CASE TO BE HEARD BY COURT EN BANC

Circuit Judge Called to Sit With Supreme Court in Blackville Shed Case—Almost Very Existence of Railroad Commission Involved.

Columbia, Oct. 3rd.—With almost the very existence of the state railroad commission involved in the court en banc—comprising the chief justice and associate justices of the state supreme court and the circuit judges of the circuit—met in Columbia, November 12, to hear the so-called Blackville shed case, Chief Justice Eugene B. Shy of the Supreme Court, presiding. The case upon which a rehearing was requested by Attorney General Samuel M. Wolfe after the supreme court had handed down its decision holding that the federal transportation act had practically deprived the state railroad commission of all authority over interstate railroads, was originally heard by the supreme court as a matter with the action original jurisdiction, being an action brought by the State railroad commission to force the Southern Railway system to comply with the commission's order requiring the erection of passenger sheds at Blackville. The railroad refused to obey the order and the commission appealed to the authority of the court only to meet with disaster. The order requiring the Southern railway to obey the commission's demand was set aside and the commission's powers held to have been reduced to an exceedingly small measure.

OUR ANNUAL EXPENDITURES FOR AUTOMOBILES AND MAINTENANCE EXCEEDS OUR TOTAL TAXATION.

The amount of money annually expended for the maintenance of the automobile industry in this country very considerably exceeds the total of national, state and municipal taxation. It also exceeds by several billion dollars the total amount of money in circulation in the country. The figures are startlingly suggestive.

A recent compilation has indicated that the total tax burden of the country amounts to about $8,500,000,000 a year. Assuming that this estimate, which has been generally accepted, is approximately true, it is very remarkable fact that we are annually spending on the purchase and maintenance of the automobile, motor truck business more money than we are paying for taxation. The figures for 1919 are as follows: Tires and automobile supplies, rubber and other accessories, $4,291,000,000, but this did not by any means represent the total amount of money expended with the automobile industry at that time. There are now over 10,000,000 automobiles and motor trucks in the country.

The report of the Automobile Chamber of Commerce for 1922 showed that in the motor vehicles and accessories industry, 2,933,000 people were employed. It would be extremely low estimate to put an approximate amount of wages for these people at $20 a week or say $1500 a year. This would be $3,500,000,000. The consumption of gasoline exceeded 5,000,000,000 gallons a year, and the aggregate cost of these figures would be practically nullified as far as interstate railroads were concerned.

It is interesting to note that the production of automobiles and rubber tires, a figure for 1919 of $4,100,000,000, and though prices are now lower than they were then the increased output would make up for any decline in the price per car. The men engaged in motor vehicle allied lines as chauffeurs, car repairers and other kindred activities would have an approximate value of $3,650,000,000, and for gasoline consumption $1,250,000,000, which would make the total over $9,000,000,000. Some of these figures are true estimates, but on the whole we are inclined to think that they are under estimates rather than over estimates.

The last available figures showed that there were 38,000 passenger cars in the country, 45,000 trucks, 63,000 service stations and 63,000 supply stores. Since these estimates were compiled they have increased in number and in value. The automobile and motor truck industry is now a large industry in the country. It is quite possible that many people not quite financially able to do so buy automobiles, but it is not possible today to conceive how business could be carried on without the use of the automobile and motor trucks which crowd the streets and the highways of every part of the country.

TIME MOVES ON REMORSELESSLY. ONLY PREMATURE DEATH CAN SAVE US FROM OLD AGE. ONLY WHAT WE DO TO-DAY CAN MAKE OLD AGE WORTH WHILE. AND WHAT IT OUGHT TO BE—THE HAPPIEST PART OF LIFE. THE REWARD OF WISE YOUTH AND REAL WORK.

YOU HAVE GOT TO BE OLD ONE DAY. YOUR OLD AGE MUST BE THAT OF AN INDEPENDENT MAN, OR SOMEBODY ELSE'S SLAVE. IT MUST BE THAT OF A HEALTHY MAN OR A MISERABLE INVALID, AND YOU HAVE GOT TO MAKE YOUR CHOICE NOW, WHILE YOU ARE YOUNG.

