TUESDAY, OCTOBER 24.

Most of the weevils that will do damage to cotton next year are in the cotton fields and will continue there till the first of December.

Their food is green cotton. Kill the cotton early and the weevil will begin his hibernation sooner. This means that the weevil may starve to death before it will ever get into a cotton patch again.

If the cotton stalks are not killed early then the weevil will have a chance to feed until the frost destroys their food. In that case many weevils will go into winter quarters late and well fed, with good prospects of withstanding hunger and cold of winter.

The importance of killing cotton stalks to starve weevils can not be stressed too strongly. The longer the frost frosts the stalk is killed the better.

Why should the United States be expected to finance all of Europe, feed the hungry and clothe the needy, minister to the sick, and finally adopt the children who have been made orphans by ruthless and fruitless war? The United States is a rich country, why is it not always so? If we continue giving as we have done during the past decade, for the relief of European peoples who are exhausting their resources in military activities, the support of standing armies, and in the manufacture of military supplies and munitions. Our giving affords relief to the governments and enables them to direct all their energies toward destruction rather than reconstruction, toward war rather than peace. It is good to give, even to the point of self-denial. If the gifts are appreciated and the giving benefits suffering humanity, but in the pursuit of our philanthropic tendencies there must be some kind of appreciation, and the people receiving them should cease the preparations for war and endeavor to live in peace and harmony. The United States contracted a great debt to save Europe, and our people have given millions upon millions of dollars in money, food and clothing to suffering people, many of whom prefer to receive charity rather than to work. The nations ask us to cancel their indebtedness and to send our armies across the seas to aid us in that nation in maintaining its just or unjust claims, and all the while. Many of our people are struggling for an existence.

WILL GO INTO COURT.

There is a concerted movement on the part of the citizens of South Carolina to take the State gasoline tax into the courts all the way to the United States Supreme Court, it is said.

The dealers contend that the tax is in conflict with the Constitution, in that it is discriminatory. And it looks as if the contention is correct. Half of the tax goes to building roads, to which the dealers do not object, but the other half goes into the general fund for State expenses, and here is where the State tax is said to be unconstitutional. It is shown that the new tax brings in exceeding one million a year to the State.

That the gasoline dealers will fight the case vigorously goes without saying. In the meantime the tax is being paid under protest.

MUST PREVENT IT.

Imperial Klud of Ku Klux Klan Says "Outline of History" Must Not be Allowed in Our Schools.

Atlanta, Ga.—Characterizing H. G. Wells' famous "Outline of History" as "Sugar-coated Bolshevism," Dr. William J. Mahoney, D. D., D. D., Imperial Klud of the Ku Klux Klan, announced officially that his department was taking steps to block what he terms "huged" that effort to place the history in public schools and colleges.

"Wells is a revolutionary radical and an exponent of Bolshevism," declared Dr. Mahoney. "His 'Outline of History' is replete with inaccurate statements, and is teeming with socialist doctrine."

His moral and social philosophy is as odds with civilization. To make his book a standard work in our schools would be to poison the minds of our youth with destructive propaganda of the worst kind."

According to Dr. Mahoney, all patriotic organizations must make a strenuous effort to prevent "The Outline of History" from finding its way into the schools.

breeding birds the following year. In the poultry business, we find that when the hen becomes older she produces fewer and fewer eggs; she lays the largest number during her first year; fewer the second, and so on through her life; so birds should not be kept for egg production after they are two years of age.

EMPLOYEES OF SOUTHERN ARE GIVEN PRESENTS

Washington, Oct. 23.—All employees of the Southern railway who are engaged in their regular duties and serve in its shops during the strike last summer are being presented this week with either checks for $150 or certificates for five shares of its stock. At railroad headquarters the action was said to represent the appreciation of the company for loyalty to its interests shown by the men concerned, and not to represent a bonus or wage payment in any way.

A large number of other railroad companies affected by the strike, it was said, have taken somewhat similar action. The donation went to several hundreds of employees on the Southern lines but no estimate of the number or the total amount involved was made public.

HENS OR PULLETS? Clemson College—This the pullet that lays the profitable egg. Investigation has shown us that the pullet produces a greater number of eggs than does a yearling bird. Also, that the pullet consumes a smaller amount of food material. All of which shows that the pullet is more profitable than the hen.

