Attorney General advises board

By BETH INGRAM
TJ news editor

The South Carolina Attorney General has advised Winthrop Publications Board’s action in 1983 dispute about control of advertising in the student newspaper was “merely advisory,” according to the public information office. The opinion expressed “doubt that this advisory decision is appealable to the college President or the Board of Trustees as a matter of right at the request of the student editor.”

President Lader wrote the Attorney General seeking advice concerning the college’s legal authority to say whether the student editor has authority to control the newspaper’s advertising content.

In November 1983, Johnsonian editor, Jeff Stanley refused to print an ad from a Charlotte clinic that offers abortions because of his personal convictions against abortions. He defended his action on the basis that guidelines governing the school’s publications gave him the right to reject the ad.

When Stanley refused to print the ad, the Winthrop Board of Publications took no disciplinary action against him. The board “the President and the trustees said that Stanley ‘acted within most probably retain the authority to review decisions of the Board as part of their general administrative authority over the college.”

“Although the attorney general advises that there is no explicit procedural appeal, the opinion warrants clarification of policy,” stated Lader. “In reliance on the attorney general’s opinion and consistent with the First Amendment editor, Melinda Nolen resigned her position January 7 because she will not be enrolled in Winthrop for the Spring Semester 1985. Susan Smith was chosen as interim editor by the Publications Board.

Area bars admit 19 year-olds

By LISA BUIE
TJ managing editor

Despite the state’s higher drinking age, several Rock Hill bars will continue to admit 19 year-olds, although teenagers will not be allowed to purchase or consume alcoholic beverages.

G.G. George, owner and manager of The Silver Dollar Saloon, said that 19 year-olds will still be welcome.

“We use a stamp system to distinguish underage patrons, and we sell them soft drinks and orange juice. This way they can still enjoy the atmosphere,” George said.

Steve Kirby, manager at The Money, reported that his club still allows 19 year-olds because they were previously a large part of the club’s clientele.

“We’re selling soft drinks to underage people. I hope they’ll still come out even though they can’t drink beer,” Kirby said.

Both George and Kirby recognize the potential for teenagers to abuse the privilege; therefore, extra precautions will be taken.

“I’ve hired a new floor walker to enforce the legal age. If someone under 20 is caught with alcohol, we take the drink and the membership card and make them leave,” George said.

Kirby said that his club has “plainclothes” people walking the floors and violators are asked to leave immediately.

“Kirby and George were optimistic about the policy although it will be discontinued if it is abused. Both clubs are considering lowering the admission age to 18 after determining whether or not 19 is successful.”

As far as the higher age itself is concerned, area club owners see it as unreasonable.

“I doubt that we’d be hurt much without them. But young adults have responsibilities knowing that there are so many while revoking privileges. Personally, I feel students need to place to go, I would feel bad raising their voices and be heard, about having to turn them after letters and demonstrations,” George said.

Holiday “blahs”

By ROBERT MCDONALD

TJ contributing editor

Welcome back, folks. You know, I was really glad to be back until I went to those first few days of class and found out exactly what each teacher was going to require. This is going to be P-J-U-N semester. A couple of times, I felt like standing and yelling that old, exhausted excuse, “Do you think your class is the only one I have?!” loud enough to make the windows rattle, but, luckily, I was able to muster enough self-control to remain quiet in my seat. That is pretty unusual in itself. I guess the holidays did something to me.

Since I live in such an exciting hometown, the booming metropolis of Marion, South Carolina, I was so overtaken by all the opportunity to go out and enjoy myself that I decided to stay at my house for the majority of the time. Just thinking about the thrill of a night out at the Foxes Den was simply too much for me. So, I slept every day until my favorite soap opera came on, then I got up and watched television for the rest of the afternoon and evening. Now, aren’t you jealous?

