TUESDAY, MAY 23.

During the past year there have been eliminated on the roads of the State system in South Carolina for 'drive grade' roads as well as improvement has been effected either by relocation or by providing bridges or under-passes.

The News agrees with the Columbia State when that paper editorially states that it "has no pleasure in expressing its regret that Governor Cooper will retire from office, now fit to garden and to fish, and then serving long terms and charged with grave crimes."

No doubt Governor Cooper's action in this matter was governed by the recommendation of the pardon board, which consisted of the chief judges, solicitors, citizens, etc., and to say, however, according to the opinion of the pardon board, has been and continues to be, entirely too much pardoning. The wholesale pardoning of criminals has a very bad effect upon the criminal, and doubtless many men think of the probability of securing a pardon before they go to the gallows.

The News has been a Cooperator since Governor Cooper first offered for the office of Governor of South Carolina, but it regrets exceeding 18 convicts just before his retirement from the high office of Governor of South Carolina.

BAPTIST CONDEMN

VENGEANCE BY MOB

Failure to Give Trial Undermines Law. Convention Calls on Will Hays to Clean Up Moving Picture Business.

Jacksonville, May 22.—Hob row was denounced at the closing session of the Southern Baptist convention here today both by speakers and in the adoption of the report of the commission on social service which declared that every person charged with crime is entitled to a fair trial and that "any other procedure is mob law and if adopted generally will ultimately undermine and overthrow the government."

"We can not too strongly urge upon our pastors and churches the importance of not becoming allied with or giving approval and support to any movement or organization which violates or tends to violate these sacred and fundamental principles," continued the report. There was no specific reference to any organization either in the report or in debate.

The report requested of President Harding that the government cooperate in taking steps against Turkey, Race track gambling, the opium trade and violation of the Sabbath name in for expressions of disapproval in the report which asked a strict censorship of each state for motion pictures and voiced the hope that Will Hays will exercise what is supposed to be his great power for a thorough clean up in the whole picture business.

William Jennings Bryan was invited to address the convention in Kansas City next year and Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the convention, was named to head the delegation to the Stockholm Baptist conference in July, 1923. The convention also instructed its committee on hospitals to report next year, what is being done towards religious training of student nurses in hospitals.

"Other resolutions stated, 'We express our appreciation of full reports on the convention sent from all news agencies and especially thank the country by the extension of the Associated Press.'"

These resolutions and one deprecating the hearing of a speaker at one of the sessions were adopted preceding the social service report. Debate on that was lengthy and during it the Rev. J. J. Taylor, D. D., of Lexington, Ky., a vice president of the convention, delivered an address against "Moble Rule" in general and the recent burning of negroes. Congressmen W. D. Upshaw of Georgia and other speakers joined in speaking against lawless outbreaks without going into specific instances.

"There is no good in the motion picture," declared the Rev. W. R. Hunt of Somerset, Ky., who with other messengers sought to amend the report in order to register disapproval of the motion picture business and not to deal with reformers," but A. J. Barton of Alexandria, La.,

TIE SLEUTHS CHECK NECKWEAR CHOICES

By Jane Compton
New York, May 18.—If when you are in New York you see a man on the corner gazing fixedly at your necktie, he isn't figuring out a way to hitch your scarf pin. He is only making deductions, and deciding whether you are a bank president or a street sweeper. In short he is a sleuth.

Dozens of them were posted today along Fifth avenue, and at important street intersections as well as in the lobbies of the principal hotels. They were put there by the Associated Men's Neckwear Industries, Incorporated. They were put there to carry out the theory that you can tell a man by the tie he wears. They will take a census which will be of immense value to tie manufacturers in the future.

"Red and green plaid," muttered a sentinel at Forty-second street and Broadway. "That's the eighth I've seen and seven of them on little neckties." Whereupon he entered this important information in his little notebook.

"They're wearing dark brown herringbone," reported another at Thirty-fourth street and the Avenue. "Scarlet means an insurance agent; green a professor; black and red and cream musical expert."

He blinked rapidly as three maudlin passed in quick succession. "They're wearing a sea green tie."

The average New Yorker, it appears, goes in for a dark silk tie with a fine stripe of some plebeian color. The most popular tie of the moment is a narrow four-inch band is more popular than the bow tie, even though summer and the scarf pin appear they are inconspicuous for the solemn truth is that scarf pins on New York men are as scarce as gold beads on New York women.

