WINTHROP OBSERVES ROSEBUD'S BIRTHDAY

Governor Blackwood Declares
January 13 Rosebud Birthday

Along with other states and regions, the United States, South Carolina and Winthrop College celebrated the birthday of the State's birthday, January 8, by honoring the memory of the great Indian chief, Rosebud. This celebration was in recognition of the importance of the Indian as a part of our nation's history and as a reminder of the contributions he made to our country.

Governor Blackwood declared January 13 Rosebud Day, in honor of the birthday of the State's most famous Indian chief, Rosebud. The governor's proclamation was signed on January 8, 1924, and read:

Bishop Perry sprays to vesper audience

United States Bishop of Episcopal Church brings message to Winthrop Students

Bishop James de Wolfe Perry, Bishop of the Episcopal Church, visited Winthrop College recently and delivered the message to the vesper service. The bishop spoke on "The Message of the Bishop," which he explained as "The Message of the Bishop of the Episcopal Church." He emphasized the importance of the church's message in today's world and how it can be spread through the lives of its members.

"The man who gains deepest in the message of the Bishop," he said, "will be a successful evangelist. Such a man was Robert Louis Stevenson, one of the great success stories of the Bishop's church."

Bishop Perry, relying on esteemed authorities like A. M. de Wolfe Perry, Bishop of the Episcopal Church, and Dr. Markley, Brown, and Stewart, led discussions on "Religion, Personality, Social Relations".

OUR HERITAGE

By C. B. Bickley, Editorial Director of

THE JOHNSONIAN

There are many things to be said for the University of North Carolina, its history, its traditions, its traditions, the great heritage that is theirs in the traditions of the University. Could it be truly said that the University has anything of its own in the way of traditions?

Many a student tells of the great traditions of the University—of the old-fashioned way of life, of the old-fashioned way of thinking, of the old-fashioned way of doing things. The traditions of the University are not so much in the things that are said or done, but in the way in which they are said or done.

The traditions of the University are in the way in which the students live, in the way in which they study, in the way in which they work, in the way in which they play.

The traditions of the University are in the way in which they think, in the way in which they feel, in the way in which they act.

The traditions of the University are in the way in which they live, in the way in which they work, in the way in which they play.

I have a few suggestions for anyone who would like to make a bet on the stock market. I do not mean to imply that I have any inside information, but I think it is important to remember that the market is not always as stable as it appears. It is important to remember that the market is not always as stable as it appears.
