SGA gears up for elections

By MARK WOOD
TJ news editor

Nine senate seats remain empty for day students one day after the applications deadline, according to Chris Hanlon, elections board chairman.

Applications for freshman class officers included nine students running for class president, two vice presidents, and three running for vice president.

All 27 resident student seats have already been contested. "We're never in the past had to worry about day students," said Donna Chapa, student body president. "Usually the vice president would appoint students to those spots," Ms. Chapa said.

The Student Government Association constitution states, "When vacancies occur, an election board shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies." The president of the senate may make temporary appointments until the vacancies are filled by election.

Brian Grant, SGA, vice president said that any appointments to the nine empty spots would have to be day students. And if we had a vacancy, it would be someone to someone from Richardson hall.

Out of the 27 day-student spots, the elections board has operated as a separate branch.

"Things have gone really well," Hanlon said. "We've worked on a new system. What we did is divide the elections board into two different parts; publicity and an organizational branch."

Chris McCord worked along with Hank Rabinsky on elections publicity according to Hanlon.

"He (McCord) did a fantastic job," Hanlon said. "It seemed to run real well. It went really smooth."

"Td just really like to thank everyone for coming out," Hanlon said.

Elections will be held Wednesday, Nov. 18. Students will be able to vote in Thomas cafeteria and Dinkins Student Union.

George Burns to perform in coliseum

By KRIS SYKES
TJ staff writer

George Burns will help celebrate Winthrop's centennial 10 years before his own.

Burns, America's favorite senior citizen, is Winthrop's junior by a mere decade.

While Winthrop marks its 100th anniversary, Burns will celebrate his 50th anniversary in show business this year. "We think it's appropriate because it won't be too long before he'll be starting his own centennial," said President Martha Kime Piper.

Burns, born Nathan Bixby Burns on Jan. 20, 1896, quit school in the fourth grade and began his career in vaudeville. Burns met 70-year-old actress Gracie Allen and, after performing together for three years, they got married in 1928.

With Allen and a cigar, his well-known prop, he was unstoppable. Their big break came when CBS gave them a radio program that was very successful. That led to "The Burns and Allen Show" that was famous for Burns' "say goodnight, Gradey," and her reply, "Goodnight, Gracie."

After Miss Allen's fatal heart attack in 1964, Burns' career took off. He produced TV shows, appeared in nightclubs and sold out in Carnegie Hall.

The 70s saw the emergence of a real star when he began his movie career. "The Sunshine Boys" broke the all-day, single-day box office record at Radio City Music Hall.

Then he started playing God - literally. He starred in "Oh, God!" and "Oh, God! You Devil!" He has performed with such stars as Connie Stevens, Juliet Prowse and Jane Russell, among others.

In addition to being a television producer and film actor, he is a best-selling author. He wrote "Burns' Prescription for Happiness" which was on the New York Times Bestseller list for 18 weeks.

Burns' appearance is being sponsored by the Dinkins Student Union. Anna Howell, assistant director of student programming, declined to comment how much Burns is being paid.

However, a Winthrop official who wished to remain unidentified said that the figure was more than $50,000.

Ms. Howell said that he was booked last spring. He will also be appearing the following Saturday at Clemson.

He will perform on a revolving stage, she added. An opening act has yet to be confirmed.

Burns will appear at the coliseum Oct. 17. Reserved tickets are $13.50 each and are available from the Dinkins Student Union Center and from Mr. Sport in the Rock Hill Mall.

Culp named VP

By KATHY SNEAD
TJ news editor

Bill Culp was appointed vice president for campus renovations and special projects, President Martha Piper announced in a press conference Monday.

According to Tucker Johnson, vice president of business and finance, Culp will be "in charge of all campus projects" including the Roddery and Margaret Nance renovations as well as the construction of Kinard.