In a poultry flock, says N. R. Mehro, Extension Poultry Specialist, we find that the ratio of pullets to hens is two-thirds pullets and one-third hens. However, we must consider not only egg-production but also the breeding stock, and perhaps the yearling will make the best breeder. The reason for having two-thirds pullets and one-third hens is that greater egg production results during the pullet year and also it gives the practical poultryman a better chance to cull out his poor pullets and keep only his best for breeding.

Nails driven into untreated shingles rust and wear loose causing leaks in the roof. Nails driven in Creosote shingles do not rust and hold firmly for many years.

Roofs of Creosote shingles have been in service for fifteen years with no upkeep whatever, and at the end of that time were in good condition.

Creosote shingles are very little, if any, higher than hard pine shingles, cheaper than red cedar shingles and composition roofing and last much longer. They are cleaner to handle than dipped shingles and make a neat, attractive slate roof appearance.

Call on us and let us tell you all about the Creosote Shingles.

The government cotton ginner report as of October 15th, is not come out tomorrow and private estimates place the ginnings around seven million bales. This is larger than the report for the same date last year but is accounted for owing to the earliness of the cotton crop throughout the cotton belt. The ginner's report is expected to show a decrease from last year. There is much speculation as to Chester county's crop this year. Several weeks ago there were many who estimated that Chester county would make between twenty and twenty-two thousand bales. However, those who were of this opinion have now changed their views and are hoping that we will be able to get as much as 15,000. One party, who is pretty familiar with local conditions, tells The News that he does not look for more than 10,000 bales in Chester county.

Rev. Henry Wade DuBose, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Danville, Va., was Sunday morning called by the First Presbyterian church of Spartanburg, the action of the congregation in extending the call being unanimous. The church constituents first accepted the recommendation of the committee appointed several weeks ago to select a pastor, and then voted to call Dr. DuBose. The church has been without a pastor for nearly two months, following the departure of Dr. A. D. P. Gilmore, who assumed the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church in Wilmington, N. C., about September 1.

Governor Harvey last Saturday announced the suspension from service of State Constable H. L. Johnson is also said to have been under the influence of drink at the fair in Rock Hill. Johnson is well known in Chester county and was a witness in liquor cases at the recent term of court held in Chester.

The "Know More" Book Club held its third meeting with Miss Marie Casaley and Mammie Hill on last evening. Business being transacted by the meeting was turned over to the program committee, who had prepared an interesting program. The club was honored to have as its guest on this occasion Mrs. A. G. Brice, who, in her usual charming manner, told the young women of her recent visit to the old country. A social half hour was then enjoyed, refreshments being served by the hostesses. Then Mrs. Brice rendered several piano selections and Miss Louise Boyd gave a reading, which made the evening a very delightful one for the members of the club.

CHESTER WON AGAIN.

Chester Boys Defeat Fort Mill 42 to 0—Local Boys Did Not Show up in Usual Form.

The Fort Mill High school football team was defeated by the Chester Hi at the Chester fair grounds last Friday afternoon, the score being 42 to 0. However, it must be stated that the local boys did not show their usual "pop" notwithstanding the score. There were many times during the game when Chester's line should have held better and too, the interference, as a whole, was far below the average.

Collins did well, also the two Brice boys and Stone. Tollison came in the latter part of the game and it must be stated that he played better ball than at any previous time this season. He hit the line with his head down and he kept plunging, making good gains. In fact, some are of the opinion that Tollison played better ball Friday than any of the other boys.

The game started with a rush and Chester cleared for a touchdown the first three minutes of the play. It was apparent that the local boys felt that the game was theirs and they did not put the push to it.

One must not judge by the score that the Fort Mill team is a ragged one. They fought all the way through the game and made a number of good plays and it must be said that Fort Mill has a nice bunch of players who acted the part of good sports throughout the entire game. Fort Mill was handicapped for lack of substitutes and doublets fell late in fact long before the final whistle.

Chester made many substitutions during the game. Coach Meall giving his entire crew an opportunity to get into the game. During the last quarter the Fort Mill boys were giving the local right back a fight and once or twice it looked as if Fort Mill would score and many are of the opinion that they would have if the game had lasted five minutes longer.

