BITTERS SEIZED BY OFFICERS IN CHARLESTON RAID.

Columbia, Sept. 11.—Governor Cooper has made public a report from State Constable "Poppenheim," at Charleston, of a "raid" on "Chick" place" in Charleston when 1208 cases of Angostura bitters were seized. The constable reports that his investigation convinced him that the "medicines" was being sold for intoxicant. Numbers of complaints from the sale of these bitters as beverages were made to the constable before he made the raid.

Governor Cooper ordered the raid following the constable's first report. A later statement from the constable, filed with the governor tells of the haul. Prohibition Agents Healy and King assisted.

"Upon investigation we asked Mr. Chiro's agent if he had a permit from the state to sell these bitters," says the report filed with the governor. "He said that he did not, that he knew nothing about the state laws. All he was protesting himself against was the United States government; above an act contempt for the state laws. I told him that I was going to take the bitters under the state law. He said that I could not seize them until he got in touch with Mr. Logan. I then backed the truck up to Chiro's place and loaded the 1208 cases and stored them at the county jail. We found several demijohns and jugs which were under blockade liquor, and two siphons."

KANSAS LAW IS DESIGNED AGAINST CAPITAL AS WELL.

Governor Allen Says Wood, Woolen Head Would Be Tried If in His State.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 10.—Will the Kansas Industrial Court Law catch striking employers as well as striking employees? What would have happened if the Massachusetts mills of the American Woolen Co. shut down by President William M. Wood last July, throwing thousands of workers out of work, had been located in Kansas?

According to Governor Henry J. Allen, father and sponsor of the Industrial Court law, that about what would have happened.

"First, a committee representing the employers, or over the 'millionaire' public, would have called on the attorney general.

Then, either Mr. Wood would have received an order compelling him to stop the wheels of his industry, or a commission would have been appointed to find out the industrial nature, or by market conditions, or some other genuine reason.

"The next thing that would have been a trial before the Industrial Court. "And," adds the governor, "if Mr. Wood had been found guilty of closing down his mills to prevent production and keep the workers from bringing the case, would have to pay no costs. The state would supply their lawyers, the experts, to make the investigation, and anything else. If the case had been decided against the complainants, they could have appealed to the supreme court of the state, without cost. And the appeal would have been heard ahead of all other cases by the supreme court."

CUTS FIRE INSURANCE RATE ON COTTON STORED IN BOND.

Fire insurance companies recently announced that when a warehouseman joins the United States warehouse system the fire insurance rate on stored cotton is automatically reduced 25 per cent. This is tangible recognition of the value of the Government inspection of warehouses and of the other regulations of the United States warehouse act.

The purpose of the act with regard to cotton is to standardize warehousing and to provide for the issuance of standardized warehouse receipts, the receipt of unquestioned value and integrity, backed by a bond to the United States Government. The Government inspectors, who have authority in any way with the warehouseman's management and control, and require only in certain conditions of the act, which are nothing more than good business practices, be observed. Above all, there is no so-called "rate" on cotton.

Four times a year (including a check of all enclosed receipts) a general receipt is issued. The receipt is a monthly report relating to receipts and deliveries of cotton and the amount of cotton on hand. It is required of warehousemen.

The receipt of bonded warehouses under the warehouse act are as good as the best possible. The receipt bankers fully appreciate their value, for they can be more readily sold than the receipts of private warehouses that are not bonded. Any building that will adequately protect cotton from the weather is acceptable as a warehouse under the act. The United States Department of Agriculture, which administers the act.

"HOW COVER CROPS ON EVERY FARM."

Clemson College, Sept. 13.—The office of extension work, South, urging Southern farmers to return to the old-fashioned practice of planting cover crops each fall and to further extend this great soil-building work.

Below are given some valuable suggestions on the matter by Mr. J. A. Kneaf, chief of the office of extension work, South.

Before the great war progress had been made in getting some kind of cover crops sown each fall on Southern farms. County agents and other extension workers stressed the importance of them, and each year thousands of demonstrations gave tangible proof of their value. Following the outbreak of the war, however, there was a great decrease in the average sown on such crops. This was due to labor shortage, high-priced seed, unsettled conditions, and, particularly to the stress of food production.

