TUESDAY JUNE 15.

HERE'S HARDING'S RECORD

Warren G. Harding has always been a resident of Ohio, which state he has represented as United States senator since 1914. In private business life he is publisher of the Marion, Ohio Star.

He was born on a farm near the village of Blooming Grove, Morrow county, Ohio, November 2, 1875, the eldest of eight children. His father, George T. Harding, was a country doctor whose forebears came from Scotland. Before going to Ohio, the Hardings were residents of Pennsylvania, where some of them were massacred by Indians. Others fought in the revolutionary war. The mother of Warren, Mary Rhoads Dickerson, was descended from an old-time Holland Dutch family, the Van Kirks.

In his youth Warren Harding lived the life of a farmer boy attending the village school until 14 years of age, when he entered Ohio Central College of Iberia, from which he graduated in 1895. He is a practical editor of the college paper he first displayed a talent for journalism. He was obliged to stop school and then, and then, the month of Warren, Ohio, he was a practical editor of the college paper he first displayed a talent for journalism.

At odd times he worked in the village printing office, in time becoming an expert typesetter and later a linotype operator. He is a practical jobman and job printer, and as a "make up man" is said to have few equals. The luck piece he has carried for years was a striking type.

In 1884 Dr. Harding moved his family to Marion. A short time afterward the father purchased the Warren Harding the Star, then a small paper.

On the paper Warren Harding performed every function from devil to managing editor. In all the years the Senator has owned it there has never been a strike of a threatened one. Senator Harding is closely connected with many of our large business enterprises in Marion and other parts of the state. He is director of a bank and several large manufacturing plants and is a trustee of the Trinity Baptist church.

Mr. Harding has twice represented the 13th senatorial district of Ohio, the state legislature and served one term as lieutenant governor. At the 1914 election Harding was elected United States senator by a majority of more than 100,000, running 73,000 ahead of the next highest on the ticket. In the senate he is a member of the committee on foreign relations. Senator Harding married Miss Florence Kling in 1891.

WILL HAYS AGAIN HEADS COMMITTEE

Chairman of Republican Body Starts Plan Conduct Campaign.

Chicago, June 12.—Will H. Hays, of Indiana, was today re-elected chairman of the Republican national committee.

Mr. Hays was elected at a meeting of his new national committee, presided over by Henry McCoy, national committee man from the Philippines. Harry M. Daugherty, national manager for Senator Harding, appeared before the committee and on behalf of the presidential candidates requested "that something prompt, snappy and positive be done [effort] to launch the fall campaign. The work ought not to be delayed," said Mr. Daugherty.

He asked that a subcommittee be appointed to confer with Senator Harding on the selection of assistant officer and an executive committee.

A subcommittee composed of Will H. Hays, chairman; Senator Wilkes of Massachusetts; Charles D. Hilles, of New York; A. T. Kenney, of Kentucky; J. L. Hamon, of Oklahoma, and R. E. Williams, of Oregon, was appointed and authorized to select an executive committee of the national committee to be made up of fifteen members, eight men and seven women, including an assistant secretary, who is to be a woman.

SPEAKING OF BUNK.

From any angle one may glimpse the oratorical effusions of Samul Gompers that, regardless of what ever scientific laws politicians may wish to inject into the present political campaign, one of the issues about which the American people are most concerned is the extravagant cost of living. This strike has crippled the great transportation lines that they announced embargoes on freight. The people thus cut off from getting the necessities of life. In food and clothing are handicapped much as if the late German enemy had effectively enforced his submarine blockade against this nation.

For instance, while Mr. Gompers was dictating that statement for the railway clerks practically throughout the South, east of the Mississippi, the great transportation lines that they announced embargoes on freight. The people thus cut off from getting the necessities of life. In food and clothing are handicapped much as if the late German enemy had effectively enforced his submarine blockade against this nation.

Yes Mr. Gompers and his fellow propagandists have so fed us up on this sort of doctrine that the American people stupidly surrender to it as they would a tornado which rages a home, or windstorm which ruins the wheat crop at harvest time. Practically over since the so-called federation of labor became an effective club-uses we have suffered the same sort of disaster at any one time in the life of a farmer boy attending the village school until 14 years of age, when he entered Ohio Central College of Iberia, from which he graduated in 1895. He is a practical editor of the college paper he first displayed a talent for journalism.

