

9-2-1919

The Chester News September 2, 1919

W. W. Pegram

Stewart L. Cassels

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/chesternews1919>

Part of the Journalism Studies Commons, and the Social History Commons

Recommended Citation

Pegram, W. W. and Cassels, Stewart L., "The Chester News September 2, 1919" (1919). Chester News 1919. 69.

<https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/chesternews1919/69>

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the The Chester News at Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. It has been accepted for inclusion in Chester News 1919 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@mailbox.winthrop.edu.

WRIGLEY'S

5¢ a package
before the war

5¢ a package
during the war

5¢ a package
NOW

THE FLAVOR LASTS
SO DOES THE PRICE!

Buy Beaver Board that is BEAVER BOARD

You want better walls and ceilings in your new home, in present waste space, or to replace cracked plaster and dingy wallpaper. So you ask for Beaver Board, the original wallboard, that has been building better walls and ceilings for a dozen years.

But do you know that inferior wallboards are often sold as Beaver Board? They may look like Beaver Board, but they can't give Beaver Board results.

Be sure to get what you ask for. The Beaver trademark on the back of every panel of genuine Beaver Board is there for your protection. Look for it.

Chester Machine & Lumber Co.

INCORPORATED PROFITABLY SAVE

THE COMMERCIAL BANK

123 Columbia Street
Raleigh, N. C. Telephone 1111

ALL INTEREST ON ALL SAVINGS ACCOUNTS COMPOUNDED QUARTLY

CHESTER, S. C.

The Stieff

Reproducing Piano

A Marvel

In the remarkable picturization of the playing of the world's master pianists, the Stieff Reproducing Piano represents the highest achievements of the development of the piano. We invite you to call at our showrooms at any time for a practical demonstration.

Chas. M. Stieff, Inc.

M. D. MANNING, Manager
Charlotte, N. C. 219 South Tryon.

Try The News on Job Printing

Denatured German Diplomats.

Diverse names, too numerous to mention if they were worth mentioning, have been proposed at Berlin, in a somewhat familiar, but not "trial balloon" manner, of German diplomacy, selected or said to be selected, as German Ambassadors to the United States and other countries. What difference does it make what German diplomat is selected? They were all brought up in the same treacherous and dishonest school. They all bear the same taint. The hideous crimes perpetrated and attempted by German Ambassadors and Ministers in many different countries during the war have so generally impressed us in German disrepute. These men practiced to wear a little more flatteringly the ordinary arts of German diplomacy.

A German Embassy is primarily a great spy system in the country to which it is accredited. As Counselor of the German Embassy in London, the notorious von Bernstorff took credit for his brilliant performance of "The Complete Spy" in this country. There are traditions in the manner of German diplomats, but substantially none in their methods. Whenever they are, they say, on the "land" they try to control the citizens of German origin in it; they work to learn the business secrets, do up the German benefits in case of need to enfold it with other countries. They are perfectly crooked in their methods, absolutely untrustworthy in the worst they are, the better of their standing, if they are not found out.

All German diplomacy is denatured of its guile and its falsehood—in short, all everything which characterizes it has been changed or removed. How can anybody trust it and what difference does it make who is the German Ambassador? There has got to be a change of heart, cessation of sin, contrition, repentance, resolve to "start a new life." Tell the German people about this change, if a few much to expect of German diplomats, but a new and honest German diplomacy would contribute to international good relations in the future. New York Times.

LAFOLLETTE TALKS 16 HOURS, BLOCKING VOTE ON LAND LEASE BILL

He Charges Measure is Monopoly for the Benefit of Standard Oil Company.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Maintaining his average of four hours speaking a day for the fourth consecutive day, Senator LaFollette, republican Wisconsin, today blocked plans of passage of the public land lease bill for a final vote before the labor day recess.

When the senate received the bill small hours of the Wisconsin senator had it read for 16 hours on the bill which he charged is a monopoly measure for the benefit of the Standard Oil company. The senate, however, was able to adopt a number of amendments, including one by Senator LaFollette which would prohibit the employment of boys under 14 years or girls and women irrespective of age below the surface of mines opened under the bill.

NOTICE OF SALE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.

I will sell the personal property of the estate of W. P. McCullough, Jr. deceased, at his late residence near Great Falls, S. C., on August 30th, 1919, beginning at 11 o'clock A. M. or as early as the highest bidder to settle up his estate, and the said personal property consisting of real and personal property owned and possessed by him at the time of his death.

Mrs. Annie Lila Gussett McCullough, Adm'r.
Great Falls, S. C., August 15th, 1919.

WESTERN STRIKE COMES TO CLOSE

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 25.—Holding the abandonment of the government that it would run the trains at all costs after 7 o'clock tomorrow morning, and the determination of United States Marshal C. T. Walton, of Los Angeles, that trains would be given adequate protection, railroad strikers were beginning to return throughout Southern California tonight.

