Local people are not taking readily to the purchase of radiophones, according to W. W. Barron, dealer in electrical supplies who has the agency for radiophones. "I haven't been trying to push the sale of radiophones," he said, "but I have been trying to sell them. I have been slow up to this time. However, if there is any demand for radiophones to be installed, either in public places or private homes here I am not aware of it."

There is a probability that Yorkville will have some good baseball this summer. Howard MacKinnon, Hal Mackrell, Carl Gaudin and others of last year's American Legion baseball team have been practicing a little here of late and expect to do more of it this week and next with a view to seeing what can be done in the way of a baseball team. Several of the college boys who play a pretty fair brand of baseball are expected home within a week or two, and those who have started the thing going are quite confident that a good amateur team can be gotten into shape.

INMATES DEATH

CELL ARE NOT A VERY CHEERY LOT

Six White Men Awaiting Day When Their Lives Will Be Snuffed Out

Columbia, May 23.—"I guess they'll clean this place out soon," the speaker looked through the bars of his death cell in the penitentiary and to a reporter who stood on the outside he spoke of the plans for sending him and the five other prisoners in the death house to the electric chair.

The death house is full, one man to each of the six cells. The roll call of these prisoners is: J. M. Jeffords, J. H. Harrison, R. J. Kirby, C. O. Fox, James Gappins and Edmund Bigham. This correspondent talked to all of them and heretofore the page from the reporter's diary:

Jeffords: Enticed the death cell last Saturday, to die on June 15 for the Armette murder and sentenced to die the same day. "I don't want to say anything more about my case yet," he said when the reporter drew him into conversation. Harrison: Also sent up for the Armette murder and sentenced to die the same day. "I don't want to say anything more about my case yet," he said when the reporter drew him into conversation.

Kirby: Took up with Fox and Gappins. Sent up for the murder of William Braxell, Columbia, taxi driver. "I never had a part in killing Braxell, except to help dispose of the body," Kirby took up on the Augusta road and he told me to kill Braxell. I told him I wouldn't do it, and then he made Fox kill him. Kirby said he had to have that automobile.

Fox: "That boy has to face his God as well as I do, and I'll have to tell that story at the judgment bar. Kirby tried to drive a story that he had cut up some machinery at a mill where he worked here and of being under guard for months, because of his mental condition, because these apparently being aimed at conveying the impression that he is unbalanced."

MILK PRICES.

The wide variation of prices of milk throughout the United States is likely to lead to misunderstanding in the dairy industry. The prices for return for dairy products are considered. In sections where dairying is not a prominent part of agriculture or where there is only enough milk produced to supply the cities, the prices for market milk are relatively higher than the prices for manufactured products. In most instances the price of market milk does not exceed the returns obtained for milk delivered to creameries or cheese factories when the value of skim milk and whey and the extra cost of producing market milk are considered.

The creamery which has paid its patrons 35 cents a pound for fat will return them $12.5 a hundred for milk testing 3.5 per cent. The present prices of boys and dairy calves will make skim milk worth 50 cents a hundred, 85 lbs., which may be obtained from 100 lbs. of milk, worth, in round numbers, 40 cents. This added to the return for fat will make a total of $12.5 a hundred. We believe it is worth 50 cents more to produce market milk than milk for creamery. This added to the $1.66 would make market milk worth $23.16 a hundred.

It is difficult to get the average price of market milk but from government reports it would indicate that the average price for this product has not averaged $23.16 a hundred. We fully appreciate that there are dairymen, or rather milk producers, who are willing to sell their milk for direct consumption for 25 cents more per hundred than the creamery pays for fat. These men are in their ambition to feed their cows milk, and not be bothered with growing live stock or with practicing diversified farming. These men are not farmers considering the fertility of their land, the advantages of diversified farming, or the value of their stock. They are simply milk producers.

We believe the advantages which accrue to the dairy farmer who feeds his skim milk and follows diversified farming are sufficient to warrant him to sell his milk to the creamery where it will return 35 cents a pound for fat rather than to sell it for liquid purposes at less than $23.16 a hundred. If all milk producers could be led to understand the value of diversified farming, 66 cents paid for market milk would not look so attractive to them and they would appreciate that the returns of the creamery are in most instances in keeping with the price of market milk.—Hoard's Dairyman.

