ECONOMY THE CURE FOR HIGH PRICES.

People of Older Countries Expect Finance to Crash to Bottom. (By J. D. Whelpley.) London, June 25.—The people do not want revolution. They want food, raiment and housing for less money than they are now compelled to pay for these necessities of life.

On May 1 the greatest labor demonstration in history was witnessed in the city of London. The only real crisis of this demonstration have been the extreme radicals and Socialists. They complain bitterly that as a revolutionary demonstration it was the most impressive feature and more house room for what he would pay for scant measure and serious social disorders will cease to vex those who are responsible for the maintenance of law and order.

Men do not take their families to revolutionary gatherings, and co-operative societies only prosper where a demonstration.  FRIDAY, JULY 16.
 "SAFETY FIRST."

We have become accustomed to associate the phrase "Safety First" with the desire to avoid physical accidents, but if we consider the general welfare it is advisable also to apply it to the ordinary conditions of living, such as providing against possible hardships that might be avoided with the exercise of care and discretion now. Of course this has reference to the ways of extravagance that that has spread over the country from coast to coast during the last few years. There are signs that it has reached its height and that it will soon recede leaving distress and disaster in its wake. But even so, observation shows all too plainly that people are spending money carelessly, without thought, to the present much less to the future. It would seem to be the part of sound logic that those of us who have more money now than we had before in our lives should not be willing to spend it simply for the sake of spending. We know in all conscience that our expenses eat up by far the larger portion of our incomes, and unfortunately living expenses have to be incurred whether or not we need to do so. When materials come high there is no need to buy as we did in the past. My days of cheaper prices will cost three and four times as much as they used to be. There is no occasion to make our tables groan with good things to eat when plain fare is obtainable.

It was not so many years ago that in all the larger cities of this country bread lines and soup kitchens were common sights; there were not enough jobs for the workers then and men were glad to labor a day for the price of a meal. Because those days are behind us there is no danger that other days like them may be our lot, unless we do some good, hard thinking now while we have the chance. The man who wastes his money is enjoying himself now, but the man who saves his money now is following by far the wiser policy. The people of Chester have learned their lesson, we are told, and because of their hardships and sacrifices during the war days they are able now to afford a bit more of a bit longer while they put by out of their small earnings something for the rainy days, so certain it is that it may be that it is because we in America have not been called upon to hear physical suffering and make physical sacrifices that we are so prone to our hearing "for the moment, and are wandering about aimlessly through the rich days that have been our portion of late. The man who has gone to our heads and we do not know how to get our feet back on the ground.

"Safety First" is a good slogan for all of us to stick to in our habits and give daily heed to. It will eliminate the possibilities of a least stab as we are doing now, nor set traps for our upward feet. We do not appreciate the fact that we are fast approaching a crisis in our affairs, not someone else's affairs, but our own individual concerns. We must stop wasting, and stop loafing, and stop making light of hard times. And above all we must begin today to increase our savings even though it may be at great personal sacrifice and discomfort. Because a friend next door chooses to dress in the finest clothes and run the finest cars and enjoy the finest dinners there is no reason why we should follow in his tracks. Better to drop his acquaintance and go our own way than his. As he is at the head of the parade, let us be at the rear of the parade. There are some foolish, misguided people who never think of the possible shower when that shower turns into a down-pour; we may rest assured that the spender next door will not offer us a scurrying about for a haven of his own. The virtue of thrift will then be appreciated at its true worth by those who have been in the "capitulation of the example" by others.

We must provide against the future if we would make the most of the present. The poor home looks large on the horizon of many of the world's worst workers; who know but that we may one day be counted among those worst workers, and we must be ready to meet it. It is not that we should not help us then to say that at one time in our lives we had more than we needed, but we wanted it because we did not understand how easy it was to lose what we had. We learned the trick of saving when our car of the lesson and we hoped that the lesson would be an enduring one. Today, however, we are in many ways greater spenders and greater consumers than we ever before. The property brought in by the war has dissipated and bestowed as a nation. Many of us are in a state of debt, and we wait until the lights go out at night to realize the lesson of saving. It is a little right thinking now will help to ward off much hardship and suffering later on, and at the same time it is a little in compensating abnormal conditions.