We should now endeavor to re-establish the old ground and again stress suitable cover crops as part of the farm system of the South. Let us try to make the slogan of the farm-to-co-operative department of the Clemson College, "Cover Crops on Every Farm," a reality in every county in the South.

Winter cover crops have a special value on Southern farms. They protect the soil from washing, prevent erosion of soil, and are a source of winter grazing for livestock during the winter months, and in the spring may be plowed under as a great benefit of the soil, or left for the harvest for hay, grain or seeds.

Crops to Consider. The small grains and the clovers are the most satisfactory crops for this purpose. They are all adapted to Southern conditions, and soils. In most of the Southern states oats are the most important small grain. No cover crop is so easy to grow as the most important small grain. No cover crop is so easy to grow as the most important small grain. No cover crop is so easy to grow as the most important small grain.

Efforts of the police to find some one who has been kneeling and his wife together Wednesday night have failed, but have brought from the man from the photograph, the statement that he was alone when he engaged it.

Kneuhling's record included an effort to obtain a license for a motor vehicle and there are on file at the headquarters of the service two letters commending him for such services, one signed by Governor McPherson and the other by Senator Harding. Kneuhling and Mrs. Kneuhling were married December 30th, 1919, at Mount Clemens, Mich.

SPARTANBURG REPUSES CAN FARE INCREASE.

Spartanburg, Sept. 10.—After a meeting to consider the request of the South Carolina Light, Power & Railway Company, which was presented last week asking for an increase in fare from 7 to 10 cents and for permission to abandon the extensions of its lines to Whitney and to Conway it was decided by the city council that it had no authority to act on the petition. A motion was made by Councilman M. O. Gentry, that the council refuse the petition. At the request of H. E. DePasse, attorney for the traction company, this action was postponed to a later date. The city attorney said that the city might have something tangible to offer when it issues bonds or borrows money, as the attorney stated might have to be done.

City Attorney George W. Nichols gave as his opinion that city council had no authority to act on the traction company's petition, and his opinion was concurred in by ex-Governor John Gary Evans, who was present.

PUT OUT OF BUSINESS.

Greensboro, Sept. 10.—Following the experience of last Tuesday afternoon, when the second automobile belonging to the Greensboro Club was smashed to pieces in an accident at Kings Mountain, N. C., the directors and stockholders of the Greensboro Club have decided to discontinue the club. The club will be wound up and the club fees will go out of existence. This was the second machine of the Greensboro Club to be very seriously damaged since the undertaking was formed here and the stockholders decided to discontinue the club that the vehicle could never be made to carry its dividends.

It is said that the accident of Tuesday was due to the fact that the driver of the Greensboro Club car, Mr. G. F. Fox, who was in charge of the machine at the time, had resulted from the accident falling into the water, as a result of defective mechanism, and it is planned against a tree.

It is understood that the two directors of the Greensboro Club, who were present at the meeting to discontinue the club for use as a spare part, are willing to donate the car to the city.

MUCH INTEREST TAKEN IN NOTED ENRAPPING CASE.

Columbia, Sept. 10.—The hearing before Judge Townsend at chambers, in the case of the noted enrapping case, the so-called "Kidnaping Case," which was washed with considerable public interest. This sensational case, which is the kidnapping case, came to a surprise Thursday shortly after noon. Edgar A. Brown, of Barnegat, will represent the kidnaping men charged in this supporting affidavit and Assistant Attorney General Joseph Lumpkin will represent the government.

The writ of habeas corpus is asked on the ground that Mayfield, Rosenberg men under arrest, are held without authority of law, that they have committed no crime and that the arrest of Governor Cooper was improper, in this supporting affidavit the writ was not filed with the request.

"When whiskey is no longer available, the order says, "and a medical officer deems alcoholic stimulation absolutely essential for the preservation of human life, the physician may prescribe the same." This order conforms in all respects with the requirements of the United States Navy.

