MARINER BLAMES STRANGE FORCE FOR PACIFIC WRECKS

Los Angeles.—Neither tidal wave nor currents of seismic origin, but some other strange force was responsible for the recent wreck of seven United States destroyers and the crash a few days later of the super-dreadnaught Texas and the freighter Steel Seafarer in the waters of Point Arguello, north of Santa Barbara, Calif., according to Captain Alfred Davis, a mariner of the old school who sailed his clipper ship around the Horn a decade ago.

The west entrance to Santa Barbara channel, between Point Conception and Sa Miguel islands, always has been in ill repute among seafaring men, said Captain Davis. His nickname, "the graveyard of ships," was earned about the time of Cabrillo, who there lost his life and was buried on one of the channel islands, according to stories which have become legends. It is said that no other point on the Pacific have so many ships met disaster and always the cause remained a mystery.

TOO FAST (?) FOR ROCK HILL!

According to some Chester citizens the editor of the Chester News was trying to speed in his "Pack-ard" on Rock Hill's fine asphalt streets the other day and the "spectator" touched him up to the tune of $5 for exceeding the speed limit. Now he comes back with a journal editorial of a column and a half, and says that Chester folks are too fast to have to go through a "town" so slow that it has a speed limit of 15 miles per hour. A Chester citizen who sided in an Anderson, S. C., case, objected to the editor of the News yesterday that if he did not want to get put down when passing through Rock Hill to get him an Anderson, S. C.—Rock Hill Record. The News editor appreciates the suggestion of the Record and if our esteemed contemporary will put us on to a plan whereby we can trade Anderson stock at par for an Anderson car, we might pass through "The Good one" hereafter in an Anderson Six.

STABLE STANDARD OF VALUE.

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, the well known economist and monetary authority, is at it again, demanding a stable dollar.

"Talk about the mark and ruble," he says, "and we can appreciate the need of such a standard. But we are overlooking the fact that our dollar is less than two-thirds of what it was before the war. This depreciation plays havoc with our accounts, and the worst of it is that we seldom realize it until bankruptcy or some other calamity befalls us."

"We have definite, fixed standards of weight and measurement, but we lack what we need worst of all—a definite, unchanging, international standard of value."

Undoubtedly we do, as everyone who thinks seriously about the matter concludes, sooner or later. It is perhaps the biggest material need in the world today. It is needed more broadly than in America, because our money is more nearly stable. Yet the fluctuation in prices the last few years have shown vividly enough the need of a better system in this country, to keep business steady and to avoid robbing either creditors or debtors through a decrease or increase in the purchasing power of the dollar.

But what is Prof. Fisher going to do about it? It may not be beyond the power of the human intellect to solve this problem, but nobody has come forward yet with a solution that convinced any great number of people. So, for lack of a perfect standard, everybody sticks to the imperfect gold standard—or comes back to it after trying unsecured paper.

BIG FIRM QUITS BUSINESS.

The S. M. Jones Company, of Chester, Announces That They Will Close Business on January First, Will Close Out Stock of Merchandise.

An announcement which came as a surprise to hundreds of people throughout the county was that to the effect that The S. M. Jones Company would liquidate their affairs and go out of business on the first of January next.

This firm is one of the largest and most widely known mercantile establishments in the Carolinas and has enjoyed a large and lucrative trade for more than two score of years. Many people in Chester county have known of practically no other trading place for years.

Mr. S. M. Jones, president of The S. M. Jones Company, came to Chester from Baltimore in 1881 and soon took over the firm of I. L. Gunhouse and Company, operating the business as S. M. Jones and Company until 1912 when The S. M. Jones Company was organized with the following as members of the firm: S. M. Jones, M. H. Wachtel, Robert Fraser, E. C. Latimer and John L. Williams.

The S. M. Jones Company is well known as one of the largest mercantile establishments in this section and during the peak times did a business of approximately one million dollars a year. In addition to the large cash business they have done it is conceded that they extended the largest line of credit of any firm in this section.

