EXTENSION MADE IN FOOD CONTROL

Lever Act Amended by Penalty of Five Thousand Dollars, Fine or Two Years in Prison... Washington, Aug. 22.—Without amendment and with practically no opposition the House late today voted to amend the Lever food control act to extend its operation...

Proposals to make the act apply to profiteering in house and room rents, adopted by the house committee of the whole, were stricken out in the final vote... Efforts were made by both Republicans and Democrats to have the amendment provisions cover necessities other than those included in the amendment...

Recommendations of Attorney General Palmer, also included in the measure as passed... Five hours of general debate preceded passage of the measure...

Representative Bolenberger, Republican of Illinois, opening discussion on the measure, criticized President Wilson's "feeble efforts to establish some sort of connection between the present high cost of living and the league of nations..."

Paris, Aug. 22.—Herbert Hoover, who has just returned to Paris after a busy visit to central Europe and Silesia, has laid before the supervisory council the impression made upon him by the journey...

Throughout Austria and Hungary rickets and tuberculosis have increased to an alarmingly appalling extent. In fact rickets is described as being an almost universal disease among children in Hungary...

Nearly all the troubles of Austria and Hungary can be traced directly to the coal shortage... The coal shortage is the most important question the world has had to consider since the outbreak of the war in 1914.

America can supply Europe with a certain amount of coal but for every ton of coal imported from Europe one ton of foodstuffs will be kept in America...

In Silesia 20% of the biggest coal pits have been closed as a result of political strikes for which perhaps half the population may be almost equally shared by the Pole and German... In central and eastern Europe there is plenty of food in the ports and on the fields but there are food shortages in moving these food supplies to towns and cities...

Delivered at the Postoffice at Chester
S. C. as second-class matter.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 28.

We once saw a man who never needed any one to drive him—he was crazy.

A fellow told us the other day that he saw the police in Chester's streets were so deep that they had to blow your own horn before you could take them in order to see whether or not some one was in them.

A stranger stopped "On the Hill" a few days ago and asked the way to Rock Hill. Said a Chesterite, "After you hit those bumps in front of the postoffice just jump right straight on."

The fellows who drink "dope" on Sunday evidently believe, "Wherever there is a will there is a way."

Why don't they pass a law prohibiting a drug store clerk from drinking a "drip of snuff" while awaiting their fellows.

You often hear a man say, "Well, my own John is it and what such town and he is making good." Why don't you help to make your own town a good town so that John can remain by the home front and make good?

There are a few people who have registered for the bond election to be held on next Tuesday September second, who have possibly made their minds up to vote against the proposed improvement. No doubt, some of these people have their own personal reasons, to which they are entitled, for voting against the issue. However, we would like for these people to give the matter serious consideration before casting their ballots against this proposed improvement to the town of Chester. If the issue is defeated it will mean that Chester is left in the back-ground for several years to come. It will mean that instead of moving forward it will be backward. Many of the Chester young men who will be making their future home, who would like to remain with their loved ones, will have to seek new friends where they will have no opportunity to make something of themselves. Let's don't be selfish in this matter. Consider the whole people, and what it means to them.

STRIKE CAUSED TWO DEATHS IN CHARLOTTE

Two Men Killed and Six Wounded Last Night at Street Car Barn—Polemium Fire Into Mill—Street Cars Rocked

Charlotte, Aug. 26th.—The dead body of J. W. Pope of Concord, who found about 1:30 o'clock this morning beside the car barn of the street railway company following shooting about 12:30, when two men were killed and a half-dozen injured in a half-hour of fighting between polemium and a crowd gathered there.

At least six men were shot, two fatally, in a battle between the police department and a crowd in front of the Southern Public Utilities company's car barns on South boulevard about 12:30 o'clock this morning. Six men were brought to St. Peter's hospital, one of them dying as he was being carried into the hospital. The name of the young man was reported as Hinson, and a quantity of shrapnel bearing the letterhead of J. H. Hinson & Sons, well diggers, was taken from his body, but his crime has not yet been determined. Mr. Hinson having three grown sons listed in the directory.

According to Chief of Police Walter B. Orr, the trouble started when a crowd, believed to have been headed by a man named Wilson, a brother of Glen Wilson, who was kept in the hotel earlier in the night, approached some of the officers and started a controversy over the striking of young Wilson and another. According to the chief, somebody in the crowd fired a pistol, and the police, toward the last notch by the events of the night, promptly opened fire.

"It was like touching a match to a tinder box," the chief stated. "The whole crowd all that was and that was there—meant that ended only when the crowd was dispersed and the police and others ceased firing." Chief Orr estimated that about 500 hundred shots were fired in all, a number of members of the mob shooting at the policemen.