The order directs that no further purchase from any source be made of distilled spirits, wines or alcohol preparation which are designed by the Bureau of Internal Revenue as being fit for intoxicating beverage purposes.

John was rescued after fighting the boat for more than 18 hours, but he is in a hospital where his condition is critical.

John said his wife had struggled against the heavy seas for eight hours and that he finally had chained her to the side of the boat but that the waves had washed her into the water.

TRAIN WRECKS AUTO.

Winnabow, Sept. 12.—Late Friday afternoon South Carolina Railway train No. 20 ran into an automobile on the tracks at Kings Mountain, N. C., the car was crushed and the driver was killed.

The engineer had applied the emergency brakes and it was probably due to the fact that there were several cars on the tracks at the time that the accident occurred.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14.

Within a few hours after this issue of The News reaches its readers it will have been decided whether E. D. Smith or George Warren will represent South Carolina in the United States Senate.

The News has been a supporter of Mr. Warren, believing he is better fitted to serve the people of South Carolina than Mr. Smith. We have no quarrel with those who have voted for Mr. Smith and if the result of the election shows Mr. Smith defeated Mr. Warren we shall make ourselves satisfied with the will of the majority. However, if Mr. Smith is elected The News will retract that he will attend to the duties of the high office more efficiently than has done in the past. Mr. Smith, it must be stated, is competent to do many things which he has not done and his case in the past seems to have been one of derelict rather than incompetence.

If the result of the election shows Mr. Warren is elected we believe he will at least have served Mr. Smith and do a "vittle" voting, and that is more than Mr. Smith has been doing to the past. Of course, Mr. Smith has stated that he was absent from many roll calls on account of his being on various committees in the committee rooms. That kind of case is very good to fool some people but those who are familiar with the manner in which Senators answer the roll call know that being in a committee room at the time the roll is called is absolutely no excuse for failure to answer the roll.

Warren vs. Smith The News is satisfied with the will of the majority.

IF YOU DON'T EXERCISE.
(By H. Addington Bruce.)

Health authorities are more and more largely to failure to take proper exercise attributing the prevalence of the so-called degenerative diseases to a world where machinery is constantly increasing the number of sedentary occupations. And it would seem certain that the authorities are right.

For comparatively few exercises as they should! And failure to take exercise has far reaching effects on all parts of the bodily organism. It creates not generally muscular "stiffness" but a general weakness as well, predisposing to all sorts of malaises and acting as a direct cause of some.

With exercise omitted from the daily regimen the vigor of the digestive organism is almost certain to be unfavorably affected. There are some non-exercisers who seem to have excellent digestions, but they are most exceptional.

As digestive vigor wanes, malnutrition ensues. Failure to exercise, for that matter, also promotes malnutrition by diminishing the vigor of the organs of elimination.

Kidney and liver activity is checked, together with the activity of the whole intestinal tract. So is the activity of the sweat glands, the importance of which as eliminative organs is not nearly so appreciated as it ought to be.

As a result the system is not only clogged with the waste products of whatever food is eaten. And a positive poisoning may be the result.

This means, of course, a blood supply inferior in quality. Moreover, failure to exercise also means a slowly circulating blood supply. Yet health of body and mind alike imperatively demands good blood in rapid circulation.

Again, when exercise is not taken with regularity, and especially when it virtually is not taken at all, there is an unhealthy tendency to an over-accumulation of fat. This results in the familiar condition, known as obesity.

The obese are the prey of various ills. Their efficiency is markedly reduced. They suffer from shortness of breath and manifold discomforts. And they are confronted, as one might put it, with the mathematical probability of death occurring sooner than would be the case were they of normal weight.

There is such a thing, of course, as too much exercise. There also is such a thing as exercise inappropriate to the individual's age and bodily condition.

But those who err in those respects are few in number compared with the great many, engaged in indoor and sedentary work day after day, neglect to take anything like the exercise their systems demand.

