4-15-1985

The Johnsonian April 15, 1985

Winthrop University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/thejohnsonian1980s

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/thejohnsonian1980s/58

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the The Johnsonian at Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Johnsonian 1980-1989 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. For more information, please contact bramed@winthrop.edu.
Tillman receives bomb threat

By TOM STEARNS
TJ staff writer

A bomb threat last Tuesday in Tillman caused a temporary evacuation of the building. Staff and students were allowed to reenter the building after a 20 minute search by the Rock Hill Fire Department and Winthrop College Public Safety turned up nothing.

According to the official Public Safety report, the threat was phoned in at approximately 6:58 p.m. and was received by Kelly Gamble. She immediately relayed the report to Public Safety, who proceeded to evacuate the building.

A member of the Fire Department stated that a thorough search was made of the building. It was declared a false alarm, and the search was ended.

"When something like this happens, we have no choice. We have to search the entire building. This one was just a false alarm, but we had to evacuate the building just in case," said Public Safety Officer Robert Ellis.

Chief of Public Safety Robert Williams stated Wednesday that "we hate to inconvenience anyone, but we can't take chances in a situation like this. We have no choice, and we can only try to get the school back to a working condition as quickly as possible." He added that "we appreciate the cooperative attitude of the students and faculty inconvenience. We had all the people out of the building less than 10 minutes after the call was made."

"We try to get things done as quickly as possible, and got officers to the scene as fast as we could. We don't like situations like this, but the safety of the students and staff takes top priority," Williams concluded.

W.C. to honor Paulson

By VIOLETTA WESTON
TJ staff writer

Allen E. Paulson, majority owner and operator of the world's largest corporate aircraft manufacturing company, Gulfstream Aerospace Corporation, will receive an honorary degree at Winthrop College's commencement on April 27.

Born in Iowa, Paulson grew up on a farm and began supporting himself at the age of thirteen by cleaning hotel rooms, selling newspapers and milking cows. He later joined TWA as a mechanic.

During the war, Paulson served in the United States Army Air Corps where he completed ground school and began flight training. He also took courses in electrical engineering through the University of West Virginia and attended Iowa State Teacher's College during his enlistment. After the war, Paulson finished flight training and rejoined TWA.

As a flight engineer for TWA, Paulson became aware of problems with engines and the need of engine parts. He modified B-29 engines and became one of the major suppliers for new and reconditioned aircraft engine parts.

In addition to operating Gulfstream Aerospace Corporation, Paulson is actively involved with the Society of Experimental Test Pilots and the United States Air Force Association. He is a member of the Forbes Four Hundred, and he serves as Board of Director for Wheeling Pittsburgh Street Corporation, Murray Chris Craft Industries, Greyhound Corporation, General Aviation Manufacturers Association, Trust Company Bank of Georgia, the Savannah Symphony Society, the Society of Automotive Engineers, and the National Aeronautical Association.

Paulson founded California Airmotive Corporation in 1961, and left TWA two years later. He started a Learjet distributorship and became the number one sales outlet.

Paulson was awarded fine patents for aerodynamic designs. Other awards include the 1982 J.H. Doolittle Award for outstanding professional accomplishments in aerospace technical management, the Horatio Alger Award, Industrialist of the Year from the Industrial Management Council, Philadelphia; the Year from the National Society of Fund Raising Executives; Georgia Chapter, the Distinguished Service Award from the General Aviation Manufacturers Association, the Spirit of Georgia Award for Entrepreneur of the Year, and an honorary doctorate from Lynchburg College in Virginia.

Gulfstream Aerospace Corporation currently produces the world's largest, twin-engine corporate jet, the Gulfstream III, and provides major modification and maintenance services for corporate owners and operators of current and early model Gulfstream aircraft.

President Phil Lader and Vacendak were classmates at Duke from 1964-66. When asked if Lader had anything to do with his decision to come to Winthrop, Vacendak said, "He is totally responsible. His effective work here at Winthrop was an incentive."

Lader said, "Our appointment of Duke's associate athletic director signals Winthrop's balance between academics and athletics as it enters the NCAA. We are serious about quality."

About a football team for Winthrop, Vacendak said, "I have no aspirations for a football team. I don't think a football team is in the scheme of things for Winthrop."

Vacendak says he does not plan to run Winthrop as if it were Duke. He said, "Winthrop has advantages that Duke does not. What works at Duke may not work at Winthrop. I want to get to know the Winthrop College situation then maximize the school's potential."

About the new athletic director, Coach Niel Gordon who stepped down as A.D. to coach basketball, said, "I'm excited about having a full-time athletic director. It's the best move Winthrop could make. I'm looking forward to working with Steve."

He also said, "I'd like to stay at Winthrop until we are established in the NCAA and the Big South Conference."

Vacendak will begin his duties as Athletic Director beginning June 1. He will be responsible for the general management of the college's athletic program, including the 11 intercollegiate men's and women's sports, intramurals and the college's 6,500-seat indoor coliseum and other athletic facilities.
Pro wrestling comes to Winthrop

Mid-Atlantic Championship Wrestling will come to the coliseum Tuesday, April 16 at 7:30 with the main event being Dusty Rhodes against Tully Blanchard (with Baby Doll). This fight will be with a steel fence around the ring.

Tickets are available at the coliseum, Mr. Sport (in the Rock Hill Mall), and Kimberlly Furniture Co. (in the Town Center Mall).

Miss Purple and Gold

The 7th Annual Miss Purple and Gold Scholarship Pageant was held Saturday, March 30, in Tillman Auditorium. The pageant is sponsored by the Psi Kappa chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity, the Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc., with the winner receiving $200 to go towards educational expenses. Miss Lutricia Johnson was crowned Miss Purple and Gold 1985. Miss Sonya Simms and Miss Jackie Higgins earned 1st and 2nd runner-up honors, respectively. All nine contestants were judged on their poise and talent. The brothers of Psi Kappa send congratulations and thanks to the contestants and all others that were involved in the pageant.

Political Science Club

The Political Science Club will be sponsoring Career Day '85 on Thursday, April 18. Guest speakers include Ben Johnson, president of the Local Bar Association, and Arthur Phelps who is involved with graduate studies in Political Science at East Tennessee State. Any students interested in careers in law or politics are urged to attend the seminar in Dinkins Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.
Winthrop's founder honored

BY JEFF COLEMAN
TJ staff writer

Dr. David Bancroft Johnson, founder and first president of Winthrop College, was recently inducted into the South Carolina Hall of Honor in Education at the University of South Carolina's Museum of Education. Johnson and two other deceased South Carolina educators were the first to be inducted into the newly-formed Hall of Honor.

