TUESDAY, JUNE 23

Some time ago it was the will of our City Council that every person living or owning property within a certain restricted district of the city be required to put in sewerage. A number of people who are in possession of the city have carried out the will of the council and others have not. This fact was evidently brought to the attention of the council since the record shows that at another meeting the members of the council again discussed the matter and, we believe, it was the general understanding that this matter would be handled with dispatch.

It has been several months now since the order was issued and still there are a number of houses in the district mentioned above, which have no sewerage connection. Our opinion of the matter is that the city council has merely been delaying this important matter. However, we wish to state that some people talk as if they were of the opinion that our city council is allowing certain privileges to certain citizens. We sincerely trust the view of the matter is in error and that our council will immediately take steps to see that the citizens of this town enjoy equal rights. No one need argue that it is good government to require one man to put in sewerage and not require the same of his neighbor.

There may have been a few big business firms in this country who expected to "mop up" in the world this country entered in the event this war had doubled, it allowed that way they would gouge the government and the people to a happy "pay-off" well. The regulations are being formulated which will allow President Wilson authority to handle not only the price of articles to be purchased by the government but also the handling of the prices to be paid by the people. The prices of the various commodities are essential to the success or failure of our war and Congress must see that the President authority so protect the government in the prices it must pay for the proceeds of the war as well as the things the people must consume during the war.

It appears that it has taken a world-wide war to make the American people realize that speculation in illegitimate business. This so-called speculation is nothing less than gambling but it has been going on so long until we have become callous, so to speak, and we call it speculation.

The difference between legitimate business and this gambling, which we call speculation, is that in the latter business transaction both parties to the deal are benefited, whereas in the speculative transaction one party loses that another may win. The cotton farmers of the South have lost millions of dollars by speculation but it has taken a world-wide war to open the eyes of the people.

with the United States in its present conflict certainly has no business being Mayor of Chicago and it is to be hoped that the present head of that city will be forced to keep down and out.

True Personal Service
Personal service is the one great outstanding obligation of every man and woman in this country at the present time. Unless we give it readily, voluntarily and promptly we shall fail to perform a high patriotic duty. Experience has shown throughout all our lives hitherto that the individual personal service which we have been able to render from time to time has accomplished the best and most lasting results. There have been many times in our experience when we have yielded to the temptation to shirk our duty and allow others to perform it for us. Such a policy may not have benefited very much to us at the time; indeed, we probably congratulated ourselves that we were not to be troubled with the responsibility and went on our way rejoicing. Repeated offenses of the kind, however, result in the formation of the habit of shirking our duty and after a while we lose our sense of individual responsibility and seldom go out of our way to render personal service. It is a condition nature imposes upon us, and the result is that there are many persons who do not realize the meaning of the phrase "personal service" nor what obligations it imposes. Of course, there are men and women everywhere who are willing to do something now to show their loyalty to the cause in which we are engaged, but either because of their lack of appreciation or selfishness in its best sense or because they do not yet realize the significance of the tremendous effort which is transpiring they fall before the "all day duty."

The time has come, however, when we cannot pass on to others the work which we ourselves must do. Those others who perhaps have borne in silence more than their share of the burden have now as much as they can do in performing the duty of this country and for this reason the idea of personal service from each individual must be impressed upon all who are typically and mentally able to be of assistance in the present crisis. There is so much to be done, so many ways in which the individual may help, so many calls to be responded to, that those who are sincere in their desire to help will find ample opportunity for doing so. Indeed, the chief of personal service is large and mobile and does not make very much difference at the present stage in which direction we should apply our activities. One line of endeavor being very nearly as important as another. Aside from active military service there are a host of lines open to conscientious men and women active in the sole desire to be of service. It is the growing of crops, the purchase of Liberty Bonds, the active participation of Red Cross and allied patriotic organizations, the conservation of God-given gifts, the prevention of waste, the preserving and canning of fruit and vegetables for family winter use, and many similar opportunities. It is impossible for every individual to work in the same field of activity for various reasons, and perhaps the most important of these is the simple one that one person may render more valuable service in one direction than in another, and competence is the best guide as to the choice of a field of service. The point is that we can do something for the good of our country if we will. Perhaps not as much as many of us would like, but at least we have the opportunity of doing what we can. We can afford to lay it by while others are doing it, but we can do it ourselves, and we can do it now. We can begin to give notice. When we have reached that point we may feel that help because it is the dawn of a new era of personal service. And we begin to find our places in the ranks and become active workers in the field of patriotic service.

