CHESTER NEWS

VOL. NO. 9 CHESTER, S. C., FRIDAY, AUGUST 31, 1923. NO. 50

Adjoining County News.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe R. Caskey, of the South Lancaster branch of the town Monday morning en route to Charlotte to consult medical specialists. Mrs. Caskey being in poor health at present has been advised by Dr. Craig returned from Rock Hill last Friday, where she had been receiving hospital treatment for several weeks. Her condition is reported to be better, but she is still confined to the home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Steele and children, of the Unity section, leave tomorrow for Due West where they will make their future home. Lancaster county departs with his good family with much regret, but with them every success in their new abode. In Due West Mr. and Mrs. Steele will have the advantages of unexcelled educational facilities for their children, which was really the main reason in their moving there.

The Ford roadster of B. M. Hayes, of Columbia, who travels for the Brown-Williams Tobacco Co., of Winston-Salem, N. C., was robbed last Thursday night while parked on Arch street adjoining the Hotel Royal where Mr. Hayes was staying for the night. A tire, rim and tube and a headlight valued at $20 and $35 worth of tobacco was stolen from the car during the robbery. Instances of petty thievery from cars have been reported here of late, but as far as is known at this writing the authorities have not taken any action, although they are working on the case.

Benjamin Watson, of Kershaw, died in a Columbia hospital Thursday and the body was taken to Lancaster Friday and interred in Westside cemetery. Mr. Watson was about 40 years of age and survived by a wife and several children. Mrs. Watson has been ill and was unable to attend the burial of her husband. Born was known long in Lancaster, where he lived when a young man with his father, who was a shoemaker by trade, and a brother, Charlie Watson, his brother. Will Watson, having been a carriage maker, was a shoemaker 30 years ago by the accidental discharge of a shotgun while hunting.

Two white boys apparently 12 years of age, were arrested yesterday about 1 o'clock p. m. by officers on the charge of stealing from the automobile of Ernest Duke, traveling agent, of Buffalo, N. Y., while the machine was parked around the street from the Royal Hotel, where Mr. Duke was staying. The boys were seen by Mr. Cannon, proprietor of the hotel, inking around the car and when called to by Mr. Cannon the young boys ran down Main street and toward the mill village, pursued by officers who brought them back and held them pending a hearing in the morning. Several packages of cigarettes and a quantity of mentholatum was missed from the car, which it is said, the boys admit was taken by them. One of the boys gave his name as Snipe and the other as Hunter—Lancaster News.

Dr. J. H. Campbell, who is undergoing treatment in the Mayo Brothers hospital at Rochester, N. Y., is reported to be recovering nicely and as well as could be expected. If his condition continues favorable, as it certainly will probably be, he will leave the hospital of September before he returns to Clover. Quinn Wallace has sold his interest in the Shieder Drug Company to W. C. Coker, of York. Messrs. Shieder and Sandifer will continue the conduct of the business as heretofore. Mr. J. N. Hogue of the Beth-Shiloah neighborhood, on yesterday brought to the Yorkville Enquirer officer's stalk of cotton from the patch of his neighbor Glenn Adkins, that is giving very considerable concern. The stalk in question contained originally twelve bolls, only two of which remain in fair condition, the rest having been destroyed by some kind of insecticide that Mr. Hogue is unable to explain. He says it may be the work of the weevil or the bollworm. He is sending specimens to Clemson college in the hope of getting some information. This stalk came out of a patch of cotton near the house which contains practically three acres, and in the opinion of Mr. Hogue, the whole patch will hardly yield a hundred pounds of lint.

Dr. J. H. Viner, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Fort Mill, will preach at Allison Creek at 3:30 p. m. on the first and third Sabbaths of each month. Allison Creek formerly grouped with Beth-Shiloah and Bowling Green, has been more or less isolated for the past few years, and has had no regular preaching except as supplied by Rev. J. B. Swain for about a year. The congregation has been a desolate being taken care of in ad-hoc groupings arranged; but so far has not been successful. Rev. Mr. Viner, however, says that he expects to preach twice a month from now on, and will be here on each preaching day at 3:30 p. m. or nine—Yorkville Enquirer.

YORK DISAVOWS ISSUE OF BONDS

Western Section Overwhelmingly Negative, Proponents of Plan Opposite Over Turning Opinion Before Election in October.

