FARMERS VISIT ALABAMA LAND

South Carolinians See Weevil Depressions

L. D. Fuller, agricultural field agent of the Southern railway, was a visitor to Columbia yesterday in interest of his work and while he told of a recent visit to the boll weevil lands of Alabama and Georgia. That there are other crops to make money other than cotton has been completely demonstrated by Alabama and Georgia farmers. Mr. Fuller recently returned from an inspection tour of Alabama farms with a number of farmers from South Carolina. He advises all farmers to visit these places and see what can be done without cotton. Below are some of Mr. Fuller's observations: "There is much concern in South Carolina at this time over the boll weevil situation, but it is a fact that the advance this season is much greater than usual. In all probability with average weather conditions next growing season there will be a surprising amount of damage done by the weevil in the older infested sections."

A man's life—among men!

"Recruit off—'R'—Gibraltar. I'll be a man in any company. Play—well, rather, with a bunch of men who know how to play. These comrades of yours carry in their ears the sounds of great world cities, of booming guns, of swishing seas—sounds you will never see and that will never die away. And when you come home, you'll face life ashore with level eyes—for Uncle Sam trains in self-reliance as well as self-respect. The Navy builds straight men—no crooked ones."

STRICKEN VIENNA CITY OF BEGGARS.

Nearly all farmers plant from seven to ten acres to cotton per acre. The most serious pest on the cotton is the boll weevil, which with or without the boll weevil. All agreed that peanuts were the best crop to raise. The city of Vienna, Saturday, Oct. 18. Burgomaster Roumann today gave the Associated Press an appeal to the American people to ease the relief of this much tried city before it is too late. After rehearsing the hardships which the populace have undergone during the last five years he predicted the most serious pest on the city must live a hand to mouth existence. "We have been rendered absolutely beggars—a city of mendicants," he said. "There is nothing but despairing fear. Methodical provisioning of Vienna ceased months ago. The Austrian capital surely suffers for upper Austria, while the rest of the country is wholly dependent on importations. "All of the stocks of entire crop have been exhausted and no new contracts have been signed because this is impossible for lack of credits. Forage for animals also is exhausted so that we face a complete breakdown of transportation in the city. "Our meat ration recently was fixed at three ounces per capita weekly. But even this amount is unavailable and intervals of weeks frequently occur between supplies. The stock of condensed milk is approaching exhaustion. Eggs, beans, sugar, coffee and potato supplies have been exhausted. "Clothing and shoes are a non-existent quantity for the masses. There has been no importation of any kind since the beginning of the war and factories producing substitutes of paper for clothing have been closed for lack of coal. Clothing stocks on hand have risen 30 fold in price. One citizen is reported to have cattle 75 per cent of the families in the city now living in one or two rooms. There is scarcely a chance that more than a few percent of the people will be able to seek their meals during the winter."

MARIE MORRISSEY HERE

Mrs. Marie Morrisey, whose concert on Monday, October 27th, at the Opera House promises to be one of the most delightful of the season, insists that her voice was not always received with the same favor as it is today. It seems that little Morrisey has always been determined to sing. And when she was a little girl, she used to lift up her voice and carol loudly for the edification of herself and all the neighbors. One day, the policeman on the beat passed Mrs. Morrisey's house, and hearing strong sounds issuing forth, he timely concluded to investigate. "He was a good policeman, was Pat, and he took an interest in all the affairs of the street. So he presented himself before Mrs. Morrisey's mother. "Well, Madam," said he, "is that yearlingling loud enough to hear her mother admit the relationship. "Well, Madam," said Pat, "what in the world is the matter with her to make her cry all the time?"

TO REJECT LEAGUE IS TO DISCOURAGE FUTURE ATTEMPTS SAYS LANSING

Secretary of State Pleads That World Must Not Be Made Safe and America Left Out

Secretary of State Lansing today declared that the rejection of the League of Nations would be a discouragement to future attempts to make the world safe and America left out. Lansing, in a speech before the Senate, said that the League of Nations was the only way to make the world safe and America left out. He said that the League of Nations was the only way to make the world safe and America left out. He said that the League of Nations was the only way to make the world safe and America left out.