MISSISSIPPI NEGRO LYNCHED BY SMALL MOB

That Man Accused to Hang But Granted Stay of Execution

Meridian, Miss., Sept. 12.—Will Echols, negro, who was convicted at a recent term of the circuit court here and sentenced to die on the gallows September 10 for the murder of Henry W. Davis, an aged night watchman at a local lumber plant, but whose execution was stayed at the last moment by an appeal to the supreme court, was taken from the jail at Quitman at 3 o'clock this morning by a small party of men, carried two miles from Quitman and shot to death in the public road, his body being riddled with bullets.

Following the hanging of Henry Lloyd Frisby for the murder of J. A. Trott, a merchant who was killed on the same night Davis met death and the stay of execution of Echols' conviction, Echols because of the confession of Lloyd that he alone had killed Davis a mob gathered at the county jail here where Echols was being held and threats of lynching made but no overt act committed.

Late in the night after the mob had dispersed, Echols was spirited away to the Quitman jail for safe-keeping. However, his whereabouts leaked out and early today Sheriff Martin was notified by Sheriff Edwin of Clark county, that at 3 o'clock this morning he was called to the jail at Quitman from his home. On arriving at the jail he was overpowered by a number of men who took the jail keys from his pocket, unlocked the jail doors, Echols placed him in a waiting automobile and dashed away. His body was found later riddled with bullets.

Wilmington.

Senator Lodge has at last discovered that President Wilson is not a candidate in this campaign. Nevertheless he is still disturbed over the peril of Wilmington. Wilson has been in his view, an autocrat of autocrats. Did you ever hear of so dictatorial a man, he asks his audience in effort. When it comes to bringing things, he hints, the man in the White House is a world-beater. He is Caesar and Napoleon and Disraeli rolled into one. But isn't Senator Lodge in danger of overruling the picture? If Wilson is so exceptional a man as all that, is it likely that Governor Co

BIG MEETING SCHEDULED.
Meeting Thursday at Fort Lawn.—Blackstock Will Have Cotton Warehouse.

County Agent Sanders has handed the following interesting news items to The News for publication: Messrs. B. H. Fudge, R. H. Kelsey and others of Landsford township have called a big mass meeting at Fort Lawn for Thursday morning, September 16th, at 10 a. m. sharp. (No later) to put on a big drive for membership in the American Cotton Association and to discuss building warehouses at about four points in the township. Money has been raised for a warehouse at Fort Lawn, and the interest is high at other points in the township. The business men and farmers of Fort Lawn have given an urgent invitation for a representative from each bank at Chester, Rock Hill and Great Falls to be present to discuss warehouses and the financing of the cotton crop. An earnest effort is being made to have 1,000 present at the meeting.

Messrs. W. A. Blaine, L. E. Sigman, Ed. M. Kennedy and other progressive men around Blackstock have raised $2,000 with which to build a warehouse at Blackstock for the storage of cotton. Thus we see that Blackstock is about to be the first community in the county to lead in this progressive movement, which at the present time seems to be the all-important thing to do to insure the proper storage of cotton in the fight for a decent and a fair profit for cotton. The Board of Incorporators have already applied for a State charter, and it is hoped that other communities will follow.

SOLDIER ARRESTED ON OLD MURDER CHARGE.
Had Sought to Lose Identity by Changing Identification Tags With Pal Killed in France.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 12.—Despite the fact he is said to have his identification tags with a pal killed in the trenches in France, Joe L. Chapman, alias Jack Schmidt, was arrested by Knoxville officers and returned to Harrison, Ky., today for the murder of Martin Carter, a blacksmith, August 11, 1917. Chapman, according to the authorities admitted the murder, claiming self defense.

According to the story told by Chapman to Knoxville detectives, he fled to Colorado following the killing, and was caught in the first drift in 1918. In France during a battle his friend, Jack Schmidt, was killed beside him in the trenches. He conceived the idea of hiding his identity by adopting the dead man's name. Changing identification tags, he says, he lost himself in the Ardennes and stood helplessly by another man with which he served during the war. He also says he served in Siberia, was honorably discharged and later became a member of the army and was to go back with Angel Island, Cal. duty with the sixth cavalry. Formerly, Chapman says, he had been checked. Chapman was caught in Chattanooga by two Knoxville detectives through a school day camp. He says that he was to be removed to that city for the purpose of serving. He had the license to work in Knoxville which he obtained at the camp in that city on the arrival of the ship. He has a good many relatives and was interested in money for money, he says, in France and had a good many relatives.

