FRIDAY, JUNE 22.

The statement has been published to the effect that approximately 48,000 negroes have left South Carolina during the past several months...

Some people seem to be "up in the air" about the negro leaving the cotton patch but the News has not as yet felt the least alarm over the situation...

Let the negroes leave the farms and go into the cities to work in the steel mills, coal fields, etc. Let them become consumers instead of producers and maybe the negro will remain on the farms for their products...

South Carolina has a negro population of something like 800,000 and only 48,000 of them have left so far; less than seven per cent. One would judge by the fact some people make that half of them had left in the last three months...

The News is of the opinion that the migration of negroes to the north means much for the man who remains on the farm. It means more consumers and less producers of farm products, which in turn means a better price for the "fruit of the soil."

Of considerable interest was the statement in the Chester Observer of last Sunday, to the effect that in Catawba county, North Carolina, the white population is almost ninety per cent. The negro population of the county is just a fraction over ten per cent.

A representative of The News recently made a trip to the tobacco fields in Moore county, North Carolina, going by way of Concord. The day was an ideal work day and the writer conceived an idea upon leaving Concord that he would count the negroes working in the fields along the road side. He traveled eighty-two miles and only counted six negroes in the hundred of fields that he passed.

Hundreds of people were to be seen in the fields but with the exception of those who were white, the majority of whom were engaged in harvesting their wheat.

See, but didn't we go down 'Weds' needs?

Yarborough was a little wild Wednesday, but don't forget that the left-handed twirler made six men drop the willow in two and one-half innings.

Eleven to One sounds awful and it was, but errors will happen and it happened that they all came in one game.

We did much better yesterday but again it was errors that let Rock Hill get two men over.

Follow, Rock Hill's pitcher, comes from Bristow, Mo. Monday's team pumpe him like Chester did yesterday—well, we will let the manager of the Rock Hill team say it.

HOT WATER SCALDS CHILD IN UNION

Union, June 20.—A very distressing accident occurred today at noon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Felix Goodlock, 1019 North 10th street. Their 4-year-old daughter, Mary Louise, was badly scalded with hot water. Mrs. Goodlock was preparing dinner, and the little girl pulled up on her shirt and in some way unaccountable way the kettle tilted and poured the hot water over her arms and sides of her body. The little one was rushed to Wake Thayer hospital for surgical treatment.

Jamming On the Brakes.

The nation groans about taxes. They fall with crushing force upon the farmer and the owner of the modest home. Business is hampered; the burden is universal. In some sections taxes on farm lands exceed the revenue from the farms. The volume of delinquent taxes is steadily increasing. We are paying very high direct taxes, and higher indirect taxes, for they enter heavily into the cost of every commodity.

Last winter the legislature of this State assembled, all pledged to reduce the burden. But most of them added to the load. Why do taxes continue to rise? The reason is plain. We have built a big machine of government, the operation of which requires a lot of money. Few are willing to disband any part of it; most people want to add new parts. Regardless of the cost; they want more roads, more schools, more regulation of business, more insurance of life, more comfort and happiness. We are already paying one-seventh of our national earnings to support an inflated variety of governmental activities. But even this great sum amounting to nearly ten billion dollars a year, fails to meet the demands of all the dreamers and reformers.

If taxes are to be reduced, or even kept from increasing, we must discuss some prevalent notions about government. We must understand that national prosperity depends upon the full use of our wealth-producing agencies rather than their regulation. If the country would prosper it must continue to build up its agencies for producing wealth. Tax money, ground through the government mill, does not do this. Taxation is really a partial contribution by the Government, theoretically for the benefit of society as a whole. Part of this is a vital reform, for we must have government to protect the individual in his personal rights, to insure legal equality of opportunity and to render needful public services.

But as we extend government beyond these fundamental notions about the brink of socialism. We have already socialized one-fifth of the corporate wealth of the country by placing it largely under governmental management. This has happened within a period of fifteen years. If all industry were socialized there would inevitably come a demand that the Government take over the farms.

