CLOSED MINDS

In nine cases out of ten let some one propose that a method or process be changed and what happens? The suggestion is immediately opposed by almost everyone...

Every innovation makes it way against opposition.

Life is a series of adjustments and success is adaptation. This is the lesson of all history.

Those who cannot or will not adjust themselves must be snuffed out.

Those who cannot or will not adjust themselves must be snuffed out. It is pitiless, perhaps, but it is true. Nature has no place in her scheme for the closed mind.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 15.

One hot weather aid is lemonade.

Every town has several men who say everything with hammers.

Faith in oneself is of no value until we put it to constructive work.

A man may get his reputation back, but it never looks the same.

Looking wise is much easier than acting that way.

In this funny world nearly all kinds of hogs are worth money.

It isn't the coat of white trousers, it is the upkeep.

Thirty minutes' earnest, serious thinking a day has made many a man rich.

Some of the girls think when they give their hand in marriage they can't use it afterward.

Father says if his suit holds out one more year it will be back in style again.

When a woman goes on a vacation her husband learns the laundry does not wash the dishes.

Sometimes an opportunity comes in and drags a man out of bed, but not very often.

More people are looking for position than jobs, and more are after jobs than work.

Thank goodness, pedestrians don't have to lose time changing gears when eluding a speeder.

Sometimes you meet a girl who wouldn't know her mind if it was made up.

If some people worked in a drug store they would kill themselves sampling the medicine.

Expert says we have left only 200,000 rattlesnakes. But then, there isn't much demand for snake skin.

A man with tact is one who can drop a nickel into the contribution box and make it sound like a quarter.

Another little trouble with the country is that too many people think happiness is always quoted by S. N. Detroit.

Somewhat or other we can't help regarding with a degree of suspicion the fellow who looks us up to do something for us.

Astronomers have discovered that the moon is traveling faster than formerly. She has to in order to keep up with this bustling old earth.

That the only cure for unemployment is employment may not sound like a very profound observation, but it falls more gently upon the ears of many than to say the only cure for unemployment is work.

FORD CAR DUMPS NEGRO RIGHT NEXT TO CEMETERY

Rosford, Aug. 11.—John Gilmore, colored, narrowly escaped death yesterday as he came coasting down the hill by the Rosford cemetery.

Travelers passing shortly afterwards saw a Ford's four wheels burning around skycard and the body resting peacefully upon the bottom of a deep ravine and, wondering the cause, got out and lifted the Ford up and took a peep underneath.

It is accented by John Gilmore: "Dis heah Ford no musta knowed whed de stamintary is."

A new rotary spray pump weighing but 69 pounds is expected to revolutionize orchard spraying. It is designed that the machine, mainly at normal speed, can deliver from 300 to 400 pounds pressure and will distribute from 20 to 35 gallons of material a minute.

The school buildings are being painted, fire escapes put up, etc., preparatory to the opening of school on September 5th.

Mrs. and Mrs. Otis Jackson are visiting relatives and friends in their former home, Wyndwood, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Sloop, and little daughter, Wilma, spent Thursday and Friday night with the former's daughter, Mrs. J. F. Sloop.

Mr. Dever Little, superintendent of the Rosford Mill, will sail on the Mauretania on September 5th. He will join Mr. Robert S. Mebane, Jr., and Col. James H. Hickel in London about the 11th, and will go to Paris, Belgium, Italy, Holland and other countries and pieces of interest.

The entire party will return to the States about the middle of October.

Mrs. J. H. Fowler and daughters, Miss Christine and Grace, left Friday morning for an automobile trip to Raleigh, Zebulon and other North Carolina points. They will visit Dr. M. L. Fowler and other relatives in Zebulon, and will be away about two weeks.

Mrs. C. D. Robertson was hostess Thursday evening at a dinner party in honor of her guest, Miss Mary Williams of Charlotte. Mrs. Robertson was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. H. H. Fowler. A profusion of richly colored sinmas were used in the living room and dining room, and the favors were dainty baskets of minis. Those present to meet Miss Williams were Misses Christine Fowler, Logna Logan, Mrs. J. H. H. Hall, and Dr. L. C. Fort.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Mebane, and sons Edward and Hal, Jr., will leave on the 15th for Lake Bruce Resort, Three Lakes, Wis., for several weeks. They will be joined in Knoxville by Mrs. Mebane's mother, Mrs. E. E. McMillan, who will go with them to Three Lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis, of Washington City are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ferris at Deborn Inn, having made the trip by automobile.

COMFORTS YET TO COME.

After a lifetime spent in bringing electrical power into the service of the shop and the household—what ever Mr. Charles A. Coffin, former President of the General Electric Company, has to say on that subject is worthy of attention. He is here of course, to tell us of the entering of electrical age, and that we shall eventually do all our manufacturing, lighting, traveling, cooking and housework by electricity. Indeed, everyone who is interested in electrical research believes that electric power has something equally interesting and less familiar to say about the social effects that electric power will produce in the future. As Mr. Coffin says, made the great progress without its aid in transportation, lighting, traveling, cooking, making and housework by electricity. Indeed, everyone who is interested in electrical research believes that electric power has something equally interesting and less familiar to say about the social effects that electric power will produce in the future. As Mr. Coffin says, made the great progress without its aid in transportation, lighting and manufacturing, such great industrial centers as we now have would be impossible. But one who believes that electricity is going to reverse the process and decentralize commerce and population. Electric power can be sent cheaply and efficiently wherever it is wanted. The next step in industry, says Mr. Coffin, is the small, electrically operated factory in the place, where raw materials are found. That will save transporting both coal and materials. People will go back to the country because life there is pleasanter and more wholesome, and because electricity is making it possible to bring the farms and to the villages all the comforts and the culture of the city.