Chester county lost another Confederate veteran Sunday when Mr. J. Alex Carter died at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. J. B. Altinson, in the lowlyly community. The veteran was an Armysman yesterday morning. Mr. Carter served throughout the Civil War and served the cause faithfully. For some time Mr. Carter was superintendent of the Chester County Home and was one of the county's best citizens and will be sorely missed by a large circle of friends. He is survived by two sons, Messrs. Edward and Ephraim Carter, and a sister, Mrs. J. M. Fries, of Chester.

Miss Emily Craig has returned to her work in Cuba.

Miss Rebecca Crand left Friday for Spanghurst where she will teach in the city schools this year.

Rev. J. E. Purcell, pastor of Unity Presbyterian church of this city, announced in his recent sermon Sunday that he had accepted the call to become pastor of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian church in Wilmington, N. C. Rev. Purcell came to Chester about three years ago to succeed Dr. A. D. P. Gilmour as pastor of the now-defunct church and has, very ably, carried the church since coming here. He is recognized as one of the ablest ministers of this section and it is felt sure that the church and Chester give him up as a larger field.

Mr. James W. Lee, one of Chester county's best citizens, died at his home in Gasper street in honor of Miss Lillian McDill. After enjoying several games of Back a challenge match course was served during which the management of Miss Lillian McDill to Mr. DeWitt Auld was mentioned. The visiting in late afternoon.

To the Music Lovers of Chester--

We beg to announce the engagement of the WORLD'S FAMOUS ARTISTS COMPANY, who will appear at the Opera House on Thursday evening, September 8th.

Feeling assured that this announcement will be welcomed by all with unfeigned enthusiasm, for it will be a privilege to hear this superb organization which includes such celebrated artists as: Helens Morrill, Coloratura Soprano, late Prima Donna with the Boston English Opera Company, Carlo Ferretti, Italian Baritone of the La Scala Grand Opera Company of Milan, last season with the Creator Grand Opera Company, Celeste Seymour, renowned American Violinist and Antonio Vocoli, noted Italian Pianist.

Chester may consider itself fortunate in being included as one of the cities to be visited on tour. Seldom has an organization presenting four celebrated Soloists ever appeared at one concert recital given here.

Wherever this organization has appeared, they have been enthusiastically received by capacity housed and we feel positive that Chester will not be the exception.

The prices prevailing will be: $1.00, $1.50, $2.00

Owing to the limited seating capacity of the Opera House for an occasion of this kind, the demand for tickets will no doubt exceed the supply. Because of this contingency a quick response for reservations is recommended. Mail applications with check or money order, may NOW be sent the undersigned. All such applications will be filled in the order of their receipt before the regular advance sale opens.

Respectfully,
MANAGER,
Chester Opera House.

Danger!!!

Unless the Christian people can get together and formulate some plan by which the preachers in general can be persuaded, if not persuaded, then compelled by written agreement to stick closer to their respective posts of duty, the entire fabric of civilization will be destroyed. Absenteeism is not only the father of gross dishonesty, but is one of the greatest breeders of Revolution in this world to-day. When the heart of humanity is in a state of revolt against a grave injustice; it stands ready for any and everything but Heaven.

M'LENDON MEETING IN MORGANTON SUCCESSFUL.
Morganton, N. C., Sept. 13.—The greatest revival meeting that Morganton and Burke county have ever known came to a glorious close. Rev. Baxter McLendon, the noted evangelist, made farewell to an audience that numbered fully 7,000. The evangelist has labored for four weeks and at every service the big tent opposite the court house has held the largest crowds ever known to attend meeting here. Numbers of the Morganton stores have been closing for the funeral services and it is safe to say that people were drawn from a territory of more than fifty square miles. At the three services yesterday it is estimated that the total attendance was around 25,000. In fact all who could possibly get within hearing of the evangelist inside and outside the tent, were there.

