TUESDAY, AUGUST 19.

Say, pal! Have you registered yet?
We notice that Miss Swozeme is visiting Miss Loveme in Klamme, Mich. We would suggest that they now have a house.

First thing we know the capitalists will all go on a strike and what will all our "common folk" do with no jobs to strike about?

"Chester automobile drivers" are considered the best "chick-diggers" in the State. They got plenty of practice in their home town.

The street walkway strikers in Charlotte, and some other places, are getting very little sympathy from the public. The public is getting tired of strikes. It is getting more time some of these fellows were striking out to do a full day's work, other words they ought to even what they are getting before they ask for more.

When Chester goes for asphalt streets we more that the town has a "Hong Kong" and have every man that ever lived in Chester come here for the occasion. It ought to be one special occasion. It will be so extraordinary. Just think what a wonder it will be.

Something big is going to happen in Chester on Tuesday September second, but the voters apparently are taking it very calmly. Less than one hundred have even registered so far. Wake up boys, we are able to have of anything one of these days.

A Chester man recently made a trip of over 500 miles in an automobile, a good part of it through the mountains, and tells us that the worst road he struck on the entire trip was between Chester and York. An "It's only some people are agit' it."

A man can come to Chester from North Carolina, buy a home, establish a business, employ people to work for him and then have to live here two years before he is allowed in an election. To our mind that is some curious business.

Dr. Evans, professor of hygiene in the Northwestern University, in prescribing for an ailment recently said, "The Allen method consists of having the patient take no food, except a little coffee, and sometimes whiskey." Now, we are not suffering with any ailment but we would like for Dr. Evans to put us next to the spikes. We have a friend whom we think is badly in need of this treatment but has been unable to secure the whiskey.

You have heard all about the high price of food which is now being discussed in Washington. Well, they asked some farmers to appear before the committee, the idea being to see just how much of the high price was going to the producer. Well, those old farmers certainly put it over the committee. They first went to a "modest hotel" in Washington and ordered dinner for five. It cost them $11 and their attorney showed that the producer got 32 cents for the corn the hotel sold for $11.

There is always some "man" trying to muddy the water. We have reference to the signatures to the petitions asking that an election be held in Chester to decide whether or not Chester will issue bonds for street and water works improvements.

We hear on the street that some people say or have intimated that the men who secured the signatures look advantage of some people, with special reference to widows, orphans, and the like.

The News does not believe any such thing and we do not believe it can be proved. Mr. J. M. Latham, Sr. E. Sims and the writer secured the majority by far, of the signatures attached to the petitions and the writer challenges any man, or woman, to prove that their signatures were secured by misrepresentation or even attempted misrepresentation.

The American Cotton Association has been organized to benefit the southern farmer. It has not been getting a fair price for his cotton in these past and will not get a fair price in the future unless the association does a great deal of work. The success or failure of the American Cotton Association depends upon several things. One of them is that the farmers must join the organization and they must stick. Another fact is that the success or failure of the association depends upon the support the association receives from the newspaper and periodicals in the South. All of the publicity now given the association by the newspapers has been done FREE OF CHARGE. If the newspapers of the South were to refuse the association publicity, the association would die in less than thirty days. Can the farmers expect the newspapers to support their organization unless the farmers support the newspapers? We do not see how they can. A newspaper is the cheapest and the most powerful force for solid-business stand upon the farmers would do well to support the newspapers who are GIVING the farmers organization, their space without charge.

We took for granted that his price better make all the other news better. This condition does exist in most cases but there are exceptions to the rule and one of the exceptions is the newspaper. It is an absolute fact that the newspaper business is better when cotton prices are high than when they are low. It is the advertiser who is the advertiser who is the advertiser. When cotton is high the price the advertiser pays is high. It is the advertiser who is the advertiser who is the advertiser.

The following is the agreement statement. "I have never had any desire to be a Congressman, an act not now, have been in mind to ever expect to be a candidate for that office. "I had a purpose in making the announcement that I did on reference to the Seventh district election and may some day say what it was, but at present I will let each man suggest to himself my reason, and don't care a fig for the position of the man that he may accept. "My intimate friends know that I would not be in the race, and I stated by letter and in person, to others; in fact all of my associates knew that I would not accept that job. I offered it unconditionally. "I received by letters and personal many assurances of support and some people would be surprised to know how many endorsed my position and the names of men who promised support, they being: like myself, tired of such primaries as we have had in recent years. "Certain announced candidates for the place should thank me for that announcement, for they would not have had any speech without it, as they haven't brains enough to make an intelligent argument upon important issues."

