MITFORD SCHOOL NEWS

The Mitford Graded School with its enrollment of 65 and its motto "Each for the other and all for the school" is forging its way to the front ranks of schools...

The trustees of this school, Messrs. W. T. Raines, Harvey Ford and L. C. Jordan are men full of vision, progressive and keenly alive to forward movements in school work.

A fourth teacher has been added to the Mitford faculty with the consolidation of Stover with the Mitford School...

The school has also been given basketball equipment for play-ground by the School Board.

The beautiful gift presented last year by Junior Order of United Mechanics is raised each morning with simple exercises by school.

One of the highest honors that can be given a pupil at Mitford is to be the one chosen by his class-mates for the special duty of raising and leading "Old Glory"...

The entire school is busy at present, planning for the first public meeting of the Calhoun Society which is to be held Friday before Thanksgiving.

The second month of the girls' basketball team hopes to play its first game this afternoon, also.

The honor roll published below stands for an average of 90 and not more than one day's absence.

WARRANTS ISSUED FOR ARREST OF IMPERIAL WIZARD EVANS AND OTHERS KU KLUX KLAN OFFICIALS.

Peace Warrants issued by Judge Hatcock, of Allendale County, on Complaint of Dr. Fred B. Johnson, Who Places Crosses in Statement of Phillip Fox, Clarke and Johnson, E. Y. "Slated to Go"—Fox Indicted for Murder; Contumacious Silence.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 7.—On complaint of Dr. Fred B. Johnson, chief of staff for William Joseph Simmons, emperor of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, peace warrants were issued last night for the arrest of Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the clan; H. K. Ramsey, imperial kligrapp; Brown Harwood, imperial klaxia; and J. P. McKinnon, head of the clan investigation department.

Dr. Johnson told Judge Hatcock that the shooting Monday of W. S. Coburn by P. E. Fox, editor of The Night Hawk, and publicity agent for the clan, said to be aligned with the Evans faction, led him to place credence in the statement he had made to him by Fox last Sunday night.

Indicted by the Fulton county grand jury on a murder charge for the killing Monday of Captain W. S. Coburn, attorney for the so-called insurgent Klan factions, he was at his desk in his office, Philip E. Fox, publicity chief for the Ku Klux Klan and editor of The Night Hawk, Klan publication, last night continued silent while awaiting results of his efforts to obtain counsel.

Solicitor General J. A. Boykin, who presented the case to the grand jury Tuesday had not indicated late Tuesday when the case would come to trial, but at his office it was said the trial likely would be called soon.

Other than the statement that Coburn planned to publish certain statements that would have attacked his character, Fox declined to explain the slaying. At the jail he told newspaper men that he might never make a statement.

It was said at the jail that no Klan officials had been to see Fox. Mrs. Fox, the prisoner's wife, called at the jail twice, leaving the second time without seeing her husband when she learned newspaper men were seeking her.

Other reports said she was ill at her home here and reporters who called there were turned away by an unidentified man.

It was learned that some time ago Coburn was poisoned while lunching with a man whose name has not been announced. Last month, it is said, a threatening note was delivered to the Coburn home.

Commander of Destroyer Fleet 1st Vessels Which Wrecked in September Face Court-Martial.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 6.—Captain Edward H. Watson, who commanded squadron eleven, destroyer force, United States battle fleet, on the night of September 8 when 23 lives were lost and nearly $4,000,000 in government property was destroyed in the stranding of seven vessels near Honda, Calif., pleaded "not guilty" to charges of culpable inefficiency today before a naval court-martial.

The charges against him are negligence and unsatisfactory command. Lieutenant Commander Donald T. Hunter, who commanded the U. S. S. Delphy, leading ship of the squadron, and Lieutenant Lawrence F. Blodgett, navigating officer of the Delphy, are among ten other officers to be tried by court-martial.

After Captain Watson had pleaded, Lieutenant Lawrence Wild, communications officer of the voyage down the Pacific coast and gave the vessel's names and the localities concerned.