"Anything to do with a project Continued on page 2
get the galleries going and to museum directors and curators a favor to Winthrop. show his work, but is doing it as Charlotte, N.C., does not usually director of the Mint Museum in also be practicing artists of qualart to be shown in galleries can illustrate that people who select drawings, paintings, and will be shown, including will be shown for the 1986-87 school year. Dr. Harvey Dorrah, who teaches in the school of education, and Charles Corley, who teaches sociology.
Dorrah, who is originally from Columbia, has been teaching college more than seven years and from time to time teaches high school summer school.
He currently holds a bachelor's degree from Benedict College, a master's degree from New York University, and a Ph.D. from Bowling Green State University. While in college he received an award from the United Negro College Fund under "Project Search," a program that targets outstanding minority students.
"Everyone has been very receptive and helpful," he said, "and I look forward to working under the leadership of President Dr. Piper and Dr. Michael Smith, the vice-president of academic affairs.
"Dorrah decided to come to Winthrop because he felt that he could make a contribution towards Winthrop's goal of excellence. Dorrah has a wife and two children who are considering moving to the Rock Hill area.
While away from Winthrop, he enjoys swimming and hopes to become more involved in its research.
Corley began his start toward teaching when he enrolled at Hampton Institute in Virginia on a football scholarship. He now holds a bachelor's and a master's degree from bowling Green University. His experience includes five years at the college level, which includes being an assistant at Bowling Green.
While not involved in school work, Corley lifts weights and takes part in research on chemical abuse, marriage, and divorce. His goals in life include having children, becoming well-published in criminology, working for community-type services and achieving a black-belt in martial arts.

Curators, directors exhibit art
By JILLIAN COFFIN TJ staff writer

Curators and directors from the Carolina Art Gallery are the featured artists at Winthrop's department of art and design's first exhibit.
"Directors and Curators Make Art" will open Tuesday, Sept. 9, and will run through Oct. 8. Twelve directors and curators will display their works for the exhibition in both Rutledge galleries. A wide variety of media will be shown, including ceramics, jewelry, weaving, watercolors, drawings, paintings, and sculpture.
The purpose for the show is to illustrate that people who select art to be shown in galleries can also be practicing artists of quality work. We are putting them on display," said David Freeman, gallery director at Winthrop.
Some of the artists have never shown their work. Milton Block, director of the Mint Museum in Charlotte, N.C., does not usually show his work, but is doing it as a favor to Winthrop.
"People will get to look at museum directors and curators as artists and get an idea of these people as having some involvement in art," Freeman said. This first show is important to the galleries going and to let new people, students, and Rock Hill residents aware that there is an art gallery on campus.
"We think it's important to let students come see original pieces of art," Freeman said.
There was an open reception from 7-9 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 9 in the galleries. The galleries hours are 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. weekdays, and 2-5 p.m. Sundays. The exhibition is free to the public.

Two faculty members added
By OTIS TITUS TJ staff writer

Winthrop has hired two black faculty members to enhance its teaching staff for the 1986-87 school year. Dr. Harvey Dorrah, who teaches in the school of education, and Charles Corley, who teaches sociology.
Dorrah, who is originally from Columbia, has been teaching college more than seven years and from time to time teaches high school summer school.
He currently holds a bachelor's degree from Benedict College, a master's degree from New York University, and a Ph.D. from Bowling Green State University. While in college he received an award from the United Negro College Fund under "Project Search," a program that targets outstanding minority students.
"Everyone has been very receptive and helpful," he said, "and I look forward to working under the leadership of President Dr. Piper and Dr. Michael Smith, the vice-president of academic affairs.
"Dorrah decided to come to Winthrop because he felt that he could make a contribution towards Winthrop's goal of excellence. Dorrah has a wife and two children who are considering moving to the Rock Hill area.
While away from Winthrop, he enjoys swimming and hopes to become more involved in its research.
Corley began his start toward teaching when he enrolled at Hampton Institute in Virginia on a football scholarship. He now holds a bachelor's and a master's degree from bowling Green University. His experience includes five years at the college level, which includes being an assistant at Bowling Green.
While not involved in school work, Corley lifts weights and takes part in research on chemical abuse, marriage, and divorce. His goals in life include having children, becoming well-published in criminology, working for community-type services and achieving a black-belt in martial arts.