Help Baby Hospital. "Spartanburg, Aug. 17.—An active campaign is being waged in Spartanburg to secure funds enough to finance the Spartanburg Baby Hospital, which is caring for numbers of babies at Sealeda, N. C., this summer. A committee worked in the business section of Spartanburg yesterday and over $500 was realized in subscriptions. It is said that about $5,000 will be necessary to finance the little institution through the summer, and slightly less than $2,000 has been necessary to finance the little institution through the summer, and slightly less than $2,000 has been subscribed. At present there are 15 babies being cared for as well as several mothers. Free treatment to both the mothers and babies is given, and there can not be paid for by the applicant.

YORK COUNTY NEWS
Items from the Yorkville Enquirer of interest to Chester people.

Information from Mr. R. S. McConnell of Yorkville, who is undergoing treatment in the Pennington firmory, Rock Hill, on account of a broken leg is that he is not getting along so well. It was necessary to re-break the leg the past week and it will likely be some time before Mr. McConnell is able to return to his home.

Work on the plant of the Peoples Warehouse Company has been somewhat delayed during the past two weeks because of the rough weather on the railroad, but the contractors now have assurance that the brick which were purchased from Mr. W. N. Ashe at Van Wagon will be forthcoming without further delay. Mr. George O. Cartwright has accepted the position of bookkeeper and assistant manager of the Yorkville Cotton Oil Company to succeed Mr. W. W. Ferguson, who is now a member of the firm of Ferguson and Youngblood. Mr. Cartwright has recently returned from overseas after serving with the American Expeditionary Force. He is expected to arrive at his home in Yorkville within the next few days and will then thereafter take up his new duties.

Five generations of the Willford family assemble a picnic held at Mount Airy last Wednesday, according to Supervisor Thos. W. Boyd, who was among those in attendance. Mrs. Kate Willford, widow of the late J. H. Willford although now in her 84th year of her age, is still quite hale and hearty and she apparently enjoys the day immensely.

Francis has lost no calves; R. C. Falkner in the same neighborhood, has lost a calf. The symptoms are swollen throat, jaws and neck, bloodshot eyes, and perceptible temperature, some times high and some times slight. Don't generally come in from ten to 15 days. Dr. McCall, a veterinarian from Clemson, arrived yesterday morning. The disease is supposed to have been introduced through some western cattle by way of the Van Dyke cattle farm, just west of the North Carolina line, a few miles northwest of King's Mountain bottleneck.

PASSES THROUGH CULVERT. "North, Aug. 18.—Little Lydia Pitts, a year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Pitts, came near losing her life yesterday afternoon by drowning. The little girl, while playing in the water on the street after a heavy rain, was drawn through a culvert under the street for a distance of 50 feet by the rushing water. She was playing near the mouth of the culvert with several other children when she suddenly disappeared. Quick action on the part of a small boy who happened to be near and rescued the little girl saved her from plunging into the mouth of a still larger culvert under the railroad, where she probably would have lost her life. She was soon revived, but suffered several bruises from the experience.

A heavy rain fell here yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Some of the oldest inhabitants state that it was the heaviest rainfall witnessed here in the history of the town. Crops are suffering considerably from excess rains.

If You Haven't Rung in on a good Show, you certainly want to get introduced to Blain, inside the next few days. You talk about a Pal-pal-pal! Having some fixed here while you wait for the day having a party on a park Merry-go-round early in June. So, walk in Blain's shoe works for good service, you'll get wise, with the Spent-Over to last, when you cost your eyes upon those shoes that we turn out. You want big songs at parties. STELLA VITAE
FOR WOMAN'S ILLS

For two generations the suffering women of America have found relief through the "Woman's Bile" through the famous prescription of Dr. J. C. Williams, a famous old Southern Doctor—WILLIAM WILKES.

Women know when they need a remedy for weakness, indigestion, and other ailments. They know that the "Woman's Bile" is the only medicine that will cure them. It is a powerful purgative and a blood purifier. It is a tonic and a restorative. It is a medicine that will cure you of all your ailments.

