owners of South Carolina will have paid around two million dollars more in the way of license and gasoline tax. To this tax should be added the amount of taxes paid on automobiles as personal property (from $100 to $1000) to the auditors of the various counties of the State. This tax will probably amount to close on to two-quarters of a million dollars. To add the three taxes as imposed on the owners will be seen that the automobile in South Carolina is now paying something like two and one-half or three million dollars per year in the way of taxes.

The majority of people pretend that what they want is the TRUTH, but when they get it they find out that it is not what they were wanting. A man spent several years writing a book and after it was completed he gave it to his best friend, telling him that he wanted him to read it and when he had finished to tell him the TRUTH about it. The friend read the book and then proceeded to tell the truth about it. The man who wrote the book wanted to murder him.

There are many people in Chester who say they want the TRUTH and when they do you can hear them howl for a while of fifty miles.

The most of us want the TRUTH so long as it is about the affairs of others, but when it comes home we want everything except the TRUTH.

NEGRO PENSIONER WAS 40 YEARS SLAVE Washington, May 9.—The oldest employe on the retirement rolls of the government is Mark Thrash, a negro, of Rowsville, Georgia, who according to the Bureau of Pensions is 102 years old and has been in the federal employ for 28 years. He was retired last year as a laborer in the Chickamauga and Chattanooga.

Mark was born in Louisiana, Virginia, and he says that when 40 years was a slave, the property of Dr. Christopher Thrash. Way back in the 'forties' Mark was sent with a gang to clear land on a plantation bought by his master in Meriwether county, Georgia, and there had many encounters with the Indians. After the Civil War Thrash went to Arkansas but returned again to Chattanooga, about the time the Central of Georgia Railroad was under construction, and there he got a job.

Later he became a watchman in the old 'Park Hotel' in Chickamauga, afterwards joining the government service as a laborer in the park. He was carried on the payroll for 28 years from his retirement.

THE NORMAL CHILD.

By Bruce Belden, M. D. A child should not be too much by himself; he must have comradeship. Otherwise he becomes too much absorbed in his own fancies and resentments being disturbed in this preoccupation; thus he is called a morose child, without due consideration as to why he is morose. Such a child will be over-sensitive to the slightest hard knocks and disappointments of one sort or another, and will resent and brood over them.

The practical point is that such a child becomes a candidate for mental trouble in later life. All this is obviated if the child can live and play with other children. The play should be vigorous and aggressive, the hard knocks and disappointments being taken without malice.

'If children hear much from their elders about illness and symptoms, and especially about "nervousness," they will be unfortunately influenced and probably will "adopt" many of their elders' ailments. The outlook of children upon life ought to be healthful, not related to disease. They should be interested in wholesome play and other cheerful subjects.

Many children are thought to be nervous by their parents who simply are full of vitality and vigor. A healthy child ought to reveal an exuberant energy. It is up to the parents, if they are intelligent, to provide suitable outlets for this "overflowing energy."

If parents insist upon interpreting the normal activity of their children as nervousness, they should at least desist from talking about nerves in the presence of the children, because of their impressionability and self-consciousness. An atmosphere of sorrow, regret or fear is most injurious to child nature. See that you safeguard your child's nervous system.

SMARTNESS IN DRESS.

No matter how smart your clothes may be, all effect is lost if they are not worn over the correct foundation.

If you are stout particular care should be given, and in almost every case there are expert corseteers who will recommend and fit the correct suitable for the type of figure.

No corset should extend for a few inches above the waistline, for this has a tendency to pull the bust up, giving an undesirable tightened appearance.

There are many scientifically constructed corsets that are large figure that have inserts of rubber webbing, and these are both comfortable and natural. The corset, however, must come down considerably below the hips and should be held down by several pairs of garters, adjusted to measure. Do not hesitate to consult your corseteers for the correct model.