Two faculty members added
By OTIS TITUS TJ staff writer

Winthrop has hired two black faculty members to enhance its teaching staff for the 1986-87 school year. Dr. Harvey Dorrah, who teaches in the school of education, and Charles Corley, who teaches sociology.
Dorrah, who is originally from Columbia, has been teaching college more than seven years and from time to time teaches high school summer school.
He currently holds a bachelor's degree from Benedict College, a master's degree from New York University, and a Ph.D. from Bowling Green State University. While in college he received an award from the United Negro College Fund under "Project Search," a program that targets outstanding minority students.
"Everyone has been very receptive and helpful," he said, "and I look forward to working under the leadership of President Dr. Piper and Dr. Michael Smith, the vice-president of academic affairs.
"Dorrah decided to come to Winthrop because he felt that he could make a contribution towards Winthrop's goal of excellence. Dorrah has a wife and two children who are considering moving to the Rock Hill area.
While away from Winthrop, he enjoys swimming and hopes to become more involved in its research.
Corley began his start toward teaching when he enrolled at Hampton Institute in Virginia on a football scholarship. He now holds a bachelor's and a master's degree from bowling Green University. His experience includes five years at the college level, which includes being an assistant at Bowling Green.
While not involved in school work, Corley lifts weights and takes part in research on chemical abuse, marriage, and divorce. His goals in life include having children, becoming well-published in criminology, working for community-type services and achieving a black-belt in martial arts.

Condos provide alternatives
By KATHY SNEAD TJ news editor

Eagles Landing has not had a major effect on housing at Winthrop so far, according to Residence Life.
Eagles Landing is a student condominium community and acts as a realtor by providing students with condominiums for rent by private investors.
Both Cynthia Cassens, dean of Residence Life, and Steve McGuirt, sales manager of Eagles Landing, agreed that the development provided needed housing during the beginning of the school year.
Out of an excess of 350 freshmen, Eagles Landing housed 200 at the start of fall semester.
"I think it's definitely having an impact," Ms. Cassens said, "but not that great of an impact."
"We offer the experience of living on campus," Ms. Cassens said.
However, McGuirt stated that most students move off campus to "get away from the staff at the dorms."
"We have fun, but we have a club house for that. But it's more of a controlled atmosphere, a more mature atmosphere." McGuirt said although Eagles Landing is indirectly in competition with residence halls.
Continued on page 7
Fraternities to try dry rush

By RAY STEADMAN
TJ staff writer

Now that the legal drinking age has risen to 21, fraternities will be forced to join sororities in dry rush.

At Sigma Alpha Epsilon the fraternity is gradually phasing out wet rush and hopes to have a totally dry rush by next fall. Brad Cohan of the SAE national organization sees this as a positive way of changing to a dry rush.

"Rather than just today having it wet and tomorrow say it's going to be dry rush. By next fall we want it totally dry and they're going for a gradual change," Cohan said.

"We've had a real good turnout and the guys that are really interested in the group don't care if there is alcohol at the parties or not. They're here to be a member of the fraternity," Bembenk said.

Cohan agrees, "One of the reduced costs of rush is that they're not feeding the whole campus...people who go through a dry rush are genuinely interested in joining the fraternity," he said.

Pi Kappa Alpha's rush mixed wet and dry parties while those under 21 were not allowed to drink. The Pike's goal is to have a completely dry rush by next year. Bryan Grant, Pi Kappa Alpha spokesman and SGA vice president, believes the drinking age has had no affect on turnout.

"A fraternity is not about drinking. That's a stereotype people have," Grant said.

Dry rush has not been mandated but it has been encouraged. Christina Grabel, adviser to the Greeks at Winthrop, points out that the fraternities are cooperating with the new laws.

"I believe all of the fraternities are having some dry rush parties," Grabel said.

Students vote on committees

By RAY STEADMAN
TJ staff writer

Students will vote Sept. 17 on whether to change DSU's constitution, shoveling the number of committees from eight to six while leaving all programs intact.

"The needs of the student population have changed and this is our effort to keep up. These six can do better to meet the needs of students," said Ann Howell, DSU adviser.

Bill Bradley, president, emphasized student involvement in the upcoming vote and DSU in general.

"Every student at Winthrop is a member of the student union. DSU is paid for by a portion of your general fees," Bradley said.

Another change for DSU is in its ATS program. ATS, or Across the Street, will be changing its name and its image. Renamed Union Station, it will still serve alcohol, but due to the rise in the drinking age, IDs will be required to buy it. Emphasis will be more on food and entertainment than in the past.

While DSU events are for all classes, the special in committee has events planned for black history month in February, as well as a women's week and handicapped week.
Age restriction unconstitutional

Yesterday a law went into effect which raised the legal drinking age to 21 for all alcoholic beverages sold in South Carolina.

The new law was enacted so that the state would be eligible to receive federal funds for highways and roads. The Reagan administration has said that any state that does not adopt such a law will be denied these highway funds.

