Freshman parking debated in Senate

By B.W. GODFREY

A bill that would allow freshmen to park on campus during the weekend was the topic drawing the hottest debate during this week's Senate session.

Freshman Class Vice-President Tom Robertson introduced the recommendation which instigated a series of amendments from the floor almost as soon as he could finish reading it.

As originally submitted the recommendation would allow freshmen the right to park on campus from 4 p.m. Friday through 6 p.m. Sunday. Senator Randy Firestine proposed the first amendment seeking to change the time on Sunday from 6 p.m. to 12 noon. Firestine expressed concern that returning upperclassmen would arrive on campus from the weekend to find their parking spaces still filled by freshmen cars.

In final amended form, the recommendation allows freshmen to park on campus from 4 p.m. until 2 p.m. Sunday. In this form it passed its first reading and was sent to the Student Life Committee for further deliberation. Concerning this controversial issue, Senate President Bryan Grant said later that, "the students ought to find out who their senators are and voice their opinions."

In other new business, Senator Connie Comis introduced a recommendation to move the Student Life Committee and the other for the Student Alumni Council to the Raceway machine being placed on campus for the convenience of students. The present machine operated by C&S next to Dinkins will not accept bank cards from other banks. The recommendation passed its first reading and was sent to the Student Life Committee.

In old business, two charters, one for the Student Alumni Council and the other for the International Friendship Ministries, were finally accepted by Senate vote. The charters were read by Senator Barry Newkirk.

The recommendation that would allow the gate between Robertson and Thomson, and Thomson and Lee Wicker to campus require further deliberation. Newkirk reported that the Campus Review Committee reviewed organizational charters.

Economist to speak

By WENDI DEES
TJ staff writer

President Ben Laden of the National Association of Business Economics will speak on "The State of the Economy", Nov. 7, at 7:30 p.m. in Kimball Auditorium.

Laden is president and chief economist at T. Rowe Price Associates, Investment, Research, and Counsel, in Baltimore, Md. From 1971-74, Laden worked as an economist doing inflation analysis research for the Federal Reserve Board.

Laden is the first and three-year-old Laden is currently the president of the National Association of Business Economists.

In his talk sponsored by Winthrop's School of Business and the college's Economics Club, Laden will discuss the current state of the economy, as well as give a long-term perspective of what has happened in the economy during the last 20 years. "His lecture will be very informative to us and others outside the college. As we say in the field, he's done it all," commented Sherrrie Rhine, Economics Club advisor.

In addition, Laden will discuss economic prospects in the next year, whether or not the United States is threatened by recession, major changes in economic policy in recent years, as well as current policy issues. "I'm thrilled about Laden coming to Winthrop. It will be great recognition for the Economics Club, plus the fact that I'm very interested in what he has to say. He's so phenomenal," said Peggy Hurst, president of the Economics Club.

The talk is open, with no admission, to all Winthrop employees, students, and public, and will be followed by a reception. The talk is on page 10.

A bad habit to break
By MAGGIE ZALAMEA
TJ staff writer

Smoking is a hard habit to break. Anyone that has tried to quit smoking knows how frustrating it can be. Dee Hamilton, counselor at the Crawford Health Center and ex-smoker says, "Besides being physically dependent on nicotine, one also becomes psychologically dependent on smoking. These include the oral gratification connected with smoking and having something to hold in your hands."

Many people are able to stop smoking but the relapse rate is high. There are two general ways that people have been known to use to stop smoking: cutting out a little at a time called "cold turkey." "Research has shown that smoking cold turkey is the least successful method of stopping smoking. Remember that you are going to feel bad for a few days or even weeks, but know that it’s not going to last forever," said Hamilton.

For those who would like to kick the habit, it is a good idea to make a complete cut-off at the start. Realize that you are going to feel bad for a few days or even weeks, but know that it’s not going to last forever," said Hamilton.

"It may be helpful to find a quitting partner for mutual motivation. It is also a good idea to stay away from other smokers who are constantly lighting up, at least for the initial period," said Hamilton.

If quitting becomes impossible to do alone consider joining a "stop smoking clinic." Hamilton concluded. For more information contact the counseling center.