For the slight figure, there is a combination brassiere and girdle highly recommended. It is of heavy corset and is held down by garters. All the new corsets and girdles require brassieres to accompany them, and there are some excellent models now being made. Bones are rarely if ever used as they give a stiff unnatural appearance. Soft but durable pink satin makes a snug brassiere, supported on an elastic belting that gives one a flat boyish style.

These brassieres wear wonderfully well.

The larger, more mature figure, however, will need something more substantial. One new brassiere - for stout women features a back-secure, padded and supported by a riding up over the top of the corset if one is sitting or stooping. It is an excellent model-made of closely woven mesh with elastic shoulder straps to prevent slipping.

There are more than 700 members of this country church, doubtless the largest rural church membership in this section of the country. The Steele Creek church dates back considerably more than 100 years. Rev. J. M. Walker is the present pastor of the church and is said to be a most excellent preacher. There are several graves in the church cemetery which date back before 1800. The present church building is a large and commodious brick building and is the third church erected on the present site. TABERNACLE MEETING.
Meeting held Sunday as to Brown Revival Meeting—Local Men to Build Tabernacle. Services Commence Friday—Meeting Date Changed to May 27th Instead of June 3rd.
A meeting of committees and others interested in the Brown revival meeting was held at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon, at which Mr. C. J. Virgin, advance man and business manager for Dr. Brown, read the plans incident to the meeting which will be held in Chester, and which will be in the tabernacle to be erected on the corner of Building lot, at the corner of McAllister and Center streets.
Mr. Virgin told those present that much of the success of the meeting depended upon the interest taken by Chester people and that Dr. Brown was only a part of the meeting. Detailed plans were explained and it is expected that a large number will be in readiness for the opening day.
At the suggestion of Dr. Brown the meeting will commence on May 27th, instead of June 3rd, which is one week earlier. The plans incident to the meeting have so far advanced that this will cause no inconvenience and it is very easy to arrange the date as suggested by Dr. Brown.
Each man in Chester is asked to contribute one day's work to the building of the tabernacle. The actual construction of the building is to be commenced next Friday morning and the plans call for its completion by the end of the week following. A number of men have already signified their intention of contributing a day's work. Others are being urged to do so. It is to employ some men in their stead and present indications are that there will be plenty of help on every Friday to do a "real day's" work.

THE SHRINKING TIE.
Thirteen years ago the tie made standard for the Ford was 36 by 3 1/2-28. Now it is 30 by 3 1/2-28. In those days ties 36 by 4, 40 by 4 and 44 by 6 were common. Automobile drivers felt the need of all the air they could get under them, and tire-makers supplied the larger sizes as a matter of course. Now the trend is toward ever smaller sizes, even on the highest priced cars, and there is talk of smaller sizes in the near future. Engineers even predict that 18-inch rim diameters are in sight, while most agree that 20 inches will presently be required for the standard automobile.
Good roads have done it. Within the period 1910-1923 more than six billion dollars have been spent in road improvement, and $50,000,000, and every year sees a greater volume of work to this end.
The trend toward smaller cars is apparent, too. It is hardly to be expected that the American public will make any side ride in such diminutive automobiles as are popular in every European land, with its hot road and tandem seating. That cannot be looked for until the last of our unimproved roads are gone, for a car with narrow tread could never venture off pavements onto farm wagon roads. LEFT-HANDED, LEFT-EYED.
A Boston eye specialist said in a recent lecture that changing a left-handed child into a right-handed one is as often done, particularly in the public schools, as changing a left-eyed child into a right-eyed one.
"Ninety-five per cent of the race," said the doctor, "have a dominant eye, just as they have a dominant hand. It is a curious fact that the dominant eye follows the dominance of the hand." It has been found that the majority of left-handed children are also left-eyed. This is a thing perhaps not very widely appreciated. It is better that a person naturally left-handed should be taught to use his right hand freely also, because most of the machinery of the world is for one-day living are calculated for the right-handed. But the doctor's warning indicates that the correction of left-handedness, like the correction of any other abnormality, should be done under the direction of authorities familiar with all phases of the condition.

