CLOSED MINDS

In nine cases out of ten let some one propose that a method or process be changed and what happens? The suggestion is immediately opposed by almost everyone.

The habitual attitude of most humankind is resistance to change. That is why no one has ever revolutionized from the inside.

Every innovation makes its way against opposition. Life is a series of adjustments and success is adaptation.

Those who cannot or will not adjust themselves must be snuffed out. It is pitiless, perhaps, but it is true.

Closed minds, like everything else, are relative. But in a general way it may be said that most minds are closed to all but a small range of adaptations.

Henry W. Grady told the people of this section time after time to raise their "hog and hominy," but their minds were closed and it was cotton, cotton and then more cotton.

Possibly the boll weevil is an outside influence which will revolutionize our county.

FRIDAY, JULY 21.

If their dresses are getting longer their legs are doing the same.

Funny things happen. One day last week everybody in Hollywood was alive.

You can't do much without capital and you can't do much with capital.

According to report issued by D. H. Hare, Agricultural Statistician in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, condition of the corn crop in South Carolina is much below the average. Excessive rains in May and early part of June prevented proper cultivation of early plantings in central and southern counties where prospects are poor. In other sections, intermediate and late plantings are much better and show promise of good yields.

The News notices that calcium arsenate is retreating at some points in South Carolina as high as eight cents a pound. This would indicate that profiteering is being engaged in at the expense of the farmer by some one.
Calcium arsenate is furnished the farmers of Georgia by the Georgia State Board of Entomology, at a cost of nine cents a pound, and the News would like to suggest to the members of the next legislature that they take the matter of arsenate under consideration and make such arrangements as will protect the farmers from having to pay unreasonably prices for the poison.

It appears to The News that if the State of Georgia is coming to sell calcium arsenate to the farmers at nine cents a pound that South Carolina should be able to do the same.

The News is in receipt of an invitation to attend the Second Annual Carolina Sandhills Peach Show, at Hamlet, N. C., next week, and in looking over the program finds some very interesting figures.

In 1918 the Sandhills section shipped 43 cars of peaches; 80 cars in 1919; 342 cars in 1920; 600 cars in 1921; and 1,390 cars in 1922; estimated 2,600 cars in 1923. These figures indicate that the peach business in the Sandhills section is growing by leaps and bounds. And it is stated and proven that the peach growers are making barrels of money out of their business and have become wealthy within just a few years.

The News would like to suggest that our Chamber of Commerce make a survey or rather have a survey made of the "cheater" crop to see what the prospects for the peach industry would be in this country. The News has been advised that experts have already recommended the section around Lowryville and the increase in the peach business in the Sandhills section would indicate that an enormous business can be created within the course of only a few years.

The News sincerely hopes that the venture made by Dr. James Land in the peach business will prove successful and if it does we look for Chester county people to "follow the trail," but by waiting our section will no doubt lose several years of mighty good times.

Hog raisers may accomplish two desirable results by plowing up the barn lots at least once a year, says the United States Department of Agriculture. In the first place, hogs need good succulent pasture as much of the time as possible, and in the second place they need protection against intestinal parasites, such as roundworms, the eggs of which remain in the soil. Turning over the manure in the barn lots will get rid of the pests and the crop of forage makes it a profitable operation. In addition to providing cheap protein feed, pasture crops also as a laxative and require the hogs to take a certain amount of exercise which is necessary to breeding animals and growing pigs.

Rye is probably the best crop to grow for fall, winter, and spring pasture for hogs. Throughout the coast belt it may be sown from August 20 to about October 1, depending on the latitude. In warmer climates the crop may be put in at various times up to as late as December. By putting in successive plantings from 2 to 4 weeks apart it is possible to have fresh pasture all the time. Seeding for pasture should be much heavier than for a grain crop, from 3 to 4 bushels per acre on a good soil. Pasturing can probably begin 6 to 8 weeks after seeding, and may be continued, if the rye is not covered with snow, until the following April.

Van Wyck was visited by a heavy rain and an electrical storm last Saturday afternoon in which William Crawford, a colored man working at Van Wyck brick yard, was killed by lightning. William and others took shelter under the eaves of the depot when the storm came upon. A bolt of lightning struck the chimney flue of the depot, passed down inside the building and passed out by a post under the building, by which Crawford was sitting. He received the full force of the bolt with fatal results. Other persons picked up a brother of William Crawford who was not unconscious for a while but is recovering from the stroke. Mr. C. L. Cobb, president of the South Carolina Bankers' Association who was here last week in connection with the reference in the Lancaster Mercantile case, made the statement on the witness stand that there is much "water" now than there was a year ago, and that it carries a much lower rate of interest in the New York money market than it did some time ago.

Mr. Cobb said that the banks had learned a lesson from the aftermath of devalued property and they are not now lending money to irresponsible individuals or firms, and they now require better security. This leaves money in the bank that a few months ago was scattered out, and which it easier for reputable firms with adequate security to obtain money for legitimate business—Lancaster Citizen.