HARDING IS TOLD OF RAILROAD PROBLEMS OF FINANCING AND WAGES

These Closely Related to Matter of Rate Policies, Rail Chiefs Say at White House Conference

Washington, May 23.—Administration intervention into railroad matters has been a distant reality in President Harding's dinner conference with carrier executives, has disclosed the close relationship between the problems of railroad rate policy and railroad financing. It was indicated today at the White House conference.

Railroad management, it was said, while voicing approval of the general proposal that the government should be brought down in the interests of general business betterment and expansion of enterprise, have taken exception to the proposal to take the railroads out of the hands of the government and place them in the hands of the private enterprise. The railroads, it was said, have taken exception to the proposal to take the railroads out of the hands of the government and place them in the hands of the private enterprise.

Railroad executive were told by the President and Secretary Hoover at the Saturday night conference that if they would leave class rates practically unchanged and existing levels, they could go into session with the interstate commerce commission and at once cut sharply existing charges on coal, iron, ore, brick, paving materials and other heavy tonnage down until prices were reasonable. This, in the administration view, would remove burdens which have acted to retard the wheels of commerce and at the same time leave high rates on traffic which can bear the burden, because of its high unit price. Many railroads have been proposed to take the railroads out of the hands of the government and place them in the hands of the private enterprise.

RUST IN WHEAT WILL CUT YIELD

Some Laurens County Farmers Now Harvesting Heavy Grain Crops.

Laurens, May 23.—Farmers this week will be engaged in harvesting wheat and oats, most of which now being saved in for storage and feed. John F. Montgomery, outside manager and farmer for the Laurens Cotton Mills Company, has 40 acres of fine wheat and oats with a good mixture of clover in part of it, that he is having mowed and saved for feed. This field of grain is within the city limits and is the admiration of all who have seen it, and is a fine demonstration of grain growing in the county this season.

However, there are farmers who have a larger acreage and equally as good crops of small grain. E. Perrin Minter, well known business man of the city, owns and operates a good sized farm, about eight miles northwest of the city. This year he had his tenants to sow eight acres of wheat to the plow-thru acres of wheat and five of oats and vetch. As a result he has about 56 acres of very fine grain. Especially is this true of the oats and vetch, as the rust has injured the wheat somewhat. Mr. Minter says he is highly confident that the new system and pests to continue it with his farming operations. He has his men planting a larger acreage in corn and soybeans, which will be ready to harvest in the fall.

Laurens county is making a large crop of grain in several years. The oat crop is about as good as the land, and the season will make any crop. Rust has cut off the promised production of the wheat crop, though many farmers will get very good yields and the total will be a considerable increase over previous seasons.

NEW BAPTIST CHURCH FOR GREAT FALLS

First Service in Edifice Will Be Held Sunday With Dr. Burtis Preaching

Chester, May 24.—The congregation of the First Baptist church at Great Falls, Chester county, is making elaborate preparations for holding its initial services on Sunday in their magnificent new edifice, which has been completed with the exception of the Sunday school department, which it is hoped to have completed in the year future. The guest of honor at this opening service Sunday morning will be Dr. C. E. Burtis, general secretary and treasurer of the Baptist general board. The pastor, the Rev. J. K. Hair, will preside at the opening meeting.

This is one of the most complete and splendid churches in this section of the commonwealth and represents the expenditure of approximately $10,000. It is built in the form of a maltese cross, the straight line of the cross being the church proper, while the cross section will be used for Sunday school purposes. Great care has been made in arranging the Sunday school department, so that the church will be a noble structure to be cared for. The church and Sunday school departments have been so arranged that the church and Sunday school departments can be thrown into a massive auditorium, affording a large space whereby a big congregation can be accommodated.

The Rev. Mr. Hair has been in Great Falls only two and one-half months, but in that time he has been instrumental in having this splendid edifice constructed, in addition to having the Mount Zion Baptist church at Chester, Pa., which has been instrumental in having this splendid edifice constructed, in addition to having the Mount Zion Baptist church at Chester, Pa., which has been instrumental in having this splendid edifice constructed.

FRIDAY, MAY 26.