USE OF PULLETS AS BREEDERS IS QUESTIONED BY AUTHORITY
The hatching results for the season of 1923 were of the United States. These are doubtless a number of contributing causes, and according to Dr. M. A. Jull, in charge of poultry investigations of the United States Department of Agriculture, one of the causes of poor hatchings has been the use from year to year of pullets as breeders. In a general sense it is apparent that the hatchability of eggs depends upon the constitutional vigor of the breeding stock producing the egg. If the breeders are healthy and vigorous and are kept in comfortable quarters, then the eggs should hatch well, providing the method of incubation have been satisfactory. Taking the country as a whole, however, Doctor Jull believes that the hatching results from one season to another are not as good as might be expected.

TEXAS MAN RUINS UP MEN WHO FLEED HIM
Dallas, Oct. 2.—J. Frank Norfleet, of Hale Center, Texas, has at last got his man. For four years Norfleet has covered this country and others tracking down and causing the arrest and convictions of seventy-five confederates of the gang which fled from him. He was the chief manager of the gang which fled from him. He was the chief manager of the gang which fled from him. He was the chief manager of the gang which fled from him.

MAKING THE PUNISHMENT FIT THE CRIME

Of course, the reason for punishment is not so much for punishment's sake as to raise crime and reform criminals. Retribution, that is the ideal retribution, but it was thought, wisdom, and patience were to work it out.

SNOWGRASS SNOBS.

Talks About Automobiles and Folks Riding—Also Pride, Enviousness, Etc.

"Well, Mr. Editor," said Sam Snowgrass as he leaned over the silver plated counter, "I sit in receipt of a report from the South Carolina highway commission in which it states that there are now more than one hundred thousand automobiles in de Palmetto State, which is about twenty thousand more than what was here this time last year.

"This here information means one of several things, shore. De people is got more money, more credit, ain't paying what they owe, or something like that. Yes, things from a money standpoint is better than what they was this time twelve months ago, shore, but they ain't. Mr. Editor, getting thar is folks ridin' in automobiles whut ought to be walkin' and thar is some folks walkin' whut ought to be ridin' in automobiles. It shore is heart-rendin' to see a fellow dat by you in a sedan whut you owe dollars and say he can't see his way clear to pay you just now, but he's 'spectin' a little money soon. Rite then, when he tells you that, he is on the way to de gasoline drug store to fill up for a hundred miles to 'tend some meeting, a circus, or some kind of a frolic or other. Automobiles is a wonderful thing and I does not even know I could git along without 'em but tain't no use lovin', otherwise they is shore done made some big 'bars' out of folks whut use to sell de trane once-and-awhile."

"Mr. Editor, I read a mighty good piece in a magazine tother day 'bout pride, egotism, vanity, conceit, and haughtiness. Then five words kivers a multitude of sins and I wondered why de man whut wrote it 'dound his eye 'bout enviousness. Mr. Editor, I see some folks struttin' like a peacock, all loaded down with pride whut, to my mind, ought to be a fatted swine. Dey just wants to be somebody, so bad dat they run 'round and buys finery on credit to dress up with den take a year and a half to pay for it. Some folks naturally goes hungry trying to dress up and be somebody. Dey is just so proud and vain dat they ache all over. Go down de road even in de church, so stuck up dat they can't speak or smile at common folks. The peep whut I read speakin' of de peacock says: "This bird beautifully typifies foolish human conceit. It drags along through life a heavy, unwieldy bunch of feathers, occasionally lifting them in the air to be seen, rattling them to attract attention, strutting aimlessly. Of all the birds in the barnyard, that peacock with de big tail de most utterly useless. Take off his feathers and there is little to eat, and it is hardly worth eatin'. Pick off the vanity of 'de ordinary conceited human being, and what is left is apt to be very much like the carcass of a plucked peacock. The peacock thinks himself de finest bird in de world. He does nothin' in particular; he has wonderful feathers, but flies poorly. Too much tail, too little head."

