Putting Away Summer Clothes

How They Should Be Packed for the Winter

The organdies, plain, beach, the straw hats, and the low shoes are fast disappearing from the day to day wardrobe. The wise housewife does not let them stay in the overcrowded closet to take up valuable space and brush against the velvets, silks, and broadcloths. Neither does she lay them away in any condition they happen to be in after their last appearance. Instead, she puts them away carefully cleaned and treated so the least change possible will come out of them when they are needed. There are and where she puts them in order that the man find them when the occasion arises by simply looking at her records. If packed boxes a label on each box telling the contents makes the finding of each article an easy matter. Her outline of treatment would be very nearly like the following, according to home economics specialists in the United States department of agriculture:

Washable white clothing—Washed carefully, no starch added, bleached more than usual to avoid yellow appearance when spring cleaning comes. Hang in a closet reserved for this particular use, folded so that the creases will correspond as far as possible with the folds into which the garment falls in use, and laid in a trunk or box.

Washable colored clothes—Washed, unstarched, turned wrong side out and hung in the closet or packed away as were the white garments.

Palm beach suits—Cleaned and laid in separate box, carefully folded.

Hats—How to treat the summer that depends upon the material. If of straw, keeping off all dirt and packing in a hat box is good treatment. The georgette and lace hats, if soiled, should be dry cleaned and allowed to air thoroughly before wrapping in tissue paper and storing away in a hat box. Avoid weight which will strain the trimming.

Shoes—If you own a pair of shoes which you clean and put away with care, by defining giving a list and storage place of the clothes for each member of the family. This will prove a definite service when you are trying to define what requires thought and time.

RAMBLING DEBATE

ON PEACE TREATY

No Action Possible in the Senate. Washington, Oct. 18.—Plans to hasten senate action on the peace treaty were upset again today, a rambling debate occupying most of the afternoon that had been set aside for completion of the formal reading of the treaty text.

When adjournment was taken after a four hour session only about an hour's progress had been made in the reading, which will be resumed Monday starting with the preliminary discussion of the cause of Irish independence the debate shifted to such subjects as the obligations of Article 19 of the League of Nations covenant and the dismemberment of Turkey, and wound up with a bitter squabble about the new treaty of Sanjour, Nebraska, the administration leader.

The Irish question got before the senate in a resolution by Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, a supporter of the treaty in its present form. Proposing that, as soon as the United States joins membership in the league of nations it call attention to the right of the Irish people to self government.

Senator Walsh argued that such a course suggested by the president's declaration on his Western trip offered the best hope for Irish's freedom. Other senators replied that it offered no hope at all. Senator Ferguson, Republican, Pennsylvania, characterizing as "the swarming most inchoate effort yet to 'bunse' the Irish."

The resolution went over to action.

DECIDED AND BY COAL MINERS

O'CONNOR STARTS HOBOKEN RIOT

Head of Longshoremen Vists Strike at a Meeting of Longshoremen Becomes Involved in Fight and Pistol Shots Follow.

Hoboken, N. J., Oct. 21.—A riot in which pistol shots were fired broke out at a meeting of longshoremen here tonight when T. V. O'Connor, president of the International Longshoremen's association after officially declaring the strike of New York waterfront workers at an address, appeared to urge Hoboken strikers to join the strike.

What Mr. O'Connor with six water front "hunks" as bodyguards, entered the hall, one of the bodyguards became involved in a fight in which he was shot through the chest. "Lynch him!" and police reserve with difficulty rescued the man and Mr. O'Connor. The meeting broke up in disorder after the men decided not to return to work.

When the O'Connor party reached the stage, a nondescript man, one of the bodyguards jumped from the platform and knocked down a longshoreman, who was rushing forward. The bodyguard then drew a pistol and fired several shots through the floor. He said his companions were attacking and severely beating the chief workman, severely beating and retreating chief against Joseph Ryan, who was accused of firing the shots. Ryan had no firearms when he was searched by the police.

The police arrested James Dennis, Huggan and a man known as "Heney." The three were charged with carrying a pistol and battery and with carrying concealed weapons.

Capitain W. C. Carter went to the police station, crowd, booting and hearing, following him. Many of the longshoremen threatened him as he went.

HALTS GERMAN OPERA

Discontinued Pending Action by Court

New York, Oct. 21.—Production of German opera at the Metropolitan theater which had not provoked rioting by service men, tonight was discontinued pending the outcome of legal warfare by Attorney J. P. Steyer, attorney for the producers.