Chester's next game is with the Winthrop. Training school next Friday and will be played in Chester. Winthrop has lost a number of her best players this year. It is stated that several of these boys went to the Rock Hill Hi.

Sad Death of Young Man.

Many friends learned with sorrow of the death of Mr. Cramer Robinson, which occurred at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Robinson, at Rodman, this morning about three o'clock after a serious illness of several days with typhoid fever.

Young Mr. Robinson has been making his home at Sumner, S. C. He was a student at the University of North Carolina and survived by his wife and a young child, which is now also seriously ill.

Mr. Robinson was about twenty-eight years of age and is a brother of Miss Annie Robinson and Messrs. Brice and Manning Robinson, who reside in Chester. He also has two brothers who reside in Danville, Va. The funeral will be held tomorrow.

AUTO RACES OPENING DAY.

Thrilling Events Arranged For Chester Fair, Tuesday, October 31. Arrangements are practically complete for the professional automobile races which will open the Chester County Fair, Tuesday, October 31st.

A representative of the International Motor Contest Association, under whose sanction the races will be run, visited the city last week and went over the grounds and track where the races will be held. He was marked off, extra police will be on hand, and every precaution will be taken to insure the safety of the public, as well as the drivers.

The Chester Fair is very fortunate in securing the class of racers which will be seen on the local track. It has been the desire of the Fair Board for several years to give their patrons a high-class auto race meet, but the inducements which would be necessary to tempt the professional drivers were always prohibitive.

Most of the drivers entered in the events will come direct from the State Fair at Columbia, stopping in Chester Tuesday for the opening day. It has been the desire of the Fair Board in the larger cities to be the end of the week.

If the Fair attracts turn out in sufficient numbers to justify, auto races will be an annual event at the Chester County Fair. At least five of the foremost pilots of the auto track trials will be present.

It was proved long ago that better teaching results directly, other things being equal, from better and longer professional training. More recently it has been demonstrated to the truth that if efficiency in teaching is to be sustained and improved, professional study should be the active force in the preparation of normal school or college, but should continue throughout the teaching career.

Mr. S. E. Wylie and children, and Mrs. T. W. Barrett, have returned to their homes in the city after a visit of several days to relatives in Hamlet.

ABEVILLE CITIZEN HAS STRANGE HEALING POWER

Joe Munday Says Strange Power Has Been Handled Down in His Family For Generations.

Abbeville, S. C.—Abbeville has a man who claims to be possessed of a strange healing power. His name is Joe Munday and he lives near Buzzards Roost church in the Abbeville Hedge road. He is a middle-aged square set fellow with a face as full of freckles as a turkey egg is full of spots. He is of ordinary education and attainment but believes absolutely in himself and in his power to heal.

He says this power has been in his family for generations and is handed down from mother to son and from father to daughter. That a man can charge for the treatment of a child and a woman can teach a man but not another woman. The power is passed down through the sexes in this cross-way.

The Munday lives at the old homeplace. One brother, Bink Munday, has lived there for 50 years and has never been away longer than two weeks during this time.

Joe Munday believes firmly that he has the power to heal and that this power is God given. He says he can cure any kind of skin affection or disease like eczema or psoriasis, or any hemorrhage or bleeding. He cites various cases and marvelous cures he has made. He makes no charge for the treatment but claims that his power would be taken from him if he accepted pay. His secret and he will not reveal it.

All that is necessary for you to do to be healed, he says, is to tell him your name and he will look into your eyes, and presto, you are well. There are those who use in his mind, but that belongs to the seer.

Joe Munday's family believe him possessed of this strange power. Recently one of the children while playing near the house out at home nearly died and the story goes that the father ran in haste for the mother, who kept on with her work saying, Joe was there and he would heal her. She claim he did.

He also tells a story of being able to heal animals as well as people. A mule while plowing in a field stepped on a broken bottle and cut a gash in his foot causing great loss of blood. The healer was sent for. He approached the mule and looked in to his eyes and the bleeding stopped instantly.

RATE MAKING SYSTEM ATTACKED BY MADDOO

Provision of Each-Cummins' Law Bars an Arbitrary Legislative Valuation.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Oct. 23.—W. G. Maddoo, former secretary of the treasury, addressing a political gathering here this afternoon attacked the rate making system for railroads under the Each-Cummins law which he said is based on an arbitrary and fixed rate high enough to earn 5-1/2 per cent net on that gross valuation.