Mr. Jones, president of the company, has announced that he will devote his time after the first of January to his private affairs and that he expects to remain in Chester, which will be gratifying news to hundreds of people throughout the county and adjoining counties. Other members of the firm state that they have no public announcement to make as yet as to their future plans.

The company has an announcement in this issue of The News as to the liquidation of the company and expects to have a large advertisement next Tuesday in which they will place their stock of merchandise on sale for closing out.

MAKING HER MISS HIM.

"Is your poor husband dead," asked the Vicar of an aged member of his flock.

"Oh, no," she replied.

"But you are in mourning," the vicar continued.

"Well, you see," was the reply, "my old man annoyed me so this afternoon that I went into mourning for my first husband."—London Daily Telegraph.

NEGRO FALLS DOWN A CHIMNEY

And Got Stuck Near the Bottom. Were He Yelled for Help.

From the Pea Dee Advocate.

Falling down the inside of a chimney—an old story chimney—and getting jammed in its narrow parts near the bottom is not a pleasant sensation, far from it, according to Tillman Prince, colored boy, who was jammed in Saturday night.

Prince tried it Saturday night. Not that he meant to do it; but he was scuttling across the roof of the colored opera house in its narrow parts near the bottom is not a pleasant sensation, far from it, according to Tillman Prince, colored boy, who was jammed in Saturday night.

Prince tried it Saturday night. Not that he meant to do it; but he was scuttling across the roof of the colored opera house in its narrow parts near the bottom is not a pleasant sensation, far from it, according to Tillman Prince, colored boy, who was jammed in Saturday night.

He began to yell frantically, Chief Moore heard him, but it was some time before he could locate the sounds. When he did locate him the problem was to get him out. They got a rope from the fire department, and after many trials, they got it fastened to him. With the help of four negroes on the roof they hauled him out. Either from suffocation or a paralysis from fright, he could not speak a word when he reached the top.

PATRICK-KENNEDY

Special to The News:

White Oak, S. C., Oct. 26.—A wedding, charming in its simplicity, took place in mid-afternoon Thursday the 24th of October at the country home of Mr. Thomas Gifford Patrick when his youngest daughter, Florence, became the bride of Dr. David Ross Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Selden and daughter of West, S. C. The home was artistically decorated for the occasion with southern "smilax" and chrysanthemums. The ceremony room was beautiful in green and white, lighted only by the soft glow of candles.

Prior to the entrance of the bride party, Mrs. John P. Kennedy, of Charlotte, N. C., sang "Oh, Fair, Oh, Sweet and Holy" by Otto Cantor, accompanied by Mrs. Glenn Bell, of Columbia, S. C., who wore a gown of brown crepe satin trimmed with champagne chiffon. Her flowers were a corsage of yellow roses. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend R. C. Grier, D. D., president of Erskine College. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory with satin and lace. Her veil of tulle which extended to the end of the long square train, was surmounted by a band of old lace and was caught up with clusters of lilies of the valley. She carried an arm full of Easter lilies. Miss Sarah Patrick, a cousin of the bride, attended as maid of honor. She wore a frock of cream colored chiffon made bouffant effect over ashes of roses, with gold slippers. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of Sunburst Roses. Little Martha Jane Matthews, beautiful little niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a pink and white frock of pale pink georgette, made with a hoop-skirt of cream lace trimmed with French flowers. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of pink roses. Dr. John P. C. Kennedy of Charlotte, N. C. acted as best man for his brother.

Immediately following the service an informal reception was held. In the dining room a pretty color note of yellow was emphasized. The table cover, in the center was arranged a silver basket filled with yellow chrysanthemums and surrounding this were four silver canisters holding burning yellow tapers. As the course with squares of pound cake and mints was served which carried on the color scheme. Mrs. Kennedy's going away costume was a three piece suit of tan duvet de laine trimmed in fox fur. Her hat was a French model of brown velvet lined with various colored hand made flowers. She had a visit of several weeks in Philadelphia and New York Dr. and Mrs. Kennedy will live in Atlanta.

The Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees, whose membership six years ago totaled less than 5,000 on Labor Day dedicated a handsome new building, located in Cincinnati, which will house its headquarters and its own bank. The bank will be operated on the co-operative plan. Stockholders are restricted to dividends of ten per cent, and profits in excess of ten per cent are divided among depositors. Before the clerical employees of the railroads were organized it is well known that they were the most subservient, the most imposed upon, the poorest paid among the great army of men and women who support the nation's commerce. Today they enjoy that independence which makes men better citizens and better workmen.

GREAT FALLS ITEMS.

Great Falls, Oct. 26th.—A most delightful social affair of the fall season was the informal reception given by the ladies' auxiliary of a Methodist church Wednesday afternoon, complimenting Mrs. Wall, wife of Rev. W. H. Wall who has recently accepted the pastorate of the Baptist church, and Mrs. Thompson wife of Rev. Geo. B. Thompson, of three local churches and of Ebenezer, a nearby church. More than sixty guests called during the afternoon.

Invitations were extended to the members of the auxiliaries of the three local churches and of Ebenezer, a nearby church. More than sixty guests called during the afternoon. Mrs. R. M. Mann, Mrs. E. H. Hall and Mrs. Keister met the guests and presented them to the honorees, the presidents of the various auxiliaries represented, and Mrs. Eva Hall, of Orlando, Fla. and Mrs. Fowler, of Raleigh who were also in the receiving line. Punch was served throughout the afternoon by Mrs. C. E. Reynolds and Mrs. Chas. Ingram. Mrs. C. T. Wanner and Mrs. Marion Roddy presided at the tea tables, and were assisted in serving salad, sandwiches and mints by Mrs. P. S. Thomas, James Goodlock, Melvin Roddy and M. Moser. During the afternoon Mrs. R. C. Mullican and Mrs. E. H. Hall rendered a number of pleasing piano and vocal selections, and Miss Pearl Collier gave two readings, which delighted the guests. The reception rooms were made attractive with bright fall flowers, with here and there a suggestion of Halloween appropriately used.

James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, believes the United States should have the same right to investigate the character and qualities of prospective immigrants as it has to judge of the acceptability of members of the consular or diplomatic service assigned by foreign governments to the United States. He would admit as immigrants not merely men who are able to do a day's work, but men who have sufficient character and background to build up the very best kind of American citizenship.

RECENTLY TWO FRENCH SOLDIERS WERE

bathe in the Rhine River. Since they were unable to swim, the soldiers were in a serious condition. A young German, who was watching, swam out and rescued both of them. The French Tribunal, to reward him, promised that anything he asked would be granted. He asked that the lives of seven men, who had been condemned to be shot for causing trouble to the French authorities, might be spared. The request was granted.

The shortage of automobiles parked in Chester yesterday clearly told of the fact that there were many Chester people in Columbia yesterday attending the State Fair. The drawing card at the State Fair yesterday was the annual Clemson-Carolina football game, which resulted in a victory for Clemson, the score being 7 to 6. Among those playing was Tom Brice, of Chester, who was in the Carolina line-up. Chester people say he played a great game yesterday.

The editor of The News had the pleasure last Wednesday night of hearing Lloyd George, of England, make a talk before a large audience in Pittsburgh, Penn., over the radio of Mr. Fred Eisenmann. Lloyd George's speech plainly indicates that he is in America in the interest of England and that he is very anxious that England and America get together in their view of getting things straightened out in Europe. The Mayor of Pittsburgh introduced Lloyd George the clapping of hands would indicate that the English nobleman was well received in Pittsburgh.

Carloza Johnson, colored, is in the Chester county jail charged with the murder of Dudley McClennan, also colored. The shooting took place Wednesday night, October 17th, at a gathering on the Piedmont bridge road. McClennan was brought to the Chester Sanatorium in Chester for treatment and later developed pneumonia, from which he died Tuesday afternoon. An interesting civil action was disposed of in common pleas court in Allegheny county last week when Judge J. K. Henry, of Chester, directed a verdict for the plaintiff in the case of Lillian Kirkland, colored vs. Allegheny county. The suit was for $2,000. Ed Kirkland, husband of Lillian, was lynched by a mob in Allegheny county about two years ago, after he had murdered Eugene Wacker, a prominent white man of that county. At the trial attorney for plaintiff argued that the court direct a verdict for the plaintiff while the county's attorney argued that the plaintiff had not proved that the negro died as a result of lynching. Judge Henry, however, settled that contention by directing a verdict for the plaintiff.