It Takes Money

It takes money to operate a printing plant. It takes money to operate a mercantile business. In fact it takes money to operate any business—even a Ford business.

Printing is our business. We must have printing to do business and when we do printing we must make money in order to continue to do business. No business can operate long unless it makes a profit on the business done. Every sensible business man knows that and should be willing to allow the other fellow a reasonable profit.

The News has long since quit guessing at printing prices—we have the prices figured out, right ready for you when you offer the job to us, and on every job we do, a profit is figured. We are in the printing business to make money just like you are in the mercantile business to make money.

Some printers still hang on to the old style of guessing at every job of printing brought to them. John Smith brings them a job and they guess less than cost and give him a cheap job. Tom Jones brings in a job and they guess 100 per cent too high and Jones pays for the Smith job. That's not right. Every man should pay for his own job. That's the way. The News charges for printing. It lets every fellow pay for his own job.

There is no need of your sending a job of printing out of Chester. The News can and will give you as reasonable prices on your work as any printer who does printing in a business way.

The News is a Home Establishment and every dollar you spend with us stays right in your town to help the town grow. In fact, the employes of The News spend more money in Chester each year than the total business received from Chester business houses. If it were not for "foreign business," The News would have to move its plant out of Chester. Looks funny, but the figures prove it.

Don't send your printing out of town. You might be able to get a cheaper price some where but there is no printing house in the country which can do printing as a whole, cheaper than The News and stay in business very long.

We not only want you to buy your printing at home but we want you to buy everything else at home. That's the way we must all do if we want to see Chester grow.

Our cities have become overcrowded and we seek get all of their advantages in the country without the inconvenience of crowded streets, high rents and inadequate living quarters, strikes, unemployment and crime.

These are cheerful prognostications; they tend to relieve the minds of people who have been worrying over the difficult problems that our endlessly expanding cities present. Any influence that can bring industrial and rural life closer together and prevent our people from separating into two classes that understand each other as little as the city dweller and the countryman understand each other will be welcome. The question is whether we have intelligence enough to see it, whether in dollars and cents the decentralization of industry and population can be seen to "pay" and, if not, whether we have sense enough to appreciate at their proper value the other benefits that would follow it.

These are cheerful prognostications; they tend to relieve the minds of people who have been worrying over the difficult problems that our endlessly expanding cities present. Any influence that can bring industrial and rural life closer together and prevent our people from separating into two classes that understand each other as little as the city dweller and the countryman understand each other will be welcome. The question is whether we have intelligence enough to see it, whether in dollars and cents the decentralization of industry and population can be seen to "pay" and, if not, whether we have sense enough to appreciate at their proper value the other benefits that would follow it.

A POLITICAL POEM.

A candidate's a splendid man,
As campaign days fly,
He makes us lots of promises,
Then kisses them good-bye;
We shake our troubled heads,
And wish he gets elected.
His loving takes a rest,
He looks at us much as a bird
Looks at her last year's nest.
He walks among us here and there,
And puts us on the back,
And tells us if we get him in,
Our troubles will be slack;
But when, in office he resides,
We shake our troubled heads,
He says, "Come back another day,
My what an awful sound.
When lovely woman comes and throws,
Her hat just the ring,
We scarcely know just what to do,
To cry or laugh or sing;
And when we start to party,
We find the frightful sound,
But we believe when she sets in,
She'll have a mighty job.
If men would keep their promises,
Just like they say they do,
And women start to party,
We'd have a better government,
And better men and women.

S. C. SENATOR WANTS PROBE OF COTTON TRADE PRACTICES.

Smith Offers Resolution Proposing Investigation of Charges of Strain of Operations of Supply and Demand Made by Wannamaker.
Washington, Aug. 10.—Investigation of charges that "undue methods or practices are being employed by the trade in restraining the natural operations of the law of supply and demand" and preventing cotton prices was proposed in a resolution introduced today by Senator Smith, Democrat of Charleston. The resolution was referred to the agricultural committee.
Senator Smith's resolution recited that the cotton carried over was less than normal and that reports on the growing crop indicated a yield below the world demand. It also stated that the boll weevil damage was "more extensive and severe than ever before in history making the yield entirely prohibitive."
"The price of cotton in the markets has fallen utterly to respond to these conditions," said Senator Smith.
Senator Smith made public a letter from J. S. Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton association, reporting that New York and English cotton speculators were working together to beat down the market.
"The government's crop report was issued—one of the most bullish reports ever known—the market has gone down every day," said Mr. Wannamaker in his letter. "and it is the general talk of the trade that a powerful combine has been formed for the purpose of beating cotton prices down, it being stated that this combine is composed of some of the biggest financial interests in New York, some of the biggest speculators there and some of the biggest speculators in England, and that they boast that they will sell the price of cotton down to 15 cents. Through some of the most reliable sources I am given this information."

The Boy Scout movement originated in England.
