TUESDAY, JULY 13
THE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION JULY 28.

There are no prettier picnic grounds in Chester county than around Pleasant Grove Presbyterian church. Plenty of shade, water, grass and a large church building. Mr. H. K. McGarity, superintendent of this Sunday school and president of the Hazelwood District is host for the convention, and he will make all arrangements with his lady helper for spreading the dinner. The State officers are anxious to meet all the superintendents, pastors, teachers and well-wishers at this convention. The entire State is being covered, and the last county convention to be held will be on August 4th.

Up to this time none have had less than 500 in attendance. Pleasant Grove is in every reach of all the schools in the county, and there should be at least 1,000 delegates attending.

If there were to be a big political gathering and barbecue down in one corner of the county, the devil would hold a free hand and all the folk would flock to hear the mud-slinging. Why won't people and especially Christian people, stop one day in the year to emphasize and encourage the important work that God commands us to do? If there are 1,000 delegates there should be 250 baskets. The county and State officers appear to the Sunday school workers to turn out in large numbers.

The program is snappy and interesting. One hour and a half will be taken for dinner, and the exercises will begin at 10 o'clock and end at 4:30. Rev. J. R. Moore, of Black Lake, Rev. T. R. Coker, of Fork stock, Rev. Wm. R. Night, of the Baptist pastor of South Carolina, State Secretary Leon C. Palmer, Capt. J. L. Glenn and Major M. L. Marion will open the good discussion, and make interesting talks.

No school should fail to enter the contest for the handsome banner. The Chester County Sunday School Association is one of the integral parts of the South Carolina Sunday School Association. This meeting, indicated by the speakers' program, is an inter-denominational meeting, and every worker in every white Sunday school, whether 1000 or 15, or teacher in Chester county, is urged to attend. "Forward" is the keyword. If you believe in going forward in the religious education of the childhood and youth of the county, come to this convention.

MISSING GIRL FOUND.
Juanita Allen, of Chattanooga, located in Greenville.

Greenville, July 10.—Juanita Allen, 17 years old school girl, disappeared from Chattanooga, Tenn., who disappeared June 29, was discovered here today working in a lunch room by a newspaper reporter. She was identified by her identity.

The young woman had been scrubbing floors, washing dishes and doing the chores about the restaurant and a crowd of my experience," she said. The girl told the story of her wanderings. She donned a boy's outfit and had her hair cut in Chattanooga. From Atlanta, she said, she reached Greenville by riding alternately on freight trains and in motor cars which "picked" her up along the highway. She had been here eight days.

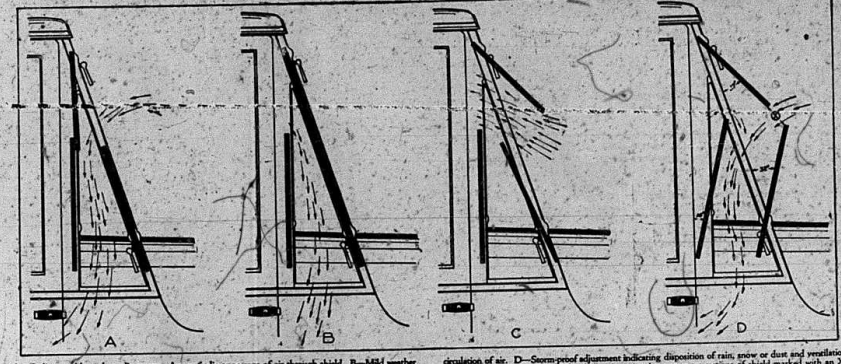

"She will return to her home in Chattanooga tomorrow.

As explanation of her disappearance, the girl said she picked up a man who overpowered her and set out to circle the globe. She expressed the opinion that she would have accomplished her mission if she had not been discovered.

Postage Stamps.
The first stamp for letters to a revenue producing agent was introduced into Great Britain by Sir Rowland Hill in 1840. For a while the stamps were simply bits of paper which had to be pasted on the letter by the purchaser. The first adhesive stamp was the English "One penny black." It was not until 1854 that perforated stamps came into use. Before this all stamps had to be cut apart.

There's a Touch of Tomorrow In All Cole Does Today

A—Ordinary old weather adjustment. Arrow—direction of air through shield. B—Wind weather adjustment showing ventilation of interior of car by suction. C—Warm weather adjustment. Arrow shows circulation of air. D—Storm-proof adjustment indicating disposition of rain, snow or dust and ventilation of interior of car by suction. Note clear vision space between outer sections of shield marked with an X.