I did have lots (and lots and lots) of time to do some thinking over the holidays though. I have decided that the human mind has a way of strange thing when it is allowed to just “sit and wonder.” It is weird. Really weird. Let me share with you a few “questions” that happened to come to me one afternoon:

1) What makes popcorn pop?
2) Why are there so many people that actually pay to see a professional wrestling match? Are there that many stupid people in the world? Is it a joke?
3) What about chicken McNuggets really made of? I’ve never seen gray chicken meat?
4) In an Eddie Murphy comedy routine, what is the ratio of curse words to regular conversation words? What would his act be like without all the filth?
5) What makes Kasey Casem stay so young-looking? My dad, who is 39, has more gray hair than he does.
6) What are marshmallows made of?
7) Why do television ministers, who supposedly do their shows to spread religion, never go off the air without Ethiopian on television? Is the leaving you with their address so you can mail your “contributions”?
8) Why is it that no matter which lunch line you get in, the other one always gets served faster?
9) What would happen if Barbara Streisand got a runny nose?
10) What does Boy George’s grandmother think about him?
11) Why do we have to change our clocks back and forth for Daylight Savings Time? What a waste of time!
12) How would the American public react if they saw a fat never go off the air without Ethiopian on television?

Got any answers?

Board approves projects

By LISA BUTE
TJ managing editor

The Winthrop College Board of Trustees approved several renovation projects, including Bancroft Hall, Rutledge Building, and Thomson Cafeteria in its quarterly meeting Dec. 8.

According to John Presto, vice-president for Administrative Services, renovations for Bancroft will include doing away with steam heat and wall air conditioning units, which he described as "extravagant methods of heating and cooling."

The project, estimated at $340,000, and set for 1986-87, will be funded by a $132,000 Energy Conservation Grant and $208,000 in excess housing debt service funds.

Thomson's renovation will include adding 5,400 square feet to the front of the cafeteria.

Harold P. Tuttle, vice president for institutional planning and programs, said that the building was designed with expansion in mind; therefore required space can be added without damaging the building's overall concept. Cost of the project is estimated at $35,000 to be paid for with debt retirement funds.

Other approved projects included removing around the tennis courts, construction of a new greenhouse and a chemical storage room, renovating McLeary and adding restrooms and renovating Wiethers basement in order to house Macleay Nursery.

In other business, the Board approved a resolution commending Dr. Glenn Thomas, now director of the Center for International Studies, for his service as Provost during 1983-84.

The ad-hoc committee on desegregation praised President Assistant Daryll Gibson for his efforts in recruiting minority students.

"We're still not doing as well as we'd like," Winthrop President Phil Lader reported, "but we need to do better. In fact, Gibson met with the head of the governor's desegregation effort, and officials said at least colleges need to improve," he said.

"Winthrop will be the first for government officials to inspect, counsel, review, and kick in the rear end if need be. Everything that can be done will be done," he added.

Thanks

Dear editor,

I'd like to express this community's thanks to the men and women of Sigma Phi Epsilon and Sigma Sigma Sigma, and everyone else from Winthrop involved, for the extraordinary display of luminaries Tuesday night, December 11th.

What a magnificently beautiful Christmas gift to Winthrop and this community.

I hope your Holiday Season was as bright as you made ours!

Thanks ever so much!

Very sincerely,
Wayne T. Patrick

Respect

Dear Editor:

As members of a Greek organization, we have a growing concern over the lack of respect for our organization's publicity property.

Many organizations, both Greek and non-Greek, use the areas outside Thomson Cafeteria to put up banners advertising upcoming events.

There have been several occasions when these banners have been defaced or removed completely from the walls. Whoever the culprit, he or she has a serious lack of maturity and disrespect for the property of others. What is even more disturbing is that this "culprit" would even remove a banner commemorating the birthday of the late Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr.

It is upsetting to think that as "adults" attending college for an education, many of us have not yet attained the maturity or intelligence we come to Winthrop to acquire.

We hope that all organizations will band together to stop this injustice.

Sincerely,
Brutus Brown
A Concerned Greek

Hunger

Dear Editor:

It may not be often that you get a letter from someone other than a person directly connected to Winthrop, but I am taking the liberty to write you on behalf of the article written by managing editor Lisa Bule which appeared in the Dec. 3 edition. I salute her on the article she wrote, entitled Hunger: A Human Tragedy.