Johnson was chosen by a five-person committee that sought suggestions from state colleges and universities, education agencies, organizations and historical societies and school districts. Johnson was called by many as "the most influential educator in South Carolina during the first half of the century."

Winthrop College, was recently honored by educators who convened in Columbia for the education of South Carolina Women, and was granted $1,500 to set up the Winthrop Training School in the South Carolina Women's Hall of Fame, credited with organizing the South Carolina Women's College in 1902, and also credited with founding the S.C. Association of College Superintendents.

Johnson married Miss Mai Rutledge Smith of Charleston in 1922. They had two sons and a daughter.

In 1871, Johnson was appointed by Governor Benjamin Tillman to the Winthrop Training School in the State Normal and Industrial College of South Carolina. Today, he is known as the South Carolina College for Women, and then finally just Winthrop College.

Johnson died on Wednesday, Dec. 26, 1928 in the Presbyterian Hospital in Charleston. He was buried on the front lawn of the campus between Bancroft and Tillman, and was later moved to the Little Chapel.

In 1871, Johnson was appointed to the Winthrop Training School by Governor Benjamin Tillman to study the possibility of combining and industrial school with a normal school. As a result, on Nov. 30, 1871, the state took control of the School and promised the institution $1,500 a year. In 1895, the school was moved to Rock Hill and renamed Winthrop Normal College entrance gets tougher

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CPS) - Colleges are going to be even tougher to get into next fall, an American Council on Education (ACE) survey has found.

"Institutions nationwide, for the second time this decade, are moving almost in lockstep to raise their admissions standards and iron 'gimmick' courses out of their curricula."

"In general, colleges want to get away from using test scores to weed students out of high school students to take college preparatory courses so colleges can stop teaching remedial classes," says Eva Galambos, co-chair of the Southern Regional Education Board admissions standards study.

"The public has made it clear it expects colleges to provide higher education, not remedial education," she adds.

"It's a conscious effort to improve the quality of education," says Paul Lingenfelter of Illinois' Board of Higher Education. "Educators are taking a look inward for ways to improve education and reduce remediation."

Of more than 400 colleges surveyed, 68 percent plan to upgrade entrance requirements, including standardized test scores.

Two-thirds of the nation's schools now make freshmen take math and English placement tests in order to be accepted, while forty percent require writing proficiency exams, the study shows.

The universities of Illinois and Washington, for example, are examining tougher entrance requirements. Arizona's new standards go into effect in 1987 and Tennessee's in 1989. North Carolina's Higher Education Commission wants to reject tests and create something called "New York" college admission tests. "We feel that other factors were better predictors of future achievement," says Professor Edward Purcell, chairman of the Southern Regional Education Board.

"The move to stiffer requirements will dissuade 'average' students, minorities and others who may flourish in college, despite poor academic records."

Other critics argue tougher standards will disqualify "average" students, minorities and others who may flourish in college, despite poor academic records.

"While some research shows the SATs picked out two types of people," notes University of North Carolina spokesman Robert Dawson. "Four years of school work gives more of a prediction of success than a three-hour examination on Saturday morning."

Other critics argue tougher standards will disqualify "average" students, minorities and others who may flourish in college, despite poor academic records.

The move to stiffer requirements - particularly higher test scores - comes at the precise time some schools are dropping standardized test scores as a screen for new applicants.

"We felt that other factors were better predictors of future achievement," says Professor Edward Purcell, chairman of the Southern Regional Education Board.

"The move to stiffer requirements will dissuade 'average' students, minorities and others who may flourish in college, despite poor academic records.

"The move to stiffer requirements will dissuade 'average' students, minorities and others who may flourish in college, despite poor academic records.

"The move to stiffer requirements will dissuade 'average' students, minorities and others who may flourish in college, despite poor academic records."

"The move to stiffer requirements will dissuade 'average' students, minorities and others who may flourish in college, despite poor academic records.

"The move to stiffer requirements will dissuade 'average' students, minorities and others who may flourish in college, despite poor academic records."
Retrospect 1984-85

By SUSAN SMITH
TJ editor

It’s been a good year! Many changes have taken place here at Winthrop College. Some with expediency through administrative challenges. Others with time consuming, but effective rhetoric. There have been surprises too. Pleasant for the most part.

Within the course of this 1984-85 school year we’ve seen the development of the RUDE CREW and a much needed increase in student support and awareness. (Thanks Robert Jolly and Pi Kappa Alpha.) Renovations all over campus have improved our living arrangements as well as the beautification of academic buildings that we can all be proud of. DSU brought us Bob Hope, Fall Bash, Spring Fling, numerous films and happenings and ATS.

Winthrop has made the big move to the NCAA. Our softball team is ranked number 1 in the nation, and a new Athletic Director has been named.

The legal drinking age has been raised, affecting not only our college community, but the nation as a whole. We’ve seen a number of new student organizations, both Greek and non-Greek formed.

The college store has expanded and tried to better meet the needs and wants of the students.

And among new additions and traditions, the first baby born to a Winthrop College President occurred this year. There are a multitude of memories for the year, both personal and campus wide.

This year has been especially meaningful for me. Being able to serve you (try to) this semester in the capacity of editor-in-chief of The Johnsonian, has given me a broader perspective of Winthrop College as a whole. Although it has been quite a responsibility, the editorship has proved to be enjoyable and rewarding. I must take this time and space to tell The Johnsonian staff how proud I am of them and how much I appreciate their hard work and dedication. It’s not an easy or pleasant task to put out a newspaper each week. I’m sure next year’s staff will be capable and competent. But, M.S. Buie, I must warn you- it’s not what you’re expecting. Good Luck.

The administration, the public information office, and the athletic department have been cooperative and helpful throughout the year. Though our reports have not always been favored, we do our best to print the news fairly and accurately.

The Johnsonian. It is published by the students of Winthrop College and is printed by Carolina Newspapers, Inc., York, S.C. The mailing address is P.O. Box 6800, Winthrop College Station, Rock Hill, S.C. 29733. Subscription rates are $6 a year and $3 a semester. Advertising rates are available upon request.