York, Aug. 29.—Not as propaganda, but to influence a single vote on the question, but simply a matter of new capital sales that western York is overwhelmingly against the proposed $2,000,000 bond issue for road surfacing the three principal highways of the county, the fate of which measure will be decided at a county-wide plebiscite to be held in October.

Western York, according to the usual procedure of the territory, includes the townships of Bethel, Kings Mountain, York, Bullocks Creek, Broad River and the greater part of Bethesda. In this territory the opposition to the bond issue is so pronounced that not even the most ardent supporter of the measure can expect its adoption. It is felt that the election were held now the bond issue would simply be snowed under, as far as western York is concerned.

Proponents of the plan, however, hope for a change in the opinion between now and election time and already profess to see indications of the hoped for drift. That is, the matter is a live issue. The situation stands today, however, overwhelming majority against the measure is so evident that it is unquestionable.

Considerable sentiment in favor of the bond issue exists in eastern York, centering in Rock Hill, according to reports reaching York from the other side of the county. It is reliable, Catawba, the best voted township in the county, will pile up a big majority for the measure when election day rolls around. The other townships comprising what is known as eastern York, are Ebenezer and Fort Mill, and reports are somewhat at variance as to how they will vote.

The strongest opposition to the measure, as is natural, is found in Bethel and Bullocks Creek townships, which are not traversed by any of the three roads slated for improvement. The vote in these townships, however, is relatively light.

Improving territorial divisions and increasing population into two classes, rather than a change in the roads proposed for the bond issue will be found in the cities and towns. One reason for this, no doubt, is the fact that the cities and towns are the principal highways of the county in their automobile travel and these are the roads that are slated for improvement.

The roads proposed for paving are three in number, one traversing York from east to west and two from north to south, the mileage being about 30 miles. One of these roads leads from the Cherokee line, through York and Rock Hill to the Catawba river between York and Lancaster, another runs from the state line near Blowing Rock, through Clover and York to the Chester county line below McConkey, which is the third leads from the state line north of Fort Mill to the Chester line near Smith's, passing through Fort Mill and Rock Hill.

The One Crop System

THE WESTERN WHEAT FARMER IS "UP AGAINST IT" DUE TO THE FACT THAT HE IS GETTING LESS THAN ONE DOLLAR A BUSHEL FOR HIS WHEAT

THE PRESENT CONDITION, HOWEVER, IS NOTHING NEW TO HIM. HE HAS EXPERIENCED IT BEFORE. HE HAS REFUSED TO PROFIT BY HIS EXPERIENCE OF THE PAST.

EVERY ONE-CROP FARMER IS DUE TO HIT THE ROCKS OCCASIONALLY.

DIVERSIFICATION IS THE SALVATION OF THE WHEAT FARMER, AND ALL OTHER FARMERS.

SCOTCH FARMERS.

Find Terms in Ownership—Old Time Renting System Now Seen to Have Advantages.

In Scotland vacant farms are extremely rare, and as a rule there are not enough farms to go round. The Scottish farmer sticks to his homestead, and his children and his children's children follow his example. It is quite a common thing to find that the same families have occupied the same farms for hundreds of years, and apparently intend to remain on them as long as the world lasts.

The great majority of these agriculturists still rent their farms, although since the war an increasing number own their holdings. But these have found proprietors who mean a good deal to them, and with high taxation, the obligation of making good all dilapidations and carrying out improvements, they find it a relief to have their land let to a tenant who will take the responsibility for what he has called an Irishman's bargain. Even before the war quite a number of the landed proprietors found that the higher wages of servants, the death duties and other Lloyd-Georgian taxation were cutting into their incomes to such an extent that they were willing to sell their good land on easy terms and to give away their land for next to nothing.

The Duke of Fife, after he had married one of the Royal princesses, unloaded thousands of acres of his land on anyone who was willing to buy, his sitting tenants receiving the preference. A good many took advantage of this opportunity of becoming owners, and did very well.

Then the war came and landlords and their sons took their part in the great struggle. Thousands of them laid down their lives and many infants became the proprietors of tens of thousands of acres out of which they had to make their bread and the substance. But all landlords alike have been hard hit by the changes which have taken place, and some of them have lately been able to prove to the satisfaction of their tenants that far from making any money by drawing rents for their broad acres, their possessions have actually become a burden with an adverse balance sheet at the end of the year.

