4-21-1986

The Johnsonian April 21, 1986

Winthrop University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/thejohnsonian1980s

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/thejohnsonian1980s/35

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the The Johnsonian at Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Johnsonian 1980-1989 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. For more information, please contact bramed@winthrop.edu.
U.N. completes 10th year

Secretary General James Dedes addresses the U.N. (Photo by Todd Avant)

By TOM STEARNS
TJ staff writer

Model U.N. X is now history, and in the words of Dr. Glen Thomas, faculty adviser, it was a "tremendous success.

"It was an outstanding year," Thomas said, "giving the opportunity for Winthrop College and area high school students to get together and debate world issues and develop a better understanding of international affairs.

Model U.N. X was filled with rivals debates on world terrorism, Nicaraguan aid, and Chinese-Kampuchean relations. It also featured more unusual tales, such as explanations of non-existent votes from the PLO, hostile Arabs, Rappin' Jews, and a singing Swedish Chef from Finland, no less!

Dies year's program went very smoothly," Dedes said. "There were some minor disciplinary problems, but appropriate action was taken, and the matter was handled with the utmost maturity."

"I wish we could thank all the people who helped in this year's conference," Dedes said. "One that does deserve special recognition is Jean Kiser, our administrative assistant. She provided valuable service, helping out in the smooth operation at registration and a lot of support work that made the conference a success."

"As well as the various committee sessions, Chapa said, "there was a dance for the delegates at the shack, a movie Friday night, and an awards ceremony."

"This year's program was publicized more than ever. Along with The Johnsonian, we were covered by WITV's Top O Day, local and campus radio, and local and regional newspapers. This was definitely our best publicized conference."

"Although the conference itself went off with no major problems, there were some small disciplinary problems that major capacity included the resulting in one student being sent home."

"Any time you bring 300 high school students together, there's bound to be some trouble," Chapa said. "I hate to see it when a few people, in this case about eight, try to cause problems for the others. Fortunately, the others were, for the most part, well behaved."

James Dedes, secretary general for the conference, said, "I enjoyed tremendously being able to participate in this capacity this year. I feel this program is a unique experience that provides a tremendous asset to both the college and the high school students. I strongly encourage students who wish to improve their debating skills and knowledge of world affairs to participate in the conference in the future."

"All in all, I feel that this year's program was very smoothly," Dedes said. "There were some minor disciplinary problems, but appropriate action was taken, and the matter was handled with the utmost maturity."

Senator approved a $1,000 across-the-board budget cut for The Johnsonian and Talon publications Tuesday night.

"Due to the fact we (senate) had three new organizations requesting money, we felt the need to tighten our belt," said Randy Firestine, president pro temp and a member of the student allocations committee.

The three new publications requesting funding are The Roddy McMillion Record, Action for Food, both class two publications and the student writing publication of Winthrop College.

In other business, several charters passed their second readings.

Charters for Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Tau Kappa Epsilon Grant.

Winthrop body builders Russell Perkins and Janne Larsson pose before a recent competition. (Photo by Randy Greene)

By ROBERT JOLLY
TJ features editor

Winthrop College body building partners Janne Larsson and Russell Perkins topped the Carolinas' best built in the April 12 Junior Mr. Central States body building contest.

Larsson, a junior majoring in physical education from Stockholm, Sweden, weighing 185 lbs., placed second, and Perkins, a junior majoring in physical education from Columbia, S.C., placed fourth weighing 189 lbs. Both competed in the tall division.

Larsson and Perkins described their victories as "achievements." The contest was Larsson's first and Perkins' second.

Perkins said, "I was most happiest because my mom was there to see me perform for the first time."

Larsson, who performed his posing routine to rock group Foreigner's "Urgent," said the song fit his body type.

Winthrop body builders Russell Perkins and Janne Larsson

By KATHY SNEAD
TJ staff writer

Winthrop Chapter of the NAACP charter also passed its second reading.

Senator approved appointments made by new SGA president Donna Chapa for the 1986-87 school year, as well as approving the secretary of SGA by senate Vice President Bryan Grant.
Newsbriebs

Thanks
The officers of Model U.N. X would like to thank all of the officers, college delegates, Secretariat members, pages, and the Winthrop community for making Model U.N. X such a great success. Thanks again! Donna Chapa, student coordinator; James Dedes, secretary-general; and Jean Kiser, administrative assistant.

Graduation
Graduation materials are in at the College Store. Please pick up after 3 p.m.

Chi Omega
Chi Lambda Chapter of Chi Omega Fraternity would like to congratulate its new initiates: Emily Poizn, Laura Doran, Jennifer Atkins, Colette Prybyl, Angie Meezie, Paula Morgan, and special initiates Lesley Smith and Karyn Stafford.

'Trimangle'
"The Trimangle," a staged reading of a new play by award-winning student playwright Christopher Cook, will be presented by the Winthrop Theatre. The reading will be held in Johnson Hall, tomorrow night, Tuesday, April 22. Free to the public!

NAACP
Members of Winthrop NAACP assisted the Admissions Office with Winthrop Day. Winthrop Day is one of two open house visitation programs held annually for prospective students and their parents.
Winthrop's spring visitation, held April 8, was attended by more than 500 students and their parents. The members of NAACP acted as tour guides, hosts, and official greeters for the college. Special thanks to the following people: Judy Alston, Roddy Anderson, Valeria Davis, Charlene Gray, Leslie Gray, Daryl Grayden, Randa Hennix, Ethel Isaac, Anitra Johnson, Larosa Jones, Henry Myers, Karen Phelps, Valerie Roberts, Hade Robinson, Louis Smith, Stephanie Stewart, Judy Varn and Nigel Vidale.

Tatler
Tatler should be picked up on or before Tuesday, April 22. You may still purchase one at $1.50. Hours are noted on the door of the Publications Building, or you may contact Patty Toepke at 4834.