Just as in our normal intercourse in life we know that the best results are secured from personal service from the work of the individual himself—now, we shall find that in the present crisis with its increased obligations the work of the individual is especially important. We must all "separate" for the most. We must all "go our own specific way" in an effort, but at least all roads of an end, and each man and woman must make it a moral obligation to do the "right" thing so essential to national success. It is all things, and we must make it a moral obligation to do the "right" thing so essential to national success. It is all things, and we must make it a moral obligation to do the "right" thing so essential to national success.

GERMAN PAPER AGAIN ATTACKS MR. GERARD
Vostische Zeitung Recalls Suicide of Ludwig Grosse, an Alleged Agent of the German Red Cross

The Hague, June 22.—The Vostische Zeitung of Berlin, continuing its campaign against former Ambassador Gerard, now accuses him of causing the suicide of Ludwig Grosse, a so-called American resident of Berlin. This accusation is supported by Jacques Meyer and by Isaac Wolf, who is President of the pseudo-American Chamber of Commerce in Berlin.

The paper further accuses Mr. Gerard of asserting the famous Adlon dinner after his return from America that he himself had collected $100,000 in America, when in reality the sum was mostly collected by Grosse. Grosse was supposed to have become mentally affected, and was found dead in January with a receipt on him for the compensation he was to have received. In this connection it may be remembered that Mrs. Grosse, who also went to America to collect money, achieved the unenviable reputation of smuggling a German revolver across the ocean to her cabin, but it was discovered by the British authorities owing to the fact that the cabin consumed so much fuel.

A BIG WAR

The legitimate children of commerce have been at war with the illegitimate children of commerce since time immemorial. This terrible conflict was absolutely unavoidable from the fact that the interests of the two were diametrically opposed to each other.

The illegitimate children of commerce settles with their creditors at 20, 30, 40 and 50 cents on the dollar. The legitimate children of commerce settle with their creditors at 100 cents on the dollar. The illegitimate children of commerce, or in other words, these little band of distinguished scoundrels and thieves have been swooping down upon the honest towns and cities ever since Nash built the ark. It strikes us very forcibly that if we had been blessed with a legislature worthy of the name, in the late 2,000 years, there would have been a law by and through which these little coterie of crooks could have been sent to the penitentiary, where they belong.

Most every sane, rational and well balanced man in this country knows that there have been hundreds and thousands of what is commonly termed, "Honest Failures," in the mercantile world and that there will be hundreds and thousands more. Honest failures, before "Catawba" shows its rampant but over against this lamentable state of affairs stands a growing triumph the legitimate trade of the United States.

Judging from observation and what we can gather from their journals, and talks with our friends, the traveling salesmen, here is what is known as the strictly up-to-date methods employed by these cool, cold-blooded, but possessed, brazen faced, all around crooks. They simply go to work, and buy thousands of dollars worth of goods from the jobbers, wholesalers and manufacturers of this country, open up a store and sell the goods out at prices way below the actual cost of production, put the money in their pockets, hire a lawyer and settle their claim at 30 and 40 cents on the dollar. The 60 and 70 per cent is quietly stolen.

One of the most absurd and ridiculous things connected with this whole nefarious traffic is simply this: After these two-legged fiends in human form fill their pockets with stolen wealth and dishonest gain they try to pose as community builders and modern philanthropists in other words their souls have become expanded to such an extent that their benevolence takes in the whole wide, wide world. In fact there are any "Doubting Thomases" in these "diggins" who have some very important documentary evidence in our office that will substantiate what we have written.

Death of Fomer Chester Man

The many friends of Mr. W. H. Hicklin in Chester and Chester county will regret to learn of his death, which occurred yesterday morning at his home in Ebenezer, South Carolina, after an illness of several months.

Mr. Hicklin was born and raised in Chester county, where he resided about six years ago, when he moved to Ebenezer.

At the time of his death he was in his 77th year. He was married three times. His first wife was Christine Backstrom, and one son, James Hicklin, survives this union. His second wife was Miss Ester Poag. Three children survive this union, they being A. W. Hicklin of Scheppenhans N. Y., Frank Hicklin of Hamburg, and Harry Hicklin, farm service at Charleston. His last wife, who was Miss Hannah Poag survives him, with one son, W. C. Hicklin, by his union. The funeral was held at his home in Ebenezer.