Some of these proprietors, afflicted with the same disease as themselves—old-fashioned landlords—have adopted the motto of the Duke of Plas Tor in the Gilbertian comic opera, and have become responsible to their tenants for the maintenance of their holdings. As indicated, the tenant farmers who have become proprietors have been adversely affected by the same conditions, and some of them have come to the conclusion that it would be better to have their land let to a tenant farmer, who would be content with what meager dividends may be available.

IN SLEW POLICES

President Expected to Run for Election—Combination of Wagon and Reactionary Wings of Republican Party.

Washington, Aug. 28.—When President Coolidge appointed Bascom Slemp to the important post of secretary to the president two things became apparent to Washington political observers: That the president is a determined candidate for another term in the White House and that to achieve a second term, he has formed a coalition with the reactionary wing of the Republican party.

It is obvious that President Coolidge counts on his New England connections, as well as Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire (the political Tallyrand who, with such precipitation and without warning, announced the candidacy of Senator Hiram Johnson of California) to hold that section in line.

View of what has transpired, it is not anticipated that there will be any departure from the conventional method of another campaign by congress. Mr. Coolidge, if he suggests American participation in the election of judges of an international tribunal, will so circumscribe his suggestion as to make it satisfactory to the chairman of the national, the senatorial and congressional committees of whom opposed President Harding's original declaration.

As it is freely discussed in congressional circles that if Coolidge makes his suggestion, it will be ignored, that no office will be given the president.

Regarding other policies of the former president, the new president will act as the former would have acted. He will appoint Walter Cohen, negro, collector of customs at New Orleans; he will appoint Joseph W. Tolbert collector internal revenue in South Carolina; and he will insist on a negro manager for the colored veterans' hospital at Tuskegee, Ala.

HELD MAD DOG WITH HIS HAND AND SLAYS IT

Cleveland County Man, Being Bitten, Heroically Saves His Son From Same Misfortune.

Shelby, Aug. 28.—Robert Beatty, a mad dog with left hand and killed it by cutting its throat with a pocketknife Sunday morning. It was heard here today, the incident stirring the town. By killing dog, Beatty, who suffered an ugly looking wound in the leg where the dog bit him saved his small son.

The dog, an unusually large one, crossed between a foxhound and an airleade, was known to be headed towards Waco from the home of its owner, Alvin Gahpe, who lives several miles from Waco. Beatty had gotten in a car with Yates Spurlin to meet the animal. Spurlin had a gun but Beatty did not.

Just as they started to leave in front of the People's Bank of Waco the dog ran up to the side of the car. Beatty, who was driving, young son ran up from the house nearby to see where his father was being. Beatty leaped from the car landing about twenty feet from the child and the dog. The dog grabbed his leg and inflicted a painful wound. Nothing daunted Beatty gripped the dog by the neck and powerful hold and reached for his pocketknife while the foaming, writhing, crazed beast tried its best to escape. The man and the dog were jerked around in this manner, such an extent that Spurlin, who had a gun, was afraid to shoot for fear he would hit his son. Beatty, with his knife in his right hand, was unable to loosen his grip on the dog to open the knife. Spurlin was able to take the knife and open it and managed to get it into Beatty's hand. Beatty then proceeded to cut the animal's throat, killing it.

DOZEN FIRE FALLS TO HIT W. Z. FOSTER

Three Men Who Attempt to Shoot Radical Labor Leader Fall, But Make Their Escape.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Three men who attempted to shoot William Z. Foster, radical labor leader, as he started to address a meeting of 2,000 men and women garment workers last night, failed to hit him with a dozen shots and fled down the fire escape from which they had directed their attack.

Foster quickly calmed his audience by saying: "There's nothing to be alarmed about," and continued his speech on the expulsion of seven members of the garment workers' union for advocating one big union.

Foster had just advanced to the front of the platform when three men opened a fire escape door 30 feet away and opened fire. The three after firing several shots ran down the fire escape and vanished. Foster left early today for Terre Haute to speak at a labor meeting there tonight.

LOCKHART SCHOOLS WILL OPEN SEPTEMBER 10TH

Lockhart, Aug. 29th.—The Lockhart schools will open for the 1923-24 term on Monday, September 10th, and the prospect for a good term have never been brighter in the history of the schools.