The current administration is conveniently overlooking the 10th amendment which states that any power not specifically delegated to the federal government will be assumed by the states. Such coercive measures would feasibly allow the federal government to pressure the states into adopting any policy that might not otherwise win approval.

This action on the part of the federal government raises several valid questions. The most important of these is the varying degrees of adulthood which are recognized by the government. As it stands, a person can die for his or her country at 18. People can vote and choose the leaders who will be making important decisions that affect their lives at 18. In some states, teenagers as young as 16 can be tried as adults and serve equal prison terms.

In short, the person who is at least 18 is hit with important responsibilities. However, the privilege of choosing whether or not to drink is reserved for those 21 and older.

The true solution to the problems caused by alcohol is twofold. First, teenagers should be responsibly taught the effects of alcohol in the public schools. Perhaps substance awareness could be a part of required health programs in the schools.

Secondly, penalties for those caught driving under the influence should be severely stiffened. The concept of a “suspended sentence” regarding DUI offenses should be abolished. Strong enforcement of license revocation, stiff fines and/or prison terms should instead become the norm.

The question of morality has no place in this argument except when one is discussing the morals of the federal government and its extortionist attitudes. Probably the most appropriate question to be asked here is “What’s next?”

Honoring the past

One way to celebrate the present is to bring back the past. Therefore, The Johnsonian is using the original 1923 logo on the front page in honor of Winthrop’s centennial. We hope this will help tie the past with the present.
Model plays designer

By JILLIAN COFFIN
TJ staff writer

Rachelle Jamerson spent the summer in New York putting the finishing touches on the work of a famous fashion designer.

Miss Jamerson worked in the Designer Building with the Mary McFadden firm in New York City after interviewing with the company during a trip last spring with the Winthrop fashion club.

"I worked in production on the 21st floor. I did a variety of things. I did any finishing to the dresses," Miss Jamerson said.

The young designer was able to view Ms. McFadden's fall collection showing.

"My experience was great. I really loved it. It was rewarding and informative. It made me realize that this is the field I want to be in," Miss Jamerson said.

She also took two design courses at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City during her stay.

"There are a lot of opportunities in New York, but you have to get out there and track them down; you can't wait for someone to come to you," Miss Jamerson said.

Miss Jamerson has been designing since she was in eighth grade. She has been sewing for 12 years.

"Mary gave me a lot of advice about getting into the field," Miss Jamerson said.

Miss Jamerson has worked at the Triple E sewing shop in Rock Hill. She designed the Winthrop Eagle's tuxedo and referee outfit. She also designs and does alterations for students on campus and is a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron Honor Society for home economics.

She was elected to the student body of consumer science's Dean's Advisory Council in 1985 and '86. She won the national Miss Black and Gold contest sponsored by the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity.

Other honors include the MCM Best Model Award in 1986 and the Winthrop College Homecoming Court for the 85-86 school year.

Miss Jamerson lives in Orangeburg and plans to work for a design firm after graduation.

SAC reaches out to alumni

By KRIS SYKES
TJ staff writer

Remembering the past and preparing for the future.

That's what the Student Alumni Council (SAC) is all about.

While they help the alumni association preserve the ties to the Winthrop alumni, the group of 38 students also helps graduates make the transition from seniors to alumni.

The annual phonathon, where students and SACers call alumni all over the country, is SAC's biggest project.

Sharen Greene DuBard, the liaison between Alumni Relations and SAC, explained, "This phonathon is the only one-on-one contact our alumni have sometimes."

Mrs. DuBard also said that alumni contributions have increased 20 percent in the last three years.

This year, Winthrop's 100th birthday, President Martha Kime Piper has asked the students to suggest $10 contributions to mark the centennial.

"It's worth a try," Mrs. DuBard said.

When asked about other celebrations this year, Mrs. DuBard said, "It's our goal this year for all our chapters and steering committees to have a centennial celebration."

She said many chapters were planning a birthday party, a banquet or a symphonic band to celebrate and that members would be on the road a lot.

"On behalf of the Alumni Association, we're doing a lot for the students."

The SAC distributes the blue plastic keychains in the welcome boxes to get their name out to the new students.

The SAC was "armed two years ago to cultivate all students before they graduate."

"We knew we had strong leadership on campus. It was just a question of organizing it," said Mrs. DuBard.