Taking advantage

By ROBERT MCDONALD
TJ contributing editor

When Melinda Nolen, past TJ Editor-in-chief, approached me last spring and asked me to be contributing editor for this school year, I hesitated before I gave her my answer. I was scared. I had never even attempted to do what this job would require. How would I think of something to write about every week? How could I make my columns interesting enough that people would want to read them? And, most of all, how could I ever live up to the reputation that the previous contributing editor, Charles Apple, had given that space on the editorial page? If any of you remember Charles’ commentaries, you know why this was my biggest apprehension. Somehow, though, I must have given myself a satisfactory answer to each of these questions, and I said “yes.”

Throughout this past year, I have managed to write this column and give you, the readers, a somewhat pointed view of several different circumstances and situations.

In the space allotted me, I have had the opportunity to express my ideas that could possibly spark an interest in or promote continued thought on particular ideas. I hope I have succeeded.

I have had many people come to me on Mondays after the paper came out and give their comments on what I had written for that week. Most of the time, the opinions expressed were favorable. Nevertheless, on a couple of occasions, I have been severely scolded for what I had printed. After the column on the Ethiopian famine came out, for example, I was approached by a student who simply asked, “Have you been beaten up yet?” What an ego builder! Still, it was his opinion, even if it was expressed in a roundabout way, and I appreciated the fact that he came to me with it. I have appreciated hearing any comments about what I have written. At least they showed that somebody was actually reading what I had taken time to write.

If I have to gauge my performance by the number of written responses sent to the Editorial Staff of The Johnsonian during the past year, I have failed. It saddens (and “maddens”) me to think of the difference in the number of people who actually had an opinion and the ones who took the time to express it on paper so that the rest of the student body could possibly benefit from having read it. If half of the students who told their opinions to me had written it as a letter to the Editor, our Editorial pages could have been filled with constructive ideas instead of such useless space-takers as enlarged cartoons and blow-up staff credits.

We’ve all heard it a thousand times before, but I want to close this semester by letting you hear it again: An institution is only as valuable as the members who support it. If you have ideas about something (anything!) that you read or hear around campus or in the news, let YOUR newspaper know what YOU think. A different opinion can sometimes make the difference that is needed to make a change.

I have had a unique opportunity this semester in that I have been paid to present you with my comments. I have enjoyed writing every outrageous work of every thoughtful column. I hope they were “my side” as in the past, entertained you. Next year and for the remainder of this year, remember that every week you have the opportunity to let the entire Winthrop community hear “your side.” Take advantage.
Letters to the Editor

Conservatism

Editor,

I find it hard to believe that The Johnsonian saw the article 'Conservatives Strike' by Mark Wood, in the March 25 edition fit to print. It has done in credible damage to the reputation of your newspaper.

In his article, Mr. Wood access to a disease called 'Conservativitis' has hit the Winthrop campus. The only folks to be immune from this disease are those who voted for the Mondale ticket in '84 presidential election. He describes the disease as one which attacks the right side of the brain and as a result the left side of the body is left in state of total disarray.

Mr. Wood seems to feel that if we are not Democrats our only concern in life is excessive partying, and he refers to us as being insane. Since an overwhelming number of college students have joined the conservative movement we are not the pulse of our nation as the young people once were as he sees it.

Mr. Wood asserts that the young people back in the late '60s and early '70s really knew what was happening in the world and were doing something about it. They were protesting the Vietnam War and were running to Canada. Mr. Wood calls these an involved group of young people. He seems to feel that those who fought in the war were affected with some disease. How disgusting can anyone be? Those who died and fought in the war were a lot more involved in this world than the protestors. They were patriotic, law-abiding citizens who cared about this world and were willing to die for this world. This is more than I can say for those who strudged to Canada listening to Jim Morrison.

Yes, Mark, the conservatives are the pulse of this nation. It's true we are not out signing petitions or picking a ban on nuclear weapons, or setting off cloth to be wrapped around the Pentagon in memory of the bombing of Hiroshima, but we're prepared as any writer I have ever talked to. He asked me exactly two questions about Winthrop College athletes receiving privileges, and one of those he quoted wrong. On the $100 room confirmation fee, I said, "Any student on any kind of scholarship receives the $100 as part of his scholarship and therefore does not have to pay it up front.'

As far as refusing to touch on other privileges that athletes receive, Mr. Robertson made those questions up after he left my office and went back to do his story. However, since he did not have the courage to call me and ask those questions, I will reply to them in this article.

The Athletic Department pays for all athletic shoes (except baseball and softball shoes), and those shoes are given to the players after the season to do with as they please.

Athletes have never had first choice in registering for classes each semester. However, we do have a system for a student on any team to change a class with the approval of the Dean of the School. All Mr. Robertson would have had to do is pick up the phone and call the Registrar's office to confirm this question if I had refused to address it.

The trip to Ireland was financed in three ways. First, each player paid part of his own fare over and back; second, money that the Athletic Department raised from basketball gate receipts, summer camps, and advertising sales was used to help finance the way; and third, meals, rooms and transportation were paid for by the Marian Basketball Club of Dublin, Ireland.

How Mr. Robertson could have written that article without giving me the benefit of answering those questions is irresponsible, unfair, and immature of a college student. He certainly has the right to say whatever he wants to about his bias of athletics, but he certainly should get his facts right before he uses The Johnsonian for his crusade in regards to Winthrop College athletes receiving privileges.

Steven Bullock

Athletics

Dear Editor,

Responsible students who have worked on The Johnsonian have here been here know that I have answered every question ever put to me. This is the first time that a writer from The Johnsonian has conjured up a story that is as far from the truth as has ever been written about athletics at Winthrop.

Mr. Robertson was an un

TJ letter policy

TJ welcomes letters to the editor on any topic related to Winthrop College.

All letters to the editor must be signed by the author. The author's name will not be omitted unless we feel retribution will result. Letters will be limited to 200 words.

Letters should be typed, if possible, double spaced, on a 60-inch space line.

Letters should be submitted to Box 6000 or brought to TJ office in Good Building. Letters must be received by 5 p.m. Tuesday to appear in the following week's issue.

Niel Gordon, Athletic Director

By RANDY GREENE

"What do you think about the Postal Service system on campus?"

"It's sufficient, so far I think it's all right." Charles Khakali, junior

"To my experience it's been fine." Lance Kimball, freshman

"I think it's adequate; the hours are good." Carol Clairy, senior

"I think it's adequate. I think the Post Office should stay open longer, though." Kristy Risher, freshman

"It's fine. All I get is my church bulletin and coupon, but that's not their fault." Be Barron, senior

The Johnsonian

TOE JOHNSONIAN, Monday, April 15, 1985, Page 5

Basketball Club of Dublin, Ireland.
American Dream comes to Rock Hill

By ROBERT JOLLY
TJ sports editor

"Tully Blanchards is coming into the Mid-Atlantic area with his head held high Daddy; but he's playing with the dealer, heah!" said Dusty Rhodes concerning his upcoming wrestling match in Rock Hill. "That's right baby, you messin' with American Dream-287 pounds of steel and sex appeal," said Dusty.