Nuclear War course offered

Dr. John Shive, associate professor of biology, will teach a new course during the spring 1986 semester, called "nuclear war: past, present, and future." The course is a 425 level course and is listed under international studies.

Shive said the course will begin by clearly defining what a nuclear bomb is and how it works. It will then cover the historical, economic, psychological, and social aspects of nuclear weapons. He said students will study the possible future of nuclear weapons and what might instigate a nuclear exchange.

"Students will then consider the possible consequences of a nuclear exchange by studying the biological and climatic effects it would have on earth," Shive said.

The course will consist of individual seminars and students must have his permission to register for it.

Residence halls increase security

An in-depth security system is used to protect students living in residence halls. Questions about the effectiveness of the system were raised after a Mark IV security guard was stabbed in Breazeale Apartments last month.

There are many security measures taken. The doors in all residence halls are locked at night. There is an RA on duty at night and an RD on duty every weekend. There is also a full time housing officer on duty at all times to handle any emergency situation that may arise and

Ford named RA of the month

Rhonda Ford, a senior interior design major from Marion, S.C., was named Resident Assistant of the Month for September, said Cindy Cassens, dean of housing.

Dean Cassens said that the award is given to that individual who goes beyond the RA position in overall performance Public Safety is on call. There are also security guards on duty in dormitories.

According to Frankie Griffin, assistant director of housing, "It’s difficult to improve on a system that is already well-organized and effective.

This semester there has been the addition of an around-the-clock office staff in each residence hall. This has increased security during the day and has helped discourage vandalism in lobby areas, many of which have been recently renovated.

Night clerks in residence halls have not expressed any major concern about their safety as student safety to Griffin. He feels night clerks know the proper procedures to use during emergency situations and have been very successful in handling confrontations. Public safety is also just a phone call away.

Security guards in the apartments will remain without guards. Public Safety is here to handle situations in which force must be used. "The incident that occurred there was a misfortune that there was no real way of preventing," said Griffin.

Griffin said security could be increased if students would question strangers in residence halls and report any suspicious activity to Public Safety. Residence Life staff and students need to work together for maximum effectiveness.

McLaurin Hall sponsors Treats

McLaurin Hall Council sponsored trick-or-treating for the children of Winthrop’s faculty and staff on Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Over 800 invitations were sent to faculty and staff to ask them to participate. Jennifer Murphy, president of McLaurin House Council said, "We wanted to do something special for Halloween and get the faculty involved with students. Many parents are concerned about taking their children out trick-or-treating and we thought this would be a fun and safe way for the kids to trick-or-treat.

Rooms that were participating had paper jack-o-lanterns on their door so that kids would know in which rooms to go. About 50 children came and they had a great time. One little three-year-old girl was totally dressed up as the Grinch, she had a great time! It was so much fun for us as it was for the kids. We hope that next Halloween she’ll have a great time too."

Refreshments were provided for the parents in the lobby. The parents could sit and relax while hall council members took the children around the dorm.

Residents decorated their doors for the door decorating contest. Laura Dornick, McLaurin RA said, "We had a great time! It was as much fun for us as it was for the kids. We hope that next Halloween she’ll have a great time too."

Patricia Heyer, a senior social work major from Atlanta, Ga., was August’s RA of the Month. She is a McLaurin RA and is presently doing her field work for the Rock Hill Chapter of the American Red Cross.
Putting the BYTE on Rock Hill

By TOM STEARNS
TJ staff writer

They rehearse in a one room "studio", rented from a local merchant that they can barely afford. They laugh, joke, argue, cut-up, disagree, and laugh some more. And they play what they term "the best original music in Rock Hill."

They are "Byte", a three-man rock group from Rock Hill. And they are determined to make it in the music world.

Johnathon Jackson, the band's drummer and a senior at Winthrop, defined the band's main goal: "to play our own music. We want to get our music out where people can hear it."

Along with Jackson, the band includes Winthrop graduate Joel Estes, who plays bass guitar, keyboards, and bass pedal synthesizer, and lead guitarist Mike Tidwell, also a Winthrop graduate.