Staff needed
The Tatler is in need of a business manager for next year. If you have had any bookkeeping experience, are a business major, or have some other type of experience for this type of job, please contact Patty Toepke at 4834 or Linda Martine at 4589. This is a paid position.

Scholarship Application
Applications are on file in the Financial Aid Office for the Jim and Mary Pearce Scholarships for 1986-87. This is sponsored by the Easter Seal Society of South Carolina to provide scholarship opportunities for disabled students. Deadline is June 15, 1986.

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia
The Nu Kappa chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Fraternity would like to welcome three new brothers: Mike Cobb, Richard Holmes and Chuck Whiten.

Political Science Club
The Political Science Club will hold a meeting today at 5:30 p.m. in Room 206-B Tillman. All prospective and regular members are urged to attend.

Winthrop beauties to compete

By KRISTINE SYKES
TJ Staff writer

Winthrop will be well represented at the upcoming Miss South Carolina Pageant July 11. These brothers will be competing with students Cathy Murphy and Julie Barker for the title.

Wingard, who relinquished her Miss Rock Hill crown last Saturday, is a 24-year-old blonde from Lexington.
She is working hard to prepare for the competition with six coaches for her singing performance, as well as for her stage presence and interviewing techniques.

Model UN

Diplomats Augustin de Fontos and Jose Campos hold a forum. (Photo by Todd Avant)

(Continued from page 1)
various committee chairmen and vice-chairmen: General Assembly- Tal Johnson, Vice-chairman- Laura Cude; Security Council- Chairman- Randy Firestone. Vice-Chairman- Mike Pullin; Legal Committee- Chairman- Bryan Grant, Vice-chairman- James Dedes; Political and Security- Chairman- Linda Day, Vice-chairman- Donna Chapa; and Social and Humanitarian- Chairman- Shaun Bradley, Vice-chairman- David Velahm.
Several college delegates were recognized for outstanding performances in the conference. They were as follows: representing West Germany, Randy Phillips; Soviet Union, Sharon Hix; South Africa, Teal Williamson; Czechoslovakia, Hugh Haddock; and Nicaragua, Jay Ragan. Teal Williamson, who represented South Africa, described the conference as "the most educational experience I’ve had since I’ve been here at Winthrop. I deliberately asked for South Africa because I wanted to take a viewpoint on my own personal position of South Africa.

Body builders

(Continued from page 1)
before the contest," said Larson.

"My metabolism is much faster, which allows me to wait a little closer before competition time to start dieting. I still have to cut out all the body fat," said Perkins.

Larsson and Perkins use a variety of vitamins and protein supplements but strongly disapprove of the use of anabolic steroids.

"Nothing replaces hard work," said Perkins. "Hard work builds these bodies.

"Steroids in body building are like wax on a car; it’s just a last minute polish," said Larson. "The drug cannot replace hard work, discipline, and determination. There is no substitute for the real thing.

According to Larson, the hardest part of body building is combining it with school.

"Sometimes it is hard to deal with the other pressures besides body building, like having to study for exams while on a 1,200 calorie a day diet," said Perkins.

"Our policy is to have high intensity workouts until exhaustion," said Perkins. "We feel the weight." Larson added, "We must have strong minds; this gives us the determination to be winners.

Department of body building is set he goals and intense workouts.

"Our policy is to have high intensity workouts until exhaustion," said Perkins. "We feel the weight." Larson added, "We must have strong minds; this gives us the determination to be winners.

Neither have any immediate plans for future competition but have already returned to the gym for their normal workouts.

"Our long term goals are to both compete in the Junior Mr. Central States, and win," said Perkins. "Look for me to be Mr. America one day.

With the help of some faculty and some new weight lifting facilities in Peabody, Larson and Perkins hope to start a Winthrop body building club next fall. "We want to get students interested in the sport; with these facilities on campus, students will be able to work out without having to buy a membership at the Spa," said Larson. "We want to try to build a more dedicated atmosphere.

They also hope to have a nutritional bar added in the cafeteria. "This would offer the students concerned about their diet an option to the sometimes greasy food in the cafeteria," said Larson.
It could be worse

By VAN NORTON
TJ contributing editor

Most students don't know much about the National Student Exchange. The name is familiar as it is always widely publicized in a perhaps vain attempt to drag a few students away from the safety of the good and faithful halls of Winthrop College. To be out on exchange can be quite an experience. I have been on exchange this past year and would like to share a few brief glimpses of what it is like.

Allow me to begin by saying I am an unlikely candidate for Exchange. I was doing well and enjoyed my time at Winthrop. Why mess with a good thing? It seems a little voice kept saying, "Get away, try something different, add a little excitement to your life." The voice happened to belong to Cristina Grabiel. If there was ever someone who could sell a hair dryer to a bald man, it would have to be Cristina. Once I expressed my interest, I was surrounded by a flurry of papers to fill out and catalogs to look at. I really found it hard to believe I was going until Cristina came back from the NSE conference in the middle of March last year with the news that I was bound for Murray State University.

Never heard of Murray State, eh? Let's see, it's in southwestern Kentucky, the enrollment is around 8,000 students, and is located on the edge of the small town of Murray in the dry county of Calloway. Yes, there still are dry counties, no beer, no wine, no alcohol of any sort. No, I am not kidding. Dry, however, is not exactly dry, while it is illegal to transport alcohol into the county.

Beauties

(Continues from page 2)

Murphy, a visual arts major, is a 21-year-old brunette. She presently holds the Miss Abbeville County title.

Murphy said she travels to Columbia each week, sometimes twice, seeing coaches to prepare for the singing competition. The talent portion is 50 percent of the score.

She is also having her wardrobe made in New York and her evening gown made in-state.

"I'm keeping a positive attitude, doing a lot of praying, and keeping faith," said Murphy.

Barker, a 21-year-old senior, is a blonde communications major from Easley.

Barker said she is preparing for the competition every day by going to the spa, eating light, and working on her interviewing talent.