"Tully, you playing by my rules now, heah! I'm leavin' Lola Falana in Las Vegas to By me lar jet up to Rock Hill, S.C. and stup ye head Tully, heah! You think that baby doll's a '10', Tully? I love em all-fat women, skinny women--they all '10's to me, daddy!" said Dusty. All quotes were given to TJ by Dusty Rhodes' personal on-campus spokesman, Tal Johnson.

Yes, that's right, folks, Steel and Sex Appeal will meet Tullu Blanchard Tuesday, April 16, 1985 in cage match at the Winthrop Coliseum. This steel fence match will be the main event of an evening of exciting action...real action. There may be blood--so please children, elderly, and pregnant women, come with caution.

Besides the main event, there will be eight other bouts. These matches will feature such stars as Jimmy "Boogie Woogie Man" Valiant, Don Kernodle, Ivan Koloff, Nikita Koloff, Hagan' Bull, Pistol Pez Whatley, Rock Hill's own champion Buzzy Tyler, and others.

The action will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be taped live for television. Ticket locations are the Winthrop Coliseum, Mr. Sport (Rock Hill Mall), and Kimbrell Furniture Company (Town Center Mall).

Now, I realize there has long been a myth about the ludicrousness of professional wrestling. Well, let me clear up--this farce. Wrestling is real, sincere, and dangerous. If you don't believe me you can ask Daren Philips!

Garrett named All American

By JEFF RUBLE
TJ sports writer

Pam Garrett, a senior hoopster for the Lady Eagle basketball team, has been named NAIA Academic All American for the second year in a row, becoming the first Winthrop student to ever accomplish this feat.

Pam, a 5-8 senior from Columbus, had a fine season for the Lady Eagles, leading them to a 16-14 record and a district 6 playoff berth. She contributed strongly, averaging 7.5 points per game and leading the team in free throws with a .76 percent average. Pam's forte, however, was rebounding, as she ruled the boards in several games, particularly against Limestone and the College of Charleston.

In addition to Pam's athletic achievements, she also performs in her school work. She holds a 3.8 grade point average and plans to graduate this spring with a B.S. in Math. When asked how she found enough time to study she answered, "You have to make a lot of sacrifices; sometimes I sacrifice my sleep. The time is there, you just have to learn how to manage it." Pam showed just how well she manages time, getting up early, using every minute of the day efficiently, and spending many late nights studying on the bus during road trips. Pam thinks, "Playing a sport helped me learn a lot about budgeting my time. I actually even make better grades during the season. Pam seems to have a keen perspective towards her college career. She observed, "A lot of freshmen come in with the idea that playing ball is the reason that they are here but they have to learn that academics should be foremost in their responsibilities. I've seen plenty of athletes get all wrapped up in sports, but as the years go by, they realize that the two, athletics and academics, have to go together, otherwise they could end up on the seven year plan."

Pam has parlayed her college career into a brilliant future in international business. She starts graduate school this summer at U.S.C. and hopes to soon be interned in France. "There is lot of hard work involved in playing basketball and keeping up in the classroom."

Cheerleaders promote spirit
Work to unify Winthrop

By JULIE THOMAS
TJ staff writer

Winthrop Cheerleaders have begun a new effort to promote spirit. Carolyn Yonce, advisor, said, "We're going to really try to work with the students."

One of the first steps for next semester is to work on promotions. This is Ken Carroll's job as Spirit Director. He will be on the mike at games as well as talking to various organizations around the campus in order to promote spirit. Yonce stated, "I want him to find out everything that's going on and get the cheerleaders involved in it."

The squad is planning several events for next year including pep rallies, recruitment from new students, and entering two national competitions.

Besides promoting spirit, the cheerleaders are working to unify themselves. They plan to complete the obstacle course as a squad. Ginger Boyd, Sue Molnar, Mary Molnar, Kelly Hoffman, Wanda Shillinglaw, Chris Rowell, Rodney Picker, Randy Jackson, Allen Hughes, Andre Grier and Mike Richard-son. For the Garnet squad--Garrett, Nelson, Bill Seely and David Allison. The mascot will be Drew Hamby.

Graduating cheerleaders are Kim Bain and David Hickman. Although Hickman has only been involved one season, he stated, "I enjoy it. I'm really going to miss it." As for next year's squad, Hickman feels they have "unlimited potential."

Eagle Events

Softball

April 16 Limestone Home 300
April 19 UNC Home 300
April 20 USC Columbia 250

Men's Tennis

April 18 Appalachian State Boone, N.C. 2:15
April 20 Armstrong State Home 150

Baseball

April 17 Newberry Home 300
April 18 Benedict Columbia 220
April 20 Coastal Home 200

Women's Tennis

April 15 Baptist Charleston 2:30
April 16 UNCC Charlotte, N.C. 2:00
April 17 Davidson Home 2:30
April 19-20 NAIA Dist. 6 Tourney Greenwood TBA
Softball number one

By LAURIE ANN DEDES
TJ assistant sports editor

For the third week in a row the Winthrop College softball team was voted number one in the nation. Frankie Griffin's first Lady Eagles received thirteen of fourteen votes to take the number one position.

Trudy Taylor leads in batting with a .427 with Diane Sisley, Paige Nichols, and Saundra Lane with the most hits. Leading in RBIs is Trudy Taylor with 29 and leading in pitching is Paige Nichols and Michelle Mirakui. The team's record is twenty and five.

Behind Winthrop from South Carolina in national rankings is Lander (27-6), at number eight and tied for tenth is Erskine (22-3) and Limestone (10-3). The Lady Eagles take on Limestone Tuesday, April 16.

Golfer begins season

The Winthrop Golf Association kicked off spring with a member/guest tournament at the Winthrop Golf Course. Twenty-eight golfers braved the early morning non-spring weather and poor putting conditions to begin the golfing season.

To be expected, golf coach Steve Moore teamed with Casey Smith (junior) to win the best ball format with a two-under 88, while Carlton Kinsey, Physical Plant and partner, Steve Augenstein (freshman) finished one shot back.

Winner of the individual handicap blind bogey draw was newly elected WGA president Dennis Wright. Closest to the pin honors went to Tom Salter, Casey Smith and Steve Augenstein.