The strike, which had paralyzed overland regional transportation for two days, reached its final stages of collapse when the yard crews returned to the passenger and freight terminals. San Francisco Trainmen were reported to have resumed work at Needles, Cal. The situation at Barstow was considered grave. It was stated that trainmen there flatly refused to obey orders of officers of the railroad brotherhood. A representative of the trainmen said he was certain the men would return to work before morning. He said he felt they were being intimidated by persons with Bolshevik tendencies.

Operation of trains on the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe and Salt Lake railroads will start tomorrow at 11 o'clock, officials of those roads announced.

Accepting the Changes.

It takes time and patient effort to readjust ourselves to new conditions whether they affect us only in a personal way or whether they mark some great economic upheaval. We are going through the latter of these at present and in many ways we do not find it at all so easy. There are many persons who long for the old prewar life when life on the surface is so full of regular channels and we revel in the serenity of the moment. It may have been that we had become so accustomed to the old ways that we forgot that a tempo could be by a short space of time and change forever the course of our lives. It may have been that we needed to be taken out of ourselves for the time being and made us know at first-hand something of the deeper phases of existence. We lost sight of the fact that we could not always skim the surface without losing sight of certain fundamental principles, and that for many of us, if not for all, the real significance of life was to be appreciated. The changes which we are now undergoing and which we are now accepting and today we find ourselves faced by the task of readjustment. We are obliged to build anew in very many ways and this phase of the experience is perhaps the least of our anxiety because, as a rule, as long as we have something to occupy our attention we are more or less content. It is the "recessing" contrast to the changes that have taken place, and are taking place daily, that gives most of us the greatest concern. We find our thoughts habitually drift back to the old days when life seemed to hold all that was best and most worthwhile for us, when we were our own masters of our own way and when, having become accustomed to the conditions of our lives through a natural growth of our own minds and were content. Now we realize that the old days are gone forever and the old ways will never be the same, even if new lives with the hopes and aspirations, the ideals and ambitions that the present offers.

Can we do and succeed, we ask ourselves, and we put by for a ways many of those old dreams that have no place in life as it is? Can we adjust ourselves to the new order of things and find peace, prosperity and success in ways of our own making? There is only one answer to all such questions. We cannot live in the past, but in the present, and it is our duty to make in solving today's problems, as they arise. For the moment, perhaps, we resent the changes which have taken place. We do not like the new conditions which have developed with life; they irritate us and make us impatient, but for the present we feel that there is no help for them. Time is the best leveler after all and some of the unpleasant developments of recent months must inevitably yield to the readjustment process, slow and tedious though the latter may be. Other developments which resulted from the tremendous upheaval, however, may not be disposed of even with time's judicious skill, but will become permanent conditions. The sooner we realize this fact and accept it with the high courage always demanded of life's pioneers the better it will be, and the more quickly shall the problems of the reconstruction period be solved.

It is going to be a difficult thing to accept some of the changes that are coming with new world conditions, but unless we make up our minds to do so we shall never get on. We only make things harder by resenting them, and if we understood that they are inevitably a part of the new order it will be to our advantage to accept them cheerfully and turn them to good account. If many conditions at present are very different from those conditions that always follow the cessation of a war, only in this case their changes are more impressive, struggle, which brought them about, it follows naturally that the adjustments must necessarily be on a scale and occupy a longer period, and it is just to this extent, that we shall feel the ordeal the more. Happily, human nature is able to make itself to conditions and circumstances, otherwise we would too often prove insupportable. It is this fact, coupled with the desire to help in advancing the interests of the many, that will aid us in passing successfully through the present period with all its drawbacks and responsibilities. The future lies just ahead and toward its fulfillment we may confidently turn expectant eyes.

NOTICE TO DEBTORS AND CREDITORS.

All persons indebted to the Estate of W. P. McCullough, deceased, are hereby notified, by this notice, to come forward and make payment, or to my Attorneys Gaston and Hamilton, Chester, S. C., and all persons holding claims against the Estate are requested and notified to present the same properly itemized and verified for payment.

Mrs. Annie Lila Gussett McCullough, Administratrix.
Great Falls, S. C., Aug. 5, 1919.

See the Virginia-Carolina Straight!

Does Quality mean "fancy price" to you?

Some smokers still pay a fancy price for "descendants" of Virginia-Carolina tobacco that was transplanted years ago to Turkey. But men who judge tobacco by quality rather than price prefer Virginia-Carolina.

For this tobacco has all the qualities which men want in a cigarette—flavor, body, zest and "life."

That's why Virginia-Carolina doesn't need to be mixed with other tobaccos, but tastes best when you smoke it straight—in a Piedmont.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

The Virginia-Carolina Cigarette

Piedmont

Headquarters

For what it takes to comprise a complete equipment for the man on the farm we have it.

Just received shipments of Wagons, Buggies, Harness, Extra Wagon Bodies, Horses and Mules, which makes our stock unusually complete, and the largest in this section of the State.

You can't afford to buy until you figure with us.

Frazer Live Stock Co.

The News is only 2.00 a Year.