Buy Beaver Board that is BEAVER BOARD

You want better walls and ceilings. In your new home, in present waste space, or to replace cracked plaster and dingy wallpaper. So you ask for Beaver Board, the original wallboard, that has been building better walls and ceilings for a dozen years.

But do you know that inferior wallboards are often sold as Beaver Board? They may look like Beaver Board, but they are not. They may claim to be as good as Beaver Board. But they can't give Beaver Board results. Be sure to get what you ask for. The Beaver trademark on the back of every panel of genuine Beaver Board is there for your protection. Look for it.

Five Charlestonians who have been in the mountains of North Carolina passed through Chester, had night enroute to Charleston where they go to cast their ballot against John P. Greer, a candidate for Mayor of Charleston. Men who will travel such distances in order to vote evidently have the interest of their town at heart.

Miss Roberts Paay, who was with the cheer squad for four or five years and who has recently left

Uncle Sam's service, has taken a position with the Hickory office. Miss Paay's personality and tact, as well as her training in the work, make her a valuable addition to the force of the Hickory branch—S. P. U. Magazine.

The outside world is awaiting the result of Chester's election for the improvement of streets. See what a recent issue of the Southern Public Utilities Magazine has to say: "The progressive Chester had a rather tough ball, but finally the requisite signatures were secured and the bond election for streets and water extensions is assured. Chester is entirely too good a town to hesitate in the matter of putting its streets in good shape and getting into the company of other wide-awake Carolina cities."

Miss Lucile Crosby and Mrs. Lindsay have returned to the city after a four weeks western trip.

Dr. C. M. Bakestraw has been invited to deliver an address to the citizens of Wilkesburg Friday, August 22nd. His subject will be "Education."

The War Community Service advises that the following Chester county men have recently been discharged from the service: Joe C. Pittman, Edgemoor; Francis M. Rodley, Greig Falls; and Sam Herbert, Lando.

Dr. S. G. Love who is now located in New York spent the week-end in Chester. He and his brother, Mr. W. C. Love left yesterday for Salisbury where they will spend several days with their mother, Mrs. W. M. Love, who is spending the summer there.

Mr. J. W. Cowan, who has been in the Chester Sanatorium for several days suffering from blood poisoning caused from an infected arm, is reported as some better.

Misses Jas. L. Hardin and Edward White have returned to the city from the northern markets.

Miss Lettie Hooper has returned from the northern markets where she went to buy fall millinery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. L. White have returned to the city after an extended bridal trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. A. Walker have been in Salisbury, Va., where they will visit for several days.

At the request of Dr. J. A. Hayne, a government public health officer has been detailed to come to South Carolina to make a survey of the towns and cities of the State for the purpose of learning what is necessary to eliminate malaria for these towns and cities. Dr. Hayne has been notified that J. M. Fisher, associate sanitary engineer of the United States Health service, has been ordered to come to South Carolina for the purpose of making these surveys.

It will be recalled that the State Commission some time ago notified upon the merchants of the State for a statement of their business. It is generally understood that their taxable assessments will be placed on a basis of forty-two per cent. The tax commission has also raised the assessments on a number of automobiles throughout the State. County Auditor Fudge is in receipt of a detailed statement of the Chester county assessments and is mailing out notices to parties whose assessments have been increased one hundred dollars or more. These people will have an opportunity to contest their assessments, as noted in a notice in this issue of The News.

Miss Mildred Laneey, of Chester, 1964, and Miss Margaret Barrett, of Arkansas, are the guests of the Misses Lindsay, on York street.

Must Have Registration Certificate.
We again call the attention of the citizens to the fact that each voter must have a new registration certificate in order to vote in the election to be held September second for the purpose of deciding whether or not Chester will issue bonds for the improvement of streets and water works.
The old city certificate is no good in this election. A new certificate can be secured from Mr. Henry Samuels, supervisor of city registration, who now has the bonds open at the office of the Chief of Police. In order to secure a new city registration certificate one must have his county registration certificate. Look up your county registration certificate and prepare for the election.
The registration books will close on the afternoon of August 22nd. Don't delay the matter. Do it now.

