 FRIDAY JUNE 11,
 WHAT WE MAY EXPECT

A great many people are waiting patiently for a panic that will not come. There may be, in fact, some indications that there will be, a certain sobering in expenditure and a readjustment of finance and industry. With the passing of income spending there will be lower prices, with the readjustment of industry a not unlikely lowering of wages in some trades and among the unskilled. Panic, with its crashing of banks and its row upon row of business failures, is all but impossible, if for no other reason than that it has been so long awaited. A considerable industrial depression is not impossible. It rests on one factor and one factor only, but the history of American panics shows that the present gives no evidence of the causes of a panic. In every one there has been an era of overproduction, followed by a sudden money shortage and drastic restriction of credit. The present trouble, industrially, is underproduction with attendant high prices induced by several factors, namely, labor shortage, the general and in most cases unaccountable slackness of labor, and transportation difficulties. Financially, there is a somewhat inflated currency and rather more highly inflated credit. There has been for some months a gradual restriction of credit, part of it applied scientifically by the Federal Reserve Board through the banks, part of it a natural result of high interest rates. Thus both the factors that ordinarily bring about panics are absent. An industrial depression is another matter. Under existing widespread underproduction, it can only come about from one cause, the breakdown of the railway, resulting in a raw material and coal shortage, and collection of pay.

There is some possibility of this during the next winter. The discouraging feature is that the encouraging feature is that the summer months, fully understand the possibility. Therefore, unlike other summers where trouble was pool-pool, it is not possible, for the roads and the manufacturers to take every possible mean to forestall difficulties.

Co-operation will be necessary, between industries, roads, mines, labor and the government. It should not be difficult to obtain this, once the importance of this is well understood. Dearborn Independent.

A decided change in public buying temper is given as the reason for retail prices cutting in a representative business conditions of the Federal Reserve Agent to the Federal Reserve Board, in New York, it says, three factors had a hand in price reductions—general shortening of credit made it difficult to carry stocks, railway congestion compelled merchants to unload, and the demand for better points and production in some lines overtook demand, notably in textiles. The basic production cost has not fallen, it reports, and will not fall till the price of raw material comes down and the labor cost is reduced by increased efficiency or lower wages.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO PASS ON QUESTIONS
 Washington, June 9.—Twelve proposed principles for the government of American industrial relations were today submitted for a referendum vote to more than 1,300 industrial and commercial organizations comprising the membership of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The propositions were drafted by a committee composed of the board of directors of the chamber headed by William Butler Worth, a manufacturer of Maline, Ill., former chairman of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association. This committee was appointed after the adjournment of the first industrial conference held under call by President Wilson to consider the principles presented by the employers' group in the conference.

The proposals are intended to include the fundamentals of employment relations.

SAYS SHOULD PRODUCE MORE

Wilksburg, S. C., June 8, 1920.
 Why-why the devil around the stump and never get down to facts and figures about solving the high price of living. First, let us take note of what Mr. Clason, United States commissioner of Education says about the educated people. On the farms only half of them can read or write. So if the uneducated people are the most prosperous people, we are on the right road to solve the high price of living. If they are not we are going backwards and upon then we will hit the wall. Now we have been preaching better education for ten years but what have we done to better the conditions of our country schools. I don't know how the country schools are run at other places but here at Wilksburg we have made a lot of improvement. First, we voted on an extra tax for the benefit of our school. Then we voted on another extra tax to improve our school house, so our school house is up-to-date.

Now before all this happened, we had a nine months school and now our school runs about six months. So I wish some one would tell me what is the matter with our schools. Would it not be a good idea to have an limited statement published of our school money the same as our county funds.

The only way to solve the high price of living is to produce more. The only way to do that is to have more people on the farm. So how are we to do that? By better schools, second, by giving them cheap land so that they may be able to own their own homes. How are we able to do that? By stopping the land syndicates from buying up the lands of our country. No man should be allowed to own a farm unless he lives on it and cultivates the same. Show me a home owning people and I will show you a prosperous and God loving, God-fearing people who will serve their country with peace and plenty.

Now let us solve the high price of living, first by improving our country schools and our country churches and give the farmers a chance to own their own houses by passing laws to stop the land syndicates from buying all the land of the country and driving the people to the cities and cotton mills. We should also pass laws to protect the sheep raisers and chickens and eggs of our country by putting a tax of twenty-five dollars on every dog. This would bring in millions of dollars and would help to solve the high price of living.

We have millions of acres of land that could be turned into sheep pastures.

Now who will rise up against the land syndicates who are driving the farmers away from the farms and who will sooner or later fill our country with immigrants to their own destruction. The sins of the parents will follow their children to the third and fourth generation to all who do not serve him. "Go into a land which I will show thee and bring up a pure race of people." John R. Page.

OUT FOR EIGHTEEN HOURS.