As a token of my appreciation for her fine article, I have enclosed a copy of my book, "The Trail of a Tramp."

I hasten to add that this is a true story, and except for the grace of God, I would not have survived the horrible life of Skid Row. Never mind have the sanity to write the book.

You see, I am well acquainted with hunger! Even though it was the result of my own doings that put me on Skid Row, the pain was no less severe. If anything, that made it all the worse, because I had no one to blame except myself.

Now, I am trying to help those who are in the same condition I was once in, while at the same time, I have dedicated a portion of the proceeds from the sale of the book to helping the needy.

Like you, I get a little upset with people who complain about what they have to eat, when there are countless millions who would be delighted to have just a slice of bread.

Hope you enjoy the book.

Sincerely,
Buck Roebuck
Eagles have bright future

By ROBERT JOLLY

TJ sports writer

Though the future of our athletic department may have appeared grim with the recent losses from our basketball teams and the retirement of athletic director, Nield Gordon, the entire department has made a turnaround toward a bright future.

The success is seen clearly in two soccer players who recently received scholarships, a lady Eagle who was given a volleyball award, a wrestling team whose boys are coming into full swing, and the baseball and golf teams which have both prepared well for their seasons. The impatience for success can be seen in the fast moving search for a new athletic director.

Most importantly, last Monday a proud delegation left our humble campus to present our case for an NCAA bid in Nashville, Tennessee. This should suggest that I'm not the only person happy with Winthrop's athletic improvements.

A well arranged committee was chosen to a road trip to Nashville with the firm intentions of bringing back an NCAA bid to Joan's house.

The NCAA National Convention ended last Monday. Winthrop was represented by Dr. Harold Tuttle, Vice President for Business and Finance, Nield Gordon, head basketball coach; Jack Lindsay, Chairman of the Athletic Committee; Doug Echols, Associate Athletic Director and Business Manager and Bob Breakfield, Chairman of the Faculty Athletic Committee.

These men presented Winthrop's case to the Division II roundtable Monday afternoon. The roundtable, which is made up of Presidents and Athletic Directors from NCAA Division II members, heard Winthrop's appeal to be accepted into the ranks of NCAA Division II and made a decision after a short discussion. Thus Winthrop WILL receive a bid after the needless discussion.

Tuttle said, "Winthrop is hopeful that its application for membership into the ranks of NCAA Division II will be accepted. We have done all that we can do in making the necessary preparation for the move."

With Winthrop's hard work and good attitude there shouldn't be anything to worry about; besides there has never been an application turned down by the roundtable.

There are a few rules in our way which the committee will try to gain waivers for. One of these is scheduling and the number of sports in which the college participates.

The rules are as follows: first the school must have at least eight men's sports in addition must play at least half of their games against either NCAA Division I or II schools. Winthrop has worked hard to comply with all the rules by adding three new sports; however, the schedule doesn't quite meet the guidelines this season. The Eagles have planned next year's schedule to meet the guidelines.

Echols commented on this saying, "We have made a strong effort to meet the requirements that the NCAA has set forth in all areas. We have shown by our actions that we want to follow the guidelines by what we have already accomplished this year and by what we have put in motion for next year. I see no reason why we can't be accepted."

Gordon added, "We have recruiting and practiced according to the rules of the NCAA this year and we intend on doing that in the future. We are following all of their guidelines in those areas. I do not see any reason for Winthrop not being accepted into the ranks of the NCAA Division II."

If Winthrop is accepted, it will become a Division II school on Sept. 1, 1985. So, gang, let's get in gear and hit the books so we can all be back next semester for this long awaited celebration!

The Winthrop Eagle wrestling team is making the best of the sufferings of a first year team. The goals for this year's club are to gain experience and to start a program based on dedication and hard work. Coachied by Tom Ellenberger and Hank Hammond, the team is considered a club, rather than a varsity team. "The administration decided to put us on club status this year so that all of our players would be eligible to wrestle," said Coach Ellenberger. He went on to say that most first year teams begin as clubs to gain some competitive experience. The club status also allows more recruits to come to Winthrop.