Tidwell, who has no doubts about the band's ability, said, "We play original music that you won't find on any other band in Rock Hill. We're Rock Hill's finest original band."

The band was formed three years ago. "I was playing in a band called Quartermoon at the time," recalled Estes. "I met Johnathon, who was still in high school at the time, at ATS. We decided to form a new band."

Tidwell, who joined the pair in 1981, said, "It took us some time at first to determine our goal. At the time we were playing in the band's basement. Our worst problem was flooding. There was always water down there so we had to keep the equipment up on stacks. In spite of the damp environment, Tidwell said they wrote some good music in their early days.

"We started out playing a lot of cover tunes," said Estes. "But we realized there was no future in that. You can't keep playing the songs everyone knows for years and people will keep coming back to see you. But you'll never get anywhere in the music business that way."

Jackson said, "I wouldn't compare our sound to anyone. It's just Byte. We sound like Byte, and no one else." The band members admit to being influenced by Rush, Talking Heads, and King Crimson, but are quick to deny they sound like any of them.

"Even when we were playing cover tunes we sounded like ourselves," Estes said. "We didn't sound like the originals, but the originals were different from the originals. Not because the original versions weren't good, but because we do them our own way. It makes our versions different from the originals."

The band now plays only a few cover tunes per show, preferring to play their own material. "We try to come up with at least one new song between each gig," Tidwell said. "That way we have a new song to play each show."

"The executive producer liked us enough to ask us back," Estes said, "and he's told us that influential people about us."

" BYTE is sounding different. Basically, each of us sees the band as different. That's why I think it's about time to move on."

"Our music is distinctive," Estes continued, "because each of us sees the band as sounding different. Not because the original versions weren't good, but because we do them our own way. It makes our versions different from the originals."

The band recently appeared on the Charlotte based program "Let's Dance," and is scheduled to return for their Halloween broadcast. "The show was a great success for us," Tidwell said. "There is a potential viewership of over a million people in the broadcast range. The only problem is a lot of the viewers will have to have six years before they're old enough to come see us live."

"We're still in a limited area," Tidwell said. "We've had several songs played on WUSC, including their current "Green Plaid Suit."

"We're also limited in the business and the play is recommended for a short tour up North."

"We're also limited in funds. Estes said. "What we really need is sponsorship. If we could get someone to back us, we could get further."

Currently the band plans to tour some of the perimeter areas, such as Columbia, Charleston, Savannah, and Atlanta. They also hope to make a short tour up North. "I've worked with here at Winthrop," Tidwell joked.

"We've pretty much saturated the Rock Hill market," Estes added. "There aren't that many people who come out to hear bands around this area. There are some, but eventually a band becomes stale. We wish they stay in one area too long."

"Rock Hill is our base," Estes continued, "and it's where our roots are. But we think it's about time to move on."

Shepherds play to premier

Letter's accusations are false

In response to a letter published in this issue from Beverly Thompson concerning an editorial about the possibility of a foreign language requirement for majors in the College of Arts and Sciences, I was accused of inaccurate reporting and irresponsible journalism.

Granted, Ms. Thompson has every right to express her opinion about the issue. However, the accusations she made were quite erroneous.

First, the letter said that the editorial credited the entire proposal of modern and classical languages. This is simply untrue. The editorial stated that a curriculum committee was debating a language requirement that had been endorsed rather than proposed by the department. The department did indeed endorse the requirement in a memo that it sent to faculty in June, which said, "In light of our concerns, the Department of Modern and Classical Languages urges the faculty to consider restoring the six-hour foreign language requirement with the proviso that the six hours be defined as stated in the Modern Language Department Memorandum..."

Secondly, the letter said that the department sent out questionnaires. The editorial never mentioned any such questionnaire, much less who distributed it.

Contrary to the letter, an attack has not been launched on "one academic department per week." Other than the editorial about the language requirement, only one other academic department has been the subject of comment. The criticism of that department was done because of the overwhelming number of student complaints concerning a serious problem there.

Recently, our efforts contributed to the problem's solution.

The rest of the letter is purely opinion. This is something everyone has a right to express, and there is nothing wrong with differing opinions. However, the accusations which should be explored before they are submitted for publication.