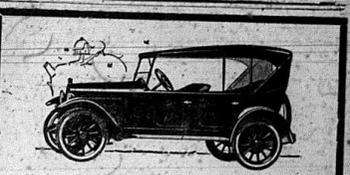

"Necessarily there is included railroads which should never have been built and never will earn anything on the investment," he said. "Other railroads are overvalued or undervalued but will never earn dividends. The Each-Cummins bill is forcing the public to pay 5-1/2 per cent net on these poor investments."

He declared the law should be repealed or amended and that the only reasonable basis for rate making should be the value of the transportation service performed and what the traffic could bear.

FAST BUSINESS.

The people may remember that way back in 1918 the Government sent out forces of "investigators" over all first class railroads in the country for the purpose of fixing an official valuation of these properties. It is remembered how these investigators came along through Charlotte taking account of railroad property (debt) even the weight of the legs of spikes, the piles of bolts and fish plates—and how nothing has been heard of the costly experiment since that good day. But word now comes from Washington that the figures compiled for one of the 250 railroads from the tax board taken under review have been made public. It is ascertained that the valuation of the property of the little Chesapeake and Potomac Railroad made nine years ago, is $2,300,000!

The information up to date would have been ascertained not only in the case of every railroad in the United States but in the case of the counties throughout which these roads run. At the present rate of progress—one railroad report in nine years—it will be something over 300 years before the country knows what the valuation of railroad properties was in 1913. As an example, in governmental examination of this railroad valuation proceeding, let the champion, Charlotte, observe.

No other car we know of, except much higher priced, combines so many good, costly car points as the Hupmobile does.

Special materials, special processes, special parts. All are engineered and built into a harmonious whole to produce the highly satisfactory results which make the Hupmobile a decidedly better value.

INDUSTRIOUS PEOPLE.

Physiologists say that man was not intended by nature to apply long period to any manual or mental task, and that one of the great difficulties in the modern industrial system is to overcome what is known as a natural disability. Intervals of rest or distraction are necessary to everjibe; but the frequency and length of the intervals and the use to which they are put vary with everyone. And on those variations excess or failure, happiness or unhappiness, may very largely be predicted.

For the healthy person the best way to rest is to do something. Manual occupation or physical activity is the best form of relaxation for those whose work is mental and mental or physical activity is the best form of relaxation for those whose work is manual. The people who don't know what to do, with their spare moments, or half hours, or holidays, or who pass them in a disconnected indolence derive no benefit from their opportunities. They might well envy those who hurry home eagerly to a good book to read, or something to make or build, or a musical instrument to which to practice, or a boy—or even a dog—to exercise. Most of those who are without a resource seek amusement in unwholesome ways. They are without a resource is to be lazy. People who are not lazy discover resources and enjoy them.

Industrious people have their worries and their troubles, but they are not subjected by them. They get happiness out of life, and they don't sicken or irritate the world with lamentations over their misfortunes. Indeed, the great virtue of the industrial person is not that he works and produces—excellent merit though that has—but that he doesn't whine and complain.

ATTACK BY DIAL
ON FUTURES ACT
 South Carolina Senator Heard in Spartanburg Talks of Measure.

Spartanburg, Oct. 20.—Senator Nat B. Dial of Laurens in an address here tonight attacked the present cotton futures law as being unjust because the seller is not required to specify the exact grade of cotton he is disposing of.

According to Senator Dial at the present time, the seller has the right to dictate to his buyers the quality of cotton brought. The senator suggested as a relief from this alleged injustice that the grade be specified at the time the contract is made.

The speaker expressed the opinion that an amendment of the law to this end would stabilize the cotton market and would increase the price thereby vastly benefiting the cotton planters in the South.

The address was made under the auspices of the forum of the local chamber of commerce. Frederick W. Wolfe, now director of the Spartanburg music festival, was also on the program.

MAKING BUSINESS BAD
 By the Made-in-Carolina Association

Two years ago we people in the Carolinas complained bitterly because there were no jobs for people who sadly needed employment. A large number of our manufacturing plants were idle, some of them struggled along on part time; others managed to keep going primarily for the purpose of holding their organization.