All Motor Cars Eventually Will Have The Vacuum Storm-Proof Windshield

Rain, snow or mist can not befog it—Clear vision under all circumstances—Ventilates interior of car by suction process—Instantly adjustable—Adapts itself to all weather demands—An invention introduced by Cole twelve months ago now adopted in the Aero-EIGHT Toursedan and Tourosine—Positive in operation.

Among the distinctly new and useful features introduced in the Aero-EIGHT all-season cars is the VACUUM STORM-PROOF WINDSHIELD. Motorists long have hoped for just such an improvement, and it seems natural that it should have been a Cole innovation.

The VACUUM STORM-PROOF WINDSHIELD adapts itself to all weather conditions—insuring clear vision for the driver and effecting draughtless ventilation of the interior of the car, under all circumstances. Though it may rain in torrents; though the snow may beat down; though mist may be dense or the wind blow in a gale, a clear vision space—unobstructed by glass—is maintained constantly on a direct line with the driver's eyes and yet, not a drop of rain, nor a flake of snow nor a particle of dust can enter the car!

There is another adjustment for warm weather driving, still another for moderate weather and a third for cold weather. Each of the four adjustments is simple and requires but a moment.

Pick your own weather and let us take you for a ride in an Aero-EIGHT Toursedan or Tourosine that you may see the remarkable possibilities of the vacuum storm-proof windshield. It is an advancement of significant interest to every motor car owner.

READY TO PROTECT SAYS GOVERNOR.

North Carolina Executive Warns Spikers Not to Interfere.
Raleigh, N. C., July 10.—Addressing more than 100 inhabitants of the textile mill village of Landis near here, late today following a personal investigation of the trouble centering in the strike of several hundred operatives, Governor T. W. Bickett gave warning that if the owners desired to operate their mills and operatives wanted to go to work, which they had a perfect right to do, the State would furnish whatever protection was needed against those who might interfere.

The Governor's address, delivered from an automobile in a grove while down and all business houses closed down that the people might hear him, followed a series of conferences with representatives of the Linn and Company mills, under the same management, and representatives of the operatives. He also had a conference with disinterested citizens.

The Governor stated that the mill owners had a right to discharge an employee if they had reason to believe it proper, that others had a right to continue at work and none had a right to interfere. The Governor spent the day at Landis in an effort to bring about a settlement of the strike, trouble which started about five weeks ago when the mill management discharged an employee. About 600 workers at that time quit, but the majority of them since have returned to work. It is reported that those who did not return have been threatening and menacing those who did.

FORD NOW OWNS RAILROAD.

Deal Said to Involve Approximately Eighty-four Million.

Detroit, July 10.—Purchase of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironston Railroad by Henry Ford and his son, Edsel S. Ford, was announced today. The purchase price was not disclosed. Purchase of the road was, in part, the outgrowth of difficulties in Michigan industries have experienced for several years in obtaining coal from the Southeastern bituminous fields.

Negotiations for the purchase of the road had been under way several weeks. Henry Ford deposited their bonds aside an option good until August. As that time it was said the deal would involve approximately $84,000,000.

In announcing the road's purchase it was declared the price was "never at hundred thousand more than was originally asked," and that Mr. Ford desired that no stockholders should sacrifice their holdings.

Some 2,000 employees of the railroad, Mr. Lathrop added, will immediately receive the benefits of Ford wage bonus plan.

KHAKI LINES PARIS TAXIS.
French Girls Find Happy Remedy in Cab Rides.

Paris, July 3.—Although it was a common sight to see youngsters in all parts of France clothed with cut-down olive drab uniforms discarded by American doughboys before leaving France, the query of what had become of the thousands of yards of cloth left in the American army stores has been answered. Instead of being uphoisted with the drab dark blue or grey cloth, Paris taxis are appearing remodelled as American hacks.

Investigation shows that the enterprising owners discovered that the cloth destined to withstand barbaric wire attacks and the dust of battle could be purchased from the American liquidation board cheaper than the ordinary shoddy material offered by profiteering manufacturers. Now the usual Paris taxis already in wearing American khaki dress inside, it is asserted the bulldog "filleters" happily for the American soldier who made life pleasant during the war cannot be induced to purchase anything but "doughboy taxis."

SERVANTS IN EUROPE.

France Faces Serious Problem For First Time.