"I'm also keeping up with world events. You have to be able to stand on your ground on issues like abortion. You have to be able to form an opinion and have a basis for that opinion," Barker said.

She said the competition has been "the best opportunity." She said that she loves Easley and that she has traveled out of state.

"The hardest part is competing with yourself. You're your most important competitor."
OPINION

As we see it...
It's time for glory

He can usually be seen riding his bike around campus, a "Walkman" radio over his ears. A former chain smoker, he now chews nicotine gum. A former journalist, he answers only to his last name - Bristow.

Robert O'Neil Bristow has served The Johnsonian for 21 years as adviser. According to publications board guidelines, the adviser's role is to read all editorial material, discuss the budget, and provide advice to editors.

Bristow has done that and much more.

Until a disagreement with former Editor Jeff Stanley in 1983 regarding publication of a clinic's advertisement offering abortion services, Bristow served faithfully as adviser. He left that year because he did not want to advise a staff which he felt had no confidence in him.

We, the 1985-86 staff, unanimously requested his return. We had complete confidence and trust in this seasoned journalist and novelist.

This year he has not disappointed us. Not only has he given us expert advice, but he has defended free student expression in all aspects of the field. He has also been able to withstand pressure from college administrators who would like for The Johnsonian to be a public relations piece rather than a newspaper.

Nevertheless, he has also made sure we were accurate and fair as journalists.

Bristow has also been there just to listen and care.

He has counseled staff members at his home on many occasions and has never complained about all those late-night phone calls from editors seeking advice and comfort.

Although he gave good advice, he never forced us to take it. He recognized that '77 was a student paper run by students.

After years of dedicated and unselfish service, Bristow has decided to "smell the roses" and not reapply for the position.

Perhaps the title of his first novel, Time for Glory, best exemplifies the end of his service to The Johnsonian. We hope the man who has not been our adviser, but a friend and father, will remember where his true home on this campus will always be.

Editor's note: "As we see it" is a corporate opinion of The Johnsonian editorial staff.

By ALLAN C. JENKINS

TJ managing editor

It's with a mixture of happiness and regret that I write what is almost certainly my last editorial for The Johnsonian. While I can hardly wait to return, hopefully forever, to my home and friends in Copenhagen, yet I will miss the very good friends I've made here.

I must admit that my year here has been somewhat disillusioning. I arrived at Winthrop ready and willing to take my place in the American college milieu after being in the service and living abroad, but now, after only eight months, I know I am ready to leave.

But I am grateful for the experience.

It was an experience to find so many students approving of the way Richardson students shamed us at the Robach murder though some didn't-bravo for that.

It was an experience to find a board of trustees deliberately trying to hide pertinent facts about the operation of this college from the students and faculty (some students and professors wouldn't stand for it thanks for tipping us off).

It was an experience to close my eyes and imagine the Klan.

(Continued on page 5)

Lader: Bag-boy for governor

By MARK WOOD

TJ managing editor

What a surprise it would be for me if one day I were to walk in my neighborhood supermarket and find none other than Phil Lader bagging groceries.

That is the vision of Friday's edition of The Herald, there is a front page story which tells of Phil's attempt at mimicking USA Today with a similar looking campaign flyer cleverly called SC Today.

This little incident has just heaped more rubbish on an already raging battle of political controversy. Phil has been bombarded with criticism lately concerning improper purchasing procedures (better known as Ladergate), taking his campaign to the classroom, and copying the format of a national newspaper.

And the most outrageous campaign move Phil has made was pointed out to me by a fellow student. I was assured that Phil has a new campaign commercial which employs a modified version of Winthrop's catchy slogan, "To Achieve Your Best."

But far be it from me to accuse Phil of stealing an idea from the college that helped put him in the spotlight. After all, he did have the decency to drop the Y before airing commercial which ended with the line "To Achieve Your Best."

Yes, Phil seems to be having nothing but trouble since he entered the world of politics. And if he isn't careful, he might end up bagging those groceries for a living. Just remember Phil, if the worst should happen, two liter drinks and frozen foods go on the bottom, and eggs and bread go on the top.

Bye

By ALLAN C. JENKINS

TJ contributing editor

It's with a mixture of happiness and regret that I write what is almost certainly my last editorial for The Johnsonian. While I can hardly wait to return, hopefully forever, to my home and friends in Copenhagen, yet I will miss the very good friends I've made here.

I must admit that my year here has been somewhat disillusioning. I arrived at Winthrop ready and willing to take my place in the American college milieu after being in the service and living abroad, but now, after only eight months, I know I am ready to leave.

But I am grateful for the experience.

It was an experience to find so many students approving of the way Richardson students shamed us at the Robach murder though some didn't-bravo for that.

It was an experience to find a board of trustees deliberately trying to hide pertinent facts about the operation of this college from the students and faculty (some students and professors wouldn't stand for it thanks for tipping us off).

It was an experience to close my eyes and imagine the Klan.

(Continued on page 5)
Letters to the editor

NAACP

Dear Editor:

On Feb. 26, 1986, the reestablished NAACP had a mass meeting for the election of officers. The 200-plus strong NAACP had the honor of having Jeff Mann as a member. Jeff attended the first mass meeting but left in the middle of the meeting and was unable to be found prior to the election of officers.

Since that time the nonchalant dean of student life has failed to attend any of the other monthly meetings. Could it be that Mr. Mann was trying to make a mockery of the NAACP, or was he merely trying to convince the other members into believing that he was REALLY concerned? If either case is true, Mr. Mann, I think you should seek a refund and stop complaining about having to pay $10 to become a member.

Appalled,
Daryl W. Grayden

Warmonger

Dear Editor:

I am a “warmonger” as Mr. Jenkins claims, am writing in response to his article entitled “All talk and no guts.”

Sure Mr. Jenkins probably heard me saying a few things about Libya that contained violent overtures. However, is it so horrible for people to express frustration and anger when they hear about innocent people being butchered and slaughtered like cattle? What we warmongers were discussing was restituation and justice being dealt to a murderous and sadistic government.