The president of SAC appoints the vice presidents who pre-ide over the five committees.

The president also serves on the executive board of the Alumni Association, but does not vote.

Harrison Ford is John Book.

A big city cop. A small country boy. They have nothing in common...but a murder.

WITNESS
Golf start fall season

By DAISY BRUNSON
TJ sports writer

"The coach doesn't make the team, the team makes the coach," according to golf team coach Tom Webb.

This year's team has "greatly expanded with the number of walk-ons with 17 golfers; the team will only carry 12."

Returning senior Casey Smith will be this year's captain. Smith, who led last year's team in average strokes per round, was a Big South All Conference player. Randy Adams, a returning sophomore, won the inaugural Rock Hill Golf Classic, beating out 75 other golfers.

Also returning are David English, Bryan Kennedy and Jim Gast.

The team's schedule includes three tournaments.

"At the McGregor tournament in Pickens, we'll face some major heavyweights like Duke, the Citadel, Appalachian State, University of Virginia, Virginia Tech, Clemson, Furman, and the University of Georgia. But not only the top colleges have all the talent. We also face a smaller college, Huntington College, that won the NAIA Championship last year," Webb said.

The Eagles will also participate in the Campbell University Fall tournament. They will be up against William and Mary, Old Dominion, UNC-Chapel Hill, Virginia Tech and University of Virginia.

Webb feels optimistic about this year's team. Last year, the final record was 36-36, and this year should be better.

"It is a very young team and 'very' should be capitalized," Webb said.

"I think everyone sees Winthrop as the team on the horizon. It should be very exciting, win, lose, or draw. We'll fare well," said Webb.

Cross country and soccer teams kick off seasons

By ERIC FEARN
TJ sports writer

The cross country team, much like the soccer team, is suffering from growing pains.

The cross country teams opened their seasons on Sept. 6 in Buie's Creek, N.C. at the Campbell Cross Country Carnival.

The women's team opened strongly with a second-place finish behind Virginia Commonwealth University. VCU controlled the meet with a perfect score of 15 points, but Winthrop defeated Shast Augustine College, Shaw College and Pembroke State College to grab the second place trophy in the six-team field.

The second-place finish gives the women a 4-1 record on the young season.

However, the men's team did not fare quite as well. The men finished eighth in the nine-team field.

Pacing the men was Junior Richard Golden with a time of 22:11 over the four-mile course and a finishing of 21st overall.

Following Holiday were Michelle Dreon (13:27, ninth overall), Angela Melcher (13:27, 10th overall), Ann Taber (13:50, 14th overall), Genie Moore (14:42, 21st overall), and Liane McColough (16:39, 32nd overall).

The soccer and the cross country team members are taking on key roles this season due to their misfortunes.
Get Involved!

The Johnsonian is now taking applications for news and feature writers as well as advertising staffs. Dependability and initiative required.

TJ positions provide excellent experience for communications and business majors.

Apply in person
Tuesday and Thursday 5-9 p.m.
Student Publications Building

Adults find new start
By RAY STEADMAN
TJ staff writer

Winthrop is making it easier for people to go back to school. The New Start program is designed to help the person who did not attend college after high school or who never completed a degree program.

Once a part of Joynes Center for Continuing Education, the program began as Open College in January. It is now an independent program under the leadership of Dr. Maeberta Bobb. Registration is taken care of in the special office, and the only requirement is a high school diploma.

Regular students are admitted based on their SAT and classroom performance and extracurricular activities.

"We need to put a lot of emphasis on this program because there are a lot of people who never went to college or maybe went to college for a short time... who could go to college and do well," Ms. Bobb said.

The program is receiving the attention of college administrators who are using this year to study and improve it. There are 320 undergraduate students over 25 but only 38 are enrolled in the program. Marilyn Hyman, a New Start services specialist, would like to extend support sessions to the other 350.

"We're hoping to expand to not only to include New Start study but to offer support services to all non-traditional students," Ms. Hyman said.

Ms. Hyman would also like to see Winthrop's program grow like the Mature Students Program at the University of South Carolina which creates a social atmosphere among its students. The program provides a house to give the students interaction with similar students to help them adjust to school again.

Winthrop's support services provide students with seminars to help them adjust, too. Services include seminars on test taking, time management, or library orientation and choosing a career for the eighties.