Mr. Steyer had today appeared before Circuit Judge Bijur, to seek an order restraining the notice from enforcing an order from Mayor Hylan to prevent presentation of "Die Entfuehrung" until peace has been signed.

Justice Bijur's opinion is expected tomorrow.

Three hundred or more soldiers and sailors gathered near the theater about 9 o'clock despite the fact that no performance was held. Police dispersed the crowd which confined its efforts to "boosing" and jeering. About 500 policemen were stationed in the area of the theater street station in case of trouble.

While "The Entfuehrung" was called off, no money for seats was refunded and a sign in the lobby read: "Tickets will be honored tomorrow night."

LINTERS CAUSE LOSS

Smith Urges Farmers to Demand Better Financing

Washington, Oct. 22.—In an interview today Senator Smith called attention to the fact that there are produced in America something like 1,200,000 tons of lint. The loss of ten per cent the number of bales of cotton produced. He says that the lint should be so adjusted that a percentage of the cotton should not be left upon the seed. At the present price for cotton this amount would be something like $150,000,000 saved to the farmers. This he says is a matter not for legislation but for the farmers themselves to realize, which they should do.

Senator Smith has written to J. S. Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton association, calling attention to this matter, believing it to be of vital importance to the growers.

LEADING BUSINESS MEN RE-SPONSIBLE FOR PROHIBITION

A recent issue of the Canning Trade, a journal devoted to the canning industry, in denouncing the abolition of prohibition, said: "It is a business, that concerns us and concerns every man in the canning world. The right or wrong of it may be left for others to discuss."

The ethics of the situation, we are afraid, have reached a rather low stage in the office for the Canning Trade when it frankly admits that it takes no interest in the question of the right or wrong of prohibition, but is mainly influenced by the effect upon business. It says: "If the slave trade was defended by men who felt this, it was unwise to abolish it."

There are men who have owned houses rented for immoral purposes who have been prevented from continuing their line of business and, therefore, they were influenced not by the right or wrong but by the effect upon their individual business.

"Whenever any industry or group of individuals is so affected by the fight of the wrong of any legislation, but merely is concerned by the influence upon business, there is no moral basis of moral reasoning which would be the destruction of the nation if it were done."

"BILL BOLL WEEVIL"

Mr. Fymer, what are you going to do when "Bill Boll Weevil" hits this section? Have you yet begun to make your plans? Do you realize how near this destructive pest is to your doorway?
During the year 1917 a farmer near Savannah, Ga., made 100 bales of cotton on 50 acres of land. On this same acreage in the year 1918 he made 40 bales. "Bill Boll Weevil" cut his crop 90 per cent. "Bill Boll Weevil" is a small fellow in size but he is a giant in destruction. Don't judge him by his size; think of the damage he does. Don't you think the sensible thing to do is to prepare before he enters Chester county? Or do you prefer to gain your knowledge by hard costly experience?

"Bill Boll Weevil" has proved to be a blessing in disguise in many states to the south of us, but the trouble in most sections has been that approximately fifty per cent of the farmers and business men go bankrupt during the period. Read what Leslie Gilbert, Agricultural Editor, Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, has to say about peanut raising in Alabama.
"In Geneva county, Alabama, away down next to the Florida line, the farming operations which used to concentrate on cotton are now divided among several crops, so that last year three other crops—corn, peanuts and hops—about equalled the value of their cotton crop, which was about a million and a half dollars.

"In the adjoining county of Coffee, the cotton crop used to be valued at one and a half million dollars. Their peanut crop, however, now brings in $4,500,000. And that is why their business men are planning a memorial shaft to cost $3000 to be erected on the public square to the 'Bill Weevil'."
"In 1908 Alabama planted in peanuts 200,000 acres and gathered 1,274,000 bushels valued at $1,490,000. In 1916, 400,000 acres were planted, 9,000,000 bushels raised, worth $10,250,000. In 1918 the area planted increased to over 1,000,000 acres, producing 17,600,000 bushels of nuts, worth over $21,000,000. This is the story of the Alabama peanut in a nutshell.

"Verily, the lowly peanut has come into his own and proven a veritable Aladdin's lamp, rivaling cotton as a money crop, corn as a feed crop, and enriching both man and beast."

RED CROSS MEETING.

Annual Meeting Held Last Tuesday Evening Has Done Much Good Work During the Past Year. Officers Elected for Coming Year.

On Tuesday evening in the council chamber the Chester Chapter Red Cross held its annual meeting. The chief feature of the gathering was the report made by the speaker, the "Red Cross" peace program by Dr. Kretzschmar.