The second most popular tie, especially for younger men, is the polka-dot blue and white in first choice. Brown and white comes second, with green and white third. "A tie is a social approach," the scarf pin appears they are inconspicuous for the solemn truth is that scarf pins on New York men are as scarce as gold beads on New York women.

"Bright colors and temperaments go together," said a downtown sleuth. "The one thing I have observed since I began checking up on this class," he added and began enumerating the various professions in which the various owners of the ties probably belonged.

"Just then a man passed with a tie of a color I had never observed since I began checking up on this class," he added and began enumerating the various professions in which the various owners of the ties probably belonged.

"Him?" he repeated, not without a sneer. "He is a very professional, poor chap, he's just her husband."

REPUBLICANS IN ROW OVER POSTMASTERSHIP

Washington, May 18.—Republicans are in a row over the postmastership at Canton. This morning F. R. Messer, the democratic incumbent, wired in his resignation. Two Republicans are after the job, C. F. Smathers and R. C. Bradley. Smathers is said to have the best chance, with postal officials ready to name him. The local committee is up in arms and is trying to get Bradley. The services of Representative Stephens in the matter were asked by one of his friends in Canton. Stephens referred the matter to Mr. Weaver. The committee is on the way here to protest against Smathers.

MARYLAND PASTOR FAVORS KISSING

Rockville, Md. May 18.—Outward demonstrations of love are of material benefit in making what love permanent, some experts to the contrary notwithstanding. Ask Rev. Dr. P. W. Rowland Wagner, he knows.

Dr. Wagner is pastor of the First Baptist church here. He is affectionately known in Washington and Baltimore as the "marrying pastor." A recd of 676 couples in four years—most of which "stuck" gives him his place in the marrying hall of a divine institution, but he makes it very plain that the interested parties are equally responsible for the matrimonial voyage to be a smooth one.

All Rockville today was discussing with keen relish a few genuine truths which the genial minister spilled last night at a church session. He took occasion to hand out good advice to both married and single.

"Watch your step, girls," he suggested, "a marriage license is not a permanent meal ticket. Neither is it a credit account at the dry goods store or the dressmaker's establishment."

"You have no need to be ashamed of your affection. Kissing is all right. It is one of the finest institutions leading up to the wedding, and it is the tie that binds after the ring is on the bride's finger."

"If kissing was not sanitary the doctors would all abstain. If kissing was not legal the lawyers would abstain. If kissing was not good, it is certain that the pastors would abstain. Do any of them abstain and refrain? You're right, they do not."

"If there was a machine to measure the diers kisses that I have witnessed since I moved to Rockville and have watched right here in the parsonage it would have been broken long ago."

"If all depends on the couple themselves if they wedded life is to be one of unalloyed bliss. Before the girls get married there are a lot of things they make with their own hands. This is not always so afterward."

"Have you help the man who marries a woman who can't cook? Take a tip from me, girls, feed him and feed him well. If you do so you always will remain on the right side of the counter. A man must eat, and he must have his food properly prepared."

"As for the men, they must remember that a wife is not only a housekeeper. She is a partner in the business of life. The man who mar-

THINGS OUT OF WHACK.

There is something wrong with the business and government of a country when the agricultural industry is floundering in bankruptcy while certain special privileged financial and other lines of industry are in a condition of prosperity.

The farmers, generally, are without finances or credits and heavily involved in debt. The prices of staple farm products continue far below the cost of production even though demand has increased for such products very materially within the last six months. Union labor has generally maintained the inflated wages forced upon the country during the World War and the daily wages of such labor is being stabilized by governmental authority so far as the railroads are concerned. Union labor, engaged in the various crafts and industrial occupations, is receiving an average of from five to eight dollars for eight hour work per day. Farm laborers in the cotton belt, whether working for wages or as tenants or share-croppers, are unable to earn an average of more than fifty cents per day working on an average of twelve hours.

Railroad rates have so far been practically undisturbed by deflation because of the stabilization of such rates by Federal authority. Interest rates on loans to farmers continue as high as the law will permit to avoid the violation of usury laws.

There are so many retail merchants going into bankruptcy as retailers with creditors for ten to twenty cents on the dollar cost, that it is paralyzing the trade of those merchants who have so far been able to weather the storms of artificially enforced deflation during the past two years.

