Mr. R. J. Mackorell is in Yorkville this week preparing to move his family to Hickory, N. C., where Mr. Mackorell recently returned from a business venture in partnership with Mr. H. T. Williams, formerly of Yorkville.

On Monday night in Washington, the Washington Post, on a large screen over Pennsylvania avenue, flashed the returns. In the beginning, news trickled in so slowly that it was hard to see anything.

It was greeted by a sporadic applause confined to the exterior of the great circle witnessing the show, and the great "What is going on," evidently tolerant but not in the mood to suffer an abuse of its privilege.

CHEERS FOR WILSON

Election Crowd Hisses Picture of President Harding.

Washington, Nov. 15.—It was either a sign of the times or an illustration of the fickleness of the average American.

How Is The Time To Fight The Boll Weevil Turn The Stalks Under!

SUITS ARE BROUGHT AGAINST RAILWAYS

Strikers Employed During Recent Labor Troubles Sue Employers for Discharge.

Columbia, Nov. 13.—Two interesting sequels to the recent strike of railroad shogmen have come to hand here.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 14.—Charles H. Barron, one of the most widely known lawyers and financiers in South Carolina, was found dead at Barron's Pond, a resort five miles east of Columbia, today, with a bullet wound in his head.

Paris, Nov. 13.—Entire wire hair wave artist, has emerged from obscurity in his provincial chalet in Jersey, again set the world of fashion agog by the creation of wig transformations.

W. T. Lindsey Falls to Kally After Spartanburg, Nov. 14.—A dispatch from Tryon, N. C., announces the death early today of W. T. Lindsey, president of the Tryon region and pioneer developer of the grape vineyards of that region.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 14.—Auto bandit, who for several weeks has terrorized the country, "was seen" by a posse of lawmen, and was captured on a suburban department store and hauling away merchandise valued at $500 to $1,000.

LAWYER AND FINANCIER DIES BY HIS OWN HAND

Body Was Found by Caretaker of Resort at Barron's Pond, Near Columbia.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 14.—Charles H. Barron, one of the most widely known lawyers and financiers in South Carolina, was found dead at Barron's Pond, a resort five miles east of Columbia, today, with a bullet wound in his head.

Paris, Nov. 13.—Entire wire hair wave artist, has emerged from obscurity in his provincial chalet in Jersey, again set the world of fashion agog by the creation of wig transformations.

Police say it is an organized band who specialize in small stores. In two or three instances local grocers have been forced to close up because all of their stock had been stolen.

BOLL WEEVIL CONTROL DISCUSSED BY EXPERTS

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 14.—Community cooperation of boll weevil control and federal action in developing new sources of supply of calcium arsenate, the poison which has been found most effective in weevil eradication, were discussed in resolutions adopted here today at a conference of farm experts and cotton growers of Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi.

Other resolutions pledged the support of the growers to the investigation of the weevil control now being way at the government experimental station at Tallulah, La., and expressed approval of proposed plans to have the one variety of cotton planted in all of its adequate supply of arsenate, and that such of the arsenate-treatment in 1923 was of little value, being improperly given, or given at the wrong time.

V. R. Coad, in charge of the Tallulah experiment station, called attention of the cotton growers to the fact that only a small percentage of the cotton acreage could be treated to the pink of an adequate supply of arsenate, and that such of the arsenate-treatment in 1923 was of little value, being improperly given, or given at the wrong time.

DEATH DUE TO DRUG

Three Men Held for Violation of Narcotic Act.

Suiter, Nov. 15.—The inquest into the death of English Williamson, who died suddenly at the Curtis House Sunday afternoon from some drug, was reconvened today to receive additional information was discussed.

The drug that caused his death was identified as heroin, purchased from a negro, Ernest Keene, "Dick" Merrimon, who stated he told Williamson the drug was very powerful and had affected him much more than sulphate of morphine, but Williamson had insisted on "trying" a shot anyway.

Following the inquest, Merrimon and two negroes, Keene and Harris, were arrested on warrants sworn out before United States Commissioner J. B. Hand by Narcotic Officer P. B. Brown, who charged the three men with having in their possession, selling and giving away unregistered drugs in violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic law.

According to an authority on character reading, a high forehead denotes a feeling of self-importance. Persons with heads so shaped are apt to esteem it as significant.