The speaker spoke from the physician's standpoint of the inestimable advantage—intellectual, physical and moral, the Red Cross had been to our country and community. He sketched the noble part the Red Cross had taken in the war and dwelt enthusiastically upon the uplift the Red Cross now plans to give to Chester County. He bespoke the loyal support of every citizen for the approaching Red Cross membership drive.

Mr. Spratt, Red Cross Chairman, then invited Miss Covington, community nurse, to speak of the work throughout the county. Miss Covington made an splendid showing with eight schools visited and 1450 children examined and that work not yet finished. She mentioned her infant welfare work; the pre-natal cases under her care, the crippled children, the tubercular cases in our county. For the past years the county has had about 190 deaths from this scourge, many of them preventable if early treatment could have been given. Miss Covington urged that the children of the county be given the oversight necessary to wipe out this plague.

The secretary's report for the past year followed, showing that the Red Cross Drive for 1918 resulting in 3642 memberships; the establishment of the Home Service department with Miss Stedler in charge; between five and six hundred soldiers and their families assisted; the presentation of a Christmas Masque under Mrs. Wallace's direction; the enrollment of 700 Junior Red Cross members under Miss Wayne Colvin; Mrs. A. G. Thornton's cotillion service of discharged soldiers; participation of the Red Cross in the Home-Coming Day; the auspices of the Victory Loan Committee; the employment of Miss McDonald as Red Cross tuberculosis nurse.

This report was accepted as information to be incorporated in the minutes.

Mr. Spratt introduced Mrs. L. E. Brown as Field Director of the Christmas sale of Red Cross seals; Mrs. Brown explained that 75 per cent of these sales would come back to our community to be used in the fight against tuberculosis. Mr. Tom White, chairman of this Executive Committee; Mrs. Vance Davidson, chairman of the publicity committee; and Dr. Malone, directing physician, urged this sale as a means to a most desirable end. Mrs. Brown appointed Madams Clark, Calhoun, J. G. White and S. E. McPadden as her assistants for the drive.

Mr. R. L. Douglas, chapter treasurer, reported to national headquarters, Red Cross, in response to their call for money to finish their work abroad and launch their campaign at home.

Mr. Douglas reported between $1500 and $1800 in the local Red Cross Treasury for use in the Home Service department and the tuberculosis fight.

Mr. Spratt then called for nominations for Red Cross officers for ensuing year. Mr. Aiken, chairman of nominating committee read the following names:

Chairman, Mr. J. R. Dye.
Vice-Chairman, Mrs. L. C. Cross.

Secty., Mrs. M. H. White.
Treasurer, Mr. R. L. Douglas.
The elections were heartily unanimous. The chapter moved and adjourned.
Mrs. Vance Davidson, Secty.

Mrs. Stevenson is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Caldwell, of Chester, R. F. D. 1, while Mr. Stevenson is a successful planter. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson left over to the Southern for Charlotte and other points.

The railroads of the United States will be turned back to private ownership on December 31st, 1919, according to Walker D. Hing, federal director of railways, who made a statement to this effect before the national association of railway and public utilities commissioners at a convention in Indianapolis last week. The director general stated that the roads would revert to private ownership at the close of this year regardless of whether or not congress enacted restrictive legislation.

Don't forget to turn your clocks back one hour tomorrow night. If

The Canton Committee of the Red Cross is having a fairly good response from the committee throughout the county who have been requested to secure picnic baskets for the kitchen being arranged for the return soldiers on Victory Day. The committee expects a generous response from everybody both in Chester and the County in assisting to make this feature a success. It is possible that the different committees appointed will not see all the people who will be willing to help and they are requested to do their part whether they are seen personally or not. The other features being arranged for Victory Day are working out successfully, but it will require the co-operation of all who can possibly help to make it the success that it should be.

CHESTER "GIRLS" MAKE DEBUT IN GREENVILLE

The first of the Greenville "Girls" would indicate that the Chester "Girls" attending the meeting of the Shriners in that city were "all here." Those mentioned in this column have returned to their homes in Chester and, while their hearts yearn for the worse for the "girls" of Greenville.

The article follows: Seventy-three poor candidates were to cross the bridge over the river, Chester's delegation was one of the most unique in the history of the "girls" of Greenville. Speaking of the "girls" of the delegation, they were "all here" in the delegation. A gorgeous gown of styles has not been seen since the "girls" of Greenville. "Misses" of the delegation, but they were "all here" in the delegation. A gorgeous gown of styles has not been seen since the "girls" of Greenville. "Misses" of the delegation, but they were "all here" in the delegation.