It is generally conceded by expert statisticians who have investigated the situation that the American farmers as a whole have sustained losses in the values of their farm products since the summer of 1920, aggregating the enormous total of Twelve Billion Dollars. This equals the cost of the World War to the nation. The estimated net losses of deflation to the cotton growers alone in 1920 and 1921 on the drop of the price of cotton alone, is placed at $2,300,000,000. These losses are estimated on farm products and do not include the heavy depreciation in land values and farm improvements. This construction of the law will make it imperative for farmers whose paper has been redemitted by that system to sell their cotton as soon as ginned or other products no matter whether such markets be glutted and prices below cost of production or not.

Any system of agricultural finance based upon such arbitrary rulings and enforcement will wreck the market and bankrupt the farmers. The arbitrary rulings and official dictation are not enforced by the Federal Reserve banks in any other line of business or industry. The farmers have been singled out to be made the "goat" at a time when they are in a helpless financial condition and unable to protect themselves. Rehabilitation of American cotton will be impossible under these conditions and Congress should, without delay, enact an agricultural credit system absolutely divorced from the Federal Reserve bank.

The first week of the operation of the Chester Creamery netted little more than 900 pounds of butter. The past week we are informed more than 1,000 pounds was made. This would indicate that patronage with the creamery is picking up at a lively rate and it is hoped that it will continue. Those in charge of the management of the creamery have previously stated that the success of the enterprise depends upon the amount of cream furnished, and that they anticipate no trouble in selling the output. We understand that the local demand for Chester Creamery butter is increasing.

The News is glad to report to its readers that the Chester Ice Cream Company, one of Chester's new enterprises, reports that they are enjoying good business and expect a substantial increase as the weather becomes warmer. Those who are first informed on the subject have no idea of the amount of cream sold in a community and it is surprising when they see just how much cream people eat. If Chester people will continue to patronize their home industries it will mean much to every one in the community. "All things being equal, demand Carolina products."

A matter of considerable local interest is the fact that the new modern and commodious Baptist church at Great Falls will be opened next Sunday, a special program being prepared for that occasion. The church is general secretary, will be present as well as a number of other ministers from various sections. An excellent program has been arranged for both morning and evening services. An evangelist meeting in the new church, will begin the first Sunday in June, the preaching to be done by Dr. F. H. Martin, pastor of the First Baptist church at Florence. Mr. Frank E. McCravy, of Laurens, will have charge of the singing. The public is cordially invited to all of the services. With the opening of this church Great Falls has one of the newest and most modern churches in this section and one which the community should feel very proud of.

What came near being a serious accident occurred Sunday afternoon when little Caldwell Barron, small son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Barron, climbed into his father's car which was standing in front of their residence on Oakland avenue, and with little four-year-old Dorothy Barron, who was in the car with him, decided to take a ride. In some way he managed to start the car, which ran into a car standing in front of the Willis home. The little fellow was thrown out, and sustained a painful cut on his head, which received immediate attention at the Fennell Infirmary, it being necessary to take several stitches in the wound. Had it not been for the Willis car standing directly in front of the Barron car and only a few feet away, the result would probably have proved serious—Rock Hill Record.

With returns received from all States, the United States Bureau of Public Roads reports that the 1921 vehicle registration for the year 1921 totalled 10,465,012. This represents an increase of more than a million over the 1920 figures, or a number equal to the total number at the beginning of 1918. The greatest increases in registration were in industrial sections, the agricultural sections in general showing a smaller amount of increase. No State reported a registration less than the 1920 figures. The total amount collected at four various kinds amounted to $122,478,654. It has been expected that the registrations this year will show an increase of 10 per cent in the rate of increase than the figures reported above. The increase this year continues approximately as in the previous year, but has been maintained for the last several years and shows no indication of the near approach of the condition of saturation in the supply of motor vehicles.

ELECTRIC SHOCK KILLS YORK MAN

Fellow Employee Turns on Current while at Work. One Killed at War Veteran, Meets Instant Death at Oil Mill.

York, May 22.—Robert Quinn, 34 years old, and yard superintendent of the Cotton Oil Company, met a sudden death here this afternoon when an employee misdirected command of his and turned the electric current on a wire he was adjusting. Five hundred and fifty volts passed through his body causing death within a few moments. The accident occurred at the ice making plant where two employees had just run a ground wire. Noticing that the wire was only loosely wrapped around the stake, Mr. Quinn stepped down to tighten it. He called for those inside to draw in the noise made by the machinery his words were misunderstood by Will Adams, an 18 year old employee, who turned on the current. The fact that Mr. Quinn was standing on wet ground made the charge all the more deadly.