Winthrop Golfer should begin practicing now for the annual Dinkins Open Golf Tournament scheduled for April 20.

Trull consistent

By TODD HUTCHISON
TJ sports writer

Tony Trull has come to be a consistent performer for the Eagles' baseball team. Trull, a sophomore from Lancaster, has posted a perfect 3.0 record so far this season for the Eagles. All this occurred after Trull started the season as a walk-on.

Trull has pitched in 8 games and started three, in 32 innings Trull has given up 16 runs with 14 being earned, while giving up 34 hits, 23 strike-outs, 8 walks, and a 3.03 earned run average.

Trull, a pitcher-outfielder in high school at Lancaster, said his biggest surprise has been making the team. "I was surprised just to be asked to stay on the team. Once I made the team I wanted to contribute," said Trull.

As for his biggest thrill as far as this season, Trull said, "Recently, I came in against Francis Marion with the bases loaded, and the batter hit into a double-play to kill a rally. That was a big game in the district and I'm glad I was able to help with the win.

Basketball players leave

By LAURIE ANN DEDES
TJ

Several Winthrop College basketball players have left Coach Niel Gordon's ball club to pursue other interests.

First to leave before the season got underway was Mark Oliver. The 6'9" freshman from Georgia, left for personal reasons needing his attention at home.

Before spring break the ball club lost 6'10" freshman John Cox from Indianapolis, Indiana. Once again a freshman was forced to leave for personal reasons.

Peter Scanlebury was the third to leave. Although he saw a lot of playing time he left to pursue offers to play pro-ball in England.

The last to leave was the team's former co-captain Brian Pope. Pope was a mainstay on the team for three years.
Personal Messages

M3, I love you!! Monk

Marcha, Good luck out there in that Business World. Don’t get a big car!!! Ronnie & Jackie

Congratulations Lisa G. Hazel and Marcia L. Noisette on your 1st anniversary as Deltas. Love ya, Letta

Mimmers, Sorry about the last few weeks. I know I have not been the easiest to live with. Thanks for everything, especially helping me get thru the last few weeks. I know I have not been the easiest to live with. Thanks for everything, especially helping me get thru the last week. You’re the greatest roomie. I love you, Sal

To my new ZTA sisters, Congratulations!! We love you all. Sally

To Mimmers, Marcus Allen, Christopher S. Sweet, David Dimbo, Liz, Sean and Jenni-Poo, Sorry this is so late but I had a blast on the island. Let’s do it again next year. Boy, am I gonna miss you guys this summer. I love you all, Sal

To Vickers, Thanks for all the help cutting out cars! I love you and will miss you this summer. Love, Sal

To the Model U.N. Secretariat, Well it’s finally over. It was a blast. Thanks for putting up with me. Let’s go ahead and line up diplomats for next year. Just kidding! You are all great to work with. Love, Sal

To Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Sigma Nu, Let’s have another foursome. It was a blast. Sally M. ZTA

Christy, Thanks for all that you have done. I don’t think I could have found a better friend. I’ll miss you. Good luck with Clint in London. Jackie

Congratulations New Pi Kappa Phi Brothers—Bob, Darren and Ronnie—your little sisters love you!

Sandy, I checked with Academic Records again, guess what? See you next fall! Ginger

Congratulations, Kappa Pledge Class of Pi Kappa Alpha! I love you all, Robbie

To Sue, We may have had some differences, but we worked them out to become great friends. You’ve been a special person on the staff—always there to keep us laughing, and I’ve learned a lot from you. All I can say is thanks and don’t be a stranger because there will probably be times when I’ll need your shoulder. Good luck, Lisa.

Ronnie, Don’t plan on having Puddin-Pop sleeping in 1550 jk

Congratulations to the “Eight Reflections of Elegance” on your 1st anniversary.

To our Editor, Susan Smith, Thanks for a job well done! We’ll miss you, but come by and see us—we’ll still be wondering if we’re having fun yet. We love you, TJ staff. P.S. We owe you a seabreeze!

Congratulations! New Pi Kappa Phi Brothers—Bob, Darren and Ronnie—your little sisters love you!

Sponge, Thanks for putting up with all the hard times I have given you this past week. Hang in there for many fun times ahead. Frybrain

To the 10 students left in TR Econ 202, I know you have not been the easiest to live with. Thanks for everything, especially helping me get thru the last week. You’re the greatest roomie. I love you, Sal

L.D. Guess what? You’re going to be sports editor! Yea! Good luck with state office. I'll definitely see ya’ll at convention. Make sure Erskine gets an invitation. M.S. Buie, Good luck with the new job! It’s Hell, but worth every minute. Just remember—“That’s O.K.!”

George, Thanks for being my trouble buddy. We’re gonna have to pick that up more next Fall.

Robbie, Thanks for just being you! You’re a very special person. Good luck with the Anthropology. Staff writers, etc., I don’t know you all personally, but thanks for being so faithful to The Johnsonian! Good luck next year.

To The Johnsonian staff, Well gang, it’s over—for some of us anyway! Beth, “Thanks for always being there!” Bunny, I feel like I’ve known you for ever. Thanks for helping me with class and on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Kay, you’re doing a great job, considering what you were left with (ha ha). James, you’ve done a fine job, but can’t you sell more ads? Thanks for helping me out and being such a good listener. I’m looking forward to PIKA!!

Love, Susan

TJ editor

---

Beasley multitalented

By TIM GARDNER
Special to TJ

He is traveling from 75 to 100 miles per hour. The track is sizzling hot beneath him as he eyes the third turn, NASCAR three.

All of a sudden, the entire world turns sideways. The banking is so steep, he wants to take his foot off the gas and put on the brakes. Instead, he pushed the pedal to the floor accelerating through the turn like a breeze.

Mario Andretti? No, it’s Blair Beasley, Asst. Professor of Drama at Winthrop College. Beasley has been pursuing his hobby of racing for about 3 years.

“I do strictly amateur racing through the SCCA (Sports Car Club of America) in the Showroom Stock Class. The cars are just as they came out of the showroom except for safety equipment.”

Beasley drives a 1982 Datsun 200 SX. “We’re talking about $7000 of new car. It’s a Plain Jane. No radio or air condition-

Robert, We’ve become good friends and I’m proud to say that! Let me know if you need my help on anything. Thanks for inviting me to that special party!!!

---

DON’T LET WINTHROP’S ACADEMIC DEMANDS.....