Jury in Lancaster Case Falls to Rest.
 Columbia, June 9.—After being out for nearly eighteen hours, the jury trying the case of Eugene M. Lancaster, former traffic policeman of Columbia, for the murder of Newton Lorick, was unable to agree and was discharged by the judge at noon. Lancaster shot his wife and Lorick to death here last year while they were riding in Lorick's automobile. Lancaster was declared his wife's murderer last year. The Lancaster jury consisted of eleven white men and one negro man.

UNION CONCERN GROWING.

Knock Off Lever Recently Patented by Mr. Bahan.

Union, June 9.—The Bahan Textile Machinery Company, which began business here less than two years ago, but which has been very successful in the manufacture of labor saving cotton mill machinery specialties, is now enlarging its plant to meet its great and increasing demands, and has still further extensive enlargements under consideration.

William H. Bahan, Jr., head of this concern, has just had patented a knock off lever for a loom, which like several other of the specialties he is manufacturing, he is predicted will have a widespread sale among the cotton mills among the South as well as the South, for it is claimed it is just what a mill man has been looking for, and Mr. Bahan has had the idea in mind and has been working on it for the past fourteen years.

Edward W. McCune, an expert machinist, who has held high positions with big concerns in the North for twenty-five years and for the past year has been chief engineer at the Union-Buttles Mills here, will this week become superintendent of the Bahan Textile Machinery Company, and have under him a large force of first-class machinists.

A few weeks ago this concern acquired the Union Iron Foundry and expects in the immediate future will add a moderately equipped wood working department.

product of a large concern that for the past fourteen years have been having their work done in Philadelphia.

Former Chester Girl Marries.

The following article appeared in The Columbia State of yesterday:

The many friends of Miss Finckley Lee Estes, who has just passed her final examinations at the law school of the University of Pennsylvania, had will receive her degree of Bachelor of law next Wednesday, will learn with interest that she is to be married today in New York to Ernest Glantzberg, a wealthy New Yorker, who is a native of Sweden. Mr. Glantzberg is the inventor and owner of the typhon cooling system which is in general use in theaters and other public buildings and is a man of social and business prominence in New York.

Miss Estes is a native of Chester, this state, has held several important business positions in Columbia, the last one being assistant to the secretary of the federal land bank, which position she resigned last fall to resume the study of law which she had discontinued for a year. She is recognized as one of the foremost superior intellect and of remarkable strength of character and it is not surprising to those who know her to hear she will marry a man who has a profession and will open a law office in New York in the fall. Her wedding was originally planned for the 16th, the day of the bride's graduation, but was moved up to the 10th on account of the fact that the bridegroom's sister, Miss Elizabeth Glantzberg of Stockholm, and his friends, Count Malcolm Hamilton, captain of the First Royal Life Guard of Sweden, and Countess Anna Hamilton, who have been visiting are obliged to sail for Sweden on the 11th. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. James S. Moffatt, D. D., president of Erskine college, from which institution Miss Estes was graduated with honors a few years ago. The bride will be married in her university cap and gown with the legal hood of purple, and immediately after the ceremony will remove these academic garments to reveal a blue and silver, made for her in Sweden and worn on this occasion for the first time. The bride and the bridegroom's sister, who presented it to her.

Boys' Work For Chester.

The Boys' Activities Committee of the Chamber of Commerce had a conference Wednesday with R. E. McCall, Secretary of the Community Y. M. C. A., Rock Hill, S. C. and Mr. John B. Floyd, Boy Scout Executive of Charlotte, in reference to outlining the program of boys' work in Chester.

For some time the Committee has been working to establish an independent movement of this kind here, but the situation is such that in order to do it is necessary to take charge of it will be necessary to go to either one of the other of these organizations to secure a man with the proper training. The Committee also had in mind in order to carry out this definite work the renting of a suitable place for a gymnasium and other necessary equipment. It is the idea to charge on the work and give the men an opportunity to participate as well as the boys. Upon the recommendation of Mr. McCall and Mr. Floyd this plan has been abandoned, and the Committee adopted a program of work similar to that carried out in Rock Hill and Charlotte. The Boy Scout work will be made a part of the activities of the City Boy's Secretary, which will be under the auspices of Mr. McCall. The Y. M. C. A. and the Boy Scout organizations are the pioneers in this work. I order to make a success of the undertakings here it has been necessary to secure their cooperation. The representative who spoke to the Committee presented a very definite plan of what he had in mind. His effort to secure their cooperation and concisely stated what had been done at other places. The Committee went over the work of the two organizations very carefully. Mr. McCall is in the interest of the boys Chester is one of utmost importance, and is so viewed by the community leaders and church officials.

The State organizer of the Y. M. C. A. will be invited here at an early date to give the committee the benefit of his experience in the boys work and to outline the campaign for funds. The Committee is as follows: T. H. White, Chairman, L. McCall, White, H. S. Adams, R. E. Moffatt, E. R. Lucas, Geo. R. Dawson, S. M. Jones, Mr. I. C. Cross, Mrs. John G. White.

LIVER DIDN'T ACT DIGESTION WAS BAD

Says 65-year Old Kentucky Lady, Who Tells How She Was Relieved After a Few Doses of Black-Draught.