None of the policemen was injured. The first two or three cars to reach the square were derailed by the riot and as the crowd passed that the cars were really in operation. A large crowd gathered about the four corners, being particularly dense in front of the United Cigar store.

Suddenly bricks began to fly from many directions, and windows of passing cars were broken by the flying missiles. This continued for nearly a half hour, during which time the police were called out in force.

Mr. Drann, Assistant superintendent of the railway system, was struck in the face, either by a flying brick or a bullet, and other missiles perceptibly splintered. Some one threw a piece of gas at a car window and a young man was immediately taken into custody by an officer placed in a police machine and taken to headquarters.

The crowd gradually began to disperse following this latest act of throwing of missiles.

Three Eggs At Peashear.

A mass meeting was held at the court house last night which time several speakers made talks to the cotton mill operatives of Chester in the interest of the American Federation of Labor which is seeking the membership of the textile workers of this section.

The first party to appear before the audience was Rev. Chapman, a Baptist minister of Rock Hill. A number of the audience appeared to think that Rev. Chapman started off rather tough, and they began to jeer him. When he made the statement which hit the wall above the judge's stand, Rev. Chapman was unable to continue his talk.

The arrival of the "organizers" from Rock Hill was then awaited and the first speaker from this crowd was Mr. Dean, a representative of the American Federation of Labor, and who had been in Rock Hill for some time. Several others in addition to Mr. Dean addressed the crowd.

After Sheriff Anderson and several policemen came into the court house the crowd was very orderly.

The organization of the Chester textile workers was not perfected last night, this being left to the local committee.

To Organize Chester County Post

It will be of interest to all soldiers who served in the recent war to know that there will be a Chester county post of the American Legion. To get a charter it is necessary to send in an application signed by fifteen former soldiers. This application must be accompanied by fifteen dollars.

All former soldiers who are interested in forming a local post are requested to see Capt. J. L. Glenn, Jr., at the office of Glenn & Glenn.

It is especially desirable that there be a man from every section of the county on the organization committee.

The State Headquarters, in Columbia, have asked Capt. Glenn to be chairman of the organizing committee for Chester county. Similar posts are being organized all over the United States.

The rules allow only one post for each county no matter how large or populous the county may be. A pamphlet giving full information can be had by calling at the Chester Chamber of Commerce.

A meeting of all interested will be held Wednesday at eleven o'clock at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

DEMOCRATS SEEK CAMPAIGN FUND

Plan to raise five million dollars.

Fund Will Be Grown, 'Says To Date,' Says Director of Finance.

New York, Aug. 23.—The high cost of everything else has but politics, too, according to a statement issued here tonight by former Representative William D. Jamieson, director of finance of the Democratic national committee, in announcing plans to raise a $5,000,000 war chest for the coming presidential election.

The greatest Democratic campaign fund raised to date, said Mr. Jamieson, was $2,000,000, contributed by 300,000 members of the party to reelect President Wilson in 1916. This year, he said, an intensive campaign will be pushed to obtain subscriptions averaging $5 from at least 1,000,000 persons.

Mr. Jamieson added, however, that a sharper limit would be put on the size of contributions than will have

A Salutory Lesson.

Perhaps one of the most salutory lessons of the war is the new realization that has come to us of our opportunities to be of service to mankind, and the quickening of our desire to be of service. We had gotten into a rut in the old days and except for an occasional helping hand in those instances which were brought immediately to our attention we kept our minds and our efforts directly centered upon the advancement of our own interests. Many of these interests were selfish in their nature but because we wanted them for ourselves, we were stuck to them at all cost, and even made others pay the price of service, we worked for ourselves, we lived for ourselves, and we failed to appreciate the obligations which we owed to these about us. America was said to be a nation without deals, our people had become commercialized that better, higher things of life had little meaning for us. The false doctrine so widely preached entered by degrees into our consciousness and we became forgetful of the claims of others. We slumbered on apparently dead to all interests save our own.

Then came the awakening. The bugle call of outraged humanity roused us from our slumbers and civilized us into action, and almost in the twinkling of an eye the pride of America stepped into the ranks to fight for world freedom. Forgetful were the selfish considerations that bound us to worldly profits and in their place there sprang into being a finer, deeper appreciation of what life really means. The months of service on foreign fields and in foreign waters have left their mark upon the hearts of our men, and the months of cooperative work among the home toilers have left their impression also. The two things that stand out squarely above the confusion and unrest of the readjustment period are, first of all, the new appreciation of what our country means, and second, the joy that comes with unselfish service. On these two great truths which so many of us have only just discovered, and so many of us have, we might say, rediscovered, we have now the chance to build for the future. The leaven of understanding has worked its way through our beings and we are learning to give new value to certain things in life that before held no interest for us whatever. For one thing we know now that there is something more than mere creature comforts, that the periphrastic gaudities of the world upon which we have hitherto set so much store, are less than nothing, and that the really worthwhile compensations, if rewards, arise those that result from quickened motives.