Many chafe at the slowness in accumulating wealth, and turn to Government and new laws for aid. They seem to fail to realize that our greatly bettered standards of living are due to experiments in legislation, but to the increased reproductive capacity of the individual, on the farm and in industry, because of mechanical aid. They fail to see that America is what it is principally because we have learned how to use coal and oil and water power and iron and to grow bigger crops with less man labor.

Another widespread error is the belief that the buck can be passed in taxation, a belief that is responsible for much of our trouble. In various ways, the effect of every tax is spread over the entire population regardless of who pays it in the first place. Direct taxes reappear as indirect taxes, in poorer service, or in a discontinuance of service. Farm tenants help pay bond issues in high er rentals; wage earners pay higher rents and more for food and clothes in proportion to the increase in the tax burden. No one escapes.

All these facts are strikingly presented in the series of articles by Mr. Rose that begins in this issue. General realization of them is a first step in tax reduction. In the meantime it might be well if more states would adopt the Indiana plan of giving its state tax commission power, in the appeal of a group of taxpayers, to hold public hearings in the taxing districts to review bond issues and tax levies. Then after the money is taken and the hurrying has died down, both sides must present facts and arguments to sustain their positions. This might act as a check upon the public servants.

Merely grumbling about taxes gets us nowhere. They are what we pay for government. If we continue to want more government, taxes must continue to climb. The way to solve the tax problem is to limit the functions of government and to limit the sacrifice of some pet theories of social regeneration, but it is the only way to jam on the brakes.

Chester Last Two To Rock Hill.
Chester went down before the Rock Hill nine both Wednesday and Thursday. In the game Tuesday the score was 11 to 1 in favor of Rock Hill. Practically all of the Rock Hill runs were due to errors, it just appeared to be a bad—very bad—day for Chester and the errors were frequent, each of them being costly ones.

Yarborough pitched for Chester but was taken out during the third inning. The boy was a little wild but there is no question but that he had Rock Hill guessing. He struck out six men in two and one-half innings. Moore, a new-comer, went in the box for Chester and his first two throws were wild, allowing two men to cross the home plate.

Hilton pitched for Rock Hill, and was a good pitcher. He was well supported, which was a wonderful help to him. Rock Hill has a good team.

Yesterday Chester again met defeat, the score being 2 to 0. It was a good game and was well enjoyed by the crowd present. Errors yesterday were again costly to Chester, both of Rock Hill's runs being made on errors.

Today Chester plays Union in Chester, and also again tomorrow. Monday and Tuesday Chester goes to Rock Hill.

THINKS IT A BLESSING.

Georgia Man Thinks Migration of Negroes is a Blessing—Says White Farmers go to Work.

A. O. Murphy, of Barnwell, Ga., writing in the Atlanta Journal, takes the view that the recent migration is no cause for great alarm. In fact, he sees in it a movement for the benefit of the South. His communication has attracted a great deal of attention.

"I am not at all alarmed by the exodus of negro labor from the South," he writes. "I believe that the movement is a blessing in disguise. Nor do I believe that the development of the agricultural interests of the South is dependent upon negro labor; in fact, I believe that our heretofore absolute dependence upon negro labor has retarded the development of our agricultural resources which we have hoped for. Negro labor did not develop the agricultural interests of the North and West, where they produce as much on one acre as we do on ten. Last year I traveled extensively through the richest agricultural section of Michigan, and did not find a single negro on the farms, yet every acre was in cultivation and producing abundant crops. The land is here dependent too much on the negro, working too little ourselves. The consequence is our lands have wasted away and are depreciated in value. The movement of the negro to the North is going to force the white man to work and improve his methods of farming, which, by the way, education will redeem the agricultural interests of the South from the thoughtless slothful methods which have characterized the industry heretofore.

"The time has come when it requires brains as well as brawn to farm. The obedient negro was a thing of the past. The negro is not equal to the emergency and never will be. Improved machinery and modern methods have changed the direction of a higher class of farmers will soon make us bless the day that brought his revolution.