Practically, so far as the average citizen is concerned, it matters not at all whether a strike is "outrage" or "hot." Its effect is the same as a legal strike—both of them play the devil with public business and cause untold suffering to millions, and they look alike to the people most concerned. As we have said before, Mr. Gompers might as well cut the old story of the one certain way to cut the cost of clothing, leather, tobacco, bread and meat. That story is the only one that enables a cut in living costs. It begins with the word industry, includes the word economy, and ends with the phrase, everybody working for labor, and he is sawing wood or squandering the garden.

DANIELS SPEAKS FROM STEPS OF THE CAPITOL

Washington, June 14.—Asserting the American flag must be made the "nationalizing symbol of world peace," Secretary Daniels addressed a flag day mass meeting on the steps of the capitol to night, calling on American citizens to turn a deaf ear to the "selfish and provincial pleas" which renounce the "altruism that sent the American army overseas."

Mr. Daniels said that because certain Americans had "black vision and forgotten the ideals which made us invincible in war," the professional "spoiling of the conflict, a peace buttressed by the mutual covenants between the allied and associated nations," had not been realized.

COLOREN PREACHER SHOT ON WAY TO HIS CHURCH

Winston-Salem, June 14.—Rev. Thomas Orr, colored, died in hospital today from two pistol shot wounds fired by Lee Smith, colored, who is in jail and claims that when he fired at Orr, he thought the preacher was Grant Price, colored, with whom he alleges he had some trouble.

Orr was en route to his church just southeast of the city when he was shot last night.

SMALL TORNADO HITS PART OF GREENVILLE

Greenville, June 14.—A small tornado this afternoon struck a two-story store building at the crossing of the Laurens and Washington roads, in the suburbs of Greenville, and literally tore the structure from its hinges. Miss Amy Stone, an elderly woman residing on the second floor over the store, who was in her room at the time, was dropped to the ground with debris, but was not seriously hurt. Other buildings were damaged. The wind was not high in any other section of the city or suburbs. The twister struck the building while a light rain was falling and while four persons were in the structure. Three men in the store on the first floor rushed out to safety, but Miss Stone fell with the wooden structure. She was found stretched out on top of a pile of splintered boards and flooring and was rushed to the city hospital, where it was reported tonight that her injuries, while painful, are not serious.

FARM FACTS.

From Here and There in South Carolina.

Union County will hold its County Fair this year November 2 to 6 inclusive.

Anderson farmers are selling and buying land at very high prices, two tracts having been sold recently, one for $400 per acre and another for $600 per acre.

The Beaufort track farmers have gathered about 3500 acres of Irish potatoes which produced about 210,000 barrels and sold for nearly $3,000,000.

There were in this state on February 1, 1920, according to the Bureau of Crop Estimates 1000 farm tractors and 2857 motor trucks used for farm purposes.

Bull weevils have been reported already in Barnwell, Bamberg, and Orangeburg counties.

HONOR UNSOUGHT SAYS COOLIDGE

Boston, June 12.—Governor Coolidge tonight issued the following statement:

"The nomination for Vice President, coming to me unsought and unexpectedly, I accept as an honor and a duty. It will be especially pleasing to be associated, with my old friend, Senator Warren G. Harding, our candidate for President.

"The Republican party has adopted a sound platform, chosen a wise leader and is united. It deserves the confidence of the American people. That confidence I shall endeavor to secure."

To the newspaper men he said:

"I am pleased and shall accept. I am particularly pleased that I am to make the run with Senator Harding."

The Governor expects to go to Ancehast, his alma mater, tomorrow for commencement week.

THE enthusiastic army of over five hundred thousand Buick owners are in a great measure responsible for the unprecedented demand for Buick Valve-in-Head motor cars today. Their daily experiences in Buick service—Buick economy—Buick endurance, and Buick reliability, prove conclusively to the present and future purchaser that "there is no substitute" for a Buick Valve-in-Head motor car.

These reasons are causing hundreds of persons to contentedly await the delivery of the various Models selected.

CALLS ON COMMISSION

Landsford People Have Meeting With Reference to Expenditure of Money in Various Sections of County—Pass Resolutions and Ask for Statement.