![Image of a car]

Ground you!!! The fun has only just begun.
Former English professor dies

By VIOLETTA WESTON

TJ staff writer

Dr. John S. Eells, 78, former professor of English at Winthrop College and distinguished poet and author, died March 26, 1985 in Rock Hill.

Eells, who earned doctorates in English and Law, began teaching at Winthrop in 1936 and retired in 1971. In addition to teaching Shakespeare and Victorian literature, Eells taught Great Books which became his most popular course. He served as faculty representative on the Board of Trustees, consultant to the president, and Chairman of the Honor Council, a program he established and worked in cooperation with Dr. Alice Love. He was the 1967 recipient of the Distinguished Professor Award, and he worked with Concept ofJustice, a group of students and teachers who met once a week to discuss literary classics dealing with social justice.

"Dr. Eells was remarkably keen, witty, and intelligent," said Dr. Gordon N. Ross, "Atlantic Monthly." He is also keen, witty, and intelligent," literary journal, and the Last month, before his death, Dr. Eells returned to Winthrop to read some of his poetry. Eells had works published in "Kenyon Review," a prestigious literary journal, and the "Atlantic Monthly." He is also the author of two books, "The Touchstone of Matthew Arnold and the

His poetry reading was impressive. It was wise, scholarly, and charming," said Dr. Eells. "He was mentally and creatively strong, and continued to create until his death," she added. Ross described Eells' poetry as "delightful, witty, and sharp." I am glad we (Winthrop) were able to pay him respect for all his accomplishments," he concluded.

Dr. Louise Murdy remembers Eells as an "energetic person." He had a great love of teaching. He was marvelous," she said.

Dorothy K. Graham, one of Eells' former students, describes him: "He was very knowledgeable, fair, and warm. I learned a great deal because he was a demanding teacher.

Eells was well-liked by his students. During his tenure, he would come with nicknames for them from being involved in their lives. After leaving Winthrop in 1971, Eells was actively involved in the National Collegiate Honors Council, the Modern Language Association, the American Society for News Research, the Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi Honors Societies, and the Rock Hill Country Club.

Last month, before his death, Dr. Eells returned to Winthrop to read some of his poetry. Eells had works published in "Kenyon Review," a prestigious literary journal, and the "Atlantic Monthly." He is also the author of two books, "The Touchstone of Matthew Arnold and the Atlantic Monthly." His poetry reading was impressive. It was wise, scholarly, and charming, Eells graduated from Yale University in 1928. He earned his law degree from Stanford University and practiced from 1931-1933.

He began teaching in California where he later earned his doctorate at the University of California-Berkeley. He taught at the University of Chicago and at Beloit College in Wisconsin before coming to Winthrop.

Freshman course required

By JEFF COLEMAN

TJ staff writer

A new required symposium will go into effect for all freshmen in the fall of 1985.

According to Mike Smith, vice president of academics and Dean of Faculty, incoming freshmen will have to attend the course in conjunction with their convocation requirements. The classes will consist of a cluster of 15-20 students per section and will meet once a week. The course will be worth one semester hour.

Smith stated that the "small groups will meet for two weeks in order to discuss a contemporary issue. On the third week a speaker will come to give a speech on the subject." Smith also added that the students will meet on the fourth week to discuss both the speaker and the speech. The process will then be repeated for the next speaker.

Smith felt that the new course will aid the students in gaining a wider knowledge about current events as well as meeting other students to meet and interact with their classmates and professors.

As of last fall, all entering students are required to attend convocations per academic year or three if they are transfer students.

Smith stated that there is a great deal of confusion concerning the cultural events requirements classification stand-point. "A student can attend the events at any rate as long as he or she has attended 24 by the time they are scheduled to graduate," Smith said.

Students simply have to start amassing credits for the events from their freshman year on. They will not have to attend 24, just three for every 15 semester hours they complete.

Delta Omicron — Music fraternity formed

By DONNA CAPPS

TJ staff writer

Delta Omicron, a new music fraternity on campus, held its induction ceremony March 31, 1985. Only six music majors and minors with a 3.0 were worthy of the fraternity. One of the requirements of the organization is to present two musicals each semester. The students chose her to be the chapter advisor. She helped the students learn more about Delta Omicron in its chapter. After the induction, the student entered school in the Spring semester.

Sharon Thompson, opera and voice professor, is a Delta Omicron lets us take time off she said. "We chose Delta Omicron because it backs up women in the music profession and offers scholarships and grants to outstanding women composers.

After the induction, the members presented a musical to show how their talents were worthy of the fraternity. One of the requirements of the organization is to present two musicals each semester. The students chose her to be the chapter advisor. She helped the students learn more about Delta Omicron in its chapter. After the induction, the student entered school in the Spring semester.

Delta Omicron. A new music fraternity on campus, held its induction ceremony March 31, 1985. Only six music majors and minors with a 3.0 were worthy of the fraternity. One of the requirements of the organization is to present two musicals each semester. The students chose her to be the chapter advisor. She helped the students learn more about Delta Omicron in its chapter. After the induction, the student entered school in the Spring semester.

Beasley multitalented continued

(Continued from page 8)

But Beasley has taken on an old fashion spirit about his sport. "If it has been a success in the past, why not continue it?" he said. Beasley is known for his old fashioned spirit about his sport. "If it has been a success in the past, why not continue it?" he said.

The other day we drove a car to the track. The background is very diverse. Doctors, lawyers, teachers, mechanics, etc. . . . But we all have a common interest. Racing runs in their blood.

But Beasley has taken on an old fashion spirit about his sport. "If it has been a success in the past, why not continue it?" he said. Beasley is known for his old fashioned spirit about his sport. "If it has been a success in the past, why not continue it?" he said.

Beasley received a bunch of 2nd and 3rd place trophies but no 1st place yet. Racing’s cheap, but winning is expensive. We both enjoy the people at the track. The background is very diverse. Doctors, lawyers, teachers, mechanics, etc. . . . But we all have a common interest. Racing runs in their blood.

But Beasley has taken on an old fashion spirit about his sport. "If it has been a success in the past, why not continue it?" he said. Beasley is known for his old fashioned spirit about his sport. "If it has been a success in the past, why not continue it?" he said.

As humble as he is, there is a competitiveness that keeps him motivated. He enjoys his work and his hobby, and does both of them well.
Tuition tops inflation

WASHINGTON D.C. (CPS) - Students will pay more to go to college next fall as tuition rates rise faster than the inflation rate once again colleges around the nation report.