Lieutenant Commander Hunter gave details of hearing received from the radio station at Point Arguello and explained to the court he had every reason to believe the destroyers were south of Arguello when in reality they were northward.

Bearings received during the early evening were "so erratic that they could not be reconciled with any course and speed," Hunter told the court.

Rev. J. B. Traywick Dead.

The announcement of the death of Rev. Joseph Benjamin Traywick, was received with sorrow by a host of friends in Chester county and elsewhere throughout South Carolina and will bring forth a great wave of sympathy for the bereaved ones.

Rev. Traywick passed into his Great Beyond at his home on Academy street, in Chester, Wednesday night at 10:25 o'clock, after an illness of several months. He had been seriously ill for several days and while it was realized that the end was not far off, the announcement of his death was a profound shock to the people of the community.

Mr. Traywick was a native of Anson county, North Carolina, and was born October 15th, 1844. He was therefore, seventy years of age. He served the Confederacy during the war between the States with distinction. Shortly after the close of the war, he joined the South Carolina Conference and had his first charge in Newberry Circuit in 1886. He has served several circuits in the State during his ministry of fifty odd years, twice having been sent to the Chester Circuit. His last charge was at Blacksburg in 1919. Upon leaving Blacksburg he came to Chester to make his home and to spend his last days, realising that in the course of a short time he would be called to meet his Father.

During his lifetime Mr. Traywick has done a wonderful work for his Master and the fruits of his efforts can be found in various sections of the State and elsewhere.

The funeral services were conducted at Bethel Methodist church this morning at eleven o'clock by Rev. Henry Stokes, pastor, after which the remains of this Soldier of the Cross were laid to rest in Evergreen cemetery to await the resurrection morn.

Mr. Traywick is survived by his widow and the following children: Mr. J. F. Hardin, of Capers Chapel; Mrs. W. C. Smith, of Clio; Mrs. L. B. White, of Camperdown; Dr. D. Traywick, of Raleigh, N. C.; Dr. A. P. Traywick, of Cameron; H. Traywick, of Atlanta; and Miss Kat Traywick, of Chester.

Fresh Cabbage Plants at McCullough's Grocery, in The Valley,

LIFE IS A GAME OF CARDS. Life is but a game of cards; That each one has to learn; Each Shucles, cuts and deals a pack.

And each trump does turn. Some turn a high card at the top. While others turn a low; Some hold a hand quite full of trumps.

While others none can fill. In playing some will lead the ace. Your counting card to save; Some play the deuce and some the tray.

While others play the deuce. Some play for money, some play for fun. And some for worldly fame. And not until the game's played out. Can they count up their gain.

When hearts are trump they play for love. And pleasures deck the hour. No thought of sorrow check their joy. In rosy' beautiful bower; They laugh and sing, sweet music make, Their cards at random play. And while the heart remains on top. Their game is but a holiday.

When diamonds chance to crown the top. The players stake their gold. And heavy sums are won and lost. By gamblers young and old; Intent on winning each deigh watch.

His cards with eager eye. That he may watch his neighbor's card. That each one has to learn. And cheat him on the sly. When clubs are trump, look out for war. On ocean or land. For bloody deeds are often done. While clubs are in the hand; And lives are staked instead of gold.

And days are worn out, dead. Across the broad Atlantic run. See clubs have got the lead. And last of all the spade is turn. Turned by hand of time; It always finishes up the game. In early land and clime; No matter how a man may win. Or how a man might save. You'll find the spade turns up at last.

And dig's the player's grave. Sent by Fred Scharrnag.

Our business reputation is now one hundred percent to the good and it will never be even one percent off for possible additional profit. We're going to stick to the good old way of selling a dollar's worth for a dollar. This is the three-foot-to-a-yard.

SHALL THE WHITE FARMERS FOR LOW THE NEGROES NO ATTI. OR SHALL BOTH STAY IN THE SOUTH?