W. L. Adams, of Chester, spent the week-end in Lancaster with his brothers, J. Allen Adams and John D. Adams, near the city. Mr. Adams, in his long career, was a companion on the old Lancaster Enterprise, then owned and edited by the late A. J. Clark and later merged with The Ledger and The Review into The Lancaster News. When still a young man, Mr. Adams yielded to the call from "The Land of Flowery" and located in Florida, where he engaged in the insurance business for many years, later moving to St. Petersburg, where he has made his home for the past two or three years. Another brother, Fred Adams, lives in Columbia, where he holds a responsible position in the office of a large concern. The four boys are sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Adams and each an asset that any community can claim with pride.

Wednesday morning immediately after the rain, the Chester county road for some time on the road from Chester to Rock Hill and by noon of a little after had it scraped and dragged to the York county line which put it in fine shape. On this end of the road, from the Chester county line to Rock Hill, nothing had been done recently and it is in bad shape, needing scraping and dragging very badly. In fact, it had become picked out in holes in many places, and the rocks are exposed particularly in its true near the city limits and for several miles out, but extremely bad near the city, which makes it awfully disagreeable to drive over and terrific on a car.—Rock Hill Record.

Col. McKissick Here Sunday. The Business Men's Evangelistic Club of Chester has arranged an interesting program for the first of a series of Men's Meetings to be held during the fall and winter months. Next Sunday afternoon, October 28th, at 3:30 o'clock in the First Baptist Church Col. J. Rion McKissick, of Greenville will be the speaker and a rousing reception will be given him. Col. McKissick will also address the congregations of the city in a union service at 7:30 P. M. in the Methodist Church.

The afternoon meeting for men only, and every man in Chester County is urged to attend. An warm welcome awaits all. Special music singing has been arranged and the club's quartette will give several numbers.

The song service will begin promptly at 3:30. Col. McKissick has recently experienced a change of heart in his religious views and has made addresses all over the State during the past year. He possesses a brilliant mind and a most pleasing personality and has a most inspiring, uplifting message on Evangelism and Christian service. The Chester Club hopes the men of this interesting program will be will turn out in large numbers. Some are in the habit of riding around on Sunday afternoons. Make your first stop at the Baptist Church. You will be interested every moment and will go away refreshed and repaid. Don't fail to hear Col. McKissick.

CLIO THAYER KILLED BY TRAIN H. L. Galloway, Dead and Chesley Staggie Injured. Result of Collision With Train.

Dillon, Oct. 23.—H. L. Galloway was killed this afternoon by Seaboard train as he was driving out of town towards Marion. Chesley Stanton of Clio was with him and suffered a broken hip, leg and arm. They were driving a Buick automobile and had the curtains up and evidently did not see the approaching train.

The Seaboard road crosses First avenue near the jail and it was at this point that the accident occurred. The train which struck the parties was the passenger train due at Dillon about 4:20 from Charleston.

Mr. Galloway is well known throughout Dillon, Marion and Marlboro counties. Until last year Mr. Galloway was and had been president of the First National Bank of Clio since the organization of that institution. Mr. Galloway is survived by a wife and four children and several brothers and sisters. Mr. Stanton is the son of Mrs. Stanton, proprietor of the Clio hotel.

Why Call It a Kitchen Cabinet?

Some of our customers have asked us why we call it the DAYLIGHT KITCHEN UNIT, when the article in question is really desirable for the living room, bath room, dining room, or other parts of the home in which proper lighting is needed or for offices or stores.

The answer is this: We are conducting this kitchen unit campaign as the first phase of a general educational campaign on proper lighting. In 9 homes out of 10 the kitchen is the poorest lighted room in the house, whereas, being the workshop of the home, it should be the best lighted.