Student costs will go up even though campuses in general are getting more money from state legislatures invested endowment funds and corporate contributors.

"States that are doing well are funding higher education at a higher rate," says Richard Novak of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU).

But the colleges themselves are using the money "to make up for lost ground" he adds.

The schools must give faculty overdue salary hikes and start paying for campus maintenance put off during the late seventies and early eighties, new construction, and research and high-tech equipment expenses, explains Bill McNamara of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (NAICU).

Many schools, especially private colleges, are using their own funds to replace federal student financial aid cuts, he adds.

Moreover, many states want students to pay a greater percentage this year up to 35 percent in some places of what it actually costs to educate them, says David Kite, Eastern Tennessee State's comptroller.

In those lights McNamara believes "the tuition increases are probably reasonable. The rate of increase is still ahead of inflation, but it's been going down the last few years."

"Things are better this year, especially in the Great Lakes states and in the far West," AASCU's Novak agrees. "The Southeast and Northeast will have tight, hold-the-line budgets with only inflationary increases."

In Tennessee, that means a nine percent new tuition at ETSU and a 15 percent hike at the University of Tennessee, largely because of a state Higher Education Commission requirement that students pay $1 of education costs for every $2 the state pays, ETSU's Kite explains.

Nine percent is "about the average" tuition increase for resident students at state schools, NAICU's McNamara estimates.

Private colleges students in general may fare a little better, paying an average of 7.5 percent more based on reports we've had from our member schools," McNamara says.

But tuition in North Dakota is going up 10 percent, while New Mexico students could face a 16 percent hike.

Harvard, Yale, MIT and Brown will jump tuition up by about seven percent, while Southwestern Missouri and Kentucky plan increases around 10 percent.

Community colleges, too, are raising their prices next fall.

"We've reached the level that we feel is proper for the student to pay for his education," university spokesman Jacob Wamsley says.

"Salaries, programs and research are all increasing," agrees Lehigh University student Jeff Brozman, "and students just have to grin and bear it. Nobody likes it, but they understand."

Most colleges, however, cite other reasons for the hikes.

Lehigh's nine percent increase initially upset students, Brozman admits, but university administrators met with students to explain the budget.

"States that are doing well are funding higher education at a higher rate," says Richard Novak of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU).

But the colleges themselves are using the money "to make up for lost ground" he adds.

The schools must give faculty overdue salary hikes and start paying for campus maintenance put off during the late seventies and early eighties, new construction, and research and high-tech equipment expenses, explains Bill McNamara of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (NAICU).

Many schools, especially private colleges, are using their own funds to replace federal student financial aid cuts, he adds.

Moreover, many states want students to pay a greater percentage this year up to 35 percent in some places of what it actually costs to educate them, says David Kite, Eastern Tennessee State's comptroller.

In those lights McNamara believes "the tuition increases are probably reasonable. The rate of increase is still ahead of inflation, but it's been going down the last few years."

"Things are better this year, especially in the Great Lakes states and in the far West," AASCU's Novak agrees. "The Southeast and Northeast will have tight, hold-the-line budgets with only inflationary increases."

In Tennessee, that means a nine percent new tuition at ETSU and a 15 percent hike at the University of Tennessee, largely because of a state Higher Education Commission requirement that students pay $1 of education costs for every $2 the state pays, ETSU's Kite explains.

Nine percent is "about the average" tuition increase for resident students at state schools, NAICU's McNamara estimates.

Private colleges students in general may fare a little better, paying an average of 7.5 percent more based on reports we've had from our member schools," McNamara says.

But tuition in North Dakota is going up 10 percent, while New Mexico students could face a 16 percent hike.

Harvard, Yale, MIT and Brown will jump tuition up by about seven percent, while Southwestern Missouri and Kentucky plan increases around 10 percent.

Community colleges, too, are raising their prices next fall.

"We've reached the level that we feel is proper for the student to pay for his education," university spokesman Jacob Wamsley says.

"Salaries, programs and research are all increasing," agrees Lehigh University student Jeff Brozman, "and students just have to grin and bear it. Nobody likes it, but they understand."

Most colleges, however, cite other reasons for the hikes.

Lehigh's nine percent increase initially upset students, Brozman admits, but university administrators met with students to explain the budget.

\[
\text{Tuition tops inflation} \\
\text{WASHINGTON D.C. (CPS) - Students will pay more to go to college next fall as tuition rates rise faster than the inflation rate once again colleges around the nation report. Student costs will go up even though campuses in general are getting more money from state legislatures invested endowment funds and corporate contributors. "States that are doing well are funding higher education at a higher rate," says Richard Novak of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU). But the colleges themselves are using the money "to make up for lost ground" he adds. The schools must give faculty overdue salary hikes and start paying for campus maintenance put off during the late seventies and early eighties, new construction, and research and high-tech equipment expenses, explains Bill McNamara of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (NAICU). Many schools, especially private colleges, are using their own funds to replace federal student financial aid cuts, he adds. Moreover, many states want students to pay a greater percentage this year up to 35 percent in some places of what it actually costs to educate them, says David Kite, Eastern Tennessee State's comptroller. In those lights McNamara believes "the tuition increases are probably reasonable. The rate of increase is still ahead of inflation, but it's been going down the last few years." "Things are better this year, especially in the Great Lakes states and in the far West," AASCU's Novak agrees. "The Southeast and Northeast will have tight, hold-the-line budgets with only inflationary increases." In Tennessee, that means a nine percent new tuition at ETSU and a 15 percent hike at the University of Tennessee, largely because of a state Higher Education Commission requirement that students pay $1 of education costs for every $2 the state pays, ETSU's Kite explains. Nine percent is "about the average" tuition increase for resident students at state schools, NAICU's McNamara estimates. Private colleges students in general may fare a little better, paying an average of 7.5 percent more based on reports we've had from our member schools," McNamara says. But tuition in North Dakota is going up 10 percent, while New Mexico students could face a 16 percent hike. Harvard, Yale, MIT and Brown will jump tuition up by about seven percent, while Southwestern Missouri and Kentucky plan increases around 10 percent. Community colleges, too, are raising their prices next fall. "We've reached the level that we feel is proper for the student to pay for his education," university spokesman Jacob Wamsley says. "Salaries, programs and research are all increasing," agrees Lehigh University student Jeff Brozman, "and students just have to grin and bear it. Nobody likes it, but they understand." Most colleges, however, cite other reasons for the hikes. Lehigh's nine percent increase initially upset students, Brozman admits, but university administrators met with students to explain the budget.}
\]
Winthrop College Students

SPRING SPECIAL

ONLY 36.00
for 3 months

Call now for appointment
Offer expires April 22, 1985

Spa Fitness Center
359 Park Avenue
Rock Hill, SC
324-5291

THE TIME HAS COME....

for all students to sell their books at the Winthrop College Store
9:00-4:00
Mon.-Fri.