Heading the delegation were: Misses M. J. Vanhan, E. M. White, and E. Davidson. Just at a moment when the young men of the city were about to believe that these were real flesh-and-blood ladies and not of the "man-of-war" variety one of the three called for a bottle of Bevo and before the eyes of the astonished crowd the "girls" drained the bottle dry.

Attired in a foghorn suit and with a hat which was somewhat out of style, Harper Wood, leading dragagee of that city, was one of the leading lights of the Chester delegation. S. E. McAden, prominent attorney of Chester played the role of convict being attired in a striped suit.

Miss "pretty girl" and one who might care for a genuine blond hair—was Clyde Carter. He was known as the "good looking lady" of the Chester delegation.

But of all the unique costumes T. H. White, Jr., perhaps deserved the ribbon. He was attired in a "barn" suit, the nature of the candidate stated that his clothes were in a greasy club and that in order he to be late he had gressed the barn to service. The barrel was said to be unharmed.

C. B. Hale played the part of "Clyde Sam," being attired in a red striped suit with a hat of straw. Dr. C. A. Hennes was the "baby" of the delegation, being rigged up as a "baby" and he looked the part in every way.

Other Chesterites were uniquely attired also and because of the size of the delegation and the nature of the costumes they attracted much attention. The Chester delegation was said to be one of the largest, if not the largest, sent by any city.

"CYCLONE MACK" ON JURY. MAKES SPEECH FOR DEFENSE

Kinston, N. C., Oct. 23.—Rev. Baxter F. McLendon, the South Carolina evangelist, and Fred Selbert, a converted Jew in McLendon's party, served on a coroner's jury here. McLendon, wearing a slouch hat, heavy black mustache and shaggy eyebrows, rendered an opinion to the jury, that had he been in the place of the man accused of shooting Joseph Whitfield, colored, he would have "used a rattling gun." Evidence was introduced that Charles Barnes, colored, shot Whitfield in self-defense. The case will go to court with all the odds favoring Barnes' acquittal. Witnesses said Whitfield had the point of a knife at Barnes' breast when the latter fired.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Mr. Marion Holcomb, of Nancy, Ky., says: "For quite a long while I suffered with stomach trouble. I would have pains and a heavy feeling after my meals, a most disagreeable taste in my mouth. If I ate anything with butter, oil or grease, I would spit it up. I began to have regular sick headache. I had used pills and tablets, but after a course of these, I would be constipated. It just seemed to tear my stomach all up. I found they were no good at all for my trouble. I heard

GOOD SEED POTATOES FOR MORE POTATOES

The average production per acre of potatoes in the United States is very much lower than in Canada, Great Britain, and European countries outside of Italy.

One of the reasons for the lower production in the United States is that less attention has been given to the character of the seed. Good seed is one of the determining factors in the production of maximum crops of potatoes.

The use of high-grade seed would increase the returns from the potato crop of the country by many millions of dollars.

The production of high-grade seed should be regarded as a special business.

Good strains of seed may be obtained by the tuberculin bill of mass-selection methods through the process of rouging out diseased and weak hills.

When tubers from diseased or weak plants are planted, a similar harvest will be reaped.

Only seed from productive plants should be used.

Careful attention should be given to securing seed that is free from bacterial mixture and that is true to type.

Good seed can not be produced unless the growing plants are given good cultural attention.

As a rule the quantity of seed is not sufficient to produce a maximum crop.

From 15 to 18 bushels of seed should be used per acre instead of 9 to 11, as at the present time.

All seed stock should be disinfectant before planting.

Good storage conditions are essential to insure sound, firm seed at planting time.

These points are discussed in details in the United States Department of Agriculture's Farmers Bulletin 122, "Good Seed Potatoes and How to Produce Them," which was recently revised and will be sent free on request.

PREPARATION.

The importance of adequate training for the business of life has perhaps never been so apparent as at the present time. The high wages which skilled labor is receiving is an object lesson in itself, although, of course, the present wage scale is the product of abnormal times and may not be regarded as a standard. However, trained service is always in demand because of its worth commands good returns. Up to the present the average American has not thought it worthwhile to prepare himself for the work of the future. He has been willing to take his chances and trust that training essential to even moderate degree of success. Sometimes he would "strike it rich," sometimes he would be able to make money in the wide of his handicaps and probably because some men have succeeded merely through luck many others are tempted to make the same odds. Preparation means hard work, sacrifice and even privation, and as a rule the average American boy is not willing to do the arduous apprenticeship necessary to the mastery of either a profession or a trade. He wants to reap quick returns at the smallest expenditure of time and energy, and in all too quick to follow false leads that take him nowhere.