As a simple matter of service to our customers, especially to the housewife, we are emphasizing the importance of proper lighting in the kitchen with the banishing of dullness and gloom, or glare and sharp, dark shadows. Many of the lighting units which we are calling the Daylight Kitchen Unit, are being used in other rooms in the house and in stores and offices. A number of our customers are purchasing several Daylight Units and having them installed where proper lighting is needed.

You can see the Daylight Kitchen Unit demonstrated at our office, or we shall be glad to have a salesman call on you. Phone 50.

COAL MINERS LAW.
The compromise settlement of the anthracite situation brought about by Governor Pinchot was settled, not on the basis of principle but on the basis of expediency, which in the case at hand was exceedingly unfortunate.

Necessarily it will add largely to the cost of anthracite coal for consumers and the result is simply another yielding to the power of the big stick which the United Mine Workers have been holding over the head of the American people.

If Governor Pinchot would settle the anthracite situation in the way in which it ought to be settled, he would bring about the repeal of that unwise measure put through the Legislature of Pennsylvania by the power of the union miners, which prevents a man from working in an anthracite coal mine in Pennsylvania unless he has lived in that state not less than two years and is able to produce satisfactory evidence of having not less than two years practical experience as a miner or as a mine laborer in the mines of this Commonwealth.

In 1889 a law was passed which embodied the following:

"All persons applying for a certificate of competency, or to entitle them to be employed as miners, must produce satisfactory evidence of having had not less than two years practical experience as a miner, or as a mine laborer in the mines of this Commonwealth, and in no case shall an applicant be deemed competent unless he appear in person before the said board and answer intelligently and correctly at least twelve questions in the English language pertaining to the requirements of a practical miner, and be properly identified, under oath, as a mine laborer by at least one practical miner or mine laborer of this Commonwealth. The said board shall keep an accurate record of the proceedings of all its meetings, and in said record shall show a correct detailed account of the examination of each applicant, with the questions asked and their answers, and at each of its meetings the board shall keep said record open for public inspection. Any miner's certificate granted under the provisions of this act, and the hereinafter mentioned act approved the ninth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, shall not be transferable to any person or persons whatsoever, and any transfer of the same shall be deemed a violation of this act. Certificates shall be issued only at meetings of said board, and said certificates shall not be legal unless then and there signed in person by at least three members of said board."

This law shuts the door on the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania, miners from other states. It makes it impossible for any man to work in a Pennsylvania anthracite coal mine until he has lived in the state at least two years and had practical experience as a miner. A more monopolistic law was probably never passed. So long as that law stands on the books of Pennsylvania legislation, there can be only turmoil and continued trouble, for the miners knowing that they have an absolute monopoly over the industry will all be in a position, until this law is changed, to use their club on the heads, not only of the people of Pennsylvania but of the people of the entire country who depend upon anthracite coal. The country should try to save itself by doing away, as largely as may be possible, with the use of anthracite coal until this law is repealed.—Manufacturers Record.

CIRCUS LOST $30,000
Ringling Brothers Lost Big Money in Omaha Tonight Presley, of Chester, With the Circus—Coming to Charlotte October 30th.

Mr. Adam S. Presley, who lives on Chester RFD, is in receipt of newspaper clippings from his son, who was "killed" with Ringling Brothers circus, giving a full account of a three-hour downpour of rain and hail while the circus was in Omaha, striking the tent.

The newspaper article stated that the circus people found it necessary to shoot holes through the top of the huge tent to keep it from collapsing on the heads of the 3,000 people who were under the huge canvas during the evening performance.

Hundreds of homes and business houses in the city were flooded with water and scores of automobiles were stranded in the streets, the owners being forced to leave them for the night.

The managers of Ringling Brothers shows estimate that they lost $30,000 during the storm.

Young Mr. Presley, who is well known in Chester his home county, and who attended Furman University, has been with Ringling Brothers circus since early this year.