Lenoir College May Get Permanent Fund of $900,000. Hickory, N. C., Nov. 15.—The announcement last night that Daniel E. Rhys, manufacturer, philanthropist, of Hickory, N. C., had donated $900,000 to Lenoir College here, was followed today by President John C. Peery of the institution, stating that the Lutheran church will attempt to raise $600,000 additional endowments. This will give the college which is a Lutheran institution, a permanent fund of $900,000.

A Negro boy 15 years old is to be electrocuted in Oklahoma, November 17. The boy murdered a white woman because his brother-in-law was convicted of complicity in the murder and given a life sentence. The 15-year-old boy is held in the Oklahoma penitentiary at McAlester, according to a dispatch.

ECURSIONS IN THOUGHT. Concerning The Spirit of Pugnacity.

Perhaps the most disheartening fact that has been noticed about the human race is its underlying instinct to fight, its inherent pugnacity. Somehow clear thinkers are beginning to realize that the Germans were not so very far from right when they asserted that war was a biological necessity.

Man can not be otherwise than he is, when we consider that life is a struggle. Man was to fight as a primitive savage he was compelled to fight wild beasts; he was compelled to defend wife and child against prowling marauders; he was forced and a desperate grimes to protect his slim store of roots, herbs, and nuts against the deadly hungry robbers; with horror in his heart he was obliged single-handed to fight off a howling pack of wolves from his snug hole of a half-dug den.

The spirit of pugnacity is the basis of all half-dug den. It is a real sport where there is not a contest in which one seeks to outdo the other. Every game is a small war so to speak. When we go to a football game and see thousands being swung round by the exploits of twenty-two contestants we are in a position to realize how forced and deep the fighting spirit is in the heart of man.

Professor Gilbert Murray, in his little pamphlet on "The Stoic Philosophy" tells the following story of a pugacious old man, the Duke of Wellington. Wellington was a born fighter and he, therefore, had a very large ego, a considerable number of good things. The important thing is for us to realize that man HAS A PUGNACIOUS INSTINCT. Facing the fact we make it possible for us to control and direct the instinct towards useful and noble ends.

The Duke, when he was very old and incredibly distinguished, was telling one of his men in the Peninsula that he had found a rat. "It must have been a very large bottle," said the Duke. "Oh, no," said the Duke. "It was a damned small bottle." "Oh," said the Duke. "And there the matter has rested ever since."

Pugnacity is, therefore, based on egoism. Where there is no conceit, vanity, egoism and such kindred virtues there can be no fight. Germany was a nation with a chip on its shoulder. She sought trouble and found it. Her place in the sun was a chip on her shoulder. She sought trouble and found it. Her place in the sun was a chip on her shoulder.

In the alleged transfer of 80,000 gallons of alcohol by Louis and Abraham Auerbach, and others, of Cleveland, more than $150,000,000 of tax money is being lost to the government. On this account children should be given much milk, oatmeal and whole wheat products. Cane sugar, glucose and corn syrup are not as good for children as molasses, maple sugar and malt syrup.

Dates, figs and raisins will satisfy the craving of children for sweets, and are rich in both lime and iron. If the foods outlined are born in mind in the feeding of children good teeth and strong bones will surely result. Neglect or ignorance of these facts accounts for the prevalence of bad teeth and rickets.

I ought to know I grow tobacco

You can't beat a Camel, because you can't beat the tobacco that goes into Camels.

That's why Camels are the choice of men who know and love fine tobacco. They know what makes Camels so smooth, so fragrant and mellow-mild.

They'll tell you that the expert Camel blend of choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos makes a cigarette smoke you can't equal—no matter what you say.

But it doesn't take an expert to tell Camel quality. You'll spot it the very first puff. Try Camel yourself.

BOYS TO HEAR GRIZZLY

Scout Rally Here in December With "Noted Master Scout." The big scout rally will be in December will be worth while event for the boys of Chester. Grizzly Smith, the great exponent of the outdoors, means more to the boy world than probably any other American boy leader. His experiences in the wilds of Canada and the far west where he lived for a number of years furnish a thrilling page in American scout history.