ORGANIZE COMPANY TO START ORCHARD.
 Developments of Seven Undertaken Acre Tract.
 Spartanburg, July 14.—For the purpose of developing a 700 acre apple and peach orchard at Saluda, N. C., George H. Tripp and H. E. DePass of Spartanburg have applied to the secretary of state for authority to form a corporation to be known as the Saluda Development Company. The tract, originally purchased by A. B. Leach & Co. of New York, was heavily wooded until several years ago when several thousand feet of trees were cut out. Hundreds of acres still bear a great deal of timber, and the Saluda Development Company will clear out this tract of 700 acres. George H. Tripp is vice president and general manager of the South Carolina Light & Power Company of this city, and H. E. DePass is attorney for the corporation, which is the property of A. B. Leach & Co. of New York. It is believed here that the entry of the Saluda Development Company into the apple and peach growing industry at Saluda will have an important bearing upon the movement to establish an apple exchange at Saluda, which, if all planned, will handle the apples from the South Carolina department of agriculture. The apples are handled at Tryon, N. C., at short distance away.

JAILER SCORED FOR NOT INVESTIGATING PACKAGE PARCEL FOR BOONE BROTHERS CONTAINED HAZARDOUS BELIEF IN ASHEVILLE.
 Asheville, July 15.—Investigation made by the county commissioners today into the jail delivery of seven white prisoners from the Buncombe county jail early this morning did not result in fixing the responsibility on any one person, but in the sense of those conducting the investigation that had Jailer Ed Wilson investigated the contents of the package brought last Friday by Mrs. Perkins in the Boone Brothers' package, no escape was possible for the prisoners in sawing through the iron bars would have been discovered.

S. C. COTTON WAREHOUSE CAMPAIGN OPENS TODAY.
 Columbia, July 14.—The opening meeting of the state-wide campaign to be conducted by the South Carolina division of the American Cotton Association, the extension office of Clemson College, the State Department of Agriculture, and the United States department of agriculture, for the purpose of arousing the people to the necessity of making the problem of the scientific marketing of their cotton will be held at Anderson tomorrow.

The speakers at this meeting will be United States Senator Nathaniel D. A. F. Lever, member of the Warmanaker, president of the American Cotton Association.
 Friday another state-wide meeting will be held at Orangeburg. The speakers will be Governor Cooper, Senator George K. Laney and J. S. Wannamaker.
 Saturday the third big meeting will be held at Kernham, in which addresses will be delivered by Mr. Lever, Mr. Wannamaker and J. A. Evans, chief of the office of extension work of the department of agriculture.

Following the three state-wide meetings, four parties of "visitors" will be sent to each of the top of the state, invading every county.
FIVE-YEAR-OLD NEGRO BOY SHOT AND KILLED.
 Durham, White Man, Recently Fined, is Arrested as a Suspect in Case.
 Durham, N. C., July 14.—James Loftin, a young white man who was sentenced by Governor Bickett July 11, after he had served six months in a two years' sentence for attacking his wife with a knife, was arrested Saturday as a suspect in connection with the murder of Josephus Robertson, a five-year-old negro boy. The negro boy was at play in the neighborhood of his home late this afternoon when some one shot him. He was carried into the house and blood was found on the bed, where he was found dead by relatives an hour later.
 Officers state that Loftin's mother and other relatives say that he told them he carried the knife in his house, in the presence of him, he denied that he had made such a statement.

MAINTAIN THE ROADS
 COLLETON COUNTY FIGHTING WEEVIL.
 Thousands of Acres of Peanuts and Sweet Potatoes to Suffer from Loss.
 Walterboro, July 14.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Colleton Products Association was held at the offices of the association in the Press and Standard building today. The association was organized with a capital stock of $100,000 to combat the coming of the weevil, and is proving quite an important factor in the work being done in this county to meet boll weevil conditions.
 Among the things done and reported at this meeting by President Shaffer were the sale of seed for planting several thousand acres of Spanish peanuts, a car of sweet potatoes and several hundred "detritus" bags worth of seed corn. There are now being erected in the county four sweet potato storage and curing houses, one at Walterboro, one at Ledyard, one at Rifter, one at Ledyard and one at Smoaks. The central grain elevator at Walterboro is also being rushed to completion and will be ready to handle all the corn, wheat, peas, peas, rice, etc., which the farmers wish to sell. Reports received from the meeting from stockholders from over the county indicate that these houses will all do a roaring business, and that the shortage of cotton caused by the weevil will be overcome in a large measure.