Mr. Jenkins also used the word provocative when mentioning the U.S. in the Gulf of Sidra. I ask you what is so provocative about the U.S. conducting maneuvers in what is by anyone’s definition (except Khaddafy’s) international waters. What is provocative about that?

Especially when we have been conducting maneuvers there for the last decade. (Numerous times during the Carter administration and six times earlier during the Reagan administration.) Another thing that needs to be mentioned is that we were not the only country in the Gulf of Sidra. The Libyans are also there observing our maneuvers, as they always do. Is it not interesting that the Libyans took our presence as a hostile one and decided without provocation to attack. They reacted the same way a mad dog does when he is approached, even peacefully. They attacked and we merely rebuffed.

Mr. Jenkins also seemed to question the guts or patriotism of those whom he heard talking. Perhaps it would be wise to remember that America is made up of 250 million vastly different people. All of whom contribute to this country’s greatness in a variety of ways. The citizens of America have always risen to her defense when it was needed. A good example was the war for independence, which was fought for the most part not by a trained militia but by armed citizens. Citizens who were fighting for what was undeniably theirs: freedom and independence.

These citizens who were doctors, farmers, students and teachers picked up their weapons and showed that the situation demanded it. Once the danger had passed and freedom and independence had been gained, they put down their weapons down; but they also knew that if the times ever demanded it that they would be more than willing to fight again. Until that time they would continue to make America great in their own independent and different ways.

America is a military state but we should all rush to our armed forces post, when our present military members already have the problem sufficiently handled? To be assigned to a military post picking up pine cones and cutting grass, would that be a show of our guts? I think not.

Please do not get me wrong, I am in no way putting down the armed forces or its members. I also, just as Mr. Jenkins did, had the occasion to serve in the military. I am sure that Mr. Jenkins will have to agree that the military is not for everyone. However, its ranks, without question, will swell greatly whenever this country issues a cry for assistance to her people.

So you see Mr. Jenkins, I am not rushing to re-enlist and I will not shut up. What I will do is yell from the top of my lungs, my beliefs and love for this country as is guaranteed me in the First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

I will also continue in my own special way to pursue what Thomas Jefferson called my inalienable rights. “The right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.” Based on my own interpretations, not yours.

Garry F. Powell
Sophomore

Thanks

Dear Editor,

Please allow me to express thanks to the Winthrop-College administration, staff, faculty, board of trustees, and most of all, to the great student body of Winthrop for letting me have the best time of my life as Student Government Association President.

Last Sunday evening, I had the pleasure of seeing in Miss Donna Chapa, next year’s president, and all the rest of the student body that they will be under extremely capable and dynamic leadership! Donna will be a GREAT S.G.A. president.

Three years ago, just before I came to Winthrop, I never would have imagined that there was such a wonderful place as this—a place that would offer anybody all kinds of “chances of a lifetime” a place that would show anyone that “you get out what you put in” a place that would show anybody that life is one big opportunity to love. These are just a few of the things that Winthrop and its people have shown me.

Although I won’t be leaving Winthrop for another year and a half, I realize that my regret as SGA President is that I had to leave office. Thanking everyone for everything, I am grateful and indebted,

Brett Anthony Smith
S.G.A. President
1985-86

Evicted

Dear Editor,

I am writing this in response to Allan Jenkins’ article “Housing Policy Unfair” which appeared in the April 14 issue of The Johnsonian. The housing policy is unfair, but not to whom Mr. Jenkins’ article indicated.

I am a resident of Roddey Apartments. But soon I will be an evicted resident. The students who are now living in Roddey and Breazeale obviously received a different memo than Dean Cassens concerning the apartments. Current residents of Roddey and Breazeale do not have first priority for apartments in the fall. If the memo that I received stating this information is wrong, then Residence Life has a real problem. The majority of the students are moving out of the apartments. Someone has been misinformed, either Mr. Jenkins or the residents of Roddey and Breazeale.

I’m not an international student, or a married student. I’m just an evicted student.

Sincerely,

Ann Mary Carley
“A not for long”
Roddey resident

Bye

(Continued from page 4)

riding across campus (but a joy to hear the howls of outrage against them).

It was an experience to hear a few misguided students calling for budget cuts in order to coerce a free press (a free press cannot be long silenced or coerced). It has been an experience that I am glad to have had but not one I would ever want to repeat.

If I return to Winthrop in 10 years or so, I know I’ll find a different college, but will I find a better one?

I hope I find a college with the toughest admissions and academic standards in the state. I hope the college is attended only by students who know when they cross the threshold of Kinard Hall they will be challenged, stimulated, educated—and I hope they want that, and not just a piece of sheepskin to show an employer.

I hope to find students who have opinions and are willing to speak out about them at any time.

I hope to find students who refuse to allow apathy to exist in their midst, who’ll argue and debate and question, and learn from it.

I hope to find students who realize that the boundaries of space are not just across Cherry Road, and that time is not measured by the weekend.

My thanks and affection to the professors who have taught me and to the friends I have learned from.

Bye.

**altered to **
Another page is turned

By MICHAEL SITTS
TJ sports editor

Hi. It's me, in my first official full week as the new sports editor, and frankly, I'm somewhat nervous. I have some tough shoes to fill, left by the greats Kentucky football writer, Gary Norman, and West Virginia basketball writer, Mike Llewellyn. Speaking of him, Laurie, you have my utmost respect and admiration. Of course, for a while I'll be hanging on your door for help. Anyhow, I'll do my best.

Let's bring the year up to date. In basketball, the Eagles had a successful year. The men climbed back into the winner's group with a fine 20-9 record in Nielson Gordon's final year. The Lady Eagles also had a good season with a 16-8 record.

The baseball team is continuing their winning tradition. As we go to press, their record is 28-7, half a game behind their conference foes have included Clemson and Ohio U. The women's team struggled through the loss of three regulars, but they turned in another good year, and the cross-country team got their program off.