"There is no human agency which can stop this movement of negro labor from the fields of the South to the industries of the North, and we had as well force it and go to work to meet the situation and adjust ourselves to the new conditions. There are thousands of thrifty white farmers in the Northwest who are anxious to come South where they can work twelve months in the year. A few thousand of such scattered throughout Georgia would be revolutionizing the farming interests of our State and make two blades of grass grow where only one grows now. We need to build our rural communities by bringing in white farmers and thereby making country life as attractive and pleasant as that in the towns. One thrifty, intelligent white family brought into our midst is worth a dozen of a thriftless race that has never developed anywhere. One thrifty, intelligent white family brought into our midst can stop this exodus of the negro from the South, by the way, and adjust himself and make this movement a great blessing.

CUNO REIGN IS NEARING CRISIS

Increased Terrorism and Collapse of Mark May Be Death of Cabinet.

Berlin, June 18.—By the increased terrorism of the Frein in the Ruhr on the one hand and the complete collapse of the mark today, the Cuno government is approaching the crisis of its life.

While a reichstag committee was considering the drop of the mark to 30,000 to the dollar last April the house today was quaking, the mark at about 150,000 to the dollar.

Should Great Britain as it is feared remain passive toward France or even back up the latter in the slightest degree in her demand for the dropping of passive resistance by Germany, the Cuno cabinet is almost certain to tumble.

Germany's hope, that was pinned on Great Britain, has sunk almost to zero. Premier Baldwin's Oxford appeal to the United States is interpreted here as something like Hjalmar's "black against black" statement of 1916 and is taken as an indication that England alone is helpless against France.

It is also taken to indicate that unless the United States joins England, the latter will be unable to prevent chaos in Europe.

According to confidential information alleged to have been received by the foreign office, it is expected that England will sell Germany that Premier Poincaré is adamant and will not discuss anything with Germany until passive resistance ceases and the delivery of coal is resumed.

Those who see the blackest as yet that Germany then will be confronted with a coalition of the great government, with attendant civil war and the probable breakers up of the country, or war. Others less pessimistic have not yet given up hope.

The undivided interest of Alexander Walker deeded to Fred Walker of Chester county, S. C., in 1921, in and to all those two tracts or parcels of land lying, being and situate in the corporate limits of the City of Chester county and state aforesaid, in Jeteraville, to wit:

1. A lot or tract of land containing about two rods and four poles, more or less, bounded by lands now or formerly belonging to Jim Gaston, H. W. Hatcher, Andrew Harty and others and fronting on Jeter street, upon which there is a dwelling house and being the land originally conveyed to Alexander Walker by Joseph Wylie by deed recorded in Vol. W. W. at page 597 in Clerk's office.

Also a certain lot or tract of land in the City of Chester, county and state aforesaid, adjoining lot No. 1 above described and containing about three-fifths of an acre bounded on the north by lot No. 1, above described and south and east by lands now or formerly of W. Gill Wylie and on west by lands of Jim Gaston, being originally conveyed to Alexander Walker by W. Gill Wylie about March 10th, 1886.

A one-third interest in said property was conveyed to Fred Walker by Martha Walker by deed recorded in Vol. 134 at page 436 and the remainder of his undivided interest being inherited from Alexander Walker.

This property is also sold subject to city taxes assessed and levied upon the undivided interest of Alexander Walker deeded to Fred Walker for 1923 taxes.

Terms of sale—Cash, purchaser to pay for all papers.

What is "STANDARD"?

- that by which others are compared

It is as true of "Standard" Motor Gasoline as it is of the Government yardstick and Troy pound. "It is as good as Standard," says the dealer who does not know where his gasoline comes from. And maybe it is—but you can safely stick to the original. A distillation test will reveal the uniform high quality which has established "Standard" as the all-around pacemaker in quick starting, smooth acceleration and big, economical mileage. "Standard" specifications mean that uniform satisfaction can be bought at thousands of Standard pumps.