This BIG EVENT will begin as soon as you come to the Store

We buy back all current editions.
We'll give you Money to Spend

Money
Spend
Money
Spend

Summer Job Opportunities
$150.00 Per Week
Jobs Available In Either North or South Carolina.
If Selected You Will Be Working Near Your Home Town.
Get All The Facts Carolina Enterprises

Dinkins Auditorium
Wed. April 24
9:30 a.m.
or3:30 p.m.

Please be prompt

Coming April 19th
GREYSTOKE
The Legend of TARZAN
3 p.m. & 9 p.m.
Kinard Auditorium
Andie MacDowell to arrive at 3 p.m. for autographs

Winthrop College Students
Remember Secretary Week Apr. 22-26
Graduation Apr. 27
With a gift from Nancy's
* Special *
All gift items 10% off excluding wire orders.

Nancy's & Etc.
Flowers, etc.
1450 Ebenezer Rd. Mon.-Sat 10-6 327-5155

Graduation Apr. 27
With a gift from Nancy's
* Special *
All gift items 10% off excluding wire orders.

Winthrop College Students

SPRING SPECIAL

ONLY 36.00
for 3 months

Call now for appointment
Offer expires April 22, 1985

Spa Fitness Center
359 Park Avenue
Rock Hill, SC
324-5291

THE TIME HAS COME....

for all students to sell their books at the Winthrop College Store
9:00-4:00
Mon.-Fri.

This BIG EVENT will begin as soon as you come to the Store

We buy back all current editions.
We’ll give you Money to Spend

Money
Spend
Money
Spend

Summer Job Opportunities
$150.00 Per Week
Jobs Available In Either North or South Carolina.
If Selected You Will Be Working Near Your Home Town.
Get All The Facts Carolina Enterprises

Dinkins Auditorium
Wed. April 24
9:30 a.m.
or3:30 p.m.

Please be prompt

Coming April 19th
GREYSTOKE
The Legend of TARZAN
3 p.m. & 9 p.m.
Kinard Auditorium
Andie MacDowell to arrive at 3 p.m. for autographs

Winthrop College Students

SPRING SPECIAL

ONLY 36.00
for 3 months

Call now for appointment
Offer expires April 22, 1985

Spa Fitness Center
359 Park Avenue
Rock Hill, SC
324-5291

THE TIME HAS COME....

for all students to sell their books at the Winthrop College Store
9:00-4:00
Mon.-Fri.

This BIG EVENT will begin as soon as you come to the Store

We buy back all current editions.
We’ll give you Money to Spend

Money
Spend
Money
Spend

Summer Job Opportunities
$150.00 Per Week
Jobs Available In Either North or South Carolina.
If Selected You Will Be Working Near Your Home Town.
Get All The Facts Carolina Enterprises

Dinkins Auditorium
Wed. April 24
9:30 a.m.
or3:30 p.m.

Please be prompt

Coming April 19th
GREYSTOKE
The Legend of TARZAN
3 p.m. & 9 p.m.
Kinard Auditorium
Andie MacDowell to arrive at 3 p.m. for autographs

Winthrop College Students

SPRING SPECIAL

ONLY 36.00
for 3 months

Call now for appointment
Offer expires April 22, 1985

Spa Fitness Center
359 Park Avenue
Rock Hill, SC
324-5291

THE TIME HAS COME....

for all students to sell their books at the Winthrop College Store
9:00-4:00
Mon.-Fri.

This BIG EVENT will begin as soon as you come to the Store

We buy back all current editions.
We’ll give you Money to Spend

Money
Spend
Money
Spend

Summer Job Opportunities
$150.00 Per Week
Jobs Available In Either North or South Carolina.
If Selected You Will Be Working Near Your Home Town.
Get All The Facts Carolina Enterprises

Dinkins Auditorium
Wed. April 24
9:30 a.m.
or3:30 p.m.

Please be prompt

Coming April 19th
GREYSTOKE
The Legend of TARZAN
3 p.m. & 9 p.m.
Kinard Auditorium
Andie MacDowell to arrive at 3 p.m. for autographs

Winthrop College Students

SPRING SPECIAL

ONLY 36.00
for 3 months

Call now for appointment
Offer expires April 22, 1985

Spa Fitness Center
359 Park Avenue
Rock Hill, SC
324-5291

THE TIME HAS COME....

for all students to sell their books at the Winthrop College Store
9:00-4:00
Mon.-Fri.

This BIG EVENT will begin as soon as you come to the Store

We buy back all current editions.
We’ll give you Money to Spend

Money
Spend
Money
Spend

Summer Job Opportunities
$150.00 Per Week
Jobs Available In Either North or South Carolina.
If Selected You Will Be Working Near Your Home Town.
Get All The Facts Carolina Enterprises

Dinkins Auditorium
Wed. April 24
9:30 a.m.
or3:30 p.m.

Please be prompt

Coming April 19th
GREYSTOKE
The Legend of TARZAN
3 p.m. & 9 p.m.
Kinard Auditorium
Andie MacDowell to arrive at 3 p.m. for autographs
HUNT OR BE HUNTED
Margaret Goes Safari
5th Annual Margaret Nance Party
Thursday April 18
At The Shack
LD Required  BYOB Prohibited

Cash for Books
SELL THEM AT:
The Bookworm
Beary Shopping Center 228-1707
Cash anytime for your books between 10 am - 12 pm & 1 pm to 5 pm
Monday - Friday

The Record Cellar
Music Videos
Sheet Music - Folios and Individual Sheets
Complete Selection of Albums,
Cassettes and Accessories,
Compact Discs
506-61-39
10-9 M SAT
Rock Hill Mall

$1 OFF
ON ANY
8.69 LP or TAPE
Coupon And
Winthrop H.D. Must Be Presented BEFORE
Sale. June 1 to August 15

There's no doubt you're going to make it in the real world,
but what about your car?

Ford and Lincoln-Mercury have $400 for graduating seniors toward the purchase of selected cars and trucks.
Ford Motor Credit also has preapproved credit for qualified graduating seniors.
Offers end August 15, 1985. For more information call Ford College Graduate Purchase Program Headquarters at 1-800-321-1536.