CLINTON LYNN.
Many Chester friends were interested to learn of the marriage of Mr. Walton Lynn, of this city, and Miss Kathleen Clinton, of Mt. Holly, which was solemnized last Sunday afternoon at Rev. Haynes' home. Mr. Lynn is the popular and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Clinton and is a graduate of Winthrop College. Mr. Lynn was recently returned from the army and is connected with the dog food department of The S. M. Jones Company and is one of Chester's most progressive young business men.
Mr. and Mrs. Lynn are now in Chester but will leave tomorrow for Easley to attend the wedding of Mr. Olin Lynn of Chester and Miss Nellie Clinton and both of the young couples will then go to the mountains for a couple of weeks.

Southern Power Company Prepared for Possible Strike of Electrical Workers.

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 18.—Current widespread reports to the effect that the electrical workers in the employ of the Southern Power Company were contemplating a strike in sympathy with the striking streetcar and electrical workers of the Southern Public Utilities Company, failed forth the statement tonight by W. S. Lee, president of the power company, that "there will be no cessation of power from the Southern Power Company." President Lee further said that he had received no notice from the employees that they contemplate a strike, but explained that the company was prepared to continue the operation of its system even should a walk-out occur.

The Southern Power Company furnishes electric current to the Southern Public Utilities Company to numerous municipalities and districts of industrial plants in the Piedmont section of North and South Carolina.

Imperialism !!
An autocrat gets up and goes off just whenever he feels like it, and stays as long as he pleases. When he gets back to his neglected post of duty he makes his stupid and cowardly subjects pay him just the same. I have always contended that this kind of business is nothing more nor less than scientific and diabolical graft and wherever practiced and tolerated in a free country it becomes at once a glaring evidence of national decay.

LIVER DIDN'T ACT
DIGESTION WAS BAD
Says 65 year Old Kentucky Lady, Who Tells How She Was Relieved After A Few Days of Black-Draught.

Manchester, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Hightower, of this town, says: "All my life, which is to say, I have not set as well as young folks a few years ago my stomach was all out of fix. I was constipated, my liver didn't act, my digestion was bad, and it took me time to eat. My appetite was gone. I was very weak and I decided I would give Black-Draught a chance. It was highly recommended for this trouble. I began taking it. I felt better after a few days. My appetite improved and I became stronger. My bowels acted naturally and the heart trouble was soon relieved with a few days of Black-Draught."

"Severely cases of stomachic use has made DeFord's Black-Draught a standard household remedy. Every member of every family, at times, need the help that Black-Draught can give in obtaining the system and relieving the troubles that come from constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, etc. You cannot keep unless your stomach, liver and bowels are in good working order. Keep them that way. Try Black-Draught. It acts promptly, gives relief in a natural way. If you feel sluggish, take a dose tonight. Improved and I became stronger. My bowels acted naturally and the heart trouble was soon relieved with a few days of Black-Draught."

Typical German Proposal.

If anybody thinks that the Germans of other days has disappeared, or that there are no more Germans who are just a little different from those who were only too ready with care the plan—announced with naive frankness, and not the slightest appreciation of the effect to be produced on other nations by the announcement—for facilitating and regulating the emigration of some 20,000,000 Germans to Mexico and South America.

That Germans in considerable numbers will emigrate as soon as they can feel not be doubted. They will have a double motive for getting away—the burden of taxation that all stay-at-home Germans must bear and the real inability of Germany now that her foreign markets are lost, to support a population growing nearly as large as she has maintained in comfort and prosperity before the mad desire for universal dominion brought her to ruin. Given the probability, or rather the certainty, of an exodus, it is entirely characteristic and therefore natural that Germans of the class accustomed to govern and guide their countrymen should have assumed that they were to control the movement with a single object in view—the benefit of that once mighty abstraction, the German "State."

The emigrants are to go where they are told, and first, last, and always they are to consider and work for, not their individual interests, but those of the Fatherland. What they raise or produce in their new homes is to be sold to Germany alone, and all other customers, no matter what prices they offer, or how convenient for profitable it may be to trade with them, are to be ignored.

This is the German plan as outlined by its originators, and, from their point of view, it is a perfect one. And so it is perfect—just as was the first plan by the execution of which Germany was to win a military victory over all Europe in a few months, and over all the world in a few years.

If You Haven't Kung in a good Show Shop you certainly want to get introduced to Blain inside the next few days. You talk about a "Pai-pai" lining shoes lined here while you wait, say, it's like having a pass on a park Merry-go-round early in June. So, walk in Blain's shoe works for good service, but don't get wise, with the Spend-O-Best by test, when you cut your eyes upon those shoes that we turn out. You'll want to sing songs at sunrise, "Phone 225." Blain's Shoe Works, Goodyear System, Chester, S. C.

