TUESDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1923

Early this year at a conference of leading business men, farmers and others, held in Columbia, the South Carolina Land Settlement Association was organized and officers elected.

This association requested the legislature to appoint a commission to investigate the policies of the United States Government on the Pacific Coast, and their application to South Carolina. The legislature granted the request and the commission was appointed.

The commission went West and gave the matter thorough study and have returned to South Carolina and are now in the state explaining to the people the idea and advantages of the South Carolina Land Settlement Association.

It has been found that there are now fewer white farmers who live on their farms than there were in 1910, why tenancy is steadily increasing. It was reported to the commission that 9000 white families have during the last two years moved from the farms to the cities.

Thousands of negroes have migrated. This has left a large amount of farm property uncultivated and the situation viewed from that standpoint is a very serious one for all of the ramifications of business in the state.

The best method of meeting this condition and assisting the 90,000 white families who now reside on farms as tenants to become permanent settlers through ownership, and how to sub-divide large land areas so as to make them productive and convert them into homes, constitutes the greatest economic problem before the state.

The best method of meeting this condition and assisting the 90,000 white families who now reside on farms as tenants to become permanent settlers through ownership, and how to sub-divide large land areas so as to make them productive and convert them into homes, constitutes the greatest economic problem before the state.

The news is not familiar with all of the details incident to the establishment of the association, but from a personal of the commissioner's report in brief it is evident that the object of the association is to assist farmers, especially small farmers, in buying farms and in diversified farming.

The plan is to buy farms, especially small farmers, in buying farms and in diversified farming. The plan is to buy farms, especially small farmers, in buying farms and in diversified farming.

South Carolina will never be the state it should be until the people as a whole get behind and lend their support to the man on the farm. If the farmers of South Carolina are prosperous then we are all prosperous and we should realize that when we help the farmer directly we help ourselves indirectly.

The regular meeting of the Chester Board of Education will be held Saturday morning, December 15, at 10:00 o'clock in the College Street School Building. This is the last meeting before Christmas, and all are urged to be present.

All teachers in the County, whether members of the State Center or not, are urged to be present at 11:00 o'clock as matters of importance are to be taken up relative to the County Teachers' Association being identified with the State Association. This meeting will take only a short time, just enough in which to reorganize the County Teachers' Association. All teachers in the County are urged to come to this meeting.

Resolved: Whereas God in His Providence has removed from us our beloved Charles J. B. Traywick, we do unitedly express our deep sympathy for the family and our appreciation of his worth and works and also our own deep sorrow for like Enoch of old, he walked with God and is not for ever taken home.

Second: Though we are distressed without him and at the thought that in our behalf and for the peace of the world we shall never more hear his benign voice in supplication which his sweet income ascended to the throne of God, still we are comforted in the confidence that our loss is his gain and that in the church triumphant his voice is mingling now in praise for the redeemed in which even angels can join.

Third: That his memory like precious diamond poured forth shall always linger with us and we pray that his precepts and example shall ever be our guide and our cheering in the day when we flee away, we shall meet again. Rest well thou grand soldier of the cross from thy fearless warfare against sin and Satan, thy soul shall always linger with us and we pray that his precepts and example shall ever be our guide and our cheering in the day when we flee away, we shall meet again.

WANTS SMITH FIRED.

Washington, Dec. 8.—Representative James B. Byrnes of Arkansas announced this afternoon that he had demanded the dismissal from the internal revenue service of Harold J. Smith, the revenue agent with whom Master B. V. Bray of Beaufort had an altercation, with the result that Bray knocked Smith down and Bray was subsequently convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary in Atlanta to serve one year.

Mr. Byrnes laid down an ultimatum to David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue. He told Mr. Blair that if Smith was not removed from office, that when the internal revenue bureau asked for its appropriations from the appropriations committee of which Mr. Byrnes is a member, the South Carolinian would make the matter an issue.

Then breaking the girls aside she robbet entered the cashier's cage and started examining bundles of currency into her pockets. The girls held a hasty conference but at break warnings from the woman with the gun decided it would be best to remain motionless.

After taking all the money in sight, the bandit walked calmly up stopping only to warn the clerks to stand facing the wall for at least 10 minutes to throw the bolt on the front door.

Today's holdup was the woman's second attempt to secure money from the savings bank by "cutman tactics." Several weeks ago she levelled a pistol at the head of Carl Smith, cashier and demanded that he give her all the money in his cage. A customer entered the bank at that time, however and the woman fled.

Today, wearing the same brown slacks, black hat, and her walking shoes, the woman bandit entered the bank while two girls clerks—

Adopting Intensive Cultivation
 A. W. Drinkard, Jr., director of the Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station, says: "The Institute for research in Land Economics and Public Utilities has recently published some significant data which show that agricultural production during the decade 1910-1920 increased, and at the same time farm acreage in the agricultural section decreased. The population of the United States increased 16 per cent in this decade. About one-half of the land in the United States is in farms. According to the fourteenth census, there were fewer acres in farms in 1920 than in 1910 in many of the States of the Corn Belt and in practically all the States east of the Mississippi. It appears that the less desirable land is being permitted to revert to pasture or woodland. The most significant point suggested by these studies is the trend towards more intensive cultivation and higher yields per acre, by which means production is increased, even though the area farmed may be stationary or even decreasing."