COTTON IN SOUTH AFRICA.
And now they come along with a story of the great cultivation of cotton in South Africa. Just what is being done down there way is, of course, heresy in this section of the country. And just why they are not been cultivating cotton for these thirty years is another story that we are not familiar with. But anyhow the dispatches of cotton in being cultivated in South Africa.
A dispatch from Washington dated yesterday says:
"The cultivation of cotton in the Union of South Africa is attracting a great deal of attention, according to a report from the United States consul at Cape Town, and during the 1918-19 season the acreage planted to the 'cotton' showed a considerable increase over the previous year. During the 1917-18 season approximately 10,000 acres were planted and the yield was estimated at 2 million pounds."
"The union government," says the report, "through the services of an American cotton expert, has been doing everything possible to induce the farmers to take up this new industry, providing them with special teaching how to adapt the best methods in cultivation and harvesting."
"While the most advanced development has taken place in the Transvaal during the past year, much attention has been directed to the increase in Zululand where, increase in some instances has practically doubled."
"According to the South African Journal of Industries for July 1919, the replacement of cane by cotton in parts of Zululand is being noticed by the sugar industry."
"A number of planters declare they find cotton a higher paying, a more promising crop than sugar cane."
All of this might be true, we do not know, but we wonder if some one has started something about the "big crop" in South Africa with the purpose of trying to put the price of cotton down a few pips.

STYLE HEADQUARTERS
Society Brand Clothes

Knowing Men

Get the Biggest Piece of Pie

MEN who "read up"—who use their newspaper as a source of general information—are the men who get the best out of life. They always see the best shows, eat the best dinners and wear the best clothes per dollar cost, because they are posted—know where the best of everything is to be had for the price. And a little investigation will convince you that it is these "read-up" men who wear Society Brand Clothes.

We believe there are many men who are not getting the most out of the dollars they spend for clothes, simply because in the hurry-burry of their busy lives they haven't taken time to investigate. If you have been wearing other than Society Brand, taking it for granted that you are getting all there is to get in clothes value, give us a leisure hour to convince you that we can enlarge the value getting power of your clothes dollars. Glad to cross palms with you any time.

Prayer Meeting.
The weekly men's prayer-meeting will be held at the A. R. P. church Wednesday afternoon at 8:30 o'clock. A large crowd should turn out. The business houses, offices and shops will close so as to allow all employees to attend. Surely all the men can spare 20 minutes a week for a spiritual meeting of prayer. Don't forget the time—8:30—the last Wednesday, during the new time. Wednesday, Oct. 23rd, the time will be changed to the old schedule, and it will be easier to leave the places of business. This Wednesday, October 23rd, a large attendance is desired. Committee of Business Men.

ADVICE TO PARENTS BY CHESTER COUNTY HEALTH UNIT.
It has been said by an authority that the most important thing that a growing child does physically, from birth to twelve years of age, is to manufacture in his jaws forty-eight teeth. The growth and development of the lower and upper jaws are dependent in a great measure on the growth and eruption of the teeth, both temporary and permanent. If the temporary teeth decay, become abscessed, or lost before the time they should be shed, it has a disturbing action on the development of the jaw tissues in that it is uneven, and in this way we have asymmetrical development and misshapen faces. Again, the premature loss of the temporary teeth through decay prevents the child from properly crushing his food and using the muscles of mastication which are attached to the lower jaw. Although it is harmful to both the food and

Listen, Listen, Listen Mules and Horses

We have a large selection of horses and mules in our barns for you to select from. They are every one the best that could be found and we stand behind every sale.

More Coming

Just listen. Our Mr. John Frazer has just returned from Virginia and we are expecting this week two carloads of the finest mules, every one bought by Mr. Frazer in Virginia, that ever came to Chester county. There is no hot air about this statement. Just come to our barn and look them over for yourself and you will gladly admit that they are the finest lot of mules ever shipped into Chester county.

