The city authorities are having the fire bell moved from the bell tower on the corner of the water tank adjacent to the court house. This will, no doubt, make the ringing in case of fire to much better advantage than heretofore.

This Year in the County of York.

York, S. C., May 26.—From all sections of the county comes word that the boll weevil is making its appearance in large numbers.

REASONABLE WAGES

A force of plasterers on the New York Apartment building the other day struck for $14 a day, because the bricklayers had been raised to that wage.

It had been allowed three acres on what appeared to most of the grand stand as a favor. It seems to be pretty well assured that the stand will be built on the premises of formation will duly materialize; but just how it will be made up is not yet certain.

I'VE DECIDED TO QUIT ADVOCATING JUSTICE

Justice is a Sacred Word, He Admits, Like Witches' Bait, the More Sacred Such a Word is, the More Soreful It Causes, He Declares.

By Charles W. Wood.
If there ever was a word which ought to be abolished, it is the word justice. Until we get it out of our thinking, human progress will continue to be a slow and painful operation.

Justice is a Sacred Word, He Admits, Like Witches' Bait, the More Sacred Such a Word is, the More Soreful It Causes, He Declares.

"Have you eaten rice yet?" is the Chinese word for "What do you do, or good morning." "What rice do you eat?" and "What is your business?" and to it the answer comes in Chinese.

TUESDAY, MAY 29.

According to the medical profession, if we are not mistaken, typhoid fever is the result of germs and must be taken internally before one will have the fever. Water and milk are two mediums from which one usually gets typhoid. We have been informed. Plugs are very instrumental in spreading the typhoid germ in view of the fact that they travel from place to place to other places and transmit the germ onto food, etc.

To keep a town free of typhoid under all conditions would mean that the water supply must be absolutely pure and that the typhoid germ is not to be found or other than the water furnished the municipality and which had been properly treated by filtration, chlorination, etc. If one makes a visit to the country or a neighboring town, it is possible that he will drink water, which in the course of time, will give him typhoid fever.

To keep down a possibility of one taking typhoid fever from milk it would be necessary that every ounce of milk consumed in the district be examined. This would not only apply to dairies but to those who sell milk to their neighbors in any quantity. If you visit a friend or relative, it is possible that you will drink milk, which later will give you typhoid fever.

Another thing to keep in mind is to keep the place absolutely free from typhoid such places must be absolutely free of typhoid germs and flies. If the typhoid germ is in the locality it is possible that a fly will get it on its legs, thence to your table and there implant the germ on an apparently wholesome piece of bread. A member of the family consumes it and the bread and in due course of time you have a case of typhoid fever.

Some people speak of typhoid fever as if it is an easy matter for a community to absolutely free itself from the disease, but such thing is almost impossible, unless exceedingly stringent laws are made and a large force of officers employed to make the citizens comply with them.

Of course it is possible to bring the typhoid rate down to a considerable extent when a municipality has done its part by the citizens in the way of inspecting milk and furnishing a pure supply of water, the job has only begun. There are hundreds of things for the citizens of the municipality to do, such as screening his house throughout, putting disinfectants on the manure on his premises, etc.

If any one in Chester wishes to see millions of typhoid carriers to their inception he has but to visit the private premises of the citizen where he will find huge piles of manure in the lots. When manure is allowed to stand for only a few days it creates millions of typhoid germs only by use of disinfectants can this be avoided, and the News ventures the assertion that less than a dozen people in Chester in a typhoid possibly saving some man, woman or child from a case of typhoid fever.

Mr. Citizen what are you doing personally to keep down typhoid fever? Are you selling impure milk or do you know whether you are or not? Do you systematically disinfect the manure on your premises? Clean up. Maybe you are not willing to permit to your neighbor for 15 cents a quart. Maybe you are breeding fies to carry typhoid germs to your neighbors' lots only. Do you expect the city to keep your premises clean. Do your part and then demand that the city do its part.

Governor McLeod recently advised the sheriff of the various counties of South Carolina to keep their eyes open for those soliciting labor throughout the State and to arrest them, unless they are provided with a license.

Many negroes of this section have been induced to leave the selection of unscrupulous men and when they arrived at their destination without money, they have found that the jobs are not what was promised. Other labor solicitors have "freed" the negroes in one way or another.

Since the Governor issued his recent instructions numerous advertisements have been appearing in the newspaper offering jobs to laborers.

