A WORD FOR THE Y's

Installation of Y. W. C. A. officers has become a tradition with us, and a very beautiful one. This year it promises to be even more striking than it has been before.

In the ceremony each new cabinet member will receive from an out-going officer what is known, traditionally, as a magic lantern such as the one that Aladdin once carried.

We are all very interested in this installation of officers. The Y. W. C. A. is an active agency in our college; it is an organization which applies religion to everyday life, sanely and wholesomely, and which sets high ideals and lives up to them.

A REQUEST GRANTED

Two weeks ago we published an editorial asking that we be allowed to wear anklets on the campus; a week ago a petition for them was taken to our president; now, we see them all over the campus.

We appreciate the privilege; this response to our request seems to us the fairest, and most gracious one that could have been given under any circumstances.

ALL SIDES OF THE QUESTION

We have been watching with satisfaction the interest that has been shown in the Student Opinion column through the readiness and frankness of the responses that have been submitted for publication.

We have been a little puzzled, however, at two tendencies which we have observed. The first is the evidence of much destructive criticism and no constructive one.

The second very noticeable tendency—and closely akin to the first—is that of the majority's shouting and the minority's making no sound whatever.

Now we are frankly astonished. Surely twelve hundred girls do not have exactly the same opinion. We cannot decide whether the more conservative groups on the campus are intimidated by the clamor of the more radical, or whether they are not enough interested to state an opinion.

As a policy, The Johnsonian welcomes statements from both sides. Student Opinion is a column for representation of all groups. Every element has right to a voice in Student Opinion so long as its opinion is given in good spirit.

We are not denouncing the opinions we have been getting. Far from that, we like it; we want more of it. And we want to hear the other side, too.

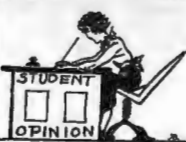

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Hope was a little girl who lived out West near the great Mills. One day she wanted to take a walk through the Woods which were pretty and green.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

- 1. Keep away from the truck men; they are usually fast. 2. Never make dates with biology students; they enjoy cutting up too much. 3. The football man is all right; but he will take anything. 4. You can trust a tank man, he will give in and do his best. 5. The tennis man is harmless, but he enjoys a racket. 6. Watch out for the baseball man, he hits and runs. 7. Be careful of the dramatic maid; she usually has a several good lines. 8. Don't play cards with a civil engineer; he is a bridge specialist. 9. Always let the members of the band talk about themselves; they enjoy blowing their own horns. 10. Don't read much literature as "Advice for Girls."

A screwy bird is the whiffle bird. A peculiar bird is he; He has his front, and eyes behind, But he just can't seem to see. She was only a yes-man's daughter, but hervidly didn't work. —The Bull Dog.

STUDENT OPINION

Question: Do you think our present system of lights out satisfactory or not? Why?

Allice Saly—One of the desired changes suggested is the one relating to our present "lights out at 10:30" system. I think that this change is desirable because most girls feel that an hour or so longer would give them ample time to complete some important studying. Furthermore, this privilege will prove a kind of discipline needed in our building of will-power.

Mary Haysworth—It seems to me that 10:30 is too early for college students to go to bed. Often that period from 10:30 until midnight is the time when the brain is most active. It is the time that a most conducive to creative writing and intelligent studying. It is the time when at last everything is quiet, and one may settle down to do the things that she has been too hurried all day to do.

Mary Sue Coughman—I wonder if one's saying, "lights out" reminds anyone else besides me of those days when mother came in and after cursing me nicely in bed, said, "It's time for my little girl to have her light out and go to sleep?" I honestly believe it does.

Having breakfast as late as we do, we could go to bed at 11:30 and still get our 8 hours of sleep—which, I think, is 1 1/2 number of hours required for a grown person to have in order to keep physically "fit."

Mary Donald—"Lights out" is an empty warning sounded by a proctor who rarely ever really means it unless she sees a matron turning the corner. How much time we waste snuggling the light on and off and listening for footsteps which experience has taught us to recognize! Certainly a much more successful degree of concentration could be attained if we did not have the possibility of getting caught by the night matron hanging over us.