The three tournaments each had a successful year. The men climbed back into the winner's group with a fine 20-9 record in Nielson Gordon's final year. The Lady Eagles also had a good season with a 16-8 record. They are currently bothin the nation.

The tennis teams are also doing well. The men's tennis team is 12-12, but 10-2 in the Big South. Their out-of-conference foes included Quinnipiac U. The women's team struggled through the loss of three regular players, gaining valuable experience along the way.

The golf team was rocked by scandal as Head Coach Steve Moore was relieved of his duties and arrested. The case is pending trial. The volleyball team turned in another good year, and the cross-country team got their program off and running.

By the way, Grant Scurry has done a terrific job as interim intramural director. I think he deserves a chance to show what he can do (Is anybody listening?).

This year also showcased the first year of the new Athletic Director, Steve Vacendak. In March Vacendak also announced himself as the head coach of the men's basketball team. The ramifications of that remain to be seen.

Anyway, what you all may look forward to next year is more play by play. Women's sports, and hopefully, more photos. A personal goal of mine is to view the books to see where the money goes (Winthrop is a public institution, right?). All in all, I think it will shape up as a very interesting year...

Finally, I'd like to thank Mark (Eeeasaay!) Biesecker, Eric (War and Peace) Fearn, Jill (Tennis team) Ziegler, and others who helped me in my baptism of journalism. Thanks also to Lisa, Mark, Lika and Kris and again to Laurie Anne (Mad Dog). But above all, I'd like to thank my readers, past and future (you know who you are), and to say that I'll put out the best sports page I can. Have a GREAT summer, and see you in the fall.

Golf team places

By MICHAEL SITTS
TJ sports editor

Winthrop's golf team finished second in the Spring Classic at Belmont Abbey last week.

The tournament resulted in the first trophy that Winthrop's young team has won. Wingate College took first place.

The tournament showed the team's marked improvement. The first tournament Winthrop placed 18th out of 20. They improved to take the number 12 spot in the ACC field of 12. They came the second place standing in the Classic.

The three tournaments each marked the emergence of a fine golfer. Those were Steve Augustein, Casey Smith, both involved in getting a women's golf co-captains, and David English. The team organized and ready for the team is comprised of three next fall.

Big Splash is big success

By MARK BIESECKER
TJ sports editor

Judging from the enthusiastic turnout and festive atmosphere, it looks as if the first annual Big Splash will continue to be an annual tradition at Winthrop.

The water sports tournament, sponsored by the intramurals department, was held April 8 at Peabody Pool. Nearly 150 contestants and fans attended, testing their mettle and lung capacity in the individual and team events, and nearly all walked away with at least one t-shirt.

"We felt the Big Splash was a great success!" said Grant Scurry, director of intramurals. "We wanted to provide the students who participated. We hope for even more participation next year.

BASEBALL

Inabinet sets school record

Sophomore third baseman Art Inabinet set a school record in a 5-3 loss to Campbell University last week. Inabinet, who is from St. Matthews, had 10 assists at the hot corner to break the school record of nine, which was set by shortstop David Patterson in the 1985 campaign against South Carolina.

Dodig closing in on stolen base mark

Rightfielder Jeff Dodig is currently second on the all-time stolen base list at Winthrop. He has pilfered 28 bases already this season. Rightfielder Jeff Dodig is currently second on the all-time stolen base list at Winthrop. He has pilfered 28 bases already this season.

Shipment is all-time leader in career wins

With his win over Benedict last Saturday afternoon in Columbia, Wayne Shipman became Winthrop's all-time leader in career wins. With his win over Benedict last Saturday afternoon in Columbia, Wayne Shipman became Winthrop's all-time leader in career wins.

Eagles ranked 20th in nation in NCAA Division II

Winthrop has been ranked in the top 20 in the nation in NCAA Division II for the third time this season. Coach Frankie Griffith's club is ranked 20th this week. They sport a record of 22-6-4 on the year. Winthrop was ranked 20th in the first ranking of the season and climbed to the 15th spot in the second ranking.

Pitching staff ERA remains low

Through the first 28 games of the season, the Winthrop pitching staff has an ERA of 1.27. They have allowed only 31 earned runs in 171 innings. Michelle Miruski is the leader in that category with an ERA of 0.92. Laura Smith, a senior from Rock Hill, has an average of 77.6 strokes per round.

By MARK BIESECKER
TJ sports writer

The individual men's belly flop was the evening's highlight. Contestants were judged on style, sound, and as faculty judge Susan Roberts put it: "water displacement.

Eric Bolan scored four perfect "10's", but finished second when Augustein's thunderclap brought fans to their feet, and made to the judges' eyes. Impulsively, a couple of "12's" appeared, much to the delight of the fire-chested Augustein. Besides Roberts, other faculty judges were Ann Jarvis, Mark McCarthy, and Debbie Bowers, who also acted as official starter of the races. Bowers drew laughter from all when he began to tell the contestants who leaned too far, eager to get the jump on the whistle. When he didn't blow the whistle, of course, eager beavers fell into the pool (or pond).

Eagle Update

By TKEs and the Jersey Devils, special thanks go to Tracy Fowler (master of ceremonies), Bud Beakes (head lane judge), the faculty judges, and the lifeguards Sally Redmond and Liz Gibson. They all contributed greatly to the "Big Splash" success.

The individual men's belly flop was the evening's highlight. Contestants were judged on style, sound, and as faculty judge Susan Roberts put it: "water displacement." Eric Bolan scored four perfect "10's," but finished second when Augustein's thunderclap brought fans to their feet, and tears to the judges' eyes. Impulsively, a couple of "12's" appeared, much to the delight of the fire-chested Augustein. Besides Roberts, other faculty judges were Ann Jarvis, Mark McCarthy, and Charlie Bowers, who also acted as official starter of the races. Bowers drew laughter from all when he began to tell the contestants who leaned too far, eager to get the jump on the whistle. When he didn't blow the whistle, of course, eager beavers fell into the pool (or pond).