Letters to the editor

Language

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to comments made by Wendi Dees and Lisa Buie in their respective columns in the Oct. 21, 1985 issue of The Johnsonian. It is the duty and the responsibility of newspaper journalists to print the facts gathered from their research and to make certain their facts are correct before the paper goes to press.

Dees and Buie did not make an accurate report of the issue concerning the foreign language requirement at Winthrop. Upon reading the news, the members of the department would believe that the department of modern and classical languages proposed a foreign language requirement for the foreign language faculty members, rather than for the College of Arts and Sciences.

Buie’s remarks about the "prestige" of the faculty of the modern and classical languages were extremely poor taste. The foreign language faculty is known throughout the state and for its scholarship and for the quality of its graduating students. It is hardly the prestige of the foreign language faculty we should be concerned about at this time. Our concern should be for the prestige of the Winthrop graduates of the College of Arts and Sciences.

As an alumna of Winthrop, Class of 1981, and as a master’s degree candidate in history in December 1985, I am deeply concerned about my alma mater. I suggest you review a Winthrop College Catalog from 1970 and compare it with the one we have now. The only component of a liberal arts education, which has not been restored in the past few years, has been the foreign language requirement. When comparing these two catalogs with those from other four-year institutions in the state of South Carolina, you will find that they are in the minority regarding a language requirement for our liberal arts graduates.

This piece of reporting was extremely irresponsible. The responsibility for modern and classical languages has never made any such proposal.

The dean of the College of Arts and Science has appointed an ad-hoc committee, representative of all departments within the College of Arts and Sciences, for the purpose of studying the possibility of reinstating the foreign language requirement at Winthrop. It was this committee who made the proposal for a foreign language requirement which is now before the College of Arts and Sciences Curriculum Committee. Contrary to the comments made by Ms. Buie in her editorial, it was the dean of the College of Charleston, USC, Clemson, Converse, and The Citadel who have all foreign language requirements for their students. We think it is time for Winthrop to reinstate the foreign language requirement for those students who expect to graduate from within the College of Arts and Sciences.

The Johnsonian owes its existence to the department of modern and classical languages. It owes us an apology! One would also gather from Buie’s editorial that the faculty in the foreign language department does not have enough students to keep them busy. This idea was also misleading. The foreign language department currently employs three existing faculty members to handle the overwork of students enrolled in foreign language study at Winthrop.

Your remark that the foreign language department should make their courses more attractive was only another example of the insulting nature of your editorial. Too many students who attend college recent courses which they are required to pass in order to meet graduation requirements. Just for the record, I enjoyed my foreign language classes at Winthrop. The course work required of me in my Spanish classes was not easy. However, it was fun to attend and participate in those classes. I believe that it is important to really learn something about another culture and the best way to accomplish this is through the study of a language. If our students need to be entertained in our classrooms at Winthrop, they will get it, but at a price. (Continued on page 5)

Madonnas raid campus

By MONNIE WHITSON
TJ staff writer

Madonna look-a-likes have raided Winthrop College. Almost everywhere I look I see a Madonna walking casually down the street. You’ll know them when you see them. They’re the ones with the hair you know—the wind-blown look with the life-sized bow pinned to the side of their head. They’re also known for their habit of wearing hundreds of rubber bracelets all on one arm. And oh, the jewelry, tons of it. I’m amazed that they can even walk without falling flat on their painted faces. But, I must say, I’m fascinated by the earrings.

I bought a pair recently that I think you’d like. They’re about 3 inches long and weigh 5 pounds each. You have to be careful with them. If you take them off at the same time I would not recommend it. They’re sure to fall apart. If you take them on one at a time it could result in a neck injury. You might have seen me last week with a neck brace on.

Now that Madonna is married ‘ol you. It’s really not that hard to do. Maybe you’ll tune her down too. I’m still working at it. I’ve taken the time to really work hard. I’ve taken the time to really work hard. I’ve taken the time to really work hard.

I do have advice for future Madonna look-a-likes. Stop singing “Like A Virgin”, throw away the mask and just be plain looking. But, I must say, I’m fascinated by the earrings.