GASOLINE PUMPS FOUND DEFICIENT.
 Investigation at Anderson Discloses Shortage.
 Inspection of gasoline pumps at Anderson have revealed that out of 16 of the apparatus five had to be condemned for repairs by officers of the South Carolina department of agriculture. Reports of the inspection reached Commissioner Harris' office yesterday and they bring to light that it is possible that many gasoline buyers over the state are being given short measure.
 The report says that the largest shortage found was one-half gallon, which means a good deal in this day of high prices. Approximately one-third of the pumps inspected were in bad order, giving short measure to the customers. One pump was found to be giving one pint extra on each five gallon delivery.
 The department of agriculture has been traveling over the state to make inspections and to condemn all apparatus not giving the correct amount to the customers. Scales and various kinds of measures are also given the "ones over" and if they are not damaged, many thousands of dollars are being saved yearly to the people of the state by this work.
 The Anderson investigation which 15 pumps were inspected, five being condemned for repairs, one adjusted and the remainder found correct. In merely one instance of where such incorrect measures are given, officers of the department of agriculture say.

The tragedy occurred at a market on East White street in Rock Hill and followed the exchange of a few angry words when Butler, who had loaned Butler's son.
 Testimony was that the two began firing almost simultaneously. After the exchange of several shots Butler fell mortally wounded while Dawson suffered a flesh wound in the arm. Dawson surrendered shortly after the killing. He pleaded self defense.
 Dawson is 43 years old and Butler was about 60. The two met were members of different mill unions, Dawson being among the operatives who returned to work during a strike. There was no evidence, however, to show that factional differences had any direct connection with the killing.

GAFFEY JURY ACCUITS MAN ACCUSED OF MURDER

Gaffney, July 15.—When the court of general sessions convened yesterday, the case of the state vs. Charlie Gordon for murder, was taken up. The jury without retiring from the room returned a verdict of "not guilty." The testimony showed that both the accused and the dead man were employed on construction work on the Southern Railway, and that Gordon, the defendant, was the cook that the other man came to the car where Gordon was, and knocked on the door, when Gordon shoved a gun through the window and fired, wounding him so severely that he died in the hospital a few days later. The jury took the view that the killing was not intentional and rendered a verdict accordingly.

HAS NO FEAR OF ANY NEW PARTY

Harding is Chd LaFollette Will Not Be a Candidate—Candidates Third Party Will Make no Serious Inroads Upon Republicans.

Marion, Ohio, July 15.—Perfect confidence that the third party movement will make no serious inroads on republican strength, was expressed today by Senator Harding, the republican candidate for President.

Making public notice for the first time of the third party convention at Chicago, the candidate indicated the outcome would in no way affect his campaign plans, and declared the republican platform was broad and progressive enough to make a winning appeal to the farmer, the labor and other classes whom the party in-### seeking to bring under its banner.

He expressed gratification that Senator LaFollette had declined to be a candidate of the third party, and added that he believed "few republicans are interested in the third party movement."

Senator Harding's comment was made during a pause in a hard day's work on his speech of acceptance, which is to be delivered a week from today at the formal dedication ceremonies here. He shut himself in from callers and virtually the whole day was given over to the speech.

"The republican party," he said, in discussing the third party movement, "stands before the country upon a platform which is sound and progressive. It offers a platform to the voters for their judgment, with confidence, that the expression of their judgment will result in victory in November."

HIS WORKS DO LIVE AFTER HIM.

Manufacturers Record.

When Henry Exall, the creator of the Texas Industrial Congress and its inspiring genius, died a few years ago all Texas was the poorer, but Texas was the richer for the life he had lived. Indeed, it was said of him "the fields are richer because he loved them."

Colonel Exall, during all his life had been a great factor in the financial and industrial development of Texas, but in the last years of his life he gave himself to the work of bettering the conditions of small farmers and the tenants of Texas. He talked of the hardships of Texas tenant farmers, their wretched homes, often unfit for human habitation, and the conditions under which they labored because they had no certainty of a continuity of tenancy, he threw into the subject every ounce of his moral and physical strength.

