BIG FIRE IN ATLANTA

Finally Wins Its Battle Against Fire. After About Seventy-Five Blocks Have Been Destroyed, City Under Martial Law With Relief Plans

Atlanta, May 21.—Fire that swept through approximately 75 blocks in the residence section of Atlanta from Decatur street northward to Ponce de Leon avenue, late today caused a loss that Mayor Chandler estimated at $3,600,000. One woman, Mrs. Bessie Gooden, died of burns and 60 were treated for minor hurts.

From 2,500 to 3,000 homes were destroyed, according to Mayor Chandler, and others who viewed the fire zone around the burned district late tonight. The homes ranged from flimsy negro cabins to handsome residences along Ponce de Leon avenue, valued at $10,000 or more each. Many homes in this beautiful residence section were destroyed by dynamite which finally consumed the city after the fire department aided by fire fighters from a half dozen neighboring cities had failed.

The burned area was guarded throughout the night by Georgia constables and members of the official reserve companies. At Fort McPherson, local police duty in the night turned guard duty over to Col. Charles R. Noyes, U. S. A., in command.

There were few reports of looting and the only arrest made up to late at night was that of a man charged with attempting to steal a piano. Throughout the burned area, which in some places was only a block wide and in others ranged to several blocks, hundreds of fires smoldered long after midnight. The wind that blew in the early afternoon swept the flames over the roofs of water that fire fighters threw up, had died down late tonight, however, and Mayor Chandler and Fire Chief Cody expressed the opinion that there was no further danger. One reason that the fire gained such headway was that firemen were fighting a blaze in West End, a residence section across town from the big fire, that broke out shortly after noon. There were several other small fires in the afternoon and these led to reports of incendiary.

"Germany," he heard everywhere and tonight the flames might be incendiary," I have made a thorough examination of the entire section," Mayor Chandler said, in reply to this, "and I can positively state this fire is not incendiary origin."

The mayor and members of the Chamber of Commerce arranged a mass meeting of business men for tomorrow to raise a fund for the relief of the Red Cross and Associated Charities housed scores at the Auditorium army, in churches and private homes. Contributions were made to furnish breakfast for 5,000.

Thousands of homeless persons tonight were being fed and housed in the Auditorium army, the negro Old Fellows' hall and in hundreds of private homes.

For six hours dynamite was used to clear the way for the fight. Fighting apparatus sent from other cities was of some aid and will be of more aid after more of the incendiary fires are put out.

Only one death had been reported today. Mrs. Gooden died of shock after her home burned. Sixty injured persons were taken to hospitals.

THREE THOUSAND IN CHESTER COUNTY SUBJECT TO DRAFT

It is estimated that between 2,000 and 3,000 citizens of Chester County will register on June 5th, the date set by President Wilson for the registration of all male citizens between the ages of 21 and 30, inclusive.

The population of Chester County in 1910 was 29,225, over half of which were negroes. Since that time there has been a material increase in the population of the county at Great Falls, which is all white, and the population of the county is practically the same as between white and colored.

According to figures furnished to the governor the registering of men between the ages of 21 and 30 inclusive, will mean that Chester County should be about equally divided between white and colored.

Mr. Milner, of Atlanta, Ga., assistant director of the Southern Division of all these chapters, made an address at the Opera House last night.

Mr. Milner outlined the origin of the Red Cross and gave his personal idea of what the Red Cross would be called upon to do in the present war. The Red Cross is desirous of securing at least one Union member in the United States.

Becoming a member does not place any obligations on a party, other than the payment of one dollar per year. However, an opportunity will be offered any who may desire to serve in an active capacity on the battle fields, or to speak, trained nurses will be needed in the base hospitals and those who might desire to become nurses will be given training to fit them. Others will be given the front to do letter writing for the wounded soldiers; others for reading, interpreting, etc. Those who wish to serve at home can do so by making bandages and various other things which will be needed in the hospitals.

The local chapter, which has been organized a short time, will soon make a canvas for members.

JAS. S. McKEOWN, President.
Z. V. DAVIDSON, Secretary.

The above report was submitted, examined, and approved by the Directors at their annual meeting, May 12th, 1917.

The Directors were all well pleased with the showing made by the Association last year. Also at the exceedingly low cost of the insurance. You will note that we paid four claims. This amount, together with all operating expenses, cost our members but an assessment of ONLY FIFTY CENTS PER HUNDRED! We have never heard of an insurance company doing a legitimate business upon a cheaper basis. Have you?