As we go to press, their record is 28-7, half a game behind their conference foes have included Clemson and Ohio U. The women's team struggled through the loss of three regulars, but they turned in another good year, and the cross-country team got their program off and running.

The by the way, Grant Scurry has done a terrific job as interim intramural director. I think he deserves a chance to show what he can do (Is anybody listening?).

This year also showcased the first year of the new Athletic Director, Steve Vacendak. In March Vacendak also announced himself as the head coach of the men's basketball team. The ramifications of that remain to be seen.

Anyway, what you all may look forward to next year is more play by play. Women's sports, and hopefully, more photos. A personal goal of mine is to view the books to see where the money goes (Winthrop is a public institution, right?). All in all, I think it will shape up as a very interesting year...

Finally, I'd like to thank Mark (Eeeasaay!) Biesecker, Eric (War and Peace) Fearn, Jill (Tennis team) Ziegler, and others who helped me in my baptism of journalism. Thanks also to Lisa, Mark, Lika and Kris and again to Laurie Anne (Mad Dog). But above all, I'd like to thank my readers, past and future (you know who you are), and to say that I'll put out the best sports page I can. Have a GREAT summer, and see you in the fall.

Golf team places

By MICHAEL SITTS
TJ sports editor

Winthrop's golf team finished second in the Spring Classic at Belmont Abbey last week.

The tournament resulted in the first trophy that Winthrop's young team has won. Wingate College took first place.

The tournament showed the team's marked improvement. The first tournament Winthrop placed 18th out of 20. They improved to take the number 12 spot in the ACC field of 12. They came the second place standing in the Classic.

The three tournaments each marked the emergence of a fine golfer. Those were Steve Augustein, Casey Smith, both involved in getting a women's golf co-captains, and David English. The team organized and ready for the team is comprised of three next fall.
Child restraint is the law. It requires children under 4 years of age to be secured by certain child restraint systems when being transported in motor vehicles.

This act, which took effect July 1, 1983, is easily violated and only penalized by a warning ticket. Many innocent children suffer when this law is violated. Some even lose their lives.

Mandy Holley, a 4-year-old from Beaufort, is a victim of such neglect. At 9 months, she received a head injury from an automobile accident. This could have been prevented had she been properly restrained.

Holley now suffers from the nation’s most prevalent handicap, communicative disorders. Communicative disorders involve speech, language and hearing handicaps. Patti Fudge, director of speech and hearing at the Tuomey Hospital in Sumter, S.C. and a member of SCSHA, South Carolina Speech and Hearing Association, said, “With 10 percent of our population suffering from speech, language or hearing handicaps, we feel a responsibility to get the word out on the streets that most of these people can be helped by professionals specifically trained to treat communicatively disordered.”

Rehabilitation for these impairments include medical and surgical treatments, amplification, and speech and language therapy.

Holly is currently receiving speech and language therapy at the Coastal Speech and Hearing Clinic in Port Royal. She is making excellent progress and shows potential for normal speech and language development.

SCSHA selected Holley as the 1986 poster child. A poster child is chosen to promote May as Better Speech and Hearing Month and to heighten public awareness concerning communicative disorders.

“The members of SCSHA are committed to improving the quality of life for communicative handicapped persons and this commitment extends to prevention as well as treatment,” Fudge said.

Holley was introduced to the association membership at a luncheon during the 1986 Annual Speech, Language, and Hearing Convention. She will also be presented to Gov. Dick Riley in Columbia this month when he issues the proclamation that May is Better Hearing and Speech
Computer major makes music

By AMY QUILLIAN
Special to TJ

It's not unusual for a college student to hold down a job while going to school. Some wait tables. Some tend bar.

Kelly Bristow, a 23-year-old senior at Winthrop College, does something a little different. He plays bass guitar for a rock and roll band.

Bristow has been performing for four years. He first played with The Phones and is currently the bassist for Panama.

"I've never had another interest that was up there with music," said Bristow. "I wanted to be a musician ever since I was a little kid. I just didn't have the money when I really needed it."

Bristow chose to major in computer science because of his musical interests.

"Computer science and music are one and the same," said Bristow. "If you listen to the radio, so much of the music is computerized. Knowing how to play the chords is a big part of it, but you have to be able to work with all the equipment."

Bristow finds his computer science major especially helpful in the studio.

"It helps me manage the computer side of it," said Bristow. "Especially about my long hair. The actual recording process is very computerized. You have to be able to program the recording console. That's something I don't really have to work hard to fit in. I don't look like the average Winthrop student. I don't try to see seen about four years ago that to fit in. My dad put it real well was really starting to catch. I once. He told me individuality decided that I'd be a lot better was really expensive here in the off if I learned to handle the Satch." Bristow sees his band as a business. Unfortunately, some town clubs and parties don't take his work seriously.

Carolina, but Bristow doesn't let that interfere with his classes.

"I feel a little self-conscious around the average Winthrop student," said Bristow. "Some people think I do this more for some kind of ego trip than trying to promote a business. You really have to approach this with a real sense of business though. That's what it didn't know when I had to work, but I did have to work when I had the opportunity. I'd arrange to take make-ups if I had a test on the same day as a job. I studied more than usual.

"I have a knack for being able to study a lot of material in something I really needed."

Bristow's professors don't seem to think being a musician has negatively affected his performance as a student.

Dr. Birdsall Viault, history department chairman, said, "I think he's a very good student and a great person. Being in a band doesn't seem to have had any negative effects on him."

"I think he's a good student who manages to keep respectable grades while working at what is close to a full-time job," said Dr. Kent Foster of the School of Business.

During his five years at Winthrop, Bristow has found dealing with professors somewhat easier than dealing with fellow students.