The News has received three such advertisements during the past week, but has not published them nor does it propose to do so. The News does not intend to act as a tool for the one crowd to serve the other. Our opinions are ours and we do not claim them for the benefit of racial — no, not even for money.

The News has been exceedingly glad that Chester County is not deeply interested in the South Carolina Sweet Potato Growers' association. Two hundred and thirty carloads of sweet potatoes were shipped out of South Carolina the past season, and not one of them went from Chester county.

From a report of the president of the association it will be noted that the members secured a good price for their potatoes notwithstanding various obstacles which had to be met.

It would be a great step for Chester county people to become affiliated with the potato association and to see that the members secured a good price for their potatoes notwithstanding various obstacles which had to be met.

It has been estimated that the average dairy cow in this country produces yearly about 4,000 pounds of milk containing about 160 pounds of butter fat. Selection, feeding and breeding, says the United States Department of Agriculture, could double this low average. Doubling the present average production would make it possible to furnish the present supply of dairy products with fewer cows and at a much less cost.

The study of dairy production would make it possible to furnish the present supply of dairy products with fewer cows and at a much less cost. Income records of 18,014 cow-testing association cows for the period 1910 to 1920 showed that the cows gave an average of 2,800 pounds of milk per year produced an average income for the farmer above feed cost of about $10; at 200 pounds of butter fat per cow the average income was about $106 a year per cow. While the cows in the last class averaged four times as much in production as those in the first class, they gave an average income over cost of feed that was more than ten times as great.

A tabulation of the records of dairy cows from these districts shows similar results. In all cases the high-producing groups were the profitable producers from the standpoint of income over cost of feed.

The groups of high-producing cows were also the groups that produced milk and butter fat economically from the standpoint of cost of feed per pound of butter fat or per 100 pounds of milk. As production increased from the lowest-producing to the highest-producing groups, the feed cost per unit of production went down, rapidly at first but more slowly as the production reached a high average. In the economical production of milk and butter fat, the largest gains are to be obtained through the culture of dairy cows that produce less than 4,000 pounds of milk, containing less than 160 pounds of butter fat.

Carolina people for Carolina People," is gaining ground every day. This fact means dollars for the people who live in North and South Carolina.

Some few weeks ago a man decided that he would open a manufacturing plant in a certain city, not more than 100 miles from Chester. In order to equip his plant it was necessary that he buy a considerable quantity of machinery. He called at the office of the secretary of Chamber of Commerce and asked a good place to buy it. Instead of referring the man to a firm in the city, the secretary referred him to Knoxville, Tenn.

Seeing notice of the opening of a manufacturing plant in the morning paper the three resident machinery dealers called at the office of the man who was going to open the plant. They were informed that he was enroute to Knoxville to buy machinery and had been referred there by the secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce.

This action on the part of the secretary was all that was necessary to set the house afire. Within a few days was asked to hand in his resignation in view of the fact that he had referred a man to an out-of-town firm from which to buy his machinery.

ORGANIZING LEAGUE.

Plans for Organization of Baseball League Composed of Chester, Rock Hill, York and Union New Game Forward—Chester, Elberts Officers.

At present it begins to look as if Chester is going to have some good baseball this summer. The movement is from a league consisting of York, Rock Hill, Chester and Union is growing in momentum and the details are beginning to take shape.

In the proper shape and a manager secured for the Chester team.

All of the rules incident to the organization of the league have been compiled and provided, among other things, that the salary limit paid players shall not exceed $1,500 a month. It is also provided that each team shall get the gate receipts in its home town. Many of the firms are of the impression that the gate receipts will pay the way of the various teams and that those who take stock in the organization will have their money returned to them at the end of the season, which will be of two months duration.

The rules also provide that no professional players shall be hired; consequently most of the players will be college boys and a number of the members of the Chester team, as well as the other towns mentioned above, will be home boys. Another rule is to the effect that no player shall be hired within ten days after his application is received. This rule will keep him from running in a player for a specific game.

These instrumental in the organization of the league are desirous of having the people of the four towns going and within a short while upon deavoured to make the rules strict enough to keep down the hiring of any professionals.

A member of the Chester fans went to Rock Hill yesterday afternoon where further details were gone into and report that Rock Hill is going and within a short while upon deavoured to make the rules strict enough to keep down the hiring of any professionals.

It is believed that little trouble will be experienced in securing the necessary funds to get the league going and within a short while upon deavoured to make the rules strict enough to keep down the hiring of any professionals.