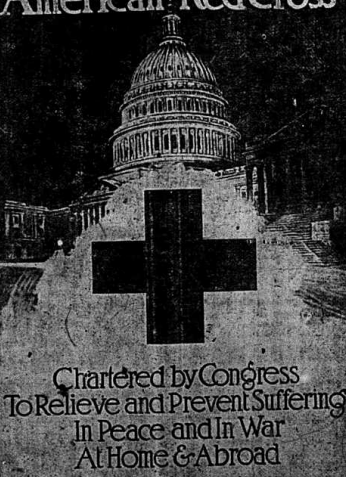

The time of the rally will be Saturday, December 18th. It is under the direction of Rev. A. Rufus Morgan and a Chamber of Commerce committee. It will be the big event of the year for the Chester scouts and with Grizzly Smith present it will prove most interesting as he will relate his wonderful experiences so that it can be appreciated by all his hearers.

Fall From Car While Switching.
What came very near being a serious accident was that of Mr. Henry Crawford, flagman on the South-eastern Railway, local freight between Chester and Columbia, who, Wednesday night fell from a box car. The accident occurred in the Chester yards just a short distance above the local passenger station.

The train crew was engaged in switching cars and Mr. Crawford was in the act of putting the brakes on a box car when the platform became loose and he fell between the cars. Two of which passed over him. Mr. Crawford knowing that the crew had another switch to make, pulled himself out from under the car in time to possibly have saved his life.

Some of the parts under the cars struck Mr. Crawford, cutting a gash in his head, breaking a rib and other parts. He was immediately summoned and arrived within five minutes after the accident. Mr. Crawford was taken to the Chester Sanatorium where his injuries were attended to and he is reported as getting along nicely.

CHESTER HARDWARE GLASSES

The Chester Hardware Company, which has been doing an extensive wholesale and retail business in hardware throughout the Carolina and Georgia, this morning closed its doors in Chester and is filing a voluntary petition in bankruptcy.

This action on the part of the company has been brought about by the fact that it has been unable to collect large sums of money owing it by various parties and firms, who have bought merchandise. Especially has the hardware company been hit hard by merchants in the lower section of South Carolina, which section was hit hard by the boll weevil.

At the present time The Chester Hardware Company has bills receivable amounting to around $300,000. This amount does not include large sums which it has been forced to charge off as losses due to the fact that many firms largely indebted to the company have gone into bankruptcy paying very small amounts of their bills receivable. As stated in a previous issue, the company present approximately $54,000 in bills receivable of the hardware company are in the course of bankruptcy.

The liabilities of the hardware company are around $300,000, with assets of approximately $250,000. In addition to the large retail store in Chester and also the large warehouse located on the Southern Railway tracks, the company has a large warehouse in Charleston.

The stockholders of the hardware company are around $300,000, with assets of approximately $250,000. In addition to the large retail store in Chester and also the large warehouse located on the Southern Railway tracks, the company has a large warehouse in Charleston.

The question as to the eligibility of these players for the National Football League is being discussed by the people in this section and it is hoped that arrangements can be made whereby the business will again be opened and operated in Chester. Mr. Geo. R. Dawson, president of the company and who has been in charge of the management, is one of the most progressive citizens and takes an active interest in all matters pertaining to the advancement of the city.

War he spent much time in helping with Red Cross drives and the sales of Liberty Bonds and was a liberal contributor to the various causes. The company employs a large number of people and as previously stated it is hoped that arrangements will be made for the continuance of the business in Chester.

COMMITTEE MEETS TOMORROW

High School Football Committee Meets in Abbeville Tomorrow to Handle Eligibility of Several Players—Decision Awaited With Much Interest.

The football committee of the State High School League has been called to meet in Abbeville tomorrow at noon at which time it is expected that a decision as to the eligibility of Douglas Sims and Glenn Schulte, of the Rock Hill football team, and Herman Tollison, of the Chester team, will be handed.

The question as to the eligibility of these players for the National Football League is being discussed by the people in this section and it is hoped that arrangements can be made whereby the business will again be opened and operated in Chester. Mr. Geo. R. Dawson, president of the company and who has been in charge of the management, is one of the most progressive citizens and takes an active interest in all matters pertaining to the advancement of the city.

War he spent much time in helping with Red Cross drives and the sales of Liberty Bonds and was a liberal contributor to the various causes. The company employs a large number of people and as previously stated it is hoped that arrangements will be made for the continuance of the business in Chester.

Wished She Could.
The teacher was having a bad time of it. The class was very dull or pretended to be—and seemed incapable of answering the easiest questions.

"What is a person called who steals?" asked the teacher persistently.

"How Herbert," said the teacher, "suppose I beg to put my hand into your pocket and take out a penny, what would you call me?"

"A magician," replied Herbert in a disconsolate voice.