"Computer science and music are one and the same," said Bristow. "What I've done in the past," said Bristow, "is go to my professors the first day of class and tell them that I'm in this business. I'd tell them that I was graduated, in May, this semester he has something a little different. He said Bristow has been performing for four years. He first played with The Phones and is currently the bassist for Panama.

"I've never had another interest that was up there with music," said Bristow. "I wanted to be a musician ever since I was a little kid. I just didn't learn to play until junior high."

Bristow chose to major in computer science because of his musical interests.

"Computer science and music are one and the same," said Bristow. "If you listen to the radio, so much of the music is computerized. Knowing how to play the chords is a big part of it, but you have to be able to work with all the equipment."

Bristow finds his computer science major especially helpful in the studio.

"It helps me manage the computer side of it," said Bristow. "Especially about my long hair. The actual recording process is very computerized. You have to be able to program the recording console. That's something I don't really have to work hard to fit in. I don't look like the average Winthrop student. I don't try to see seen about four years ago that to fit in. My dad put it real well was really starting to catch. I once. He told me individuality decided that I'd be a lot better was really expensive here in the off if I learned to handle the Satch." Bristow sees his band as a business. Unfortunately, some town clubs and parties don't take his work seriously.

Carolina, but Bristow doesn't let that interfere with his classes.

"I feel a little self-conscious around the average Winthrop student," said Bristow. "Some people think I do this more for some kind of ego trip than trying to promote a business. You really have to approach this with a real sense of business though. That's what it didn't know when I had to work, but I did have to work when I had the opportunity. I'd arrange to take make-ups if I had a test on the same day as a job. I studied more than usual.

"I have a knack for being able to study a lot of material in something I really needed."

Bristow's professors don't seem to think being a musician has negatively affected his performance as a student.

Dr. Birdsall Viault, history department chairman, said, "I think he's a very good student and a great person. Being in a band doesn't seem to have had any negative effects on him."

"I think he's a good student who manages to keep respectable grades while working at what is close to a full-time job," said Dr. Kent Foster of the School of Business.

During his five years at Winthrop, Bristow has found dealing with professors somewhat easier than dealing with fellow students.

"Computer science and music are one and the same," said Bristow. "Computer science and music are one and the same," said Bristow. "What I've done in the past," said Bristow, "is go to my professors the first day of class and tell them that I'm in this business. I'd tell them that I was graduated, in May, this semester he has something a little different. He said Bristow has been performing for four years. He first played with The Phones and is currently the bassist for Panama.

"I've never had another interest that was up there with music," said Bristow. "I wanted to be a musician ever since I was a little kid. I just didn't learn to play until junior high."

Bristow chose to major in computer science because of his musical interests.

"Computer science and music are one and the same," said Bristow. "If you listen to the radio, so much of the music is computerized. Knowing how to play the chords is a big part of it, but you have to be able to work with all the equipment."

Bristow finds his computer science major especially helpful in the studio.

"It helps me manage the computer side of it," said Bristow. "Especially about my long hair. The actual recording process is very computerized. You have to be able to program the recording console. That's something I don't really have to work hard to fit in. I don't look like the average Winthrop student. I don't try to see seen about four years ago that to fit in. My dad put it real well was really starting to catch. I once. He told me individuality decided that I'd be a lot better was really expensive here in the off if I learned to handle the Satch." Bristow sees his band as a business. Unfortunately, some town clubs and parties don't take his work seriously.

Carolina, but Bristow doesn't let that interfere with his classes.

"I feel a little self-conscious around the average Winthrop student," said Bristow. "Some people think I do this more for some kind of ego trip than trying to promote a business. You really have to approach this with a real sense of business though. That's what it didn't know when I had to work, but I did have to work when I had the opportunity. I'd arrange to take make-ups if I had a test on the same day as a job. I studied more than usual.

"I have a knack for being able to study a lot of material in something I really needed."

Bristow's professors don't seem to think being a musician has negatively affected his performance as a student.

Dr. Birdsall Viault, history department chairman, said, "I think he's a very good student and a great person. Being in a band doesn't seem to have had any negative effects on him."

"I think he's a good student who manages to keep respectable grades while working at what is close to a full-time job," said Dr. Kent Foster of the School of Business.

During his five years at Winthrop, Bristow has found dealing with professors somewhat easier than dealing with fellow students.
School of Music celebrates

By CHRIS P. ROWELL
TJ staff writer

The Winthrop College School of Music will present a celebration performance with the Rock Hill Fine Arts Association, Saturday, April 19, at 8 p.m. in Byrnes Auditorium. The celebration is presented in conjunction with the centennial anniversary of Winthrop College, and the 1986 Rock Hill Come-See-Me Festival. According to coordinator Robert Edgerton, the program will feature more than 100 Winthrop student and faculty musicians. Included is the Rock Hill Chamber Orchestra, the Winthrop Opera Workshop, the Winthrop Symphonic Band and Percussion Ensemble, the Winthrop Chorale and Glee Club, the Chamber Ensemble, and many featured soloists.

The different musical groups will perform a variety of musical selections, and will end the show with a choral and instrumental finale conducted by Edgerton. "The show will be a musical smorgasbord, catering to many musical tastes," Edgerton said. Included in the selections will be "the Magic Flute" and "Cosi Fan Tutte" composed by Wolfgang Amedeus Mozart, as well as compositions by artists such as Richard Strauss, Carlos Chavez, and Igor Stravinsky.

According to Edgerton, this is the first spring performance of its magnitude that Winthrop has presented and will represent a broad spectrum of talent from students and faculty, several of whom have achieved national recognition.

Tickets are $10 for the public, $5 for senior citizens and non-Winthrop students, and free to students with Winthrop ID. For ticket information, students may call 323-2196.
Cook gets movie role

By KAREN PARKER
TJ staff writer

What would you think of a college junior that has the Rock Hill Police Department knocking on his door?