On Being "Different."

Deeply imbedded in the heart of the average person, so deep that its presence is scarcely realized, is the belief that he is just a little different from others. Whatever others may think of him he does not like to admit that he is only an "average fellow," that his aims and his hopes, his accomplishments, and his successes, are just the same as theirs about him. He likes to think that he is not cast in the same mold, but that he has certain individualities that set him apart. As a matter of fact, however, it is this very difference that makes us what we are, and which, if correctly utilized will help to develop us into our greatest stature. We may bear all the earmarks of the "average" person and yet be fundamentally different, whereas, we would each in turn be but a dull and tiresome replica of the other. If we all acted in just the same way, if our thoughts were similar, if our words were the same, this world would be a prosaic place. We have a right to our characteristics, our individualities, our peculiarities, whatever they may be called, and it is largely upon them that we depend to make an impression upon those with whom we may come in contact.

However, we are not always satisfied just to feel that we are different from others. We want to emphasize that difference, of course, to our personal advantage, and it is in doing this that we are likely to offend those who have not discovered that we are very different from others. We need to emphasize that difference, of course, to our personal advantage, and it is in doing this that we are likely to offend those who have not discovered that we are very different from ourselves. Some of us overestimate our abilities, for something; perhaps we feel that because of them, whatever they may be, we are entitled to special consideration than others. The trouble is, if we once start on this path we never know where to stop, and after while we discover we are so different that we have outstripped our readability. It is then that we begin to ring hollow, to make those shallow pretense and poor excuses which we hope will pass unnoticed. In reality, however, we are finding out, perhaps for the first time in our lives, our limitations as well as our possibilities. It is so easy to give ourselves the benefit of a doubt and think that we can do more than we are either intellectually or physically able to accomplish, and when our bluff is called, as it were, we find that we have let our imagination run away with our common sense. It is quite time then to realize that we are not very different from the men and women we meet, and that try as we may to believe that we are fashioned differently from the rest of our fellow-beings we are just the same.

The person who is really different, who is endowed with some special talent or genius, will soon forge ahead despite difficulties and obstacles, and the probability is that such a man will not be inclined to overrate himself and his possibilities. In fact, he will be inclined to go slow, to appreciate the fact that he is entirely human and subject to human temptations and failures, but, at the same time, he will not let in to the promptings that force him onward. Everything depends on the manner in which a person sees his opportunities, perceives those which spring naturally to his hand, and it is largely to this fact that the successful man attributes his success. No one can ever make a true sure of himself but at the same time he cannot afford not to make the most of his opportunities. The self-conceit man never makes a pleasant impression, while the man who is aware of his power and knows how to apply it attracts both by his strength of character and his dependability.

It may be that the desire to "rise higher in life" seems to the average man is a wholly worthy one, but it must not be forgotten that the average man forms the backbone of a nation's power. It is he who a country is judged because he makes up the mass of the population, not the exceptions here and there are those who time and again make the name after worldly honors and riches. It is no reflection to be merely an average man, one who sees his duty, performs it to the best of his ability and goes on his way, unassuming, unobtrusive, but with an easy conscience and a happy heart. What more could we ask for? Yet we are honest with ourselves we know that we are not satisfied with that just at first, but allowed for some vague reason that we are destined for better things. We want to aim for the heights when often enough we are not ready for it, to keep our places in the lowlands. We scorn the simple things of life until we learn too late to extract our steps and start afresh. We may think that we better fitted to do bigger things than those about us, but until we have evidence of the fact we may not be certain. We are different in many ways, of course, from our neighbors, but it is not our duty to make us different and hard experiences to make us

"Smoke Virginia-Carolina Straight"

For 300 years Virginia-Carolina tobacco has made good!

From the beginning Virginia-Carolina has been the world's favorite tobacco. It has been cultivated and improved for three centuries. Today—five times more of it is smoked in cigarettes than all the foreign-grown tobaccos combined. Only the lively taste and rich flavor of Virginia-Carolina tobacco account for this.

And only in a cigarette made entirely of Virginia-Carolina do you get the full flavor and all of that relish and zest.

Put the proof up to Piedmont.