CONSTITUTIONALISM

Minimum wage legislation has a pretty good hold on the popular imagination. Generally speaking, they ought to be paid enough to live on. This may not be sound law, but it is regarded as sound morals and sound public policy.

Congress evidently agreed when it enacted the minimum wage law for the District of Columbia, and thereby seemed to approve, in principle, all such laws. Yet along comes a group of able men, perfectly honest and honorable jurists and says that this law is unconstitutional, and so presumably all other laws of the same nature are unconstitutional.

The public does not profess to know much about constitutionalism, but it is disappointed—not for the first time. And it loses a little of its regard for the Constitution that is unfortunate.

The Free-Westinghouse Electric Sewing Machine

Why shouldn't your sewing machine be just as smart and stylish an article of furniture as any other in your home? It should and it can be, as the Free-Westinghouse Electric sewing machine shows.

When you finish sewing on the Free-Westinghouse you won't want to hide it away in some obscure corner. You'll want to keep it out where it can be seen.

For the Free-Westinghouse, when not in use as a sewing machine, is a convenient and attractive writing desk or serving table, as you like. Just drop the head of the machine, close the cover and the transformation is complete.

Who wouldn't enjoy sewing on a machine that's good looking, that requires no pushing of treadle or pedal, that makes a perfect stitch, runs quickly and with exceeding lightness, and has many other advantages over the ordinary treadle or electric machine?

The Free-Westinghouse is not a treadle machine with an attached motor. It is an electric machine from start to finish. The electric drive was developed by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and the motor is built in. The machine itself is made by the Free Sewing Machine Company. Come in and see it today.

Recently a negro woman called at the local postoffice to get a C. O. D. package. She said for it before she could get to see the two dresses which the package contained. When she did see them they did not suit her and she wanted the postoffice to return her money. Of course there was nothing doing and her money has gone to help Chicago grow bigger and bigger, while we poor devils down here grow old hard times and the bell tolls.

COLUMBIA AND SPARTANBURG PLAY CHAMPIONSHIP HERE

The State High School Baseball Championship Will be Played in Chester Thursday Afternoon Between Columbia and Spartanburg.

On Thursday afternoon at three-thirty o'clock at the Chester Fair grounds—Columbia High school and Spartanburg High will cross bats for the high school baseball championship of South Carolina, according to announcement made last night by A. C. Flora, principal of the Columbia school.

It is expected that a large delegation from each of the two cities will accompany their teams to Chester where the final round for the State championship will be staged.

Both of the teams are fast going and have fought hard to get the places now held and the game Thursday will no doubt be hard fought from start to finish.

It is stated that the Columbia boys will bring their brass band with them to cheer them on. Announcement will also probably be made in large numbers and Chester promises to be a busy town Thursday afternoon.

Remember the hour 8:30.

An Electric Sweeper without guarantee of service may mean trouble. Buy a Royal, and be assured of service.

Dr. Brown Preaches Tonight.

Dr. J. E. Brown, of Siloson Springs, Arkansas, arrived in Chester last night and will preach his first sermon at the Brown tabernacle, on Center and McAlley streets, tonight beginning at seven-thirty o'clock.

The big revival formally opened Sunday night, the sermon being preached by Mr. Jones who will have charge of the music for the meeting. Mr. Jones comes to Chester highly recommended as a musical leader and the start Sunday night would indicate that the big choir for the revival is going to be a most excellent one. Mr. Jones will be the pianist and is also a gifted musician.

Yesterday was real day with those connected with the revival and tonight the meeting started in earnest. Two sermons will be preached daily, one in the morning at ten o'clock and one in the evening at seven-thirty o'clock.

Tomorrow night a large delegation of people from Richburg will attend the meeting and a part of the big tabernacle will be occupied for the night. Friday night will be a large delegation from Columbia. There will also be a large crowd from the Lancaster Evangelical church on Friday night.

The tabernacle will seat approximately 4,000 people, which will doubtless prove ample for a community of this size of Chester.

Chester Covet Paroled.

Thomas McCleary, a negro who was convicted in Chester county in March 1922 of larceny and receiving stolen goods, has had the balance of his sentence suspended by Governor McLeod.

It will be recalled that McCleary probably saved the life of Spartanburg merchant McKown, when that officer was attacked some time ago by Ely Sullivan, a negro preacher who is serving a term in the Chester county gaol, having been convicted in connection with the killing of two negroes at a negro church meeting.