Mr. Quinn was a veteran of the World War and was widely and favorably known. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lucia Reid Ewart Quinn, to whom he was married ten months ago, his father, Felix Quinn, a sister and six brothers, two of the latter being Sheriff Fred E. Quinn and Deputy Sheriff D. T. Quinn.

PATRONS AND PUBLIC INVITED TO ATTEND

Invited To Attend Exhibits at Withers Building, Tuesday Afternoon, Four Until Six o'clock.

The patrons and the public in general are most cordially invited to attend the Annual Training and Domestic Science exhibit, Tuesday afternoon, May 23rd from five to 7:30 o'clock, at the Withers Building. I want to especially urge the fathers of the boys and girls at school to the Mothers' meeting to see these young people have done the work in these departments. We feel proud of their work, and want you to see just what has been done. If you wish to call your attention to the fact that we have added Mechanical Drawing to our course of study in the eleventh grade, and I want you to ask to see some of this work. These boys and girls have worked every afternoon for the past two weeks getting ready for this exhibit. They have done their own work, and have done many hours of extra work in order that this exhibit might be for your appreciation. Now, won't you encourage them by your presence?

A WELL-BEHAVED CROWD.

The behavior of the thousands or more Shriners gathered in Rock Hill last Thursday is above criticism. They were a fine bunch of good fellows, having a good time, but they behaved themselves like the gentlemen they are.

There was not even one unpleasant incident noted throughout the lively day. These men were here for innocent pleasure, and they got plenty of it.

It is a source of pleasure to us to note the fact that the visitors were kind in their praise of the genuine hospitality accorded them by the people of Rock Hill. They take away with them the warmest recollections of the good people of a good town—Rock Hill Record.

THE FACTS OF THE BUSI-

NESS SITUATION TODAY

Stevenson E. Ward, Vice-President National Bank of Commerce in New York, in "Commerce Month," the bank's magazine, for June, 1922.

Business is better. The depression which began in the United States in 1920 and continued throughout 1921 has passed, and substantial progress has already been made toward normal activity and a new business cycle has been entered upon. Adverse conditions, as the coal strike, may temporarily retard the upward swing. Other factors, such as widespread crop failures, might even result in recession for a time, but no circumstances can alter the fact that there is now an unassailable basis for confidence in slow and steady expansion of the commercial and financial activities of this country.

They have for confidence is fivefold: First, there is plenty of money to be had at reasonable rates both for short-time and long-time requirements. Second, stocks of finished goods and of raw materials have been reduced to reasonable proportions. Third, commodity prices are stabilizing. Fourth, conditions in basic industries, including agriculture, are improving, and production is expanding. Fifth, gains are now confined to the United States. Conditions are improving throughout the world. Some countries constitute exceptions to this statement, but their bearing on the international situation is not great enough to alter the fact that the world outlook is better, with the United States and Canada in the forefront of improvement.

Rates in the various sections of the American money market are now fairly comparable with pre-war rates when business activity was normal. If certain periods are excepted when money became redundant because of defects in the banking and currency system of the United States, since largely eliminated by the Federal Reserve act. The satisfactory position of the Federal reserve system and of the member banks is evidence of the solid financial foundation for the business expansion which is now in its initial stages.

If improvement in the money market and in the banking system were restricted to the United States doubts might properly be entertained as to its permanence. It is unquestionably true that conditions are more nearly normal in the United States than elsewhere, with the problem of the extension of Canada. It is likewise true that the legacy of politico-financial troubles left by the war has placed many countries in a very difficult position, with disorganized public finances and depreciated currencies. Depreciated exchanges are the international expression of these difficulties.

It is easy to exaggerate the evils of this situation, however. As a matter of fact, a large volume of fairly profitable foreign trade has been carried on ever since 1918, despite the difficulties encountered. Moreover, although some agencies may never return to their former gold equivalents, the exchanges of those countries in which currency inflation has ceased are now fluctuating within a narrow range. Certain evidence of the return to normal in the international money market is the gradual decline in money rates everywhere, excepting only some countries of central and eastern Europe and the Far East where political and other conditions are as yet unstable. Money rates in London are again practically at the pre-war level, and British war bonds have crossed par. International monetary and credit transactions can now be carried on between most countries of the world in the normal proper way.