Censorship wastes energy
By MARK WOOD
TJ contributing editor

North Carolina recently passed a new pornography law which prohibits the sale of X-rated videotapes and the showing of X-rated movies in theaters.

The law was designed to make it easier to prosecute pornographers and stiffen the penalties for violators. And, at first glance one might think that such a law would put an end to such prurient material once and for all. But it hasn't.

As a matter of fact, the law doesn't seem to have affected a lot of people who are genuinely interested in such material.

According to a recent Associated Press release from Charlotte, N.C., some people are actually crossing state lines to rent their favorite erotic videotapes.

Such a migration has caused many store owners in Piedmont, N.C. to suffer as much as a 20 percent decrease in revenues since the law took effect on Oct. 1.

Even in Greenville, S.C., my hometown, there was a law passed recently which banned the showing of X-rated movies at local theaters. And consequently, many theater managers, especially those associated with drive-ins, suffered a fierce blow to their businesses.

Of course, with all of this censorship, going on there is still a way for chronic voyeur to see their favorite form of entertainment. The solution is simple, just go into the next county (or state).

Almost immediately following the law's passage in Greenville, The Greenville News started running advertisements for an X-rated drive-in in a neighboring county whose sales pitch went something like, "adult entertainment is only a few minutes away." And this particular theater has been advertising there consistently ever since.

The idea is that if you can't get it here just hop in your car and drive 30 or 40 miles into the next county to get your thrills.

Evidently people are doing that. According to the previously mentioned AP release, South Carolina video stores are picking up on a lot of out of state business since the North Carolina law took effect.

To me all of these laws restricting pornography are doing more harm than good. All of these people who are driving for miles just to see one dirty movie or rent one skin flick have to be wasting an awful lot of gasoline. If each city would allow porno movies, fans of such "art" would not have to make a trek to see what they obviously need so badly.

If this censorship keeps up the way it's going now, all of this driving around is going to plunge the nation into a new energy crisis, one which may very well rival the 1973 Arab oil embargo. And people like myself who couldn't care less about pornography will end up paying higher gasoline prices.

My solution to this potential disaster is a simple one. Before lawmakers censor the evening news itself, we should let them know how we feel about their constant meddling in the public's private affairs.

I feel there should be open visitation hours.

thor, perhaps they are in the wrong place.

The pattern you have established in recent issues of The Johnsonian is alarming. The purpose of your editorials appears to be to attack at least one academic department per week. Who will be your next victim? Students have the right to express their opinions concerning this or any other issue involving Winthrop College. However, you must have your facts straight before you launch an attack. The appearance of such vitriolic columns in this newspaper damages your credibility as a responsible collegiate newspaper.

Sincerely,
Beverly E. Thompson

Dear Editor,

In response to your editorial concerning a proposal that would require students to take six hours of a foreign language, I wish to voice my opinion. While it is true that high schools offer and often require students to take a foreign language, this does not mean that Winthrop should automatically dismiss the ideal of requiring a language for our graduates. After all, Winthrop requires students to take writing 101 and a math course. For many freshmen, 'both of these classes are simply a repetition of subjects they studied in high school. Should we then rescind these requirements?

You stated that "students who do not elect to take language courses must take mathematics or computer science, probably because these courses are more practical." I beg to differ. Anyone who views either of the two as "more practical" than the study of a foreign language is both unrealistic and shortsighted. With America's ever increasing involvement with government, the military and transnational corporations, a second language is fast becoming a necessity.

It is no longer simply a matter of survival and speak at least two languages fluently. However, as the distance between the United States and other nations lessens with increased foreign trade, it is a necessity for Americans to fall in line by taking on the challenge of learning a second language.

I concede that the format for the way classes are taught weakens the noble intentions of the language department. If classes were taught with an emphasis on grammar and vocabulary in the first three hours and an emphasis on the conversational language in the next three hours, then the proposal would be stronger. After all, what good does it do one to be able to conjugate verbs if one cannot speak the language with some degree of fluency.