Meadowville, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Higginbotham, of this town, says: "At my age, which is 65, the liver does not act so well as when young. A few years ago, my stomach was all out of fix. I was constipated, my liver didn't act. My digestion was bad, and it took so little to upset me. My appetite was gone. I was very weak. I decided I would give Black-Draught a thorough trial as I knew it was highly recommended for liver trouble. I began taking it. I felt better after a few doses. My appetite improved and I became stronger. My bowels acted naturally and the least trouble was soon relieved with a few doses of Black-Draught."

Seventy years of successful use has made Theford's Black-Draught a standard, household remedy. Every member of every family, at times, need the help that Black-Draught can give in cleansing the system and relieving the troubles that come from constipation, indigestion, lax-liver, etc. You cannot keep well unless your stomach, liver and bowels are in good working order. Keep them that way. Try Black-Draught. It acts promptly, gently and in a natural way. If you feel sluggish, take a dose tonight. You will feel fresh tomorrow. Price 25¢ a package—One cent a dose. A COLORFUL LIFE.

We do not as a rule appreciate the blessings of colorful existence. It is that we do not always realize how blessed they are when life affords them the opportunity of enjoying its favors and of leading lives that, however uninteresting they may appear at times, are at least brimming over with promise yet to be fulfilled. Hope colors life for us with beautiful tints. It is a master painter and but for his encouragement and brightening influences we would often give up and render to disappointment. We require brightness in this life, otherwise we could not prove equal to its emergencies. We know from experience that we are in large measure victims of our moods, and when we look farther into the matter we find that the feeling that lies beneath the moods that threaten our happiness is too often founded on a misinterpretation of life's duties. We take things that do not matter too seriously, forget to pay attention to those that do matter very much in our particular sphere of usefulness. There is small need for worrying ourselves over those details of existence that loom large on our horizon today only to be lost in the mist of tomorrow. Yet many of us, unless we spend our strength and energy on such and every one of the interests that cross our paths, think that we have missed something that might have been necessary to our welfare. We become over-anxious and in worrying over the unessentials give ourselves no time to learn of those wonderful truths of life that make the best foundations upon which to build.

We pass by so much that is beautiful simply because we do not appreciate its worth. Yet, on the other hand, unless we are influenced by the beautiful in this world we are starved out of the joy of existence. We need sacrifice to enliven the grays of truth and to lift us through the period of discovering ourselves, because it is when we are trying our wings for which we are best fitted that we need all the cheer and encouragement possible. It is the young, inexperienced youth upon whom, for all his unappreciation of life's responsibilities and for all his eagerness for adventure, that disappointment at times rests the heaviest, and the lack of color which means so much to him at this stage of life may work to his disadvantage. Color is necessary to us in every phase of existence. With the people of the East it is more of an obsession and is as vital to their welfare as the air they breathe. The story of the Armenian child who found a piece of orange peel in the streets and fastened it in the folds of her waist is pathetic but not overdramatic. She was a wife of the ill-fortunes that has come to her race and although clad in the servicable gray dress provided for her by the welfare relief association she yearned for some suggestion of bright color to relieve the soberness of her attire. In just the same way life becomes too gray, and sometimes too heavy, for endurance without the comforting warmth that color and brightness always lend. We have a great deal of color all about us, it is true, but we do so unobtrusively and how to use it for our own good. We might make a study of nature in all its varied moods, with its wealth of hues, for endurance without the color which to draw color for our lives, but nature does not appeal to all persons in just the same way. We might make our pleasure, those that distract our attention from unhappy thoughts and unpleasant experiences, other sources of supply, or else we might look to our books, our pictures, our music, our friends, our countless other blessings for the richness and warmth of color necessary to enliven our lives, but all the qualities of the individual upon which we may best rely is that of hope itself. It points to the future with confidence, promising the possible, fulfilling many ambitions if only we do our part faithfully; it paints in no uncertain way pictures that we hope to make of our lives and it sets those within our hearts floods of happy interests to occupy our time and thoughts and to help us into the better way of living. We are all entitled to a colorful existence; we have the opportunity of making our individual lives bright and promising; the secret of fulfilling that opportunity lies in the way we look upon life and the use we make both of our blessings and our crosses.

No cause is assigned.

Tire Treads Improved 25%

The latest Miller triumph is a 25% grade tread. It exceeds the best rival treads today by an average of 25 per cent. This has been proved, under careful watch, by many road comparisons. The Miller Tire mileage is the talk of the day. But these new-grade treads outwear the balance of the tire.

Not one Miller Tire, built with this new tread, has ever come back with the tread gone.

These treads do not vary. Every day the Miller tread stock is vulcanized and tested in the laboratory. It must prove up to these new standards before a tread is made.

Miller Cord Tires, in the factory tests, now average 15,000 miles. Miller Fabrics from 8,000 to 20,000 miles. And these factory tests are extreme.

Watch your mileage on one Miller Tire. Compare it with any other and it will win you. You owe that to yourself in view of Miller records.