A representative crowd of citizens of Landsford township held a meeting at the Fort Lawn school house last Saturday afternoon to discuss the action of the given Landsford township its share of the bond money. The meeting was presided over by Mr. M. W. Rodday and Mr. E. A. McWaters acted as secretary.

After discussing the matter the following resolutions were adopted and have been handed to the county newspapers with request to publish: Whereas, it now appears from information that public road construction of the Highway Commission of Chester county, under the bond issue of $450,000, has come to a standstill by reason of the exhaustion of all funds realized from said bond issue, and.

Whereas, it also appears that the expenditure of said funds have not been carried out in accordance with the schedule of apportionment as originally fixed under the terms of the Bond issue act and.

Resolved, That the citizens of Landsford township, in conference assembled hereby call upon the Highway Commission of Chester county to issue and publish in the county newspapers a full and complete schedule of apportionment, as outlined in and under the bond issue act we further urge said Highway Commission to give explanation as to why they have not carried out the apportionment granted to Landsford township under said act, and expended it elsewhere, and.

Resolved further, that the Secretary of this citizens' meeting be, and he is, hereby instructed to forward a copy of this resolution to each member of the Highway Commission, and also to each of the county papers with request that same be published.

Dated June 12th, 1920.

GAVE HARVARD CLASSICS.

The Chester Library Committee has acknowledged with grateful appreciation a complete set of 50 volumes of Dr. Charles Eliot's five-foot shelf of Harvard Classics, donated by Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Fendley, owners of Wylie Street. These are most valuable books and a most serviceable addition to the library. The committee also expresses thanks to the many other contributors of good books. Over 150 new ones have been received in the past few days.

A Leader of Men

Back of his energy is sound health, and back of his health is self-discipline that provides for regularity in habits of eating, exercising—bowel elimination.

It is largely this freedom from intestinal poisons that keeps him young; that leaves him free to pursue his aims with mind unclouded and energy unimpaired.

Such health is out of the question for you as long as you are constipated. And laxative and cathartic pills only aggravate and confirm the constipation habit.

Nujol works on an entirely new principle. Instead of forcing or irritating the system, it simply softens the food waste. This enables the many tiny muscles in the walls of the intestine, contracting and expanding in their normal way, to squeeze the food waste along so that it passes naturally out of the system.

Nujol thus prevents constipation because it helps Nature maintain easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world.

Nujol is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. Try it.

Nujol is sold by all druggists in sealed bottles only, bearing Nujol Trade Mark. Write Nujol Laboratories, Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), 60 Broadway, New York, for booklet "Thirty Feet of Danger".

Britain's Workless Veterans

Britain is approaching a crisis in the problem of realising her fighting men in the labor forces of peace; it is admitted by some British editors, who note at the same time how complex this problem has proved in American reconstruction. But matters are much worse over there, of course. It is said, because England was in the war so long, that her whole employment organism underwent a variety of transformations. A Socialist labor newspaper, the London Daily Herald, says that all through the war it issued warnings on these changes and showed how the drifting of women and unskilled men into workshops and the displacement of skilled men, together with the wholesale creation of war-time industries, would inevitably lead to chaos and strife when the war was over unless wise plans for the re-organization of labor were ready to be put into immediate operation. This consistent critic of the Government declares that the people were assured things would be all right and that proper provision would be made for everybody, so that "at the end of the war a new heaven and earth would materialize," but it observes: "Women ask out on the streets of London demanding work. In Britain their employment on the tramways has caused serious trouble. Peers of the realm, who led armies in France and elsewhere, write to the press protesting against the unwillingness of trade-unions to take in ex-servicemen as new members."

Before starting re-terminations, the labor force continues, it is necessary to get a clear idea of the basic fact, which is this: "The country will be no better off if women of civilian are thrown out of work in order to put ex-servicemen out of work." In other words, throwing either men or women out of work in order to find work for other is obviously no remedy for unemployment, and we read:

"Organized labor, in and out of Parliament must insist that work or maintenance shall be found for all, and the capitalist system never has and never will find work for all its very existence depends on having at its disposal and under its control a reserve of unemployed men and women."