As a result of the meeting over 12,000 applications have been made for church membership, these included in every denomination in the county. The number of reconsecrations reached into the thousands. Hundreds of sinners, by the score, have been converted, numbers of them making confession and voluntarily cutting up their own stalls.

The last night saw 182 conversions and hundreds reclaimed. Mrs. McLendon was assisted in the service by the cooperation given him by the churches and good people of Morganton and declared that the meeting here had been one of the greatest in his experience.

Chester friends learned with much interest of the death of Mr. Tom Hougham which occurred in Columbia Sunday. The funeral services were held at the residence on York street yesterday afternoon by Dr. D. G. Phillips, after which the interment was made in Hougham cemetery. Mr. Hougham is survived by his widow and five children.

Miss Withner and Miss Gray, who have been the guests of Miss Kline Johnson, have returned to their home in Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Marion Leckie has returned to her city from a visit to Bristol.

"Reconstructing" Ourselves.

We have heard a great deal of late about the imperative need of reconstruction work in the devastated regions of Europe and we have all read with interest and sympathy of the heroic sacrifices that are being made today by men and women who are engaged in this noble undertaking. Probably there are few persons who have not felt a keen desire to do their part in assisting the work, and probably many have contributed of their means to this end. We are faced by a condition and not a theory in this particular matter, and because of this we are better able to appreciate its necessity and understand our individual duty in regard to it. It is when we are confronted by theories that we find it difficult to properly estimate their real significance and probable effects. Their meaning passes us by, as a rule, and unless we get down to the task of thoughtfully acquainting ourselves with their details and possible results we may but scant attention to them. So it is largely for this reason that we do not follow the significance of the phrase "reconstruction" as applied to our own lives and to the lives of those about us. Yet there are none so blind as those who will not see, and it may be a man of a perverted sense of duty who fails to realize when personally in need of reconstruction, not merely physical, but moral as well.

Few persons are so fortunate as to go through life without some regrets, some keen self-reproaches, some yearnings for wasted opportunities to come again to them, but might make something of them. When we look back through the past we find often to our astonishment that we have not become the men and women we had set out to be when life was in its first flush. Time and experience and disappointments are not uncertain marks upon a person's character as the years roll by, and while there are a fortunate few who seem to grow in reflection of discipline and charm of manner in spite of the marks that heavy crosses make, there are a majority of others who yield, supinely to the discouraging influences that have played upon them and develop into weak and unhappy creatures. They have not been able to stand up under the heavy loads that conditions have placed upon their shoulders. They long for the happiness they imagined would surely be theirs; they gave way to their disappointments and become, not their natural selves, but personalities that are the result of experiences that have simply overwhelmed them. Their hearts still beat true to the old hopes, the old ambitions, the old longings, and they only need a helping hand to become once again strong and able and able and happy in the knowledge of duty performed in spite of obstacles and hardships. It is these persons who need some "reconstruction work" done for them; it is they who will respond to whatever good and liberal measures are undertaken in their behalf. They do not want pity, nor do they ask for sympathy. They merely want the chance to get back to their normal condition, as freedom, as it were, from the burdens that are pressing hard; above all, the opportunity to live a life of love in their own way, in the way of love of God and on good terms with their neighbors.

Of course it is essential that such

JAPANESE LABOR.

Japanese labor organizations have decided to unite in a single body similar to the American Federation of Labor. This is the best news Japan has had this year in a long time. When the workmen of today become a union for their rights that they accept the organizing principle of the west an increase in the Japanese standard of living is inevitable.

One of the first acts of the Japanese Federation of Labor will be to try to prevent an influx of alien workers, willing to accept a lower grade of comfort and culture. That is to say, the Japanese workmen are reaching a point in their progress no further than Chinese coolie labor is allowed to take possession of the Japanese labor market.