"Mr. Editor, when I read dat article I recalled when I was a lad of 'bout ten years. A lady whut had plenty of money, a beautiful home, and all de worldly things she desired, dat use to invite jist ordinary folks to her house. When dey called she was so nice to 'em and when dey was sick and needed help she was de first to reach de house and lend a helphin' hand. When she met 'em on de street she would stop and say 'em 'bout how dey was gettin' on. She would stop a dirty little boy or girl and give 'em a word of encouragement, maybe a nickel, to git 'em sweets. When her sweet little passed away folks come from far and wide and with tears flowin' paid their last respects to this beautiful 'de livin' woman. Dey was character is blessed with worldly things but it didn't make her vain, proud or conceited and when she passed away she all missed her. Dey was character is her beautiful character lingers in de minds of those who were tiny tots when she went away and as I recall her beautiful traits I know dat hundreds of others also do likewise. Would dat we all could be like her without 'pride', without vanity, without conceit. She is with de angels in Heaven. Good-bye, Mr. Editor."

Fish at de Pratt-Kearns, state fish hatchery are being fed by electricity. Large light bulbs are placed at de edge of de fish ponds and the millers and other insects are attracted by de light. The water beneath de lights is soon covered with the insects which de fish devour eagerly. A

RESOLUTIONS.

Of the Board of Directors and the Finance Committee, of the National Exchange Bank of Chester, in Respect to the Death of Henry Samuels.

Whereas, The National Exchange Bank, of Chester, S. C., has been deprived, by the death of Henry Samuels, of one of its most useful and valuable Stockholders, Directors and Members of its Finance Committee, in the prime of his manhood and the full vigor of his mind; and whereas, the Board of Directors and said Finance Committee, in joint meeting assembled, on this second day of October, 1923, unanimously desire to give full expression of their regret and sorrow at his sudden and untimely death; and they wish, not only in their capacity, but also publicly, to manifest their appreciation of the loss sustained by them.

Mr. Samuels has been, since the organization of this bank, one of its most useful, prominent and loyal officials. It has always had the full benefit of his advice and counsel, his astute judgment and his sagacity, and we have fully appreciated, and now appreciate, his profound interest, not only in the prosperity of the Bank, but also in the welfare, success and prosperity of its stockholders, patrons and friends.

While Mr. Samuels had faults, the common heritage of humanity, yet he had at the same time, and always, the virtues and excellencies, which characterize a man of business and a man of affairs. The vice of hypocrisy neither sordid his soul, nor tinged his garments. None of the people of Chester, or of this community, will ever forget the acts of kindness, unselfishness and generosity which he might say countless-acts of kindness and beneficence to the sick, the sorrowing, the poor and the needy. He was a man of the highest moral and loyal to his friends, and his words was his bond, not only in matters of business, but also in all of his private and dealings with his fellow-men. He will be sorely missed, not only as an official of this Bank, but also as a man, and as a citizen, of this community.

The officers and committees of this Bank desire to give this too inadequate expression of their regret for him, and of their regret at his untimely taking off, and their full realization of the loss sustained by them by reason of his death.

It is the Board of Directors, unanimously resolved that this testimonial, as to his character, capability and loyalty, as well as this expression of our sorrow and loss, be spread upon the minutes of the stockholders, the Board of Directors, and of the Finance Committee, respectively, of this Bank, and that it be published in the Chester newspapers, and that a copy thereof be sent to each member of his immediate family, who loved him so well, and who shall miss him so sorely and sadly.

Grand Jury's Report.

The Grand Jury submitted the following report Tuesday for the terms: To His Honor, S. W. G. Shipp, Presiding Judge.

We, the Grand Jury of the Fall Term of Court for 1923, wish to make our report. We wish to thank Your Honor for the courtesy shown us and the efficient and impartial manner in which you have presided and conducted this court. We wish to thank also all of the court officials for their assistance in the discharge of our duties. We have passed on all the cases handed us by the Solicitor.