The trustees have added the eleventh grade which will enable the pupils to be prepared to enter college. Especially is this arrangement commensurate with the entrance of Miss Julia Henderson, Miss Marion Sturkes, Miss Hattie Stone, Miss Kelly and Adamburg schools as many of them who desire to take the eleventh grade will come here each day, the truck calling at the respective school houses for them.

The Lockhart school building is a modern structure, equipped with every modern contrivance for the school.

The faculty consists of the following: High School, A. D. Edson, Principal, Miss Edna Hope and Miss Helen Nixon. Elementary, Miss Margaret Slemas Lawrence, Miss Margaret Drennan, Miss T. Leech, Miss Julia Henderson, Miss Marion Sturkes, Miss Hattie Stone, Miss Kelly and Adamburg schools, Miss Alice Imman, Mr. J. P. Haggerty, Miss Maude Goode, and Miss Lois McMillan.

Miss Drennan, Miss Drennan will not only teach music, but will give a portion of her time to other work in the schools.

McBEE SHOWS WAY IN RAISING PEACHES

Correspondent on Trip Talks of Enterprise and Initiative Shown by Farmers.

Hartsville, This correspondent on a recent trip to McBee, fourteen miles from Hartsville, was interested in the peach industry and the enterprise and initiative shown by the farmers in that section in peach culture.

He learned that approximately 1,000 acres of peaches were being raised in the past few years. This was much towards the development of a town which naturally should grow up around the peach industry.

The position of the farmer is, of course, materially affected by the amount of money he realizes for his produce. He has to take into consideration in many cases the fact that the price of the peach is not as high as it used to be.

As it is freely discussed in congressional circles that if Coolidge makes his suggestion, it will be ignored, that no office will be given the president.

Regarding other policies of the former president, the new president will act as the former would have acted. He will appoint Walter Cohen, negro, collector of customs at New Orleans; he will appoint Joseph W. Tolbert collector internal revenue in South Carolina; and he will insist on a negro manager for the colored veterans' hospital at Tuskegee, Ala.

In such of such actions, there will be no means rare where, after the election, the man who will make bold enough to talk of such subjects.

and training in some skilled handicraft, combined with a fair proportion of perseverance and level-headedness, their success is assured. At the same time, instances are by no means rare where, after the election of the man who will make bold enough to talk of such subjects.

The original functioning of the crop reporting organization was a bureau of information. It appeared to have developed into a governmental trouble-shooter—Charlotte Observer.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 31.

A press dispatch appearing in the dailies advises that a hardware concern in Anderson, South Carolina has bought a carload of brooms which represents an expenditure of around one hundred thousand dollars. This sounds big and would indicate that the Anderson firm is enjoying a large sale in the way of brooms.

A regrettable part of the news though is the fact that the brooms were ordered from a manufacturer in Indiana. If these brooms had been ordered from a Carolina manufacturer then it would have been real news. As it stands the manufacturer and laborers in Indiana will enjoy the benefits of the money spent for the brooms, while Southern people sit around and growl about hard times, lack of employment and how they are out of work and so forth. Southland does not grow as fast as it ought to.

When the people of the Carolinas begin to demand Carolina products then will our Southland come into its own. It will mean money and happiness to all. It will mean that our young men will not have to seek foreign fields for "advantages," a word we term them.

We Carolina people should look after our own household.

NOT WILLING TO WORK.

One of the discouraging effects of charity is that recipients become accustomed to their fate and lose ambition to become self-sustaining. The curse of alms is its demoralization of character in the recipient.

Ten years ago, we read of a Russian immigrant has tolled in this country with the end in view to amass his family in this country. The task has been prodigious, the more so because in addition to saving the money needed, he must assist in feeding and clothing them there. "Starving Russia" was a reality to him, and the constant fear that his loved ones might be suffering was the torturing goad to increased effort and greater privation on the part of the father that the day might come when, in this land of opportunity, they might be gathered about him and all enjoy the prosperity and freedom found only here.

The day came not long ago. A daughter and her husband were yet in Russia, among those fed on charity. The relief agent, who was the messenger of the glad tidings to the family in Russia, reports they refuse to come to America, the main reason in fear of being compelled to work.

Let Peter Reigel send food and money and we are well off in Russia, was the reported answer of the son-in-law to the tendered transportation to America.