Thus far in the season, the Eagles have wrestled against four schools - Campbell University, University of Central Florida, Embry-Riddle College, and Elon College. Although the team has not yet taken a win, Coach Ellenberger seems to be satisfied with the directions the Eagles are taking. "We have done well having played teams with experienced wrestlers compared to our all-freshman team," he said. The Eagles have no expectations except to improve the wrestling program.

Winthrop will participate in a tournament at Elon College in the near future. Home matches are scheduled for Feb. 8; the Eagles will host a match with Livingston, Chowan, and Davidson. After that Davidson will return to Winthrop on the 16th, and the Eagles will wrestle Furman and Davidson on the 18th.

Standout wrestler Eric Boyd has won three of his four matches and tied one. His personal goal for the rest of the season is to improve and to go undefeated.

His goal for the team is to rise to the competitiveness of other schools.

While most of Winthrop's students were at home enjoying the holidays the Lady Eagles were playing basketball in Georgia and Florida and hoping to improve the 2-2 record they had before the holidays.

On the seven day tour the ladies played Furman, the University of Tampa, Florida Southern and Armstrong State. Janet Dykton, forward, leads from the line. On the seven day tour the ladies played Furman, the University of Tampa, Florida Southern and Armstrong State. Janet Dykton, forward, leads from the line.

Dykton's average per game was 15.8 points, 15.8 rebounds, has had 10 assists averaging 51 percent recovery. His personal goal for the rest of the season is to improve and to go undefeated.

Other top scorers on the team has Debbie Easterling with 9 points per game, Sharon Lee with 8.5 points, Mary Susan Austin, Pam Garrett and Carol Budds averaging five points per game.

Overall the Lady Eagles are averaging 82.8 points per game. They are shooting 49.3 percent from the floor and 85 percent from the line.

In rebounding the ladies are having big problems.

They have only been recovering 39.8 percent of stray shots while their opponents are averaging 51 percent recovery per contest.

Before the holidays USC-Spartanburg and Mercer claimed wins over Winthrop while the ladies beat Mars Hill and Lander.

In both losses games Winthrop took over 64-29 as rebounding was the problem in both losses.

The last Krouse Kount in the District had Winthrop seventh in the standings. Ahead of the Lady Eagles are Francis Marion, College of Charleston, Claffin and Erskine.

Nield Gordon, Athletic Director at Winthrop for the past seven and a half years, has announced his resignation that will be effective at the end of the year.

"It was important to the Athletic Department and to the basketball team that I decide on which one I should devote my time to. With the men's basketball team moving to NCAA I decided it was more important to go with the team."

He also added, "With the growth of the Athletic Department over the last seven years it was hard for me to devote an adequate amount of time to each job. That also helped me decide on staying with the basketball program."

When asked about the search for a new Athletic Director Gordon said, "The committee has made their decision as of January 1, 1985 as the deadline for applications. To make sure a qualified replacement will be hired, the school has advertised nation wide to find a quality person. Hopefully, we can have that person hired by early April so they can hire the additional staff necessary to run the program."

Gordon responded about his tenure saying, "I feel the most important thing has been the cooperation from the administration. They wanted a well rounded program and I feel I have tried to give them that. I was conscious of the women's programs and tried to be fair to them. I feel their records have proven to be one of the best programs in District 6. I would also like to thank the coaches, secretaries, and staff for making the past seven and a half years enjoyable."

POWER MUNCHING

Ha, Ha! He's ordering quiche! That means points for me!
I'll intimidate him with some aggressive fork gestures.
I bet he won't look suave swallowing those hairy little anchovies.
I'm glad his company pays for this.

I'll get the poached salmon. One more staring eye should shake him up.

How come they don't just eat anymore?

How can I talk turkey to a meathead with spinach stuck in his teeth?

This bozo probably thinks tofu is something that collects in his socks.
I'm glad his company pays for this.

Keep your chin up and your lunch down and...

YOU CAN HAVE IT ALL.

Or just order a Michelob Light to get it all: super-premium taste and a less-filling beer.