THE WEEVIL IN WINTER-QUARTERS
 Clemson College.—As was the case in the fall of 1922, conditions for boll weevils entering winter-quarters have been very favorable this fall, and there is every indication that a very large percentage of weevils have gone to winter-quarters, according to Prof. A. F. Conrad, Entomologist, who says that, should we have a mild winter with the conditions in the spring of 1924 similar to those of last spring, there will again have a big emergence of weevils next spring.
 Farmers should bear in mind particularly that the outstanding factor producing the cotton crop in 1923 was the dry weather. The crop was not made because of any outstanding efforts on the part of the farmer. Had this season been a moist one, it would have been practically impossible to make a profitable cotton crop in South Carolina, but the weather was with us and made the crop for us.
 "The fact that we had a dry summer is no guarantee that we will have another next season. Some say we will have a cold winter; others emphatically predict a warm winter. The safest course for any farmer to pursue is to proceed on the assumption that we are going to have a mild winter and a moist summer.

 "This means that unusual efforts should be made during this fall and winter in cleaning up the farm. It means, also, the building up of the land and the use of the best seed obtainable. Such practices constitute the best insurance against a favorable winter year in 1924 and the best course to pursue in case we have an unfavorable year.
 In personally receiving representatives of the Lord's Day Alliance, President Coolidge said: "I profoundly believe in the Sabbath and have always recognized its sacred importance." I appreciate the work your organization is doing for the preservation of the Christian Sabbath, and, with you, I feel that we should give attention not only to the physical aspects but also to the moral and spiritual phases of the Holy Day."

 All males between the ages of

YOUR HEALTH.
 By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.
 Has it ever occurred to you that too many of us are satisfied with past achievements? Because we have done fairly well in this and that field of endeavor, we rest on our laurels. Sometimes we are prone to think we have done our share.
 "I think I could forgive, that particular mental attitude, although it strikes me as abating an unwelcome complacency of mind. But there is another condition, all too common, which seriously impedes the progress of the race and which is fatal to the victim himself.
 "Some men, who have really done well in the past, settle down, gradually developing into human drones.
 "If they are office holders, the community suffers because no new things are done and the old ones are neglected. If they are preachers the sermons grow dull and the sacred activities of the church are undertaken in a routine way. As a natural result the congregation drops off and the churchy spirit dies. If the doctor fails to refresh and replenish his medical knowledge by frequent pilgrimages to the sources of wisdom, the new doctor gets the patients. Unless the merchant dresses his windows and showcases with new goods his more progressive rival gets the business.
 "Self-satisfied contentment and indifference to the progressing demands of life mean rest and disaster.
 "It is expected of every man that he shall never stop in his course. Every day must be a new day and not merely another yesterday. You can't arrive at your goal yesterday. Neither should you govern your activities by what you did yesterday. The solid ground you stood on yesterday is soft today and it will be quicksand tomorrow. Unless you move you will be quicksand tomorrow. Unless you move you will be swallowed up and destroyed.
 "It is exactly the same in the twenty-one and sixty years, except Confederate soldiers over the age of 50 years, are liable to a poll tax of $1.00, and all persons 70 liable are especially requested to give the number of their respective school districts in making their returns.
 "It will be a matter of much accommodation if as many taxpayers as possible will make their returns at the respective appointments mentioned above, so as to avoid the rush at Chester during the closing days.

POOR CAR LIGHTS A MENACE
 Cause Not Only Danger Due to Motor Lamps on Road.
 George W. Dancy in the Scientific American.
 "Not only is the man who drives a motor car with faulty lamps a menace to all those who meet or pass him, but he is a source of danger to himself and the occupants of his own car.
 "Dirty lamps and reflectors reduce the average efficiency of the head lamps and they become dangerous when they do not transmit sufficient light to the roadway to make driving safe.
 "Head lamps that are not parallel are extravagant profligate of light, as rays which should be reflected down the road serve only to illuminate the surrounding scenery.
 "Lack of focus, twisted lenses and head lamps tilted upward result in a waste of light and throw a blinding glare in the eyes of the approaching driver.
 "Head lamps that are tilted too far down light the highway for only a short distance in front of the car.
 "They produce a narrow zone of illumination extending a short distance ahead of the car. When corrected they should produce a broad zone of light extending 250 feet or more down the road.
 "Very few drivers realize that it is necessary to refocus the lamps each time a bulb is replaced on account of the slight difference in positions of the filaments in different bulbs and the possibility of accidental change in position of bulb socket during such replacement.
 "The practice of following a slow-moving car at a distance of 100 feet or more in passing another car may prove dangerous on a dark road unless the car is being driven very slowly; for it takes the driver's eyes an appreciable length of time to adjust themselves to the new conditions and until such adjustment is made the driver is practically blind so far as seeing the highway ahead is concerned.
 "Claiming that it creates a wrong impression of British Justice, the chairman of the Board of Governors of Toronto University, says Longfellow's "Evangeline" should be removed from all Canadian schoolbooks.
 "Retirement from business will not prolong your life—it will shorten it. God intended that every man should labor and you are leading a normal life only when you strive as you always have striven.