A weevil has been found in some country, Mississippi, in considerable numbers, which is injurious to corn, oats, tomato, and turnips. Southern entomologists are especially requested by the United States Department of Agriculture to keep a sharp lookout for this species. It seems to be identical with Desmetia norika known in Australia as the tomato weevil. It is about one-third of an inch long, dull gray in color, and bears on the wing-covers a pale V-shaped mark. It has been known in Australia since 1908, and has done much damage. The larvae feed upon the plants at night, hiding underground during the day.

The far-heralded debate between Dr. Riley, the Baptist evangelist, and Prof. Metcalf, of the state department at State College, Raleigh, came to its close last night. The subject was Resolved, That evolution is an established fact. The two men argued for more than two hours, with the result that not a single man or woman in the audience was any better or wiser for their efforts.

The Southern Presbyterian General Assembly in session at the Rock Hill, S. C., adopted resolutions calling upon the various churches and church courts to use more freely newspaper publicity, both in legitimate news and in paid advertising.

PLAN COMMUNITY HOUSE.

Contributors to Memorial Fund Convert Funds to Chamber.

A large number of contributors and members of the American Legion have signed a petition circulated by the Chamber of Commerce asking their consent to expend money raised in Chester County for the proposed South Carolina Memorial building in Chester. The money will be used for this purpose provided there is no objection on the part of other contributors.

All contributors who have been approached have gladly given their consent.

The original plan was to erect a memorial at Columbia after the state had appropriated $200,000 and an adequate sum had been contributed by the people. This memorial was hardly materialized, as the state has not appropriated its share and conditions are such that the memorial from voluntary contributions can hardly be raised.

It will take considerable more money than the amount of this fund to build a community building, and the committee is working out plans along this line at present. It has in mind a building that can be used both by the people of Chester, and county and although plans are not sufficiently matured to state definitely how the building will be located, considerable interest is being manifested as there is a great need for such a building in Chester.

WEEVILS INFEST BARNWELL FIELDS.

Feet Already Making Its Appearance in Lower Number on Cotton.

Barnwell, May 25.—The boll weevil infestation in Barnwell county is extremely heavy this year, judging from reports from farmers throughout the section. Last week one farmer had the weevils picked from one acre of cotton, 227 being found. He said he was certain that the pickers did not find more than 50 per cent. of the insects. The field in question is located adjacent to his feed yard and he is certain that the weevils have caught a large number. Another farmer who has an especially large field of cotton said he has found from one to seven weevils on every stalk. The plants in both of these fields are beginning to put on squares, which the weevils are puncturing as fast as they form. The heavy rains and cool weather of the past few weeks have been very much against cotton, and with a few exceptions the crop in this section is very poor. The plants are small and puffy, and many fields are yet to be chopped out. Very little fertilizer has been used, and altogether the outlook is not favorable for a bumper yield, to say the least.

HOOVILLE LOCAL NEWS.

While on his way to the ball game on Petunia Ridge Friday, Zero Peck's Ford tire came off and he had gone some little distance before he missed it, and says he is sorry he missed it at all, as he had a devil of a time getting it back on. In this Zero seems to have stumbled into one of the greatest mysteries of his time. He cannot understand how a tire can be so loose and come off so quick and then be so darned hard to get back on the wheel. He had not been driving more than four or five minutes when the tire ran off, and it took him about three hours to get it back on and then he had to use several yards of baling wire wrapping to keep it from dropping off before he could get the tire back on the Ford. On the rest of the trip Zero kept a very close eye on all four of his tires and other parts of his Ford.

A cousin of Alexander Moseley who was reported dead yesterday, came to life again. Alex, says he was just a little slow about it, as he had done washed and gotten a haircut for the funeral. He will insist that the cousin bear the expense of the hair cut, but will not approach him on the subject until he is fully recovered from the nervous shock of having been dead. He will say nothing about having to wash his face and hands, as he would soon need that anyhow.

L.J. Mathewia is now more than 90 years old and says it seems to him he has more work unfinished and supposed to be done than he has done in the past ninety years. Lum was always bad about getting behind with his work and it seems the longer he lives the further behind he gets.

Styles seem slow to change in Hooville. Zero Peck came to this town years ago and he still wears the same hat and smokes the same pipe he wore and smoked when he came here. The Hooville Civic Improvement Society (all women members) which takes it on itself to look after the morality of the town, may soon bring such pressure to bear that he will have to get a new pipe or get smoking. There seems to be a great deal of sentiment of this kind developing here.