"Every boy and every girl ought to learn to cook and every girl ought to learn all the domestic arts included in sewing, the cutting of garments and the making of dresses," declared Dr. Charles W. Elliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, in an address to the Woodrow Wilson Club at the university.

A NEW INDUSTRIAL REGION OF AMERICA

A few months ago the enterprising head of a prosperous newspaper plant in one of the South Atlantic states explained in glowing terms to a visitor, once a resident of the region, the remarkable development that had been taking place in the section and the still greater industrial, commercial and agricultural expansion to come. It was a story of anybody but a native son, yet a story that was true in all essential details. For what is known as the "up country," Piedmont, of the foothill region of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama, together with adjacent portions of other southeastern states, has become a center of activity, particularly of manufacturing, that is attracting attention from all quarters of America.

The startling possibilities of developing an industrial region farther to the east and south is already a startling reality. An Atlantic Monthly article by E. T. H. Schaffer is one of several excellent expositions of this development. The outstanding feature of Mr. Schaffer's account, as of others is the surprising extent of the shift of textile manufacturing from New England to the Southern Piedmont region. So noticeable was this shift that nearly twenty years ago a traveler remarked that on a 400-mile trip through the region a cotton mill smokestack was hardly out of sight at any moment from an observation car on the trunk line of the Southern railway.

Mr. Schaffer notes the development in figures. At the close of the Civil War New England had 6 1/2 million spindles all the South only about two hundred thousand. Ten years later New England had a total of 10 million spindles; the South still only 1 1/2 million, or just 6 per cent of the northern states. At the end of the next twenty-five years the figures stood 16 million for New England and 4 1/4 million for the South, the latter then having nearly 25 per cent of the total. In the 22-year period ending early this year New England had added 6 million to her total, while the South had gained nearly 11 million, and now has 15 million, 10 New England's 20 million.

Not all the story is in the number of spindles, however. Mr. Schaffer points out that last spring southern mills were using 65 per cent of all cotton manufactured in the United States. He might have added that fifteen years ago mills of the north were consuming more cotton than those of New England. It was then a case of quantity, consumption of raw materials, however, rather than the production of equally goods. For the southern mills used largely to produce the coarser grades of cotton this year. And on top of that is the fact that his late entry into the textile field enabled the southern manufacturer to install modern machinery that could be installed only at enormous expense by his northern brother. The Southerner has been in position to turn his face squarely to the new and the modern in all phases of the textile industry.

So today the greater number of spindles still to be found in New England is not the significance it at first indicates. For the South by running its spindles ten or even more hours a day can produce a greater volume of goods than the northern mill with its 8-hour labor—when that labor chooses to work and with wages materially higher than in the South.

BOLL WEEVIL CONTROL.

A Statement From Texas on Boll Weevil Control—Outline of the Methods Used.

After having had the boll weevil since 1892, Texas has finally decided that the best control measure for this pest is to get the cotton plowed as early as possible in the fall and then plow up all of the cotton stalks, grass and trash in the fields. In other words, have a general clean-up of the fields before the first killing frost. Many people have asked, "how is it that Texas still produces cotton under well weevil conditions?" and the following facts from Texas are submitted to Chester County farmers for their careful study and attention. Texas believes that this method of control is much more important than any other thing that may be done, not excluding poisoning.

This method calls for much hard work, yet Texas is somewhat prone to look for some magic method to destroy or control the pest. Below are twenty reasons for success which are being used for the Texas boll weevil campaign.

1. Boll weevil infestations start every spring from the few weevils that pass through the winter.
2. Weevils which develop late in the fall are most likely to survive the winter.
3. Many weevils survive the winter in holes where cotton stalks, together with grass and trash, offering shelter, are allowed to remain.
4. Great numbers of weevils are killed in dead grass and weeds in fence rows, ditches and waste places usually pass the winter in Spanish alfalfa. Boll weevil may be said to eat only cotton.
5. The boll weevil breeds only in cotton squares and bolls.
6. The boll weevil does not live several months after giving over hibernation quarters.
7. The boll weevil does not become inactive until after the first killing frost.
8. Previous to the first killing frost, boll weevils live only about six days without food, which is cotton.
9. Killing cotton growth, plants and weeds as early as possible, and after picking as possible, and before the first killing frost, prevents the breeding of new weevils and permits the older weevils to enter on hibernation.
10. Killing all cotton growth early in the season results in practical extermination of the insects in July.
11. Very few of the older weevils have sufficient vitality to pass a normal winter successfully.
12. Cotton should be plowed up by October 15th.
13. Plow shallow and turn out the roots and trash.
14. Merely chopping or clipping the stalks may not destroy the root, from which new growth may start and the older weevils live.
15. It is harmful and wasteful for Texas farmers to burn the cotton stalks, as the soil needs the humus or fertilizer contained in the stalks, which should be returned to the soil.
16. Burn all trash along fences and in ditches and remove the weevils shelter.
17. No farmer should raise weevils for his neighbors and himself by not killing his cotton plants in the fall.
18. Cooperation by all farmers will bring successful weevil control.
19. Best results may be obtained by organizing communities where cotton is grown, and taking concerted action against the weevil.