WOULD INDUCE FARMERS TO PLOW UNDER COTTON
President Wannamaker favored destruction of at least third of present crop.
St. Matthews, S. C., May 14.—A campaign to induce farmers to plow up a portion of their cotton crop is contemplated by the American Cotton Association, J. Skotkove Wannamaker, president, announced here today. Before making a decision, however, Mr. Wannamaker said, the sentiment of the cotton belt, the friendly interests generally will be sounded, and a questionnaire is being sent out to the associations of thousands of individuals and concerned.
The president of the association indicated that he personally favors a wide-spread movement to plow up at least one third of the land now planted in cotton, and to plant in its place, food crops.
An appeal will be issued by the association to farmers everywhere to join in the movement, if the vote taken indicates that the cotton belt believes the crop reduction campaign should be undertaken. Mr. Wannamaker said, adding that civic, business and commercial organizations and associations everywhere would be asked to cooperate in making it a success.

NUMBER OF PRISONERS ESCAPE COLUMBIA PEN
State-Wide Search is Being Made, But No Clues Have Been Obtained.
Columbia, May 14.—A state-wide hunt is being conducted for six prisoners of the state penitentiary, who have escaped in several trucks from the state prison. Four escaped in the last week, two by climbing a wall at the prison, two by hiding in a truck and escaping at night, and two by freedom by the penitentiary's truck. The first two escaped from the clean-up squad which had been depended upon in a search for the prisoners. Officials of the prison stated this afternoon that they have no clue whatever of the whereabouts and whether they have no leads on which to base hopes of capturing the men.
The last two men who escaped were John M. Drigger and Ben Lewis, both of whom are known to the prison. Lewis, who drives the prison yard garbage truck, formerly a trustee, late Thursday, and concealed himself to the load of garbage which was being hauled from the prison yard to the city's garbage dump, in the northwestern part of the city. Lewis was in the car, and the other man, the negro 110, but later he confessed to the delivery, and today he is not only deprived of the trusty privilege but is being kept in a cell for confinement and otherwise punished for his participation in the break of the prisoners. The negro 110, however, seems to have accepted the bribe money over the prison authorities.

FIGGLY WIGGLY CONTROL GIVEN COMMITTEE
23,698 Shares Sold, Saunders Committee of Success in Fight on Wall Street.
Memphis, Tenn., May 9.—With the halfway mark near, and 23,698 shares of Figgly Wiggly stock sold, success of the campaign to save Clarence Saunders, Figgly Wiggly president, from personal bankruptcy and keep the company headquarters at Memphis Wednesday seemed to depend on the outcome of the increasing friction between the pessimists and optimists.
The gloom faction still started Wednesday under Saunders' sensational move Tuesday night when he announced he had put control of Figgly Wiggly in the hands of special committee. Newspaper and verbiage Wednesday explained his plan.
He stated that he was willing to make any sacrifice to repudiate the rumor that Figgly Wiggly is a one-man business, and if elimination of Saunders from management would give confidence to the banking interests of the city, he would do it. He has stated that the bankers are opposing the drive to sell 40,000 shares because they do not like him.
Saunders' advisers declared Wednesday that a committee of four would be named as soon as possible, one each from Memphis, Nashville, St. Louis and New Orleans, who would take over management and act as a treasurer. These four will be empowered to make changes in the directorate. Saunders will co-operate with them.

TO SELECT SITE FOR SPARTAN ACADEMY
A site for the new location of Spartan Academy, preparatory school for Furman University, will probably be decided May 24, the date set for a joint meeting in Columbia of the school trustees with the state Baptist education commission.
Several months ago the property owned by the academy, as a part of a 700-acre tract, was sold to the Columbia Hills company, where a $5,000,000 textile development to include a cotton mill and a bleachery is now in process of construction.
Offers of possible sites have been made by Spartanburg, Union, Gaffney, Laurens and Greenwood. It is understood The Baptists of Spartanburg county have made considerable effort to have the academy remain in this county. Uniformity of location for the academy, where sites in the county have been suggested for the relocation of the academy, including an offer at Camp Wadsworth and another at Landrum.
The final location of the academy will be left in the hands of the education commission and the trustees of the institution. The members of the trustees of the school are: Horace L. Bonner, of this city, president; A. B. Groves, of Groves, and Dr. E. S. Reeves is also chairman of the state Baptist educational commission and J. C. A. Jones, of Columbia, is secretary.