However, Ms. Baue, I still disagree that the whole proposal should be dismissed. Moreover, I disagree that the proposal was motivated by the selfish interests of the modern and classical language department. Rather, it would seem they have the foresight others are lacking. I would also appear that they have the best interests at heart not only those of students who hope to gain entry to a high level position in the job market in the not-too-distant future.

Sincerely,
Linda Day

You know, I'm beginning to believe that the only players on the soccer team are Choco Gutierrez and Doug Aldridge. I've heard of Cauldrons before, but not much else. What are the rest of you guys doing? I hope those two are getting a little cash flow in the grant-aid department. If not, they deserve it. Once again Aldridge and Gutierrez are in the Big South top ten in scoring. Aldridge, a sophomore striker, is fourth with eleven goals, one assist and a total of 23 points. Gutierrez, a senior midfielder, has six goals, seven assists and a total of 19 points. He is third in the league in assists.

Well, the soccer team with its 5-10 record only has two regular season games left before the Big South Tournament. Winthrop, in the second division in the eight team league could possibly open the play-offs on the road. The Eagles have not played well on the road at all this year.

The top four teams will play their first round games at home against the members of the second division. The four survivors then would advance to Conway, S.C for the semifinals and final rounds. If the Eagles win their last two games they will move up into the top four teams in the league going into the tournament. At present in the Big South they are 0-3 but the teams will be seeded for the post-season tournament on the Long Rating System. On that system Winthrop is fifth and a couple of wins would no doubt put them into the first division.

In cross country the men are now 54-54, while the women are 29-27. At The Citadel Invitational the men finished eighth. Richard Golden finished with a 27:52 on the 8km run. Standout, Denise Holliday, finished with 19:58 in the 8km run. In their second year both teams posted winning seasons.

"I know that if I wasn't at study hall, I would be doing something else, not studying," said TJ's basketball player Cherri Foster.

The consensus among the athletes is that study hall is a good idea. Not all of the athletes have to attend, though. If you are a freshman or have below a 2.0 GPR then the Monday through Thursday evening study halls are mandatory—no excuses accepted.

Another basketball player, Brian Coutos, said, "I don't like it but it is good for you. It's an hour I wouldn't be studying. On the other hand an hour and a half is hardly enough time to get settled down to study." As far as the attendance policy is concerned McGee said, "Overall the NCAA restrictions and policies are good. Baseball player, Len Herd, said, "We should have to go. It'll improve grades." Assistant soccer coach Jimbo Coutos feels that it's really necessary. He said, "It's a step in the right direction." Some of the athletes did not react as enthusiastically as Coutos.

Fresmen tennis player Roberto Olivero said, "We go straight from practice to study hall and back to the locker room." He continued, "We're old enough to decide if we want to study. It's impossible to get anything done in study hall. I don't think it'll improve grades. They may even decrease." Raj Maharaj said, "It's simply not interesting." He continued, "I wish we had study hall when I was a freshman because now I'm paying for my mistakes as a senior."

"This year our team should be much more enjoyable to watch. We should have an exciting brand of basketball for the fans to watch," said Head Coach Rick Riese. "The up coming 85-86 Winthrop men's basketball team." The players ran, lifted weights, and played together as much as possible before the season, said Gordon on pre-season conditioning for the team.

On Oct. 15 the team started their first official practices together with the coaches present. The coaches remained the same with Gordon as head, Billy Mims as the assistant, Steve Roberts as a graduate assistant, and Glenn Gutierrez, the only new addition, as the other graduate assistant.

Gordon felt the team has had a good attitude at the beginning of the season. "This has been the best team as of late attitude wise. The senior captains have really asserted this leadership according to Gordon. The previous mentioned captains are Allen Washington, Fred McKinnon, Jerome McKiver, and Johnson who are together with the coaches.

"We should have an exciting season." said Head Coach Steve Roberts as a graduate assistant, and Glenn Gutierrez, the only new addition, as the other graduate assistant.

At the current time Gordon has a set lineup he plans to use for the first tip-off. In the front court Jerome McKiver and Ted Houp will get the starting calls with Shaun Wise, who is a true point guard in every sense, added Gordon.