"Yet it is really absurd, when we know how much work of public utility there is awaiting execution, that there should be any people out of work at all. Had the Government the same determination to find people employment, to get rid of poverty, to reorganize the life of the nation, as it had to defeat the Germans, every ex-soldier, every woman, indeed every willing worker could be at once set to work. It is for ex-servicemen, women, and trade-unions to cease arguing with one another and instead unite in a determined effort to compel the Government to adopt the principle of work for all, or, in default, full and adequate maintenance."

The Daily Herald is emphatic in its insistence that every one sympathize with the demand of ex-servicemen that they have employment and decent conditions and at proper rates of pay, and says that "it is an outrage of the worst kind that any of these men should be unable to earn their living." An added complication in the readjustment of Britain's ex-servicemen is presented in the great number of fighters who are blind as a result of their patriotic devotion. To awaken the conscience of Englishmen and women to the seriousness of their social and economic condition, two hundred and fifty blind ex-servicemen marched from Manchester to London. They represent "tens of thousands of our fellow men, and women who are denied the blessed gift of sight," remarks The Daily Herald, and who for the most part are obliged to accept "either the tender mercies of the Poor Law and workhouse system or to exist on an equally degrading form of so-called charity," and it adds:

"We do not deny that many good people give large sums of money to aid and succor these helpless ones. We must all realize, however, that charity even when organized, as by the C. O. S., is the most extravagant and wasteful system possible for dealing with these men. The Poor Law is very little better. In both cases it is the same story. Officialdom, buildings, red tape, espionage run away with the major part of the money."

"These marchers demand national assistance. Those who are able-bodied ask for training under honorable conditions, so as to be able to earn their own living. For those unable to work the demand is complete maintenance from the state, not in institutions, not as a matter of charity, but as a matter of right."

THE FAMILY BUDGET

By Frank Crane.

"What," says a letter which lies upon my desk, "is a just method of dispensing the family income? The husband's earnings are the source of earnings inasmuch as she renounces the opportunity to earn her support for the sake of spending her effort on the care of the family."

"Can the husband dispense the income himself without the direction of the wife, or vice versa?"

"Should the husband suffer the humiliation of handing over to the wife the salary intact?"

"And the wife be humiliated with gifts from the husband as forced to beg from him for necessities with coquettishness or tactful handling, thus destroying frankness between the two?"

"Will the budget prevent the injustice of the husband and curb the extravagance of the wife?"

"Is the budget an account of where the dollars have gone or where they are going?"

"Will the budget shut off the graft of the in-laws?"

"Can a bank account in the name of husband and wife be successfully operated?"

"If the budget system were better understood and more commonly in use would there not be more women willing to marry poor men?"

"More women willing to assume manly rather than shrill, is there more unburdened in their homes, more families doing team work, more families united in peace and happiness?"

"Most of this woman's questions answer themselves."

I might add a few questions myself and pass the buck to the reader.

Greater Engine Value

OVER 250,000 farmers bought the "Z" engine.

They know it is powerful, dependable and practically fool-proof—truly a great engine.

But now we announce, the one addition which could possibly improve the "Z" performance—Bosch high tension, oscillating magneto ignition.

So let us show you in detail this greater engine value! Our service to you is remarkably complete and we are assisted by a nearby Bosch Service Station.

Mr. High—Yes, and do you observe how perplexed her husband looks? He is evidently thinking of it, too.

ment by the death of the head of the house they are liable to be thrust into responsibility and compelled to use their own judgment?

Why not depend more on love, frankness, open dealing, confidence, loyalty and intelligence and less on the egotistic passions and prejudices?

Why leave your wife and children $100,000 and go to training wherewith to take care of it?

In short, why work so hard to get money and neglect the business of conserving it?

Battery Dependability

The war proved conclusively the great importance of the motor car. It also proved the importance of the starting and lighting battery. On a vast number of cars used by American officers in the field of operations the was used as the power supply for automobile starting and lighting.

The "Exide" will serve you just as faithfully as it served the United States Government in time of war. Made by the largest maker of storage batteries in the world, the "Exide" Battery represents the last word in storage battery design and manufacture. The "Exide" costs most to make, but least to use. Come in and let us show you why the "Exide" that is made to meet the specific demands of your starting and lighting is the right battery for your car.