WIDOWS ARE WITNESSES

When we stop to think that there are 5,000,000 widows in the United States who do not have the common comforts of life, we know the neglect that has been made for provision, and when we look around us, and know that only a very small percentage of our high school boys have the opportunity of getting a college education, we see another great reason for the progress of life insurance. These things are the inducements that we offer to those who look at it.

Contrasted with them is the happy home which is kept together by the life insurance policy, and no matter how small the policy may be, if it is barely sufficient to keep the home together, it has done a wonderful work, because this home is the unit of civilization in this country of ours, and if the roof is left over, their heads and the family can be kept together, they will manage some way to get through and make their way.

There is no question in the mind of any thinking person that the life insurance business is the greatest business in the world, both from its financial magnitude, as well as from the great good that it does.

A policy contract in the good old "Union Central" would be a wonderfully good thing for each man reading this advertisement to tie to.

Many families in Chester county would today be out in the middle of the "big road" had it not been for those families.

Our investigation requested.

PROHIBITION AGENTS

PLEASED WITH N. C. LAW
State and County Officers Are Co-operating With Federal Agents Loyal.

Washington, May 12.—The prohibition and narcotic bureau of information leads this statement:
At the recent session of the general assembly, an act was passed conforming as near as possible to the Volstead act, and this in my judgment will greatly aid in putting down the illicit liquor traffic in North Carolina.

Federal Prohibition Director A. R. Coltrane, of North Carolina, advises Commissioner Haynes:
The district attorneys are making satisfactory progress with the cases pending in their courts, and the jurors are performing their duties in a conscientious manner.

The municipal, county and state officers continue to co-operate in many sections with the federal agents in making arrests and encouraging good feeling between these officers and the federal agents.

Noticeable progress has been made in the seizure of cars transporting illicit spirits.

The Religion of Convenience.

The one great obstruction in the path of the modern religionists is not surprising, therefore, that the new doctrine undertaken by the enlightened minds of the Twentieth Century, should be followed by a reconstruction of the Bible to accord with their "modern" views.

In other words, the cornstalks, cottonstalks, or tobacco stalks left over from making whisky, corn, cotton, or tobacco stalks. The good coating of grass on the old field of the farmer, which is given back to the soil, will make another harvest of growing vegetation as great or greater than the original. A tree that bears fruit will bear again.

Whenever we burn up any dead vegetation, four fifths of its value, as well as four-fifths of its bulk, will be given back to the soil. One foolish idea that we fear is very widespread is that, "Oh, well, I'll get most of the fertility back in the fireplace and start a fresh fire on the hearth. Then weigh a loaf of heavy wood that you put on there."

It is not to the discredit of thoughtful and conscientious believers, that paper holds, that they stand in solid phalanx in opposition to any and all such a "scientific" and "logical" foundation of their faith. They have built upon the basis of the Bible, which has been given them an acceptable theory of life, and hereafter, to some this serves only as a philosophy, to them readily defensible, and logically logical. To others it is their religion, with all the terms implied. It is sacred because they have made it theirs, and it is sound and defensible only as it is sound to human conscience, a somewhat clear understanding of man, the universe, and God.

And in encouragement, the Monitor reminds that those who regard apprehensively any voluntary movement to tear down where they have built up, will recall with assurance the parable of a "wise man" which built his house upon a rock, and of a "foolish man," which built his house upon the sand.

SAP AND SALT. The one drawback about being good is that you get so little credit for it. Some pursue happiness and never find it, while others find it right where they are without any pursuit at all.