A report from the Governor's office regarding the suspending of the sentence says: "Thomas McCleary, a negro, was convicted in Chester county in March, 1922, of larceny and receiving stolen goods, receiving sentence of one year and nine months on the changing. The unexpired portion of his sentence was suspended on condition of good behavior. While serving his term on the changing McCleary prevented the escape of a murderer and saved the life of the superintendent of the Chester county gaol."

The funeral services were held this morning at eleven o'clock, being delayed on account of waiting for one of her sons who was in Omaha, Nebraska. The interment was made in the Lowryville cemetery.

Mrs. Wilson was survived by four sons and two daughters: Mr. John H. Wilson, Omaha; Mr. Joseph Wilson, Baltimore, Md.; Misses Kathleen and Delano Wilson, and Mr. E. H. Wilson, of Lowryville. She was buried in the Swift fertilizer plant in Chester. He has been making his home in Charlotte for some time and was visiting his daughter when he died.

Mr. S. J. Wilson, a former resident of Chester and a Confederate Veteran, died of the home of his daughter, Mrs. P. P. Allen, in Rock Hill, and was buried in Evergreen cemetery, Chester, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Wilson was eighty-one years of age and at the time was watchman at the Swift fertilizer plant in Chester. He has been making his home in Charlotte for some time and was visiting his daughter when he died.

Great Falls News Items

Great Falls, May 28.—"Alice in Wonderland" was presented in the school auditorium Thursday evening, by the primary and intermediate grades. The audience was thrilled with the veritable picture of Fairyland presented. It was a marvelous presentation of the story.

The house was again filled to capacity on Friday evening to witness the graduating exercises. The class colors pink and green, were artistically used in the stage decoration. Prof. W. W. Pyley, principal of the high school, presided. The salutatory was given by Lottie Gibson, the class poem by Lillie May Brown; class history by Palmer Mahaffey; class prophecy by Maude Kirkpatrick; The Class will be read by William Raines. Elizabeth Keister sang the class solo, and class songs presented by Elizabeth Simpson. There was also a class song by the graduates, "The Class of 1923."

Prof. E. H. Hall, superintendent of the Great Falls schools, presented certificates to the seventh grade pupils who had met the requirements for promotion to the high school department, and also presented diplomas to the graduating class. As a prefix to his remarks to those receiving the certificates and diplomas, Mr. Hall made a brief and very appropriate address on "The Advantages of an Education." He presented his subject from three different points, financial, cultural and that of service.

Mr. Hill announced that the entire faculty, with the exception of four, would return for the next school year.

These Missing After Cloudburst.

Sayre, Okla., May 21.—Three persons are missing after a cloud-burst which precipitated six inches of rain in 45 minutes last night. Short Creek left its banks and spread into a stream five rods wide through the middle of the city.

Nearly 300 farm laborers, oil field workers and their families, who rescued from the tops of their tents, houses and trees.

The water began receding at midnight after causing damage here estimated at $60,000. The railway station at Doxy, four miles east of Sayre, early today stood in water seven feet deep.

Hail stones large than walnuts fell immediately preceding the rain and added to the confusion.

Sheriff of Duval Reinstated.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 24.—W. H. Dowling of Jacksonville, sheriff of Duval county, suspended by Governor Hardee in July, 1921, was reinstated by the senate late this afternoon.

Dowling was suspended July 27, 1921, following the return of an indictment against him by a federal grand jury charging that he, with other Jacksonville men, conspired to operate a gigantic liquor ring. The indictment was quashed on a technicality and a retrial indictment met with similar fate. Federal officials testifying at the hearing conducted by a senate committee declared they had not pushed the charges forward because of their inability to get any substantial evidence.

It is understood Dowling's claim will appear in the state for compensation during his suspension will approximate $22,000.

CHARGES MADE AGAINST CROP REPORTING BUREAU

Wannamaker Attacks Secretary Walker for Failure to Make Adequate Corrections.
St. Matthews, S. C., May 23.—Charges that the crop reporting bureau of the department of agriculture arbitrarily issued $500,000,000 more to its estimate of cotton harvested in 1921 and that the figures were left to stand as a basis of comparison for the crops of 1922 and 1923 were made today by J. S. Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton association, in a statement attacking Secretary Wallace for the failure of the latter to acknowledge that the crop forecasts issued last month were incorrect, as alleged by Mr. Wannamaker.