The war set a high goal of accomplishment and the fact that we attained it, through sacrifice as well as through endeavor, shows what we can do if we try. There are other goals ahead of us, and for the sake of those who gave their lives for the cause we must unite to "carry on" the great work just begun. Just as the men in the ranks of the Allies fought so bravely in the year after year, just as our own men grasped the torch from them from dying hands and fought the way to freedom, so, too, must we fight the battles of peace day after day, and year after year in order to perpetuate the fruits of our great triumph. We shall not be following in the footsteps of those who fought for the rights of humanity and achieved them if we in our turn neglect to secure them. We must work for the good of the many, and ignore our purely selfish motives if we expect to "carry on." We cannot forget while the thunders of war are roaring; but it is easy to do when the noise has ceased and peace reigns once more. Now is the time to safeguard the victory that has been won, and no true American can permit his own selfish motives to stifle the cry of duty. It is through our work at the present time that we shall show ourselves worthy to "carry on" the great truths for which the war was waged and won, and the more unselfish that work is, and the more unitive our efforts to be of service to others, the more worthy are we to cooperate. The meaning of the war struggle will live forever in the minds of those who served on land and sea; it should be reflected in the minds of those who were not in the ranks of the fighting. By our work now and in the future shall we show how much of the great lessons of service to others we have taken to heart.

Where Cigarette Tobacco Was Born

Along toward early autumn, after the tobacco crop had been cured and packed away in the barns, the planters from up and down the river would foregather, usually at the Strabridge place, thence to set out on the first Ice-plant of the season.

—Early Virginia, page 243.

Virginia-Carolina tobacco still holds the world's favor

WHEN, in 1587, the tobacco that we know as Virginia-Carolina tobacco was introduced into England, it quickly became "the rage". Since then it has gained steadily in popularity all over the world.

In 1918, in the United States alone, five times more Virginia-Carolina tobacco was smoked in cigarettes than all the foreign-grown tobacco combined. That's because a cigarette of this sun-ripened home-grown tobacco has a crisp, lively relish that no cigarette of foreign or mixed tobacco can match.

Piedmonts—made entirely of choicest Virginia-Carolina—will prove this to you.

The Virginia-Carolina Cigarette

Piedmont

NOTE—Virginia-Carolina tobacco is grown here in the U. S. A. Unlike foreign-grown tobacco, it carries no harmful duty. Import duty doesn't make a cigarette any better—it merely adds to its cost. Piedmonts give you better value because they're money by tobacco quality.

What Happens When We Laugh?

Laughter is what we call a reflex action. When something occurs to make us laugh, whether it is something we see or feel, or hear, it is because certain sensory nerves receive an impression in one of three ways: carry it to the nerve center and the nerve center then sends the same impression along certain efferent nerves, which connect with certain muscles or glands, and excite practically the same as when you think to act. The action is held a light before a mirror. The rays from the light strike the surface, lighting perhaps corners of the room which the direct rays from the light could not reach, all depending upon the angle of reflection. Light will always reflect from a mirror that is exposed to it.

Now, then, when you see, hear or feel anything that makes you laugh, the sensory nerves have only to receive the impression to bring on the reflexion of laughter. Something touches the laugh nerves or they laugh trigger that caused it to go off. You can prove that it is a matter of impression entirely by noting that some people can listen to a perfectly funny story, even when told by a clever performer, and never crack a smile, while others burst into uncontrollable laughter, and he who does not even smile may be listening even more intently than the other.

You can be looking for a laugh. It all depends upon the impression that is made upon the nerves. The muscles have the power to express the state of gladness which is indicated by laughter when certain impressions pass along the nerves which operate them, just as they can be made to do other things when the proper cause for action is shown them.

TO ERECT WAREHOUSE.

Charlotte Community Show Progress, Civic Spirit.

Gaffney, Aug. 23.—Farmers in the eastern portion of Cherokee County are preparing to erect a community warehouse in which to store cotton, instead of bringing it to Gaffney as is the practice now. The people of the neighborhood say that they will be enabled to make the same arrangements in regard to insurance, etc., with the warehouse at their doors as they can make by bringing the cotton to Gaffney, and thus avoid the pecuniary loss of hauling the staple several miles in order to warehouse it. This community is one of the most progressive in the county, and it is probable that the building will be erected for the reception of this year's crop.