100 Head of Cattle

Sounds big, Don't it? But it is true. We have bought one hundred head of cattle and they are already right here in Chester for inspection. You will find among them, Short Horn Durham, Holsteins, Black Angus, Aberdeen and Durhams. Don't miss this golden opportunity to buy thoroughbred cattle at remarkably low prices. Get in on the ground floor and prepare for the coming of the boll weevil by having your cattle business started before the weevil arrives. Come and see them whether you want to buy or not. We will be glad to show you some REAL Cattle. Visit our stables, we have the biggest thing in the way of mules, horses and cattle that ever struck Chester county.

swallow it without chewing, yet it is more harmful for a child not to use the muscles of mastication, as the development of the brain case is dependent to a great degree upon the pull of these muscles. The muscles that elevate and close the lower jaw are attached to the bones on the side of the face and cranium, and also on the underside of the skull. When we chew our food, these muscles pull on these points of attachment, and in childhood they help to produce well shaped heads and jaws and symmetrical faces. When the pulp in the baby teeth are exposed from decay, they not only cause pain and suffering, but bacteria may be carried through this tissue to the tonsils and the glands of the neck. If the pulp die, and the cavities are open, the bacteria can pass out through the new canals, and thus gain ingress into the circulation. Many a child has had his little body infected in this manner, and if he recovered, some organ or organs of the body were weakened throughout life, becoming a source of future trouble. Prof. Oster once said that the troubles we eventually die of were started in our youth. If the baby teeth decay, the cavities get packed with food and become breeding places for millions of bacteria. Great efforts are made by parents to secure pure milk for their children, yet if they would look into the child's mouth and could only realize the immense numbers of germs that were present in those decayed teeth, they would know it was useless to hope that the pure milk would reach the child's stomach in a pure state after passing over those decayed teeth. Although the temporary teeth are lost in early life, yet it is just as important to keep them clean and free from cavities during the growing period as the preservation of the permanent teeth in adult life.

Do not feed the child on sweets and pastries. These foods quickly ferment in the mouth and aid in causing decay. See that the teeth are thoroughly brushed after each meal, and especially just before going to bed. Most of the decay takes place during sleep. Don't wait for the child to have the toothache, but take him to the dentist every six months, and make sure that any small cavities are filled with the material that will last during the life of the tooth.

FLORENCE FARMERS TO OUTWIT WEEVIL.
Expect to Make Money Out of Lands Regardless of Cotton Pest.
"Florence," Oct. 18.—Now that the boll weevil is actually in Florence county and in no uncertain numbers as has been found upon close investigation, the farmers of the county are planning to operate their farms next year and the years thereafter as profitably as possible. The spirit manifested among the farmers so far is not one of dejection, but they are facing the situation with a determination to outwit the weevil. They expect to make money in their farms regardless of the pest. The weevil was discovered today on a farm a few miles south of Florence and those who are in touch with the situation are looking for the pest to infest the fields about the city in the next few days.

For the first time in the history of Chester banking circles, the deposits of one of the local banks has reached the million dollar mark. The total assets of this institution are now a little more than a million and a half dollars.

Secretary Branch of the Chester Chamber of Commerce, is endeavoring to secure some one who is well acquainted with both weevil conditions in the sections which have been visited by the pest, to come to Chester during fair week and address the farmers of this community along the boll weevil line. Many are anxious to get first-hand information along this line, and it is hoped that Mr. Branch will be able to secure some one.

Miss Alms McClure, graduate nurse of Bellevue Hospital, New York, who has been visiting her brother, Mr. Robert McClure of York No. 5, left Wednesday afternoon for Chester to spend some time. —Yorkville Enquirer, Friday.

Yesterday morning the state-wide campaign of the Young Men's Christian association for $50,000 began. The campaign continues through October 31st, and every county in the state will be called upon to contribute its quota. Beaufort county has already pledged its quota.

Work on the new Dreamland Theatre is being pushed 95 per cent as possible and the management is hoping to get into the new building Thursday of this week. When completed this will be one of the handsomest movie houses in this section and will be equipped with all of the latest and modern appliances. The owners state that they expect to give the Chester people the best that can be found in the way of pictures.