Every man in the South realizes what a serious menace to farming and cotton production the boll weevil has been. Every farmer in the South has been forced to realize the serious nature of the negro exodus North. While in Waynesboro, Ga., on the 23rd of October and talking to Mr. E. E. Chance, a prominent farmer of Burke County, he gave us this most striking true instance that happened to him on this line. Mr. Chance had a good working negro on one of his farms. In 1921 this negro made three bales of cotton on a two-acre crop. In 1922 he only gathered two bales, and the next year he was so numerous that he was forced to do, to work at a newswall. In the spring of this year Mr. Chance asked him what about running a crop for 1923. The negro said: "Mr. Chance, I cannot make a living trying to farm and farm planting, to go to Chicago." Mr. Chance replied: "If you will work with me this year I will pay you wages and if we cannot make a crop of cotton, then I will go to Chicago with you." So the negro went to work. Mr. Chance gave him a three-acre farm and paid his children to help work it. They planted five acres in cotton. By the use of poison they gathered thirty-three bales of cotton. To show that it was not mere weather conditions, Mr. Chance told the negro to plant five acres in cotton near the house. The negro said: "Mr. Chance, there is no use in planting this patch in cotton. I planted it to cotton last year and only gathered 240 pounds seed cotton." Mr. Chance told him to plant it anyway, telling him that he was trying upon the poison to kill the weevil. When this cotton was chopped out the weevil were so numerous that they found from two to three on many stalks and could have gathered a thousand from the five acres. They applied a mixture of calcium arsenate and syrup over this cotton and the next week Mr. Chance was there and stopped the hands to look for weevil. After looking for hours they only found two weevil. From this five acres the negro gathered five good bales of cotton. The negro will remain in the South and is contented. Mr. Chance also is firmly convinced that he can make cotton and hence make money farming. Any farmer can grow cotton profitably who will use poison, and it is up to our land-owners to teach their negro tenants how to make cotton and thus stop the movement to the North.—Southern Cultivator.

MILK.
Absolutely Essential for Full Development of Human Body.

Milk is the one food which the human race must use or perish. Other foods are optional; milk is imperative. After his tremendous feeding experiments in the war-torn countries of Europe, Herbert Hoover said:

"In its broad aspects the proper feeding of children revolves around a public recognition of the interdependence of the human animal and his cattle. The white race cannot survive without dairy products."

Members of the race have got themselves into deep water through failing to recognize the essential place which milk holds in the human diet, particularly in the diet of growing children. The old proverb says: "It is an ill wind that blows nobody any good." Out of the world's food supply we have selected the most important of these benefits is the new understanding which we have gained through the tremendous experiments in mass feeding. The new understanding of feeding was just coming into being at the outbreak of hostilities. McCollum, Mendel, Sherman and others had brought to public attention the presence in milk of certain elements called vitamins, which promote growth, in the protection from various diseases and perform other services.

The surgeons who examined the young men for the purposes of the World War were astounded to find the high percentage of physical disability which was directly due to the wrong feeding methods to which they had been subjected in childhood. These boys came from homes of wealth as well as from poor homes. Subsequent investigations by such investigators as Bloch, of Denmark, and Emerson, of this country, showed that a great number of typical child ailments are due to the failure to supply them with a proper amount of milk and milk products. From the malnutrition classes of Copenhagen and Boston and many other cities of this country and foreign have come reports of many cures brought about by introducing more daily products into the diet of sick and mentally backward children.

Scientists agree that children should each have at least a pint, and if possible a quart, of milk daily. Where milk is pasteurized it is best to give children fruit juices or green vegetables to supply one of the vitamins which has been weakened by the application of heat. But whole milk, raw or pasteurized, powdered or condensed, is readily absorbed and contains the complete range of food values found in no other food.