"Every large land owner in Texas," said he to the writer, "expects to sell his property whenever a good price is offered and, therefore, he does not think to build himself in any one place as the tenant. The time therefore, never known from year to year whether he will continue to live in the same place more than one year or two. All spirit of love and attachment of the tenant to the grounds around the house, is therefore killed. There is no incentive on the part of the tenant to do anything but make a bare existence and drain the soil getting out of it all that he can, anticipating the probability that the end of his year will have to seek another piece of property somewhere else. The land owner and the tenant farmer are thus dragging down the agriculture of Texas instead of building it up, and I have decided to give the balance of my life to the bettering of these conditions. I am working wholly from altruistic motives to uphold the tenant farmers of Texas to give them a permanency which will justify the improvement of their surroundings, and bring comfort and cheer to the women and children."

Though Mr. Exall had the honor of that great work, he passed away before it was finished and other hands, who succeeded him in the management of the Texas Industrial Congress, are now undertaking to raise $100,000.00 or more for the purpose of creating a loan fund with a view to aiding the small farmers of the State. It is proposed to lend this money to the men, women, boys and girls who engaged in farming who lack the necessary collateral to secure financial assistance for their farming operations through the ordinary channels of business. Money will be loaned to individuals who are not in a position to borrow from the banks. It will be loaned at a low rate of interest and on terms long enough to permit repayment without embarrassment.

This fund is to be created as a trust in the name of Colonel Exall, and any one who had it could look back from the other world he would ask no greater monument, unless he asks that the sun be raised a little larger and more in keeping with the limitless wealth and the boundless potentialities of Texas.

Law of Supply and Demand Still Valid.

The law of supply and demand is still valid, and it is the operation more clearly demonstrated. Governments are in travail endeavoring to give birth to some desperate remedy for the war situation; international conferences are in session in the hope of preventing one nation from taking advantage of another under such conditions. The Central Europe and the near East a hundred million men, women and children are without the food necessary to enable them to do a day's work.

The wise man say it is perfectly useless to give people any more money as all this rise in proportion to the remedy, they say, and everyone agrees to at the same time they look to see this economy put into operation by others before they adopt it themselves.

The real trouble is that people do not understand that to economize will mean to more or less than to lower the standard of living. That does not sound as pleasant as economy, but it is true and that is what has not come before the world will estimate itself from the real level of the violence in every day throwing the weaker out to destruction. People will not lower their standards of living voluntarily.

The logical result is that they will be compelled by force of circumstances to do so. The only way as we see before us more wages can be paid, unemployment results, incomes decrease or disappear and the standard of living is lowered whether the people are willing or not.

That this is what is going to happen is the unanimous opinion of all the great financial experts of the world today and they view the immediate future with considerable pessimism. On the face of things the people of the United States will be forced to lower the standard of living, or in other words, to economize.

First Crash in America.

It may surprise these same people, however, to learn that the great financial experts, all agree that all bankers and all investors of all interests believe that the first crash will come in America. Europe has suffered and learned her lesson. Over large areas of Europe the people have already been compelled to lower their standard of living in "kita" of a few years.

All the people within the zone of military operations during the war have now had years of experience in the time comes that the vicious circle begins to close on the point of exhaustion. The millions of money distributed among the people by their governments during the war are now rapidly finding their way back into the hands of the few for this has always been, and will always be so.

The munition workers' faithful efforts in the military facilities, the unusual government salaries, have peace with its removal of war furnished the masses of the population with plenty of money for the past two years and the advent of a depression will leave every one free to

Value of a College Education
There was never a time when expert knowledge was so highly prized and so highly compensated.
High wages for untrained labor will tempt many a young man to discount the value of a college education. But such an education, representing the work of four years, viewed merely as an investment of time and of money, is equal in earning capacity to an estate of more than $50,000.
What estate comparable with this can the parent of average means hope to give or leave to his son? What young man can acquire that much value in the same time at any other business?
Education fits one for a life whose possibilities are limited only by his capacity and character. Eventually for the untrained there awaits the slavery of ignorant and undirected effort.
Clemson College brings within the reach of every young man in South Carolina the benefits and possibilities of a technical education. At Clemson College a boy from the humblest home in South Carolina can prepare himself for a high place in the service of his state and nation.