Ciesla living well at spa

By JILL ZIEGLER
TJ sports writer

As an aerobics instructor at Living Well Fitness Center here in Rock Hill, Linda Ciesla has made working out and studying a regular part of her life. Ciesla has always been interested in fitness, and her active record during her high school years proves it. At T.L. Hanna in Anderson, Ciesla was involved in track, cross country, volleyball and cheerleading.

In the back court McKinnon should feature Greg Washington and Everett Sesker. "Greg will be our swing man up front playing both forward positions while Sesker will play more at the center position behind Bowman," Gordon added.

Ciesla became interested in Living Well and when she was a freshman here at Winthrop, she decided right away to apply for a job as an instructor. As a sophomore, Ciesla commented, "Now I'm being paid to stay in shape-it's great!"

Ciesla claims that she has definitely improved her fitness at the spa. She comments, "Men can't even keep up with me out working after day one. "You feel so much better physically- and about yourself."

Any physical results, according to Ciesla, should begin to show after six months of working out.

When asked what kind of advice she would give others, Ciesla simply said, "Get in shape now." She explained that each year women's bodies gain an extra layer of fat in order to prepare their bodies for child bearing. For this reason, women should get fit in order to stay fit-even after they have children.
The end of an era - Gordon steps down

By DAVID McCALLUM
TJ sports writer

The end of an era will occur for Winthrop athletics at the close of the basketball season. With 46 years in the coaching profession, Nield Gordon, the only men's basketball coach Winthrop has known, will step down at the end of the basketball campaign.

Gordon, who has been a basketball coach for 28 seasons, said he'll leave with some fond memories of his career.

"They say you always remember your first win. We Newberry beat Lenoir-Rhyne at home. I remember the three championship teams I had at Newberry, and being ranked No. 1 in the NAIA with the 77 team. Gordon said, that said that there are many fond memories at Winthrop as well.

"Reaplifting for the first team that Winthrop had was a big thrill. Winning the first game Winthrop ever played. Also winning the most games a first-year school has ever won with 25 victories."

Gordon, who has received numerous awards during his coaching tenure, including NAIA National Coach of the Year, said the achievement he is proudest of is the graduation of his players. "In 14 years at Newberry and one year at Winthrop, not graduate, and the eight years at Winthrop only two have failed to graduate."

With the arrival of Steve Vacendak as the athletic director, Gordon said he has been closer to this team. I've been able to get more in to this team, because I'm not involved in the duties of the A.D. I have been able to devote more time and prepare better for this year. I feel very comfortable with this team."

Gordon hopes that this season will be a successful one for his final Eagles squad. "We have four seniors, who have rededicated themselves to go out as winners. We also want to win the first Big South Conference title, and we have had championship teams in the past. We also have had a fine coliseum built. As a head coach, however, Gordon wishes he could have brought a district title to Rock Hill. "I would have liked to have won a district title at Winthrop. We've come so close to going to Kansas City, but weren't quite able to make it."

When the search for his replacement begins, Gordon said he does not want to be involved in the selection of the next coach. "It needs to be left up to Steve Vacendak, because the coach needs to fit Steve's philosophy, and needs to be somebody Steve will be comfortable working with."

With his ninth and final season of leading Winthrop's basketball fortunes, Gordon said there is only one thing he regrets. "I regret not having the opportunity to coach at the Division I level, and to see how I'd do against that competition. But I'll never regret coming to Winthrop. It is one of he outstanding schools anywhere."

Gordon said he has enjoyed his years at Winthrop. "I've enjoyed working with everyone associated with the athletic department, working with student and faculty of Winthrop College."

Rating systems cause problems

By RHONDA ARMS
Special to TJ

"I just can't believe all these things people say."

—Prince from his song "Controversy"

This controversy over rock n' roll is growing rapidly; so fast, in fact, that the decibel level is rivaling the rock concerts themselves. Currently, there is a group of concerned parents and citizens who think that rock is corrupting the values and views of our young people by flooding their minds with sex, Satanism, drugs and violence through the lyrics of the music we're listening to. Another group, equally concerned, is worried that the ghost of censorship is haunting any and all of the suggested remedies.