We, the Committee on County Home, find the following inmates: Ten whites, six males, four females. Seven colored, three males, four females, eight head of mules; all in fair condition, thirteen milk cows, one registered Guernsey, twenty-three yearling yearlings, twenty-three goats, three brood sows, one stock hog, seventeen shoats, average weight about 140 lbs., eighteen shoats, weight about sixty five lbs. each, twenty small pigs. Two two-horse wagons, practically new, one one-horse wagon, one binder, practically new, one second-hand binder, one mower, one rake, other necessary farm implements, all under cover, and in good shape, 1,863 bushels of oats, 250 bushels of wheat, 15,000 bushels of fodder, 6 tons hay, about five 5-bales of seed cotton picked from two acres in color, picked incomplete, 125 acres in corn that will average about 25 bushels to the acre, 10 acres of corn for ensilage, 10 acres in Irish potatoes, about 65 bushels of sweet potatoes ungathered, 1-2 acre in turnips, 10 acres of peas and beans sowed broadcast, 70 acres of Irish potatoes, already turned, with two horse turn plow, about twenty five acres sown in oats and vetch for cover crop. We find the inmates in fair condition, as good as possible under the existing circumstances.

We herewith attach reports from the State Board of Public Welfare and endorse same. We further recommend that the county sell about at least one half of County Home land and use proceeds for building a modern home or quarters for inmates.

We, the Committee on County Jail, find the Jail is not only too small, but in unfit condition for the use of same, and has been in bad condition for three years. This is the second time that the Grand Jury has reported such condition. We further recommend that a fence be put around the Jail property,

DISCOVERY CATHOLIC DOLLAR BRINGS TALK

Baptist Paper Brings to Light Strange Coincidence of Great Propaganda With Dollar Bill.

An Atlanta press dispatch of the day or two ago says that what is regarded there as one of the most remarkable coincidences or else one of the greatest pieces of propaganda ever put over in America has just come to light in a religious weekly newspaper article, as follows, from The Biblical Recorder (Baptist) of Raleigh, N. C.

"The writer has come into possession of a piece of currency which is said to be a Catholic dollar. It is the paper dollar series of 1917. On the front is the serene countenance of George Washington; in the upper left-hand corner is a group supposed to be Columbus and his crew landing on American soil. Above them is a head which is said to be the head of the pope who held that position when the bill was issued. In the lower right-hand corner there is a picture of a serpent, which is said to be the Irish serpent.

"Turning over the bill, we see two crosses, one bearing the words 'United States,' the other 'America,' on either end of the latter there is a star. In the lower right-hand corner of this side of the bill there is the word 'one,' with a little cross in the middle of the letter 'e,' and the same is true in the 'letting' which ends the word 'one' in the upper right-hand corner. It is exactly like the cross worn by the pope.

"This peculiar dollar can only be found in the series of 1917. We are richly informed that these are being withdrawn from circulation, and no others like them are being printed. It is stated that when this issue was made the Catholics were in complete control of the department of engraving in Washington. It will be remembered that there was a mighty shaking up in that department 'something like a year ago.

"Let anyone who has a one dollar bill of the 1917 series marked legal tender, examine for themselves these right-hand corner there is a picture

According to an announcement made by the Department of Agriculture, South Carolina will produce 250,000 bales more cotton this year than in 1922. The estimate as of September 25th is placed at 783,000 bales, against 530,000 bales ginned last year. The report also shows that District number 2, which is composed of Chester, Fairfield, Kershaw, Lancaster and York counties have picked fifty per cent. It is reported that 22 per cent of the acreage in this district was poisoned. The report shows that some of the counties in the State report that fifty per cent of the acreage was poisoned.

County Agent H. K. Sanders reports that a few of the farmers of Chester county are already beginning to-plant under their cotton stalks. This is being done just as the cotton is completed picked. Reports from throughout South Carolina last year show that Chester county stood highest in turning the stalks under, and this fact is believed to be one of the reasons for the large amount of cotton being made by some of Chester's farmers. This action is not only detrimental to the welfare of the weevil but it is also of great benefit to the land. It is sincerely hoped that Chester county farmers will again this year practice turning under their cotton stalks at the earliest possible moment.

The records show that there were 415 couples married in Chester county during the year 1922. A number of them in a dangerous occupation of waiting piny on a people who do not need it. No man unless he be a convict, is a miner except from choice. "Once a miner always a miner" is an old slogan in mining regions. Miners prefer their occupation to any other. Nobody forces them to become miners. However, much other people may think mining is laborious and dangerous, the miners themselves do not so think. They prefer it to any other occupation because they are paid as generously for their work.