What a field for speculation as to human nature, is opened in this incident!—Selected.

The Coming Presidential Campaign.

The disastrous effect of the Underwood tariff bill upon the business interests of this country, bringing almost unparalleled stagnation and losses, heading thousands of industries straight toward bankruptcy in 1915 and 1914, should be a warning to the South at least that no free trade advocate deserves the support of the people of the South.

Two things which stand out prominently in this campaign, and in the vote of the South, should be that this section will not favor a free trade or a weak currency. Any man who is followed upon the Democratic party by the set interests should be liberally swamped by an "adverse" vote in the South. If the Southern people believe in morality more than they believe in political fetish.

The prosperity of this section more and more depends upon a protective tariff, and in view of the enormous importation of foreign goods competing with American agricultural and manufactured products, the time may come when we shall have to have a very much higher tariff than that of the Forney-Mann-ber Bill. A lower tariff would swamp the land, destroy thousands of industrial enterprises, and bring poverty to many agricultural interests.

Upon the South will rest a large degree of responsibility as to whether it shall favor its self-preservation against the influence of any man who is not wholeheartedly in favor of prohibition per se. We do not mean a man who simply favors it because the law is on the statute books; but who believes deep down in his soul in prohibition and against the power of the combined liquor interests of the world now seeking to destroy the prohibition laws of this country.

The South must, therefore, if it is honest with itself and its own people, favor a man who believes in a protective tariff and in prohibition for prohibition's sake, in the presidential campaign upon which we are entering. All the power of the liquor interests of the world will be concentrated upon trying to put into the presidential chair a man who, though he may nominally favor the prohibition law because it is a law, will at the same time be in sympathy with the liquor interests and practically all of the big impeding interests and many international bankers backed by foreign powers will do their utmost to put forward a free trade candidate. Such a man is not wanted in the presidential chair.

These are questions which the people of the South must study with great care during the next twelve months.—Manufacturers' Record.

FARMERS GET MONEY.

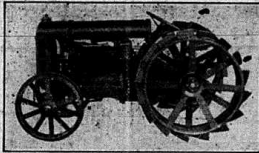

Many Chester County Farmers are Receiving Nice Sums Each Week from "Local Creamery."—Realize that it is a Going Concern.

The amount of money being paid out weekly by the Chester Community Creamery would indicate that the creamery is among the most prosperous in this section, and also that it is being of much benefit to scores of farmers throughout this section. One week recently the local creamery paid out to farmers $1,200.00 for cream. This is equivalent to approximately seventy thousand dollars a year.

Many farmers state that they are making an excellent thing out of the local creamery, and while it is realized that selling cream is not a get-rich-quick scheme, it provides a man with an opportunity to make a good living by keeping a few cows and raising his feed (kittens) home. When the creamery was first started in Chester there were many farmers who were afraid to put money into cows for fear the creamery would fall through, but now that it is realized that the Chester Creamery is a going concern the most skeptical are no longer hesitating about buying cows with the view of furnishing cream.

Below will be found a list of amounts recently paid to various farmers for one week's supply of cream. These figures will show that many local farmers are each week receiving nice sums. We are not publishing the names of those receiving the checks because several of them doubtless do not care to have their private affairs published.

FORD BETS SIX MILLIONS ON SUPER-POWER

It has cost a great amount of money to learn how bituminous coal can be burned economically. Since the middle of the 19th century experiments have been conducted along two lines, known as high temperature distillation and low temperature distillation. About a hundred million dollars have been spent on the latter. Henry Ford, it is said, having five million dollars, thinks the latter process has been worked out. Chemists and engineers have spent about a million dollars of Ford's money experimenting. The method that he will use utilizes 90 percent of the value of the coal.

Burned in this way, an engineer says, a ton of coal will produce 2,500 cubic feet of gas. It will produce ten gallons of motor fuel. (That is to say, fuel capable of being used in an internal combustion engine of the ordinary kind; probably a little more so.) It will produce three gallons of creosote, and 15 gallons of fuel oil. (Fuel for crude oil engines.) It will produce four gallons of kerosene, and 1,500 pounds of coke. Bituminous coals vary in ingredients; this list of the elements derivable from a ton is illustrative.