Referring to an estimate by the special committee which was called together by the department of agriculture on July 31 of this year would be $1,800,000 bales, the cotton association had declared that Dr. W. H. Mead, chief of the United States bureau of markets, had made a published statement that the estimate was at least 2,500,000 bales too great. In view of the authoritative figures compiled by the census bureau, and other reliable sources.

Nowwithstanding this unacceptable error has been officially and publicly called to the attention of the secretary of agriculture. Mr. Wannamaker continued, "he has taken no steps to correct the error in a report which was given wide publicity by his department and thousands of the people of the country under the postal frank of the government."

The make-up of the crop reporting bureau, consisting of members from northern and eastern states, should be changed, Mr. Wannamaker asserted, as at least two men from the cotton belt.

100,000 HAVE LEFT GEORGIA.

More than 11,000 Farms Have Been Abandoned. Most of Those Who Have Deserted the Farms Have Left State.

Athens, Ga.—One hundred persons have left farm Georgia since last January 1, according to figures compiled by county agents throughout Georgia, grouped at the state college of agriculture, and made public today by Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the league of colored farmers, who according to the figures, who abandoned more than 11,000 farms.

Most of those who have deserted the farms have left the state, it was said. Placing the average value of products of the abandoned farms at less than $500 a year, the total amount of loss in production in less than five months has been approximately $6,000,000. The actual number of acres that have left Georgia within the five months is estimated to be 68,960, and attributing to each of these the ability to make one dollar a year, the productive value of the population that has left Georgia in five months would in the course of a year amount to more than $25,000,000, Dr. Soule stated.

In obtaining the figures made public, Dr. Soule stated that agents in 60 counties made actual surveys, and with these as a basis the complete estimates for the entire 160 counties in the state were obtained. In the 60 counties it was found 25,883 negroes and 6,871 white persons had left the farms, and that 4,410 farms had been deserted.

EYE KNOWLEDGE.

Thomas A. Edison thinks that the children of today's children will get nearly all their school learning from moving pictures. Experiments with school children have convinced him that 85 per cent of all knowledge is received through the eye, and for this purpose the moving picture is 100 per cent efficient.

"I made one experiment," he says, "with a lot of pictures to teach children chemistry. I got 12 children and asked them to write down what they had learned from the pictures. I was amazed that such a complicated subject was readily grasped by them to a large extent through pictures. The part of the pictures they did not understand I did over and over again until they finally understood the entire picture."

Undoubtedly moving pictures are going to play a large part in education hereafter, but it may be said that Mr. Edison's estimate of the final value of this method, the eye, in human beings, learns more readily than the ear, but this is not necessarily so with every subject.

Systems of knowledge used to be taught and handed down, through many generations, by the spoken word alone. This was true of Homer's poems and other remarkable works later reduced to writing. Messengers in olden times were trained to retain and repeat long messages without error. "Learning by heart" still occupies a very important place in schools. Some people remember sounds better than pictures—spoken words better than printed words or written words—though that is unusual.

Another factor Mr. Edison seems to overlook when he suggests that the movie screen will replace the blackboard. On the blackboard the child writes, and learns through the hand as well as the eye, reinforcing his knowledge. Napoleon, when he met a person for the first time, would look at him, pronounce his name and write the name on a piece of paper and throw it away. Thus he never forgot people.

MINNOWS AND MALARIA.

Two hundred top minnows have been sent from the United States to Palestine to fight malaria. The minnow combats this disease by the simple process of eating mosquito larvae ceaselessly and thoroughly. Of course the minnows have to be helped a little by human effort, such as cleaning up possible mosquito-breeding places where the finny-fighters themselves cannot live—in cans full of stagnant rain water, and so on.

The success of this expeditionary campaign is confidently expected because a similar victory has already been won by minnows in another part of the world. The director of public health of Peru announces that his country is now entirely free from yellow fever as a result of the indefatigable efforts of a quarter of a million little fish sent there by the Rockefeller Foundation during the last epidemic of the disease. There have now been no known cases of yellow fever in Peru since July, 1921. Official announcement has been withheld nearly two years but people were convinced there was no lurking case in any small out-of-the-way village.

It has often been said that Providence works in a mysterious way when performing wonders, but so does man. Who would have thought that tank loads of minnows, shipped to distant lands, would help to eradicate such dire human scourges as malaria and yellow fever?

THE DANGER PASSES.

A month ago the rank of the business revival led many here to observers to fear that another period of inflation had begun and that the industrial and commercial activity in which the whole nation was rejoicing would be of short duration. Now Washington's word is that the danger has passed and, oddly enough, that the credit for dispelling it goes to a mild, but widespread buyers' strike.