Business written in 1915-16 $109,277.00
Business written in 1916-17 198,006.00
Increase for last year 88,629.00

The Association is strictly mutual. The more members, therefore, the less the cost of insurance. We need you, you need the protection. No large salaries—No big reserve fund—One assessment, once a year. You cannot afford to be without it and you can afford it, if taken in the Mutual. Why pay $30.00 per thousand when you can get the same protection at actual cost? Do not wait until your crop is destroyed to think about this matter. We cannot prevent hail, but we can reimburse you for the loss sustained by it. We give you big protection at little cost. We save you money! We save you worry. We save your crop in case of hail. For further particulars call on our agent in your neighborhood, or write to the Secretary. Do this today.

GREAT BRITAIN'S LIQUOR PROBLEM

In considering by what means the liquor trade may be best regulated in the interest of the nation, the British Government turns instinctively to the preliminary method of purchase by the state. Primarily it is a question of how the transfer shall be financed, and what measure of compulsion the public houses and their backers shall receive in return for their consent. Anything like a summary suppression or seizure of the liquor trade is a development of the war policy is wholly foreign to its general policy. It assumes that it is dealing with vested interests, whose rights in a sense are superior to the Government's even in war-time and which are entitled to exact full indemnity if forced to quit business.

Nothing could be further from the practice of this country in handling the "liquor-traffic problem" if the Government is to set time to its feet to adopt Prohibition by amending the Constitution, that ends the matter. It suddenly closes all saloons within a limited area under the local legislation, so that a change they make will where State laws permit, and the liquor-dealer and his landlord have no redress. The brewers, distillers and the liquor-cellar can obtain no damages because they have suffered losses or their places of business have been closed. They have no choice but to submit to the enforcement of the law, with no consolation payment for the property they have been compelled to forfeit.

It is this radical difference between American and British theories as to the excise system that makes it difficult for people in this country to understand the reluctance with which the British Government approaches any plan for the regulation of the liquor trade.—New York World.

RAILWAY HEADS GIVE THEIR SERVICE

Help Government Organize Engineer Regiments for Service in France.

Washington, May 20.—Means by which railroad executives will help the war department organize the regiments of railway engineers to be raised for immediate service in France was announced tonight by Fairfax Harrison, chairman of the American Railway Association's war board.

A committee of six railway heads has been appointed to cooperate with army officers and all executives have been urged to release certain of their highly trained employees for the army and to give immediate attention to the organization. The committee includes H. W. Miller, resident executive officer Southern Railway, who will cooperate with Maj. J. S. Sewell at Atlanta.

"The French railways are badly run," says the war board's appeal to railway executives. "They need more for less complete rehabilitation. France has no men who can be trained for this work. She wants all her men at the front."

"Before we can train them to go into the trenches we can supply France's railroad wants and we can do it practically immediately. Any men we need must be soldiers, and it will be necessary for the railway forces to enter the army."

"We propose to make an five-connection roadheads of six companies each to do this rehabilitation. Each regiment will have an engineer officer of the United States army as its commander. The engineer officers will be made up of railroad men, except that the commissary will be provided by the United States army. The lieutenant colonel will be a chief engineer of a railroad or some one else of similar experience. The captains will be taken from the regular maintenance of way, the lieutenants from supervisory or roadmasters and the noncommissioned officers from track and bridge foremen. The privates will be track laborers."

WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN?

To Be Shown At Dreamland Thursday—What The Critics and

"A smashing, daring subject done in a smashing, daring way, best described as 'Where Are My Children?' is the new motion picture with Tyrone Power in the leading part. Tyrone Power, who has pictured a wonderfully dramatic story amid surroundings of luxury and wealth, has represented an audience that we have never before pronounced it a great picture. The picture is on the highest plane. Assigned, worthy and of the prescient presentation of a tragedy that should be near the heart of the audience. It will make women think, and think hard. It will make men look before they leap. It will act as a warning to young girls."—New York Journal.

"The producers directly responsible for the picture are to be thanked. Much to commend in the picture; much to excite earnest discussion. A serious contribution to the discussion of an interesting subject."—Moving Picture World.

"Four women were overcome yesterday morning at the opening exhibition of 'Where Are My Children?' a photograph on birth-control at the Globe Theatre."—New York Herald.

To the credit of the producers' it is said that the treatment of the subject, while daring, is not obscene. The dramatic elements of the story are well handled. Tyrone Power and Marie Walbrook are with effective restraint leaving an impression of power."—Columbia College (New York) Spectator.

"Where Are My Children?" is a very powerful and gripping picture drama. I am glad to have witnessed it and am proud to commend it. It deals with a most difficult matter in a manner of utmost dignity. If the special type of inquiry which it suggests is anywhere put as prevalent as is claimed, the public should have the opportunity to witness the presentation."—C. H. Parkhurst.

Washington, D. C. April 25th, 1915 Universal Film Mfg. Co.—Your picture, 'Where Are My Children?' is a modern film and should be seen by every eye in the world ever since years ago. It is great for truth and proper knowledge.—William J. Stone, United States Senator.