The above is the message from Texas. Mr. Paul Hardin has had his stalks dead for months. Mr. R. Reid has his all out or cover crops growing in the field instead. Paul Grant is at work. Dr. R. H. McFadden is at work. Many others but not all there should be. Farmers are giving many excuses why their stalks are not dead. We would like to see that we should heed the advice from Texas. It is going to take all methods known for his control, as well as favorable weather conditions, but some are raising plenty of cotton, not just Chester County?

A touch of realism is added to fire drills in Chicago public schools by the explosion of "movie" bombs causing smoke to flood the corridors and exits. There is no fire but the pupils are not aware of this fact. The conduct of the pupils during the drills is excellent.

MAIL BANDITS MISS

PAY ROLL OF $35,000

Cartersville, Ga., Nov. 14.—Two unmasked bandits, who held up and robbed a rural route mail carrier here early Tuesday, missed by a few hours a mine pay roll of between $35,000 and $40,000. It was disclosed by officials of a coal company, following the theft.

The pay roll, belonging to the Madison Coal Corporation No. 9, near here, was due to arrive in Cartersville on the noon train.

The bandits, evidently misinformed as to the time of its arrival, met the train arriving at 7:30 o'clock and forced Herbert Rush, the mail truck driver, to deliver to them a pouch, which they believed contained the money for the mine pay roll.

An all-wheel narrowly escaped death near St. Mary, West Virginia, recently, when a charge of nitroglycerine exploded in a well while he was preparing to lower

When the first shot went off the shooter covered the can of shot number two with his body, lying on the ground. He was covered with a shower of small rocks but the nitro under his body did not explode. The derrick was wrecked and a masthead from the rig fell close to a wagon which contained 60 quarts of nitro. It is believed a stone caused the shell to go off as the well had not been cased.

Every time a woman spends a dollar for goods made outside the Carolinas as a substitute for goods made within the state, she weakens just that much the possible advancement of her husband.

Only a relative small number of us have enough to live on without active daily labor. The balance of us work regularly, for upon our personal effort depends our monthly pay check or our semi-annual dividend.

A woman is not justifying her name of good house-keeper if she pays more money for a home-made article than she would have to pay for something made elsewhere. Nor will she be justified in buying an inferior article for the same money she would have to pay for a superior piece of goods made outside the Carolinas.

But a patriotic housewife's duty to her state is to know of her own knowledge that she can not buy a home-made article of the same value for the same money that she must pay for the foreign-made merchandise.

When the women of the Carolinas look their dealer straight in the eye over the counter and demand to be shown the home-made products, he may not have them, but if enough women join in this work, he will get them.

A dealer sells what his customers want. Some of them are committed by contract or agency or personal preference to certain widely known products and may be slow to change. But they will change quickly enough when they see that the buyers have become open marketers.

Ask your dealer to show you a garment, or a kitchen utensil, or an article of food, or equipment for the farm, that has the Carolinas brand on it. If he does not happen to have it, step around the corner and get a price from the other man.

If it is a good article and you buy it, the next time you call your regular dealer will have it in stock.

He is in business to please you and you both are in the business of making the Carolinas greater and more prosperous.

Don't Be Surprised

You should not be surprised if your light bill is more in winter than it is in summer when you consider that you burn your lamps when the days are short and the nights are long.

In the summer you seldom turn on your lights before 7:30 at night while in winter it becomes necessary to turn them on about 5:30 so you can read if you wish. You will find on an average the year round you have used twice the amount of current in winter that you do in summer.

Then let's consider that it takes more current in winter to keep electrical appliances to their correct temperature.

When we take into consideration these facts we feel that our customers will understand why their light bills will run higher in winter than in summer.