Paris, June 14.—The shrewd problem now of Europe is being newly upper space and private discussion in France with high taxes and revolutions. The women who went into factories during the war have not returned to the broom and the pot.

The government tax on servants, definitely included in the new tax bill, is the least of the trouble, but it served to bring out long, loud complaints that there are few servants. Employees protest to be willing to pay double and triple pre-war wages and to recognize the servants' new standard of demands.

Unlike the American housewife the French have not yet taken for granted the general use of electric and gas equipment, washing machines, patent kitchen cabinets and all the rest of the labor-savers that give advertisers the courage to print pretty pictures of the young bride in a lace apron getting dinner to the music of a phonograph, while reading a book in the breezes of an electric fan.

France is taking the servant shortage seriously. Eminent surveys of Indo-China and French Africa are being published to show the availability of other races for household work.

Meanwhile the congerie carries the offers of better wages from an employer to the maid of her best friend.

HARD WINTER COMING UNLESS COAL FALLS.

Atlanta, July 10.—The coming winter will inevitably bring untold suffering to the people of Georgia unless the most energetic measures are immediately begun to bring about a reduction in the price of coal used in bringing the fuel to Georgia. James W. Austin, assistant fair price commissioner for Georgia, stated tonight.

Mr. Austin made his statement when acting in the absence of the fair price commissioner, he permitted the retail price of grate coal to be raised from $13 a ton to $15.75, effective Monday.

He declared that the advance in price was made necessary by the fact that the retailers had to pay.

"The only remedy for the coal famine in Georgia, which he predicted lies in the government fixing a maximum price for coal at the mines, and the interstate commerce commission using its full powers to get cars to the mines," Mr. Austin said. He added that already there is hardly any coal on hand in Atlanta and said the same situation is found in many other cities of the state.

CONFESSION OF CRIME.

Former Negro Soldier Admits Killing.

Anniston, Ala.—A negro soldier under sentence of death for murder of an Anniston street car conductor, Cecil Linton, in 1918, has confessed his crime and declared his conversion and belief in Jesus Christ.

The negro who is sentenced to hang here July 30, declared that he was confident that his sentence would be commuted to life imprisonment. "The devil made me kill Mr. Linton," he said, "and I would have been just forever, if I had been executed after the killing. I was converted on February 26 and God has revealed to me that he would save me from the hangman's noose. The Lord had a hand in getting me into trouble in order to save my soul."

Petitions asking that Caldwell's sentence be commuted to life imprisonment will be presented to the governor of Alabama, it is understood.

Mrs. John R. Taylor, of Richburg, is a patient at the Pryor Hospital, where she underwent an operation the latter part of last week, and is reported as getting along very nicely.

FOR COTTON ASSOCIATION.

Big Picnic on the Filbert Grounds August 4th.

People of the Tirah community, co-operating with the York County Cotton Association, proposes to entertain 10,000 people from the Piedmont sections of North and South Carolina at the Tirah picnic August 4th.

The Filbert picnic ground, famous over the Carolina, has been set aside for the occasion. The late Senator Tillman, ex-Governor Bleas and others, but nothing to compare with that which, it is believed, will come to Tirah.

Three beaves will be purchased by a committee of Tirah people within the next few days, and these will be barbecued by "Uncle Jack" Reed, famous barbecue chef of Rock Hill. Dr. J. B. Johnson, of Rock Hill, president of the York County Cotton Association, will preside over the exercises of the morning.

The picnic is to be distinctly a country picnic, with a view to entertaining the people in the American Cotton Association, and is not political in any sense.

PRODUCE MORE.
The fundamental trouble in the business world at the present time is that, resulting from the war, there is a world-wide shortage both of available goods and of capital available for investment, and this situation is aggravated by the inclination of the wage-earners to curtail rather than increase production.

If the normal consumption of wheat is four bushels per head, and only three bushels per head is available, a general advance of wages will not increase the supply. If anybody gets more than three bushels others must do with less. An increase of wages all around would simply enable everybody to bid higher, and the higher wages would be absorbed in that way. The only real remedy for a scarcity of goods is more goods and that is the lesson which the country needs to learn today.

It is not unnatural or strange that wage-earners should take advantage of an extraordinary demand for labor to push up wages. Employers are promoting it in many instances, the different industries bidding against each other. The rise of wages under the circumstances is as legitimate as the rise of prices which results from the relations of supply and demand. The curtailment of production is on a different basis. It is economically unsound from the standpoint of both the community and the wage-earner class. It counteracts the effect of rising wages, depriving the wage-earners of the benefits which higher wages should bring.—The Nation's Business.