New Start students may work toward a degree or take courses that interest them. When a student completes 15 hours, he can be admitted as a regular student.

Dorothy McGavran is the academic adviser for New Start, which is located in 124 Tillman.

Condos

Continued from page 2

roph, said. According to McGavran, Eagles Landing has been very successful so far this year. "We're not trying to hurt Winthrop, we're just here to provide an alternative."

• New, larger location with expanded inventory!
• Large selection of sheet music and music books.
• Music videos.
• Acoustic guitars and accessories.
• Over 10,000 oldie 45's in stock.
• Complete selection of albums, cassettes, and compact discs.
• Full line of accessories.
  10-9 M-Sat.
  1:30-6 Sun.

$1.00 OFF
On any $8.99 or higher Album or Cassette
(Limit 2 per customer)
Offer ends Sept. 21, 1986

Phone ahead for quick pick-up!

SUB STATION II

"Sandwich Shop"

Party Subs and Party Trays
for Winthrop Party Animals!

“The best frozen yogurt in town”
Mon.-Sat. 10-Midnight
Sun. 11-10 p.m.
329-0073

403 N. Cherry Rd. (Across from Lee Wicker)
Epicure promises variety of entrees

By SUSAN L. DILLARD
TJ staff writer

Variety will be Epicure's motto as the food service starts its '86-'87 year. The cafeteria contract came up for renewal this past spring and was re-signed by school administrators this summer. Other food services came to campus to meet with school officials for one week in the spring and submitted proposals. Epicure Food Service was chosen again.

"We want to portray to the students that we care; it's their food program. We welcome their input," said John Simpson, Epicure's director.

Students may offer suggestions directly to the managers or write down their compliments or complaints and put them in the suggestion boxes which are by the meal card checker stands.

Simpson says they are making an effort to please the students, and have planned several new services for the cafeteria. The layout of the cafeteria has been rearranged; there is also an enlarged salad bar. The old soup and sandwich line has been expanded into a deli line which is open on weekdays, for Saturday lunch and for Sunday dinner.

A gazebo will be installed and will soon offer hot cereals and doughnut specials in the morning, as well as hot vegetables, cold salads, soups, and possibly even a self-service breakfast for weekends.

A pizza delivery service will begin in October, and a food cart which will offer quick foods to school officials, commuters, and boarders on a cash basis later this fall.

Student opinions vary concerning Epicure. "I think it's okay. I'd like to see a fruit bar, though," said Sheri Saylors.

Brenda Jenkins, senior, said, "I think it has improved very much since last year. The variety is a lot better and the surroundings look better, too."

Leslie Proffitt, freshman, said, "There's not a very big variety of food — it's all the same."

Derrick Ralls, senior, agrees. "It's getting repetitious with the Salisbury steak and the fish. The food is well-prepared, but you feel like going out to eat."

George Salgado, sophomore, said, "I eat there, but I don't enjoy it. Well, I enjoy it 40 percent of the time. It just depends on how hungry I am and what they have."

Simpson stressed that the food service is open to any comments or suggestions that students have and will make an honest effort to offer new items that students request.

"If a student has a concern, then we encourage them to come to us. My office (112 East Thompson) is open day and night. We encourage students to take an active part in the food program," Simpson said.

Epicure prints a newsletter every semester which gives the names of the managers and staff, so the students will know whom to go to with questions or ideas.

Simpson said the program was started in 1972 and has been at Winthrop for 10 years. The home office is in Rock Hill and provides food for colleges in the Southeast.

Animals are your friends.
Give a hoot.
Don't pollute.
Forest Service, U.S.D.A.

H/C
Hildebrand Communications

Complete Typesetting Service

Professional Assistance In Writing Design and Layout

Monday-Friday 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.
2106 Celanese Road
329-2300

EAGLES LANDING
IT'S NOT TOO LATE FOR EAGLES LANDING!

We will refund $50.00 of your dorm deposit towards first month's rent!!

- Free Cable TV.
- Free Shuttle Bus to Campus.
- Totally Furnished and Accessorized.
- Swimming Pool/Clubhouse & Planned Monthly Activities!
- Free Transportation to Visit Model.

$165.00 Average Month/Student

Call 329-5298

Tired Out — These students appear to be trying to stay awake during Winthrop's opening convocation. The two girls beside them gave up long ago. (Photo by Laurie Ann Dedes)