The circus will be in Charlotte on October 30th, and Mr. A. S. Presley and family expect to go up to see the show and also visit young Mr. Presley.

Leading the World in Crime.
Recently at a play a sensational episode was presented on the stage, involving a display of pistols and rage. The spectators looked, of course, for the usual shooting and murder to follow but instead were treated to an unanticipated lesson in the restraint which the law holds over the most criminally minded. Reminders of the Law interposed to foil the crime.

As the humorous paragraphs would say, "find the error in that sentence." But there is no error. It actually occurred: The explanatory fact is that the play was a British play and it was true to fact. In an American-made film could never have survived such an anti-drama.

There are twenty times as many murders in New York City every year than in all England, Scotland and Wales. There are ten times as many murders in Chicago every year as in all France.

What is the reason? One reason no doubt, is the polyglot population, but at least in part it is because of the principal reason is the political aspect of American justice. In a recent Boston campaign the writer heard all sorts of candidates from Congressmen down, base their pleas for election or reelection on their record for getting accused men out of the toils of the police or free in the courts. Just as there are industries that claim special tariff protection, and support the officials who have "influence" in official circles are those whose misdeeds create the need for it. The plain citizen has no influence and does not know how to get about it.

There is less justice and more crime in the United States than in Great Britain or France. Why? Because in those countries there is more justice and less crime. It might be well for the government to study the methods by which the authorities overseas avoid the political necessity of coddling criminals.—Harbor Independent.

SELECTIVE IMMIGRATION.
One can hardly listen to Congressman Arwell's recital of conditions in Europe, with respect to the hordes of dirty, ignorant foreigners who are seeking to pour into this country without being impressed by the soundness of the argument in favor of selective immigration—selecting in their own countries instead of at Ellis Island, the immigrants to be admitted to the United States.

Hundreds of thousands of the people of the lowest social class in Poland, Italy, Bulgaria, Russia and various other countries are scrambling for passage to the shores of America, under the delusion that it promises them wealth and freedom. But these people know nothing and care nothing of our system of Government or our institutions, nor of the responsibilities of American citizenship. The great proportion of them are undesirable in their own countries, and Mr. Arwell declares that in several countries he was frankly told by the highest officials that the Governments desired that all the undesirable should migrate to America and that in their movement toward the United States they had the encouragement of their Governments, but that these same Governments were discouraging the migration of any citizens who were of any account in their own countries.

According to Mr. Arwell, who recently toured many European countries in company with Secretary of Labor J. Davis, there is a general movement in Europe to dump onto America the hordes of undesirable that constitute a liability to their own countries instead of an asset.

"Selective immigration" laws would seem to be the solution of the problem of America's defense against the hordes of undesirable who can never be anything but a liability to this country if they are admitted here.—Charlotte Observer.

LADY GOT SO WEAK COULD SCARCELY STAND
After Suffering From Many Female Troubles This Lady Heard of Cardui and Took It. She Says, "Until I Was Well."

SOME TIME AGO, says Mrs. Bessie McFarland, of R. F. D. 2, Kootick, N. C., "I suffered a great deal with weakness common to women. I had bearing-down pains, my stomach back hurt, and my limbs drew. I would get so weak in my knees I could scarcely stand."

"I was very nervous, and could not rest. I didn't feel like eating. I grew thin, and did not have ambition for anything."

"I had been trying other remedies, but did not get any better."

"Some one told us of Cardui, and what it was recommended for. I also took a Ladies Birthday Almanac and read of a case something like mine. I told my husband to get it and I would try it."

"I saw a great improvement after the first bottle (of Cardui), so I kept it up until I was well. Now I am the picture of health."

Thousands of other women have written to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it.

Cardui has stood the test of extensive use, for more than forty years, in the treatment of troubles common to women. Try it.

"How's that float in the carburetor?"

ONE of the drivers reported a falling off in gasoline mileage. Come to find out, as the experienced Fleet Boss promptly suggested, the float in the carburetor wasn't set properly. When the level was changed 1/16 of an inch, without making any other adjustments, the driver got 2 more miles per gallon out of his gasoline.
