Address of Senator E. D. Smith to the People of South Carolina.

I wish to express the thanks of my State to the generous hospitality of the South Carolina people, expressed in the vast numbers who have come to witness this event. Our best thanks are due the Southern people for their expression of sympathy and for the good wishes that have been sent to us. The whole of the Southern States are here to-day, and we are grateful for their welcome.

South Carolina is a great State, with a great history. It is a State of fine men, and fine women, and fine boys and girls. It is a State of great wealth, and great resources. It is a State of great talent, and great intelligence. It is a State of great strength, and great ability.

The Southern people are a people of fine qualities, and of fine character. They are a people of fine spirits, and of fine courage. They are a people of fine manners, and of fine taste. They are a people of fine judgment, and of fine insight.

South Carolina is a great State, and a great people. It is a State of great promise, and great potentiality. It is a State of great expectation, and great aspiration. It is a State of great hope, and great confidence.

I wish to express the thanks of my State to the people of South Carolina, for their hospitality and their welcome. I wish to express the thanks of my State to the Southern people, for their expression of sympathy and for their good wishes. I wish to express the thanks of my State to the peoples of the Southern States, for their welcome and their hospitality.

South Carolina is a great State, and a great people. It is a State of great promise, and great potentiality. It is a State of great expectation, and great aspiration. It is a State of great hope, and great confidence.

I wish to express the thanks of my State to the people of South Carolina, for their hospitality and their welcome. I wish to express the thanks of my State to the Southern people, for their expression of sympathy and for their good wishes. I wish to express the thanks of my State to the peoples of the Southern States, for their welcome and their hospitality.

SENATOR SMITH DENOUNCES AS FALSE HIS OPPONENT'S CHARGES

"I have just been made aware of a political advertisement of Mr. Smith. I am convinced that the position which he takes in this matter is not the position which he has held in the past, and which I have known him to hold up to the present day. I believe that Mr. Smith is not the man that he has claimed to be, and that he is not the man that he pretends to be."

The above is absolutely all that I can say in connection with this matter, and I desire to make it clear that I am not making a partisan speech, but merely expressing my idea of what is right and wrong."

SMITH MAKES STRANGE BONDEWILLS

A Direct Charge By George Warren and an Expose of Smith Tackles the People of South Carolina Should Know

I charge a direct connection between former Governor Cole L. Brown and Senator E. D. Smith to defraud me for the United States Senate.

This alliance, made in utter desperation, was affected and not into operation as the campaign in question, has been created in an Allan's later effort to overcome the assistance which had been