Added evidence of the passing of the post-war uncertainties is the international situation as regards gold. On March 15, 1922, the United States Treasury refunded the issuance of gold certificates on ordinary checks. The reappearance of gold and of gold certificates in circulation will have an entirely negligible effect. The first step is nevertheless important—the last significant currency situation in the United States growing out of the war has ceased to exist. The reestablishment of an unrestricted market for gold in London is being discussed, and the question of a return to the gold standard is also being considered in Sweden. The cheap money advocates in both countries are presenting the usual arguments against this course, but it seems not unlikely that it will be taken in the not far distant future in most countries, the currencies of which are near enough to par with the dollar to make such a step practicable.

The history of preceding depression has shown that when ample credit becomes available the investment market gradually improves, active speculation develops, and production slowly expands. With occasional slight recessions, the bond market has been rising since July, 1921, and has made fairly rapid gains during recent months, with a large volume of transactions. Activity in stocks first became noticeable in October, 1921, and in recent weeks a boom market has prevailed. On the evidence of the phenomena related to financial liquidation, however, the conclusion is clear that no new cycle of business expansion is under way.

SWEET-AWAY IN AVALANCHE.

Tragedy in American Northwest Graphically Described by Army Officer Who Led Party.

An American officer tells a moving story of sudden and swift destruction in the Northwest. It happened on a February day, when a warm sun and a Chinook wind from the Pacific were melting the snow. All along the trail, as the officer and his party wound up the mountain side, great masses of snow seemed to vibrate. More and more they came on the officer, hoisted, how anxious the grizzly-haired old guide seemed to be. Only a narrow path had been cleared through the snow, and the 20 mules followed one another in single file.

Halfway up they came to four cabins occupied by miners. Three brown men in red shirts stood at the door of one of the cabins talking as the party filed past. Stated were exchanged, but the officer's party had no occasion to halt.

They had gone about 300 feet and were about to make a turn in the trail, when the leader halted to look back. The guide was ahead—sheer second. The line of mules was strung out for a quarter of a mile, and on foot among them were five packers, all halted. The officer heard no signal of danger, no cry of alarm. With the swiftness of thought the snow, 500 feet up the mountain, began to move. The width of the avalanche was about half a mile, and it moved very rapidly. There were thousands of tons of snow, hundreds of trees, hundreds of great boulders.

In a few moments it was all over, and a wind of dust and snow was hung over the spot. It drove off down the mountain after two or three minutes, and the officer looked for the pack train.

Not a man nor a mule had escaped. He looked for the cabins and found them all disappeared. Indeed, the very trail had been swept down into the valley a mile below, and almost across it. For a space of a mile wide there was neither tree nor shrub—not a yard of earth. The avalanche had ground its way down to the rocks—New York Herald.

YEAR WITHOUT A SUMMER.

In 1816 there was no summer in the United States.

Snow fell every month of the year.

Since that time 1816 has been generally called "poverty year" because practically all crops were total failures. Others have called it "eighteen hundred and froze to death," and some have referred to it as "mackerel year" because so little pork was available that the people lived on fish.

Bureau says that on the seventh of June sufficient to cover the ground to the top of Mt. Washington, N. H., it was four inches deep.

At Salem, Mass., on Saturday, June 8, there was a slight fall of snow, but it was not deep enough to make good sleighing.

Along the northern portion of Massachusetts, large icicles were present, and the foliage of the forest trees was blasted by the frosts.

In Williamstown, Mass. the snow was 12 inches deep on June 8, and in Cabot, N. H., 14 inches.

John Walker, an old gentleman of 88 years, lost himself in the woods at Peacham in the snowstorm on the night of the seventh, and remained there through the night, it feet becoming so severely frost-bitten that it was necessary to amputate one of his feet.

Many people perished in the snowdrifts, birds flew into houses for shelter, and great numbers of them were found dead in the fields.

ITS NOT WHAT IT COSTS TO GET IN THE NEWS—BUT WHAT IT COSTS YOU TO STAY OUT.

What Does It Cost to Stop Advertising?

You remember James Pyle's Pearl-line. It had been advertised regularly from 1873 to 1907.

Then the trustees of the estate saw a brilliant chance to save money. They cut out advertising.

Sales dropped like a chap hammer—profits went where soapsuds and bubbles go. In 1914 Pearl-line, like Jess Willard, tried to come back. But it was too late. The business was sold at a price which is said to have covered barely the value of the machinery and inventory.

Moral: A business will grow as long as it advertises.

A salesforce will thrive as long as it TRIES.

You can't make progress against the current unless you keep rowing. But the harder you row, the faster you go.

How much will The News' readers spend in your store?

Doesn't the answer to that question depend upon you?

Advertise—means to sell.

Not to advertise usually means to fail.