The State executive committee of the American Legion of South Carolina has appointed several committees for the State convention of the organization which is to be held in the hall of the house of representatives on Tuesday of fair week in Columbia. Captain J. L. Glenn, Jr., of Chester, is a member of the constitution committee.

The Chester High School football team will play the Rock Hill team on the latter's grounds next Friday afternoon. The game last Friday between Chester and Lancaster resulted in a victory for the former, the score being 34 to 0.

The Frazer Live Stock Company has received one hundred head of purebred cattle, which they are offering for sale. Many people have been out to see them and state that they are an exceptionally fine lot. Mr. John Frazer, has just returned from Virginia where he bought the cattle and several car loads of mules and horses.

Among other election reforms which are provided for in the new session of the general assembly, which convenes in January, is the "absent voters' bill," which was introduced last year but which failed to pass. The bill would entitle a voter absent from his county to vote by registered mail.

The greatest safety movement ever being started in this country is one being started for the two weeks, October 18th to 31st, inclusive. A special appeal has been made by the railway officials to the mothers, sisters and friends of railroad employees to use safe methods and avoid all dangerous practices during this campaign and it is believed that the reward will be most gratifying. This movement is undertaken on all railroads under federal control in this country, and affects the welfare of millions of employees in every department.

IMPERIALISM RUN MAD

It is thrillingly interesting as well as very pathetic to see the idealist as he is running their hands down into the folds of the masses, and turning those pockets inside out with care. This kind of work is not done in the world. It strikes me very forcibly that if the people would just take time to think for a moment, this scientific and twentieth century system of "Hold Ups" would disappear as if by magic. "The Kaiser" has been beaten out of his very boots, but there are little empires of well-dressed and well-fed men going up and down the country, trying to inflame his once autocratic power. These "Editors" now being issued from the throne, are of the most precious few seen. "To Know Where," are rolling in upon the people from almost every direction. This over taxation of the mental, physical, spiritual and financial forces of mankind in general is largely, if not altogether, responsible, for this present world wide unrest. You don't have to place your ear close to the ground to hear the rumblings of the coming storm. It does not require a brain of any extraordinary capacity to know that if some active measures is not taken to check the insane and criminal waste of the people's money, a Revolution will cause this earth, on which we live and move, and have our being to rock like the waves of the dark blue ocean. These little empires or groups of "Brow Beaters" sitting around in elegant furnished offices, who are seemingly making it their business to load the heaviest tolls down with financial burdens that they are totally unable to carry ought to be handled by the laws of the country as, not only distributors of the peace, but as being a down-right menace to civilization itself. Judging from their movements, the originators of some of these "Big Drives" have been educated away from the practical affairs of life, therefore, they are not in a position to know the value of a dollar. If they really knew the value of a dollar, their motto would be something like this: "Less Money for Europe, Asia and Africa and more Bread and Milk for the children of America."

These merciless tyrants whirling around the United States of America with their cut and dried methods, are doing more to upset the social order and retard the spiritual growth in the hearts of men than anybody else under the sun. When a man overloaded with financial burdens placed upon his shoulders by hands other than his own, rebellion seizes that man's heart and every good impulse known to his better nature flies away. When this takes place the man in question instead of being a constructive force, becomes a destructive force in the community in which he lives. To make a very long story short, if you are letting the other fellow do your thinking, looking and acting for you, you will be swallowed up and destroyed like the ancient Egyptians in the Valley of Trophet or like the prehistoric race that lived and flourished a million years back in the dim archaics of time, leaving no mark or monument to perpetuate their memory as they lay buried beneath the soil, the mold and waste of countless time.

The bill that is the cost of hides and the production of shoe leather came on August 18, and since that time has increased at least 25 per cent, according to J. Frank McElwain, president of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers, of Boston, who spoke yesterday at a luncheon given by the Middle States Shoe Wholesale Association at the Astor hotel. It was the 21st anniversary meeting of the organization, and 20,000 delegates from throughout Central and Western States were in attendance.

Mr. McElwain, declaring that the cost of shoes was to soar until persons in ordinary circumstances could not afford to wear leather footwear to be entirely "baseless," said that inasmuch as it required three to four months for the consumer to realize any difference in the cost of raw shoe materials, he expected by March or April, or May at the latest, the cost of shoes to the consumer would return to something like normal.