How Much is a Million?

The moment you mention a million dollars to some people, they are antagonistic.

They imagine that a million dollars represents a tremendous part of the national wealth.

Instead it represents only one penny for each inhabitant of our country.

Swift & Company last year had an output of 5,500,000,000 pounds. A profit of one cent per pound would have resulted in $55,000,000.

The actual net profit was $14,000,000 or one-fourth of what we would have made had the profit been at the rate of 1 cent a pound.

An average profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound indicates a highly competitive condition in the industry and also proves our assertion that packer profits have practically no effect on prices.

PURCHASING RAIN.

Kansas City Star. Rain is being contracted for on the Pacific coast by farmers who have accepted the proposal of a professional rainmaker to furnish precipitation on the basis of no rain, no pay. Fifteen hundred dollars are each under a recent contract to be paid a rainmaker for all precipitation recorded at Okadale in arch and up to April 30. The district recording rain was the San Joaquin valley, where the rainfall had been heavily deficient for several months. Ordinarily the San Joaquin valley gets considerable rain in the spring, and it received more than its normal supply this year, so the rainmaker may have had a profitable contract. He is following an ancient profession. From the dawn of history man has been an active agent in the time of drought. His intentions were expected to furnish moisture. Presumably he was usually shrewd enough to furnish in proportion to what he had in mind. It did no good to pray for rain as long as the wind was in the southwest. By selecting a favorable occasion for making rain he kept up the trade for generations.

The modern rainmaker, of course, is not so crude as his predecessor. He bases his claims on science and proclaims the efficacy of chemical combinations or explosions. Unhappily all these claims are discredited by the observations of the weather bureau of the world. Rains are the product of atmospheric conditions of vast extent—of tremendous eddies of air a thousand miles in diameter. These eddies act as a gigantic pump, forcing the air to ascend, to cool by expansion, and to precipitate its moisture in the form of rain.

No human effort could be anything more than a flea like comparison for the foggy belt which extends to the pole during storms. The language of rain is pronounced the nearer it gets to the earth. The clouds that rain falls from eventually merge into a long protracted and petty war where people get so desperate they are ready to hire a rainmaker. It may well happen that the rainmaker, the nebulous man, may get the credit, but he is no more responsible than was Rosland's cock that thought his crowing made the sun rise.

BE SINCERE.

It is told of a candidate for public office that in the course of an address which was winning him loud applause he was seen to turn and wink at a friend seated near him on the platform. From the moment of this wink the address fell completely flat. He wondered at the audience's changed attitude. He wondered still more when election day came and he was soundly beaten at the polls. "What the explanation was simplicity itself. Rightly or wrongly, his audience Mr. Voters had interpreted that wink as a sign of insincerity. And the halting was consequently certain to go against the winning one, if for no other reason than that the people will not knowingly intrust an office with the conduct of public affairs."

It is the same in all professions, in all walks of life. Insincerity, craft, flattery attracts. And the insincerity are soon or later relegated to the obscurity and ignominy they deserve. Nor does one have to betray his insincerity by winks or nods or shrugs of the shoulder. It is the self-satisfied manner, the face, his words, his general bearing, no matter how guarded he may be.

Quickly suspicion crystallizes into certainty. The speaker's unspoken verdict is: "That man is a sham. He is only talking for effect. He does not mean what he says. He is out for himself, first, last, and all the time, and only for himself.

"He cares nothing for you or me. He does not care when he winks, so long as he 'gets there.' Look out for him."

The very handshake of the insincere is enough to put others on guard. Always it is either a clammy handshake or an offensively ardent one. In either case it sets the nerves on edge. And the eye of the insincere is a telltale eye. There is in it no gleam of honest enthusiasm, of genuine sympathy, or a kindly, calculating selfish hardness that reflects unerringly the heart beneath the smiler's face.

The heart to struggle in sincerity is too hard. No insincere man is capable of it for any length of time or on all occasions. And once self-betrayal occurs a penalty is certain, the heavier the longer it is delayed.

All who would really succeed in life need to keep this in mind. Especially should it be remembered by the young man launching on whatever career he has chosen.

Let him, in anything, pretend what he does not believe, and he is doomed to a place among the laggards. Insincerity he will find a crushing inability, just as sincerity will prove a wondrous asset.

"BILL."