EVERYWHERE over the Carolinas this condition existed. Business was bad. The merchants were not selling goods because their customers were out of jobs, and being out of jobs they could buy only the barest necessities. Some of us thought we could lay all the trouble on the manufacturer. Some of us thought we could lay it on the retailer. Some of us thought we could lay it on the consumer. Some of us thought we could lay it on the price level. We said about what anything and did about everything except the right thing.

Looking back, don't it occur to us that anybody stopped wearing clothes during the months of our travails? Were many of us actually going hungry, reduced to one or even two scant meals a day? Did we take the mule out of the plow and un hitch the horse from the wagon, or cease to sow and reap?

We did not.

We continued to eat, but we got our meal out of a Western corn crib and our flour from a distant State and we bought our cured meats in Chicago and perhaps our fresh fruits from Cincinnati, and we went to the Central West for our plows and farm machinery and maybe to Kentucky or Indiana for our wagons, and to somewhere else for our automobiles, tires and trucks. We let our own factories produce these goods slow down and close and throw thousands of our neighbors out of work, just because we would not buy what they had to offer.

We produced 60 per cent. of our own hard times in the Carolina. Isn't it about time we got wise to the things we are doing to our own external hurt?

Let's start buying at home and giving our home merchant or mill man a chance to put more of us on his payroll so that we can put more money in the bank to help new crops and to build new homes.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 21.—The jury completed, Mrs. Catherine Rozier, on trial for the murder of her husband, Oscar Rozier and his stepdaughter, Miss Mildred Reckett, swayed Saturday when the indictment containing the words "kill and murder" was read. A clerk was forced to discontinue reading the indictment until the defendant recovered.

In his opening address Rice Spenser, assistant district attorney, said: "We will show that the defendant is guilty of deliberate and premeditated murder. We will show that Miss Reckett, less than 20 years old, was shot while engaged with her work at the typewriter."

"We will show that the defendant then slowly crawled to the couch, where she was found by the police. We will show this by the trial minutes which have been received."

The state will attempt to disprove Mrs. Rozier's charge that the conditions under which she found the two aroused emotional jealousy.

"Mrs. Rozier's baby, Richard 1 year old, was a mystified spectator at the trial. The mother is allowed to see her baby once each day, at noon. She never looks at him in the court room."

William J. Reckett father of the slain girl, and her brother-in-law, Charles W. Miller, testified briefly, laying the foundation for the state's case. It is expected the trial will last all next week.

GIRL OF A BURNED TO DEATH AT PLAY
 Athens, Ga., Oct. 22.—Ruth Bruch, 4, was burned to death late Saturday afternoon at the family home near Monkey Run while playing in a tin "shanty" with several small companions. The children were playing with a fire when the clothing of little Ruth became ignited and pinned down the child, preventing her escape. The girl was literally roasted to death, while the other children, who escaped unhurt, looked on. Mrs. Wanda Berry, an aunt of the Bruch child, was so badly burned in digging in the ruins that her condition is regarded as grave.

Electric Bitters

Made a New Man of Him.

Every time a woman spends a dollar for goods made outside the Carolinas as a substitute for goods made within the state, she weakens just that much the possible advancement of her husband.

Only a relative small number of us have enough to live on without active daily labor. The balance of us work regularly, for upon our personal effort depends our monthly pay check or our semi-annual dividend.

A woman is not justifying her name of good house-keeper if she pays more money for a home-made article than she would have to pay for something made elsewhere. Nor will she be justified in buying an inferior article for the same money she would have to pay for a superior piece of goods made outside the Carolinas.

But a patriotic housewife's duty to her state is to know of her own knowledge that she can not buy a home-made article of the same value for the same money that she must pay for the foreign-made merchandise.

When the women of the Carolinas look their dealer straight in the eye over the counter and demand to be shown the home-made products, they may not have them, but if enough women join in this work, he will get them.

A dealer sells what his customers want. Some of them are committed by contract or agency or personal preference to certain widely known products and may be slow to change. But they will change quickly enough when they see that the buyers have become open marketers.

Ask your dealer to show you a garment, or a kitchen utensil, or an article of food, or equipment for the farm, that has the Carolinas brand on it. If he does not happen to have it, step around the corner and get a price from the other man.

If it is a good article and you buy it, the next time you call your regular dealer will have it in stock.

He is in business to please you and you both are in the business of making the Carolinas greater and more prosperous.