Getting Above and Level

We know that it is impossible to climb above the level of our own experience. As we put our whole heart and soul into the task, we may do very high things, considering the fact that we are simply waiting for something to happen to take us out of ourselves, as it were, and to make us see above the plane of our everyday life. We lack the ambition and the energy to mount to very high heights; our efforts are unconsciously spending upon some outside influence to give us the right sort of push in the right direction. Life is often too commonplace to admit of very extensive soaring into the heights, and for the time being the best we may do is simply to endure the restrictions under which we live. It often happens, however, that we make no effort to rise above the levels of our experience; we appear to be satisfied with what comes to us and we adopt that unaccountable philosophy of contentment coupled with what comes without making a sincere effort to overcome the obstacles that bind us down and block our advance.

Life would be a sorry thing if we asked the spirit and the initiative to go ahead and make an attempt at it to better our condition. We cannot expect to enjoy the better, higher, nobler phases of existence without searching for them or rather without a steady, confident endeavor on our part to make ourselves worthy of absorbing them by degrees. To do this, however, necessarily, the abandonment in many cases of certain of those well-known paths, those opportunities, limited though they may have been, seemed sufficient for our needs. If we have wronged those opportunities, however, if we have extracted from them the essence of their substance and know that we may hope for nothing more from them, it is time, surely, to turn our thoughts to other opportunities even if to get them we must blaze new trails and risk new adventures. The spirit of adventure, indeed the spirit which should dominate the pioneer in all new fields of endeavor. Unless he is influenced by such a spirit he will stand a poor chance of making good in the new fields he expects to work. It were better that such a person remain content with the little that may be vouchsafed him, rather than to make an effort which in advance he realizes will be futile. Many times, however, come to the man who dares no matter what his quest may be. The new adventure always promises well, but as time

REED MAKES ATTACK ON LEAGUE COVENANT

New York, Oct. 18.—This League of Nations was characterized as a combination of great powers to impose their will upon the world by Senator Reed of Missouri at a meeting tonight in opposition to the League in Madison Square Garden.

Sympathy for President Wilson in his illness but because of this consideration for the forces which seek started to speak.

The wonder is that we do not realize that we are all to some extent slackers in the adventure of life. We are always so fearful of the levels we shall do with our opportunities, always so sure of ourselves and sometimes so doubtful as to the work of others, until we are given our own chances. We find them not exactly so our liking perhaps, and for that reason pass them by without doing what we could to make life more joy to them. We repeat the experience several times, probably, and then begin to develop a "grudge" because we are not making the headway we anticipated. We dislike to see knowledge the fact that we are slacker, yet are true to our own nature. In our minds that we have fallen down on our opportunities and instead of making the honest effort necessary to rise above the dead level of our contentions, perhaps even an aimless existence, we have simply surrendered weakly to the influences of the moment and strengthened the bonds that keep us down.

If, on the other hand, we are able through our own efforts to rise above the levels and to take advantage of the opportunity to soar if only a short distance toward the heights we shall find the experience so glorious and so inspiring that not for worlds would we drop back to the old monotonous, routine existence that we were engaged in. The experience of breaking the bonds that hold us down regardless of its hardships and its discouragement, in so well worthwhile when we find ourselves free, in fact as it is possible for mortal man to be free, to enjoy the broader view, the pure air, the new stirring adventures that life offers. We can afford to look back with pity to those who for some reason of their own persist steadily in clinging to the level of a narrow existence. If they could glimpse the compensations and the rewards that come with a familiar knowledge of the higher, better phases of life, they would not be content to remain in the low plain, sticking to their tasks perhaps, but seeking to them through misconception of their real duty.

The First Bottle of PE-RU-NA

Gave Relief so Writes

Entirely Free from Catarrh of the Stomach

"Peruna has positively done for me what many doctors failed to do. I have been ill for several days. The first bottle of Peruna kept it in the house for some time. I considered myself cured free from catarrh of the stomach, the trouble from which I suffered for many years, long before taking this remedy."