If it did nothing more than provide for growth milk would be a valuable addition to the diet. It has been established that, when the growth of the bodily cavities has not occurred in youth, it is permanently retarded. Lack of normal development in the bodily cavities restricts the growth and functioning of the lungs, heart and other organs.

If milk did nothing more than provide the body with the minerals it needs to build the teeth and the bony framework it would be a valuable addition to the diet. Soft bones lead to rickets in babyhood and weakness in youth and later life. Soft teeth lead to decay, and untold amounts of physical discomfort and often to stomach trouble and undernourishment. Dentists have come to the conclusion that a great percentage of bad teeth occurring among children is directly due to the lack of sufficient milk in their diet.

To study every phase of the dairy situation from production to consumption there is being held today in this country a World's Dairy Congress. The United States is not the only country with a dairy problem. It is universal. The scientists, industrial leaders, health authorities and social welfare workers are every last desire to see it solved. Every country wants to learn how to produce more milk and how to produce it more efficiently, how to handle and manufacture it more successfully, how to distribute it more evenly among the people and how to bring the attention of every one to the vital place of milk in the diet.—New York Evening Telegram.

THE POWER OF TRUTH.
By J. A. Eubank.

The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips; he walked with Me in peace and equity, and did not turn away from us iniquity.—Malachi II. 6.

And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.—John VIII. 32.

The first of the 1878 above is the testimony of the Lord concerning Levi, the head of the Jewish priesthood. The second is the language of Jesus addressed to those Jews which believed on him and, by inference, is a promise to all believing mankind.

Malachi, as the spokesman of the Lord, in reproving the priests of his time, for neglecting the covenant and, consequently, losing their power with God and infidelity with the people, holds up Levi as a priestly example for all priests to follow, and in the effort to impress them with the lesson of his example states that he walked with God "in peace and equity, and did not turn away from us iniquity."

The ministry of our own day is floundering in confusion as to their loss of power, and the church's loss of power, with God to turn the great masses away from iniquity. If they are really desirous of ascertaining the cause, and have it in their hearts to meet the conditions and regain their lost strength, they might read the second chapter of Malachi with much profit to themselves.

The covenant can not be broken by one party to it without releasing the other party from its obligations.

A little intemperance on the part of the ministry, and then a getting right toward God—a walking with him in peace and equity—have derived a few lessons of his example states that he walked with God "in peace and equity, and did not turn away from us iniquity."

The ministry of our own day is floundering in confusion as to their loss of power, and the church's loss of power, with God to turn the great masses away from iniquity. If they are really desirous of ascertaining the cause, and have it in their hearts to meet the conditions and regain their lost strength, they might read the second chapter of Malachi with much profit to themselves.

Now hear the encouraging promise "to all, both minister and layman, who walk with the truth." "Lord who shall abide in Thy tabernacle? who shall dwell in Thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart."

"Truth," says Dr. Charles W. Eliot, "is the new virtue."

In this generation the business world is rapidly coming to know the value of strict adherence to truth in the conduct of its business. Business men are coming to appreciate the force of Benjamin Franklin's saying, that "honesty is the best policy."

The beauty of truth, says one writer, is not a matter of religion, or ethics, or morality. It is a question of wisdom. The thing that does not pay is immoral. Right business is a form of common sense. The liar injures himself by becoming entangled in a maze of untruth, and eventually loses the confidence of worthy people. Today we succeed only as we are able to co-operate, and the bigger and better we are. Truth cements and simplifies all human relations.

The man of truth is freed from passions and misgivings which surely undermine the health. He can look his fellow man squarely in the face and compel his confidence. His reputation once becomes firmly established as a man who rightly adheres to the truth seven days in the week, even though upon occasions to speak truth, and the more we strive to become like Him, the stronger and freer will we be. Therefore let the law of truth be in our mouths, that we may walk with God in peace and equity.

It is in a study of the teachings of Christ that we may know the whole truth may apparently be to his hurt, he grows in the estimation of the community, and with that growth comes freedom, power and influence.