The need of preparation is beginning to make itself felt more now than at any other period. The highly intensive military training of two years ago has opened the eyes of many a lad who led a more or less aimless existence, to do the khaki and whether he appreciated its real significance or not it made a deep and lasting impression upon him. Those who saw hard fighting were glad enough then of the long hours spent in training and understood as never before the meaning of the word "preparation." Many of them have returned to their old posts of duty; some are content to continue to get along in any old way, blown from place to place by the winds of fate; but the vast majority of men have returned with a new appreciation of the value of good training for the work of life. That is why so many of them have taken advantage of all opportunities to study abroad at the various institutions of learning and that is why so many are today fitting themselves by intensive application for the special duties they wish to perform. Thousands of fine American boys have returned with keen regret that their early years were frittered away, that the boys of their youthful preparation has shriveled and that now, if they have the ambition to render good and efficient service in the future, they must fit themselves to accomplish it in a comparatively short space of time. The work that should have come by degree as their natural ability developed.

There is unrest everywhere in our own country and across the ocean. We are being put to a tremendous test. The finer ideals of mankind are being revealed and will prevail. If we prove ourselves equal to the task, it will not be a test that will quickly pass. The boys and girls of today will have the right of their responsibilities, as they grow into men and women. Now is the time to lay the foundation for their future prosperity. Now is the time to give them

Listen, Listen, Listen Mules and Horses

We have a large selection of horses and mules in our barns for you to select from. They are every one the best that could be found and we stand behind every sale.

More Coming

Just listen. Our Mr. John Frazer has just returned from Virginia and we are expecting this week two carloads of the finest mules, every one bought by Mr. Frazer in Virginia, that ever came to Chester county. There is no hot air about this statement. Just come to our barn and look them over for yourself and you will gladly admit that they are the finest lot of mules ever shipped into Chester county.

100 Head of Cattle

Sounds big, Don't it? But it is true. We have bought one hundred head of cattle and they are already right here in Chester for inspection. You will find among them, Short Horn Durham, Holsteins, Black Angus, Aberdeen and Durhams. Don't miss this golden opportunity to buy thoroughbred cattle at remarkably low prices. Get in on the ground floor and prepare for the coming of the boll weevil by having your cattle business started before the weevil arrives. Come and see them whether you want to buy or not. We will be glad to show you some REAL Cattle.

Visit our stables, we have the biggest thing in the way of mules, horses and cattle that ever struck Chester county.

Frazer Live Stock Company

"The Old Reliable"

choice, and to make them take it, that we passed by in our earlier years. They have the opportunity to prepare for what is to come so that they will be in better position to solve future problems. They must build on a foundation of efficiency, one that shall stand hard blows and one that shall be strong enough to bear the shade of grave responsibilities and obligations. Upon the training and the education of the present rests the future of the world. Not alone must we measure success in dollars and cents but also in the effect of our work upon that small part of the world with which we come in close contact. Just as the men who were in the thick of the fighting were forced to depend for success upon the training they had received so, too, we who are now in the thick of the unrest and turmoil of the post-war period must depend for our success upon the training we have received.

Will that training be of assistance to us now, or must we give place to others who are better able to fight a winning fight? Each here alone may best answer that question, and upon the answer we shall know if we made the best use of our early opportunities.

There never has been a time when so much depended on efficient service as at present. If we lack the training essential to such service we may, at least, do what we can to prepare ourselves by intensive methods to be in a position to assist in the present crisis. Such training will not be in our individual advantage, financially of course, and at the same time will aid if only in a small way in meeting the great test. We may not be able to help we would like to be, but, at least we may, save ourselves from being a drag and obstruction.

POTASH AND KAINIT COME WITHOUT LET

Governor Mc Leaner Controls Importation of Fertilizer Largely Used in South.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Senator Smith has been receiving inquiries as to the probability of getting a sufficient supply of kainit and potash for next year's crop. He received information from the war trade board to the effect that it no longer has jurisdiction over the importation of potash, that conditions prevail now as they did prior to the war no license being required for importation. In other words, any one can import kainit and potash who can secure it from any part of the world. The department of commerce informs Senator Smith that the United States has no representative in Germany at this time, which is because the peace treaty has not yet been signed. He is also informed that the exporter in Germany has to secure a license in order to send potash and kainit to America. Senator Smith will insist that the proper department here shall use all means possible to encourage the importation of potash and kainit to relieve the need for this ingredient throughout the south.