Japanese capitalists will certainly try to exploit Chinese labor as demands for higher wages become more insistent. The Chinese will encourage this reactionary move. The lower laborer always tries to make the market smoother and made easier by the higher. That is what was attempted on the Pacific coast of America. But the resistance of American organized labor has held the Japanese to their own country. And so it comes about that Japan's working class has been forced to begin fighting for its rights at home, instead of finding soft gifts in America.

Japan must teach Chinese labor that it cannot seize to itself the hard won successes that Japanese organized labor is preparing to win at home. When they see that their own labor of labor comes to grips with this problem, there will be no longer a Japanese question in America. For Japan will understand her own development demands endorsement of the American principle.

For Sale: Nine-room house on Lacy street. Has new roof. Offered at a close figure for a short time. See Pegram & Cassels.

Persons must do their part in reconstructing their lives. They are not entirely down and out and need only a push or two in the right direction. In the parlance of the street they want someone who is in position to "push the button," and they will do that. They know the hard tasks that face them, but they are not to be deterred. They know, too, that they may have to dig deep before they strike the rich foundations of their better selves upon which to work for the future, but they are not to be deterred. They know, too, that they must be ready to pay the penalty in disappointment, discouragement and self-reproach. But they are not to be deterred. They know that the experience is not all together in vain, and that from out of it, the hard lessons sometimes spring brighter hopes and nobler ambitions. It is never, too late for anyone to begin the work of personal reconstruction. The longer it is delayed the more trying it will become. Why not enter upon its performance at once?

WINE FLOWS IN STREAM

It was a wistful eye crowd that gathered last night about a visitor to Columbia and heard him tell of a freight train of twelve south-bound freight cars, N. C. that occurred Saturday night in which a 10,000 gallon tank car, containing Virginia Dave wine, was overturned about seven miles from the wreck the man-hole to the tank was slightly damaged so that a purple stream of perfectly good wine oozed from a hole in the side. For about eight hours, said the visitor, that stream ran, while a wrecking crew was getting the overturned freight cars back on the tracks and the woods and bushes were thick with men hilariously intoxicated. When some of the cooler heads realized that the crimson stream was scheduled to run for several hours, they rushed to a nearby shore, bought vinegar in bottles, cans of tomatoes, fruit jars and cleaned out the stock of buckets, dippers and dish pans. The vinegar and tomatoes and other items were dumped out and the vessels filled with wine. One man had about seven kegs when the sheriff arrived on the scene and proceeded to dump them out. One citizen, saying that he had read somewhere of men bathing in wine, jumped in one barrel before it was overturned and had his first—and probably last—wine bath.

The Columbia visitor said the wine was being taken from the vineyard to a plant, where the alcohol was to be removed from it, he spoke of being to St. Louis. The wreck occurred on the Seaboard. When he had finished his vivid account of the leaking tank car, the crowd heaved a deep sigh and its members walked disconsolately away, all probably resolving to get jobs as druggists on freight trains running via Wabash.—The Columbia State, 13th.

GREAT CORN CROP NOW IN PROSPECT.

Forecast of Production in High Figures—Six Million Bushels Above Previous Highest Reported Yield Eight Years Ago.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The great corn crop in the country's history is in prospect for this year's harvest. Forecast of production based on September 1 conditions was placed at 3,131,000,000 bushels today by the department of agriculture. Such a yield would exceed by 6,000,000 bushels the previous record crop on record which was in 1912. A crop of even larger proportions will be harvested if frosts hold off until late and permit maturity of such late corn now rated as of doubtful promise.

Tobacco also is a record crop this year and will probably exceed the best previous production by 114,000,000 pounds. Forecast of production places this year's crop at 1,554,000,000 pounds. August growing conditions proved highly beneficial to most of the country's important crops and as a result production forecasts generally were higher in today's government report than the forecasts of a month ago.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Mr. Marion Holcomb of Nancy, Ky., says: "For quite a long while I suffered with stomach trouble. I would have pains and a heavy feeling after my meals, a most disagreeable taste in my mouth. If I ate anything with butter, oil or grease, I would spit it up. I began to have regular sick headaches. I had used pills and tablets, but after a course of these, I would be constipated. It just seemed to tear my stomach all up. I found they were no good at all for my trouble. I heard