Several of our Hooville male citizens missed their summer hair cuts Saturday night on account of listening to the telling of funny jokes by the barber who did not get going until they went to sleep. It has been decided that no one next Saturday night will laugh at any of his jokes and try to impress him with the seriousness of the hair-cutting situation. In this town, so hot weather is right now upon us.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

By H. Addington Bruce.

Complying with a request to summarize authoritative medical opinion regarding pressure reducing means which should be taken by persons afflicted with an abnormally high blood pressure, I would not find the emphasis that physicians in general put on diet.

In advanced cases, especially when accompanied with a heart or kidney trouble, the most rapid of dieting is insisted upon, some restricting the diet to vegetables, fruits and skimmed milk. In other cases a more liberal diet is permitted, though patients are warned to eat little or no meats and meat soups, and to be wary of any excess of carbohydrates (starchy foods) or purins (found in meats and beans as well as fish and meats).

Also there is an increasing tendency to limit or prohibit the use of salt by sufferers from high blood pressure. It has even been claimed that by this measure alone (elimination of salt from the diet) a positive cure may be effected in certain cases.

In any event the salt intake may well be lessened on general principles. Nearly all of us are inclined to eat more salt than is really good for us. Similarly as regards spices and condiments. Simple foods are the best for everyday use, and simplicity in diet can not be too strongly urged on blood pressure patients.

Milk is particularly to be recommended to them because of its vitamin containing qualities, indispensable to nutrition. For the same reason, and because of their antipruritic value, leafy vegetables are particularly helpful to high pressure patients. Care must always be taken, though, to eat no foodstuffs known to tax unduly the individual's digestive powers.

So, too, care must be taken to avoid undue fatigue or any undue exposure to inclement weather. The clothes should be carefully regulated according to the temperature, but should not fit with an uncomfortable snugness.

In fact, the theory has been advanced that some cases of high blood pressure are due directly to the wearing of tight clothing in general, tight collars and neckbands. Any change to looser clothing, on the other hand, should be gradual, lest pressure fall too rapidly.

There should be definite periods for rest during the day; also periods for exercise, to be taken preferably in such forms as walking, self-propelled, horseback riding and light calisthenics. Work should be regulated so that it is not too strenuous. Always bringing holds good, "Don't overdo."

And all specialists in the treatment of high blood pressure add this further warning, "Don't worry." This may be difficult advice to follow, but the fact remains that to acquire a cheerful, courageous, confident attitude toward the outcome of one's case and toward life in general is of the first importance in bringing the blood pressure down.

As an aid to the acquiring of such an attitude, and as being in itself

Unknown Foods

You do not ask your family to sit down to the table with unknown guests.

Are you equally careful about the meats you invite them to eat? Equally sure of where they come from, what they are, who stands sponsor for them?

Nowadays, fortunately, the risk is not great. But with Swift & Company's products there is none.

Swift & Company's products are the result of years of experience, of careful, conscientious effort.

Their quality is a constant factor, always to be depended upon. The consumer is doubly protected because, in addition to the care used by Swift & Company, Swift's food products are carefully inspected by government employees and bear the federal inspection stamp.

The word "Premium" on ham or bacon means that we stake our pride and the reputation of years on that ham or bacon.

These products have been selected, cured, smoked, and handled by workmen who take the same pride in our products that we do.

Be sure of Swift's products and thus make certain that no strange or unknown food is introduced into the family circle!

The State Entomologist for Mississippi is trying to find out why this weevil has spread, and the Bureau of Entomology is actively co-operating.

The display of work done by the boys and girls of the Chester schools in the show windows at Wylie's, is very creditable and is attracting considerable attention. This is the first time many Chester people have seen the work and they are indeed pleasantly surprised.

For Sale—One 3-4 Ton Truck Reo speed wagon. Chester-Landry.

Mr. Albert Elias Tibbs, of Great Falls, won the Durham medal for the best senior class orator at Furman this year. Mr. Tibbs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Tibbs, of Great Falls, and has many friends in Chester who are proud of his record at Furman.