The building situation holds the key. When business began to come back there was a rush to build, for the nation's housing shortage had become acute since the war and most cities reported a lack of adequate apartments. Material prices and wages soared accordingly.

People were making more money than in many months. Manufacturers were busy and unemployment had ceased to be a problem. But the public, wiser it may be that builders' material dealers or building trade workers, sensed the danger. Those who needed homes concluded to rent a while longer. Those who planned apartments or factory expansion concluded they could wait. The warning of their decision ran all down the line.

New Treasury Department officials state that the likelihood of an increased re-distribution is remote indeed and that business and financial conditions have seldom been more sound. The slight slackening of business expansion in these last weeks has made for a prosperity which may be expected to continue.

We could hardly ask better evidence that the bitter lesson of three years ago is not yet forgotten.

When, as a nation, we learn to time our buyers' strikes properly, the waves on our business charts will rise, and break, less sharply.

But we must not expect too much of human nature.

Resources of Strength.

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Capt. J. A. Hadfield of the neurological was hospital at Oxford, last written a very interesting book called "The Psychology of Power."

The gist of the book is that the chief resource of power, the real supply that we have to draw from in crises, consist in the things of the spirit and not the things of the flesh.

We generally suppose that the reservoir of energy which we tap consists of the food we eat and the air we breathe. This is the theory of the physicist.

The real scientist, however, consults psychology quite as much as physiology, and the best opinion is that the greatest supply of resources of power normally untapped is psychic rather than physical in character.

Patigue results far more from what takes place in the thought than from what takes place in the body. Captain Hadfield is advocating no thought cult, but approaches the question in the purest spirit of science. He bases his conclusion upon experiments he has actually made.

It is well known that fear often lends a man extraordinary strength. Excitement, anger or any other strong emotion enormously increases one's physical powers.

It is also a matter of common knowledge that an overmastering emotion can actually make itself invulnerable, but in physical manifestations such as a rush of blood to the veins, strong breathing, quivering nerves, tense muscles and the like. It is also known that under certain conditions an extraordinary expenditure of energy can be sustained without equivalent fatigue. Indeed, fatigue consequent on great exertion seems to bear no necessary relation to the amount of energy expended.

It is the mind that becomes flaged. It is the soul that gives out. Captain Hadfield's volume ought to be of much importance to teachers and preachers everywhere. He says: "I have tried to show that the experience of applied psychology, especially psycho-therapy, points to the conclusion that we are living far below the limits of our possible selves, and that there are open to us resources of power available through the right use of our instincts, which, if directed to noble purposes, will free our minds from those worries, anxieties and morbid fatigues which spoil our lives, and will free us for a life of energy and strength."

IMPERIALISM!

Work like slaves, walk, eat corn bread three times a day and drink water. According to my judgment this world is suffering more from the effects of man made religion than from anything else under the sun. A few years ago a tremendous lot of pledges with strings tied to every one of them, were secured from certain people, to raise money amounting to millions of dollars to be used for this and that purpose. But something happened and, wretchedly with common sense eyes know what that something was. In the face of it all I noticed in a religious—God save the mark—periodical a suggestion signed by about 40 preachers to this effect: in Christianity, sell your boys, cows and chickens and give the money to a cross fund. Just stop to think of the lack of consideration for the women and children in a suggestion of this kind. All the ministers of the gospel in the world cannot make me believe that the Holy Word of God teaches any such rot. On the other hand I believe with all my mind, soul and body that these frequent and unreasonable appeals for money from the pulpit are largely responsible for the unrest, discontent and divorce existing in this world today. [This thing of trying to make people believe that they are going to find by the lightning-Express route unless they sell everything they have got and give it away, is simply man made religion, and absolutely false. It seems to me that many of the Churches of today have been converted into Money Raising institutions and instead of having tender, sympathetic pastors for those churches all that is left is cold blooded would be confiscation of property. This overvaluing of the people on the part of some of the spiritual advisers, because they finally refuse to hand over everything they have is clearly to appeal to the selfishness of the people to stimulate the growth of the Christian religion in the hearts of men. Educated brains without better culture to back them are doing as much or more to retard the progress of civilization as illiterate Italy.]

Imperialism is seeking more and less than the inevitable government under which we are living today, and unless the gains of man arises to the point where it can successfully meet and cope with this dreadful monster a revolution will rock this earth on which we live and move and have our being to cause the years of the dark blue ocean.