During the summer I became aware of the great rift this "music problem" was causing. Friends at work were complaining about the music they were listening to. Being a big fan of rock n' roll, I decided to get on the old wats line and do some checking. Bob Merlin of Warner Brothers Records Inc., was my first call in a long list of many. Merlin was first made aware of the outcry when he read in the Wall Street Journal about Tipper Gore, Senator Gore's wife, and her organization for parents looking for information on the song lyrics. The Parents Resource Center wants to place ratings on videos that cover to warn parents about the lyrics inside. Their idea for a rating system would be as follows:

X—any record with this rating contains lyrics that are profane or violent.
O—these records contain material pertaining to the occult.
D—the record contains allusions to drugs and alcohol.

Merlin feels that the rating system does both the industry and the artists a great injustice. Also, Warner Brothers was cited by the PRC as the label for Twisted Sister. Twisted Sister groups are angry about his video or it isn't played on MTV now. Steve Mandel, a spokesperson for Roth, said that "Diamond Dave" Roth also has videos in rotation now. Is this censorship? In a September issue of People Magazine, Paul Harvey recalls when the executives at MTV (Music Television) held a conference on radio. Math tournament to be held

By ROBERT JOLLY
TJ managing editor

For the seventh year the mathematics department will play host to the Winthrop-Wylie math tournament for high school students at 10 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 23 in Tillman Auditorium.

The tournament is sponsored by Ellen Wylie, wife of Ray Wylie, from Greenville, S.C. Ellen Wylie is a graduate of Winthrop College and a former professor at Winthrop. Mrs. Wylie also sponsors a scholarship for Winthrop.

Dr. Edward Guettler, associate professor of math, said, "The purpose of the tournament is to provide an interest in mathematics and to provide academic competition instead of athletic. It gives students a chance to meet other students similar to themselves, and hopefully spark an interest in Winthrop and in mathematics."

Each participating high school will send at least six people to play on its math team. The students will compete for team and individual awards. Students will arrive at Winthrop between 8:30 and 10 a.m. on Saturday, and the tournament will begin at 10 a.m. with a written evaluation for each participant.

After a break the teams will compete in a time-restricted ciphering competition. Each member will send one representative to answer each question with a two-minute time limit. "The students seem to enjoy this part of the tournament the most," said Guettler.

"While one teammate answers the problem, the other five teammates may cheer him or her on," Guettler added, "This is a chance for Winthrop to promote its name in mathematics."

sex at gunpoint. Granted, these are a little to the extreme side, but the PRC is lumping those "harsh" songs in with some that are a bit milder. In Van Halen's "Hot for Teacher" video, a teacher strips down to a bikini in front of the classroom. RATT's video "Lay It Down" starts and ends at a little boy's birthday party. The PRC says that this is of the same severity as the more extreme songs mentioned earlier. This situation comes along every once in a while, and it will again. The question is, do we want to let a small group of people decide what is or is not moral for the entire country? And how would we decide who was "moral" enough to have that job? This is generation gap that has come up before and will come up again. In the past six to eight months there have been protests and record-burnings all around the U.S. Can the PRC rest easy about this situation that is sparking violence in teenagers—same thing that they are accusing those lyrics of doing?

Bloodmobile to arrive

By ROBERT JOLLY
TJ managing editor

The American Red Cross is allowed to compete for a plaque based on the percentage of pints donated to the number of members in the semi-annual bloodmobile. Howell said, “This year arrive at Winthrop, Nov. 13 and we will emphasize more publicize stay through Thursday, Nov. 14. and encouragement from The event is sponsored by organizations. The Pikas (Pi Dinkins Student Union, The Red Kappa Alpha) had the most Cross and Zeta Tau Alpha donations last year.”

The goal has been set at 350. Howell, who has donated pints this year to accommodate nearly two gallons of blood, said, a low turnout last year. Ann “It’s easy to give blood. The Red Howell, assistant director for Cross people work hard to make student activities, said, “The sure nothing goes wrong.” turnout was low last spring par. Donors will receive a card tially because of a low staff and that will represent coverage of community turnout. This event the donor’s immediate families for the entire community.” in case of an accident involving Greek and non-Greek loss of blood.