TO BUILD NEW HOSPITAL.

Management of Chester Sanatorium Planning to Finance Presses Quarterly Work. Probably Will be Started Next Spring.

The News learns from an authoritative source that the management of the Chester Sanatorium is planning to consider the erection of a hospital, located on the upper end of York street.

The idea of the management, we understand, is to build the new hospital in front of the present hospital. This section will probably contain at least twenty rooms and will be equipped with modern hospital appliances throughout. In all probability the operating rooms will be located in this section of the building.

In addition, existing operating rooms in front of the present building will be planned to be recast in steel, and which had a considerable number of rooms added on after the purchase by the hospital management.

We understand that work on the new building will in all probability start early next spring.

PINCHOT'S FALSE MOVE.

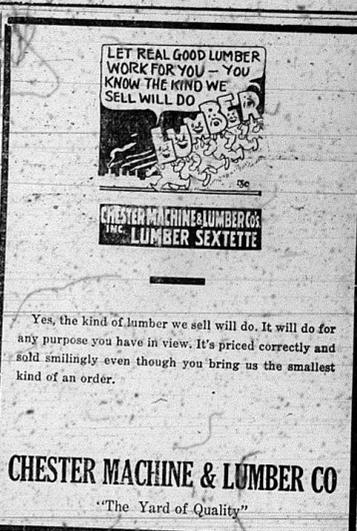

Says the Manufacturers Record: Governor Pinchot's compromise proposition to the Anthracite operators and miners is, we believe, a fundamentally false basis on which to settle this question and should be vigorously fought by every representative of the whole country. If adopted it would merely serve to inaugurate an intolerable situation which should long ago have been cleared up by legislation and by the enforcement of the law and order.

Through the power of labor unions and rotten politics, Pennsylvania's laws restrict employment in mining and thus give to the present miners what is practically a stranglehold on the industry. If Governor Pinchot would abolish these laws he would go a long way toward settling the whole anthracite situation, and then if he would say that law and order would be enforced to the limit he would do infinitely more good than is possible under his proposed compromise which would merely lead on to the public another heavy burden of higher price for coal.

The Pennsylvania price has long been dominated by union miners most of whom are foreigners of the lowest classes easily led by unscrupulous demagogues.

The effort to create a madman's sentiment in behalf of miners on the basis that they have to work underground in a dangerous occupation of waiting piny on a people who do not need it. No man unless he be a convict, is a miner except from choice. "Once a miner always a miner" is an old slogan in mining regions. Miners prefer their occupation to any other. Nobody forces them to become miners. However, much other people may think mining is laborious and dangerous, the miners themselves do not so think. They prefer it to any other occupation because they are paid as generously for their work.

In The Valley

smoking or even carrying matches into a mine, many miners will make tobacco and matches into the mines and deliberately take a chance at their own and their families' lives.

Let us be done forever with the idea that miners need sympathy because of their occupation, for they choose mining just as freely as other men choose law or medicine or engineering. The physician, for instance, works far harder and for longer hours than a miner and he takes up far greater risks to life and health than any miner but he asks no pity or sympathy because of these facts.

Arabian sheiks are carrying vacuum bottles—now. All the better equipped caravans that trek out of the Arabian desert to the East Indies, the Persian Gulf, the Indian Ocean and the Malay Peninsula, and it is now possible to have a cooling drink in the midst of the Arabian desert.

Nine years ago, in 1914, China exported $710 worth of hair hats. Last year the U. S. makers, virtually all of whom are located in Chester, China, collected $3,819,323 for supplying this product. An even larger trade is expected during 1923 because American women have demonstrated a preference for a type of hat made out of two hair strands, whereas the hats fabricated from single strands were the vogue.

The annual report of the New York Cotton Exchange contains an item, "Food for cats, $51,734." In spite of all precautions, rats and mice occasionally appear on the trading floor. Traps have been employed in vain and the cats try the mainstay in combating the vermin. The rats eat the ticker lapp, often destroying several rolls at a time. "Food for cats, $51,734."