Many in the drama department would consider him successful. Christopher Cook is wanted by the Police Department not for any crime, but as the lead in their new training film. Unfortunately, the Police Department has lost Cook to the new film Dino DeLaurentis is producing, named Trick or Treat. Although the title makes it sound like the typical gory, cut-em-up movies, Cook says that the director, Charles Martin Smith, has described it as a "teenage rock and roll film."

The supporting role Cook is to play is of a bully who, along with three friends, is ostracizing the main character. Cook describes the role he is to play as "incessantly evil."

Other acting parts Cook has done recently include commercials for Bi-Lo supermarkets and one commercial dealing with the dangers of DUI.

Cook, besides being an actor, is also an accomplished playwright. One of his plays, The Trimangle, is to be given a reading in Johnson Theatre at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 22. It has all elements in it. Although this too sounds bloody "It is an absurdist, in the line and in the line of an ax murder, of dark comedy," said Cook.

---

DOMINO'S PIZZA DELIVERS FREE.

The best custom-made pizza is hot, has real dairy cheese, an assortment of carefully selected toppings on a perfect golden crust, and is delivered to you in 30 minutes or less. Call us, Domino's Pizza Delivery!

Call Us!
Location serving you:

324-7666
760 CHERRY ROAD

EXAM WEEK SPECIAL

Order a 12" 2 item pizza and 2 Cokes for only $7.49
One coupon per pizza. Please meet us in the lobby.

Order a 16" 2 item pizza and 4 Cokes for only $10.49
Fast Free Delivery™
The location serving you:

---

THE MONEY OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCES ON THURS, MARCH 3

ALL NIGHT EVERY NIGHT!!
- ALL CAN BEER 75¢
- LIQUOR DRINKS $1.50
- HOT TEA $1.00
ALL IMPORT $1.50
ALONG WITH NIGHTLY SPECIALS!!

A REAL ALL NIGHTER!!!

All Locations serving you:

---

Cash for Books

SELL THEM AT:
The Bookworm
324-3122
Cash anytime for your books between 10 am - 12 pm & 1 pm to 5 pm
Monday - Friday

---

DOMINO'S PIZZA INC.}
760 CHERRY ROAD
EXAM WEEK SPECIAL

Order a 12" 2 item pizza and 2 Cokes for only $7.49
One coupon per pizza. Please meet us in the lobby.

Order a 16" 2 item pizza and 4 Cokes for only $10.49
Fast Free Delivery™
The location serving you:

---

THE MONEY OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCES ON THURS, MARCH 3

ALL NIGHT EVERY NIGHT!!
- ALL CAN BEER 75¢
- LIQUOR DRINKS $1.50
- HOT TEA $1.00
ALL IMPORT $1.50
ALONG WITH NIGHTLY SPECIALS!!

A REAL ALL NIGHTER!!!

All Locations serving you:
Delta Zeta kidnaps for cause

By A. GISELE CHICK
TJ staff writer

Delta Zeta Sorority of Winthrop College held a “kidnapping” to aid the Rock Hill Home for Battered Women.

Last year, according to Delta Zeta President Joy Toates, only Greeks were kidnapped and held for ransom. “This year we wanted to get faculty and staff involved,” Toates said.

Toates added, “I feel that we return could be paid by anyone on campus. There was no set sum and I feel proud to be a part of it.”

Computer major —

(Continued from page 8)

short amount of time,” said Bristow. “I've turned down jobs this semester that I normally wouldn't have because of school. I had to if I wanted to graduate in May.”

Bristow hopes that someday his band will move out of clubs and into arenas. It's hard work but he plans to stick with it.

There's something you get from owning a band,” said Bristow. “We started from absolutely scratch. There's a lot of pride in building something up over the years. I want to see Panama not be just a local band.”

Bristow isn't the only one who is proud of his band. He has a lot of support from his family.

T've watched them go from rehearsing in the house to playing in clubs,” said Bristow's father, Robert Bristow. “I'm really pleased with their progress so far, and I hope there's a rewarding future ahead for them. You start something and if you stick with it long enough, you make it. I hope they do.”

Temporary Job

HOTLINE

Be A Temp This Summer

Work For
Dunhill Temporary Systems

JOBS AVAILABLE

COLLEGE STUDENTS

Earn extra money while on summer break from school. After initial interview, only a call to our office is needed when you're ready to start work. Must be 18 years old.

* Clerks
* Typists
* Switchboard Operators
* Receptionists
* Warehouse Workers

DUNHILL OF ROCK HILL
DUNHILL TEMPS
324-2424

SAVE. MOVE IT YOURSELF WITH RYDER

LOCAL & ONE-WAY. LOW RATES.

* The right size late-model, top-maintained trucks, with the right equipment: auto shifts, loading ramps
* Hand trucks, furniture pads, tow bars
* Nationwide 24-hour road service anywhere
* Moving tips and insurance
* Packing materials available

STUDENT SPECIAL!!

10% Discount with Student ID.
Rent by the hour or day.
Personal checks accepted.

328-2453

LOCAL RYDER DEALER
Cook Motors
520 Salisbury Ave.  328-2453
Rock Hill, S.C.
Cash for Books

The Campus Bookstore will buy back your used books and pay you up to 50% of the current retail price. Plus pay you Bonus Dollars as well!

We - Your College Store - want to help you enjoy the WEEKEND more.

“We know what kind of financial strains the weekend brings”

So... for the first time ever —

We are offering you FREE MONEY!!

This is how it works—

BONUS DOLLARS COUPON
At Your Campus Bookstore

Receive Up To 65 EXTRA CASH!

Normal Top Dollars
WE PAY YOU For Textbooks BONUS DOLLARS
$10-$19.99  We’ll Add $1.00
$20-$29.99 $2.00
$30-$39.99 $3.00
$40-$49.99 $4.00
$50-Up $5.00

Redeem Bonus Dollar Coupons Available at Book Store

Winthrop College Store Dinkins
April 21-May 2
9:00-6:00 M-Th.
9:00-4:00 Fri.

Special Hours
are set up for Sat.,
April 26
12-3:00