The news in receipt of a letter from a friend in Georgia who advises that the boll weevil is plentiful down there and is already causing damage to the young cotton, in many cases killing it. He states that where one has a large number of weevils on young cotton it is not advisable to chop it off so early. If it is chopped off early he says, the weevil will stand a pretty good chance of destroying a great part of it. Many farmers in Georgia are this year using poison, many of them using an old gusso horn with a screen wire over the large end and then a thin flour sack, filling the horn with poison and tipping the horn over each plant. This should be done early in the morning. He advised the use of about one pound of calcium arsenate to the acre.

Every indication is that cotton will continue to bring a good price and many are expecting to see twenty-five or thirty cents cotton this fall. Reports from all sections of the cotton belt indicate that there is nothing in sight to lead one to believe that there will be over ten and one-half million bales made this year. Many are of the opinion that the crop will be around the same last year, in which case the price would almost, if not, face a cotton famine. However, it must be admitted that it is rather early to get anything like an accurate estimate of the coming cotton crop, and what the price will be no one can tell.

A wedding of considerable interest in this state will be that of Miss Rose Burns, one of Richburg's attractive and accomplished young women to David Reid, a prominent banker of that section. The ceremony will be held at the Union Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, on Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, by the Rev. Mr. Burns, a graduate of the Woman's College at Due West, while Mr. Reid is a graduate of Erskine College.

Frank Hayes, who had the Ford found car stolen from him Sunday night, while he was attending services at the First Baptist Church, has thus far been unable to find it. He has notified the policemen and sheriffs of all of the adjacent cities but the search has been in vain. The unfortunate party about the theft was that Mr. Hayes did not have his car insured. He thought two good looks would certainly baffle the thief, but such was not the case, and the work seems to be done very quickly, without the knowledge of anyone.

C. O. Fox, S. J. Kirby and Jesse Gappins, convicted of slaying a Lexington county last August William Brasel, Columbia transfer from the penitentiary in Columbia Tuesday and resented to death, June 16, being the date set for their execution. All three stated they had not received justice in their trials and pleaded for mercy. The day set for the execution of the three men follows that on which Frank M. Jeffords, and Ira Harrison are to go to death for the murder a few days ago of John C. Arnette in Columbia. There are several other men in the death house at the penitentiary awaiting execution.

Mr. Lyles Grant, of the Armenian section of Chester county, is the possessor of a flock of chickens which any one should feel proud of. Mr. Grant has several hundred chickens and has sold hundreds this year. He now has engagements for the hatching of quite a number. He has been sending a number of fryers to Atlanta, Ga., at a fancy price.

Of more or less local interest is the announcement from Clover yesterday advising that northern cotton mill capitalists had bought land and were making arrangements to erect a million dollar cotton mill at Clover. The new mill will be built by the owners of the Hawthorne mill at Clover, the majority of whom live in Massachusetts. The cotton mill men of the North have about discontinued the erection of mills in that section and are now looking to the South as being the ideal section in which to build new mills. There are several reasons for this: one being better labor conditions in the South and another reason is the fact that a mill located in the South is right at the spot where raw material can be bought.

At a hearing in chambers last Thursday Judge Ernest Moore heard a petition filed by John T. Roddey, receiver, to authorize the sale of the assets of the Lancaster Mercantile Company. The court stated that there was no testimony before him, except conflicting statements of counsel, as to what was a fair upset value of the assets or the best advantage to be realized from the sale of the assets. He therefore ordered that C. W. P. Spencer, referee, take testimony from disinterested sources as to the best time for the sale and as to a fair value and report back to the court. C. D. Jones, by his counsel, opposed the granting of this order or any order for the sale of the mercantile company's assets—Lancaster Citizen.

Judge Ernest Moore at a hearing held here Monday filed an order authorizing John T. Roddey, as receiver for Lancaster Mercantile Company, to enter suit against C. W. P. Spencer, Secy.

The funeral services were held at the home this morning at 10 o'clock by Dr. Flounery Shepperson, pastor of Purity Presbyterian church, with burial in the cemetery at Pleasant Grove road for interment.

Mr. A. Aiken is a daughter of the late Mr. Miller and Mrs. S. A. Wylie, of the Wellridge section, and was sixty-four years of age. She was a devoted mother and a kind and warm friend to many of her friends and was deeply sympathetic with the relatives in their bereavement.