Bill threw biscuits at his sister. When his mother wasn't by. If, by accident, they missed her. He would smash her in the eye. Then he kicked his little brother. Till the kid was black and blue. And when scolded by his mother. He assailed her roughly, too. But his mother's always gentle. Never had her temper riled. "Bill," she said, "is temperamental. He's misunderstood, poor child."

Bill, who always wanted money. Used to rob the baby's bank. He carried his money in a box. And an engaging boyish prank. To the grocery he would carry. His supply of stolen pie. Where he bought confectonary. Which he ate—all by himself. When his irritated father. Said such conduct was not good. Bill's mamma said, "Bill is rather trying—but misunderstood."

Bill grew up—as was expected. On obtaining manhood's prime. He went and stole—and was detected. In these flagrant forms of crime. He was dragged before a jury. In a closely guarded court. Where despite his howls of fury. His misdoings were cut short. Twenty years he was awarded. And he quailed and gazed aghast. While the sentence was recited. He was understood—at last!

Bull Weevil Prospects.

The bull weevil prospects for 1920 in Alabama is extremely favorable to the weevil. Killing from occurs in the fall of 1919, and large numbers of weevils therefore went into hibernation in first-class condition and at an unusually late date. During the winter that has passed, few fields were plowed on account of the unusually heavy rainfall and continuously wet condition of the soil. The minimum temperatures experienced during the winter have not been so low as usual, and in part of the state have they been quite mild. During the winter an unusual percentage of mortality among the hibernating weevils. The preparation for spring planting has been ununusually delayed on account of the excessive rainfall, and it is quite certain that an unusually large number of weevils may be expected to emerge before the time sowing begins, even in the earliest-planted fields.—W. E. Hinds, in The Progressive Farmer.

AFTER STOCK SALESMEN.

Insurance Commissioner After-Slick Schenker.

The story of how two stock salesmen, operating in violation of the Blue Sky laws of South Carolina, made an almost successful effort to relieve an aged and respected South Carolina farmer of ten thousand of his hard-earned dollars, taking advantage of the man's age and infirmities, was told yesterday afternoon by W. A. McSwain, of Columbia, state insurance commissioner, and the story reads like the crooked financial deal of a modern financier. Warrington, the two agents and by quick action of the insurance department and attorney acting for the old man, his money was saved.

The old man lives in one of the prominent Pee Dee counties and is said to be of advanced age as he is an easy mark for a crook. Two men who were acting as agents for a Wilmington corporation, learned to sell the stock in the state, took it upon themselves to sell certain stock of a New Orleans concern. They represented to the old man that McSwain would invest in the thousand dollars in this venture, giving his notes, he would make his money back in a few years. He was told that his notes were desired in order to establish credit for the concern and that the notes would be held until the dividends equalled the investment he had made, when they would be paid, his investment not costing him a cent, except interest on the notes for a short time.

Value of a College Education
There was never a time when expert knowledge was so highly prized and so highly compensated.
High wages for untrained labor will tempt many a young man to discount the value of a college education. But such an education, representing the work of four years, viewed merely as an investment of time and of money, is equal in earning capacity to an estate of more than $50,000.
What estate comparable with this can the parent of average means hope to give or leave to his son? What young man can acquire that much value in the same time at any other business?
Education fits one for a life whose possibilities are limited only by his capacity and character.
Eventually for the untrained there awaits the slavery of ignorant and undirected effort.
Clemson College brings within the reach of every young man in South Carolina the benefits and possibilities of a technical education. At Clemson College a boy from the humblest home in South Carolina can prepare himself for a high place in the service of his state and nation.

Ready financial growth brings greater happiness than sudden riches.

LEGITIMATE business looks for steady returns. The thoughtful business man forms a banking connection with an honorable, capable institution such as this bank, and avails himself of the service of its various departments.

THE NATIONAL EXCHANGE BANK OF CHESTER, S.C.

most development was discovered by the old man's son, a business man of the Pee Dee section, who discovered that his father's notes were being offered for sale at the banks. The son of the aged man headed off this step in the crooked transaction and told the banks that if they took the notes for their face value he would attack them. The notes were discovered. Prosecution in the notes department who made the unsuccessful effort to relieve the old man of his money will be pushed by the insurance department. Names of the parties are withheld by the insurance commissioner.

Mr. McSwain stated that the people of South Carolina should not invest their money in any stock scheme, unless the agents of the concern show licenses issued by the insurance department.