The prices of the products arrived at are as follows: Coke, manufactured into briquettes, for domestic use, $14.6 a ton, a little more than half the price of anthracite coal at the mine (using 36 per cent volatile bituminous). Gas at 7-1/2 cents a thousand cubic feet, against a 50 to 60 cents present production cost. Sulphate of ammonia (fertilizer) a product not listed above, two cents a pound. Light oil (kerosene substitute) 75 per gallon. Heavy oil (residue), 1-1/2 cents a gallon; redistilled into gasoline substitute at six cents a gallon. Creosote, for timber preservation, seven cents a gallon. Heavy fuel oil, 3-1/2 cents a gallon. The estimates are given to Harold A. Little, of the New York Evening Post, by V. Z. Carasch, consulting engineer, of New York.

To Ford and his business this process means that cars can be manufactured much more cheaply, and operated much more cheaply. Ford burns about a ton of coal in making a car. The "burning coal twice" process means a greatly decreased price of fuel per car manufactured. It is said that Ford is preparing to make his own steel, with the cheap coke produced by this process. Whether he makes it or buys it is all the same, provided the economies of the process are utilized. He makes the workover now of timber from his own forests. From the 1,700,000 pounds of sawdust he produces each year, he will distill alcohol, to make paint, and acetic acid, to be used in manufacturing leather substitute for upholstery and the standard furniture will be turned out of coal. The packer is said to utilize everything the hog has except its squeal, getting 90 per cent of the value of his own coal from his own pit, his own timber from his own land, and perhaps eventually making steel from pig iron turned out by his mills, from one kind of his products, and furnishing his own customers fuel at a fraction of present prices—if he does these things, Mr. Ford will turn the world upside down.

Because his economies will have to be met, from all directions. If his processes are available, they or better ones will presently be used in a large percentage of bituminous coal combustion. By such processes gas will be produced, not necessarily to meet Ford's completion, but because it will be more profitable to produce cheaper gas. Coke from this process will be produced all over the country, giving the people a fuel as clean as anthracite, and even found in but one locality; and even the present users of anthracite will have their fuel costs reduced. The conservation of the gasoline in soft coal will stretch out the petroleum supply for decades, which will in itself be revolutionary. How to get the fuel out of oil shales will become an academic, rather than a practical problem; petroleum itself will drop and everything in industry, commerce and science that is based on the internal combustion engine will be cheapened.

Now this is a dream that is not altogether a dream if Mr. Ford has decided to put $5,000,000 more into it, along with the million he has supplied scientists for experiments. Before this there have been processes that got all these things out of a ton of coal except the creosote, lubricating oil and grease, and conserved all but 12 per cent of the value.

Remember that it is this super-power scheme that would utilize all the country's water power in conjunction with the coal, burned at the mine, instead of being hauled all over the country.

The Solihull Theatre in Stratford-upon-Avon, England, has been the first to produce in lieu of money. For the best theater seats the price is a pound of butter; or the equivalent in marks at that day's better quotation. The cheapest seats are sold for two eggs, or their value in paper marks.

AN ALWAYS LATE GUY.

Here's to the gink who makes - you wait
An hour or two before he takes a taxi
Then when he meets you he's sure to
"I had an old friend and couldn't break away."

He begs your pardon, there and then
Says he'll never be late again;
Makes a dash, says "an revoir,"
Then comes around later than before.

But when he's an time it seems that fate
Will make a couple of minutes late.
I find that he allowed me but a minute's grace.

The next time you see him he's up in the air
And demands the reason for not being there.
You say you were late three minutes or four,
But the best in explaining still makes him sore.

Over 200 miles an hour with balance

With the finer and finer balancing that designers have achieved in airplanes, their speed has been increased until the record is now well over 200 miles an hour. A real triumph for the principle of balance.

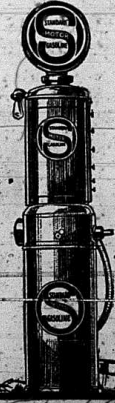

Another similar triumph, less spectacular to be sure but just as important, is the production of a balanced motor fuel. "Standard", the balanced gasoline, is refined and re-refined—with the finest of modern equipment—to give you everything that you need in a motor fuel. Perfect starting—a nimbly pick-up—the full power that only clean burning can give you—long mileage per gallon.

Because it is balanced, "Standard" meets every motor fuel requirement consistently and economically.
