THE BOWSER TROUBLES.

Mr. Bowser has a Whist at Carpet.

"Well, but what about this?" exclaimed Mr. Bowser, as he came home from church one Sunday afternoon and found the sitting-room carpet piled into a corner and the room in a state of general confusion.

"What's the matter with the carpet?" he asked.

"I don't know," replied his wife. "I found it on the floor this morning, and I don't know how it got there."

"Well, I want it put back in place," said Mr. Bowser. "I don't want it lying around the room like that."

"But I don't know how to do it," replied his wife. "I don't want to have to do it myself."

"Then I'll have to do it," said Mr. Bowser. "I don't want to have to deal with that."

He went to the cellar and looked around for something that would do the trick. He found a large rock and decided that it would be just the thing to do the job. He took the rock and started hitting the carpet with it.

"What are you doing with that rock?" asked his wife.

"I'm just trying to work the carpet back into place," said Mr. Bowser.

"But you can't do that with a rock," replied his wife. "You need a brush or a vacuum cleaner to do that."}

"Well, I don't care," said Mr. Bowser. "I'm going to do it my way." He kept hitting the carpet with the rock and soon he had it back in place.

"You've done a good job," said his wife.

"I don't care," said Mr. Bowser. "I did it my way." He went back to the cellar and looked around for something else that he could use. He found a large hammer and decided that it would be just the thing to do the job. He took the hammer and started hitting the carpet with it.

"What are you doing with that hammer?" asked his wife.

"I'm just trying to work the carpet back into place," said Mr. Bowser.

"But you can't do that with a hammer," replied his wife. "You need a brush or a vacuum cleaner to do that."