There's so many things that happen all at once that I don't know where to put it. I think that the present system of quiet hour is not satisfactory, how could we build up a satisfactory system of light out? I think I can best Reply to box 254 by 2 o'clock Monday.

Thoughtless needless keep others from either profitable work or sleep. But Miss—To those girls who work or have classes from eight-thirty to four and then participate in some sport from four till five or even six, an extension of time till "lights out" would be a gift from the gods.

Sara Sue Hunt—The idea of "lights out" at 10:30, is probably all right for girls taking a "rest cure," but for girls that work, read, and study as much as Winthrop girls are supposed to, it is absurd.

Next Week's Question: Considering the fact that the present system of quiet hour is not satisfactory, how could we build up a satisfactory system of light out? I think I can best Reply to box 254 by 2 o'clock Monday.

News—Y's and Other Y's

There's so many things that happen all at once that I don't know where to put it. I think that the present system of quiet hour is not satisfactory, how could we build up a satisfactory system of light out? I think I can best Reply to box 254 by 2 o'clock Monday.

Did you go to the Easter service? I think a vote of thanks should go to Mr. Barber and to Mr. Roberts for the part they contributed—and to whoever it was who decorated the steps in Main Auditorium.

THE HIT OF THE WEEK

Life-size picture: Dr. Phelps in a great vacant space, his eyes blindfolded, his hands thrashing apart; his feet being picked up gingerly and set down experimentally. Maybe you think he was doing a toe dance of intricate and intriguing composition. But not he was momentarily expecting the crunching of shattered eggs, and trying to smash the eggs tenderly—though, much to his chagrin, when unrolled, he found that the eggs had long since gone the way of all eggs.

Gym-Cracks

Winthrop The sun is out again! Speaking of sun—our friends come out to the baseball field on the tennis courts and enjoy some fun while getting their sunbaths. If tennis and baseball are too strenuous for your "delicate constitutions," how about archery? There's nothing like it—ask some of the professional "archers." You should see Katie shoot a goal. One of the tennis students has a new slant on the implement with which you play the game. She asked her instructor, "How do you hold the bat?" Is deep breathing good for you? Ask Mary Ourg; she should know—For half a crown Marjorie Mitchell will tell you something "What about you guess... Did you know that the posts in the old Gym in the bottom of Main Building were padded to keep the girls from breaking their hands against them? Shades of y padded cells!—And then Betty Hickcox tells Miss Hoffman that it is calories instead of molecules that she is looking for in potatoes. Pating all diets—Reducing? or Gaining?—Did you read about the time Mary Ferguson woke up next morning with her tennis shoes on? Absent-minded? well—absent anyway. Ask Mary and Orla Lou how they make up Gym classes when they oversleep and arrive twenty minutes later!

Winthrop Sends Out A Deputation Team

Winthrop Y. W. C. A. will send a team to Presbyterian College Sunday, April 28. The girls on the team are Copie McCrary, Louise Howe, Mary Caroline Rogers, Elsie Plant, Emmie Lee Hair, and Lillie Rogel.

Freshman Debaters In Declamation Contest

Nora Morgan won first place in the Declamation Contest for members of the Freshman Debaters' League Thursday, April 18. Rebecca Barr and Jean Flynn tied for second place, and Grace Stucky won third place. The prize for first place was a box of hose, contributed by Friedheim's.

Poetry Society Meets Thursday Afternoon

Poems by the members were read and discussed, and the new constitution finally drawn up at a meeting of the Student Poetry Society held Thursday afternoon, April 22, in the Music Room of Johnson Hall.

Deputation Team Will Go to P. C.

Winthrop Y. W. C. A. will send a deputation team to Presbyterian College, Sunday, April 28. Miss Lillian Weidner and Miss Gladys Smith will accompany the team, consisting of Mary Caroline Rogers, Louise Howe, Copie McCrary, Lillie Rogel, Elsie Plant, and Emmie Lee Hair.

TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Professor Willis D. Magrains will speak concerning Winthrop Summer School, in connection with the sextette broadcast, Sunday, April 28. The sextette will sing "Lullaby's Holiday," by Fritsch; "Divided Chorus" by Cowen-Schneider; "Carmena," by Milkenberg; and "By the Waters of Minnetonka," by Litanence.

Pilgrim Parade

How real are Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims to you? To the students of Miss Ruth Alexander, in the Keowee High School, West Union, South Carolina, they are very real. In fact they are so real that these students have created models of the twenty-eight pilgrims; and these models are on display in Miss Maude Hall's exhibit-room in Johnson Hall. Here you will find the minutely accurate figures astride their horses and mules, all bound for Canterbury—a model of which Cathedral towers up in the distance. Sponge-iron, which are strikingly realistic, line the road-way. The Merchant with his "troubled beard" and the Yeoman in his "roote and hood of green"; and the Pranklyn with his "white beard." It is interesting to know that the students had no other model than a small picture of the Canterbury pilgrims to go by; and no description other than that of Chaucer.

Mrs. O. G. Naudain will entertain the Chemistry Club late afternoon at her residence at 919 Charlotte avenue, from 4 to 6 o'clock. There will be a program, including games and music, after which refreshments will be served.

BLUE SPECTATOR

We hear that our dignified Y. W. C. A. president had quite a little accident in front of Main Building the other day. It seems she saw the postman just when it happened. Well, well, ask her for an explanation... Everybody's so worked up over Junior-Senior and May Day that we can hardly stop them long enough to keep up on the gossip... They do stop long enough to denounce the newly-permitted anklets though. And Virginia McKeithen threatens to "divorce" Hattie Mae if the latter does not stop wearing red, white and blue striped socks... Says Dr. Phelps: "Don't believe most of what you hear about my driving"... Why is a certain professor on the verge of ostracism? (Is that a word?) Anybody that would assume a second term paper on April 29!... Ask "Dimples" why she attracted so much attention in the Library the other night... And ask Callie Crum about the one and occasion on which she conducted a young gentleman through the Library and he slid down... "Paul" and "Maude" live on the second floor South. You ought to hear the dialogues those two carry on!... A little drama offers vicarious relief once in a while, so we offer this skit. Take it for what it's worth: Characters: Ora Belle, Mary, Mary in Stitches.
Time: One day last week.
Place: Corner Trade and Main Streets, Rock Hill.
Enter Ora Belle and Mary. Ora Belle sees man in slouch hat standing on corner. Glances Mary hysterically.
Ora Belle: "Mary, who is that man? I'm sure I've seen him somewhere before; and I ought to speak to him; but I can't think of his name."
Mary: "You—that's Slouch."
Pause-out.
Miss Stephenson when viewing from the Nelly Don representatives Nelly Don is the company that makes our uniforms, cutie! innocently inquired, "I wonder if that's Mr. Don and Nelly?"... Speaking of uniforms reminds us of our pet puzzle, which is trying to figure out these people who persist in wearing white uniforms during rainy weather... Margaret McKnight says she's "excite, alluring, etc." We don't understand, but maybe she can explain... Doesn't Annie Rosenbaum ever sit still? She's always running hither and yon... "Weedy" Coggin says she's "most ready" to announce her engagement! and promises The Johnsonians copyrighted advance notices when the glad occasion takes place... All this in the strictest confidence, of course... All of us have nightmares at times, but it takes Marjorie Mitchell to wake up all of South, including Mrs. Carvitt... And it takes Mary Glover to really "fall" for Mr. Mitchell. As Miss Rollings says, "Mary would take the man in the library to slide down by"... What Sator goes out in town to "have dinner" with Johnny Wilson Moore every day?... Lou Howe and Anna Moss study at the same table in the Library. Lou says she's "counted Anne yawn nine times in three minutes"... Puzzle: Which one's doing the most studying? (We know one very choice scandal on Miss Moss, but she's threatened us grave injury if we publish it, so we must yield to blackmail). Lucretia Daniel contributes this joke: "One little fies had a fit and died. Another little fies had 'two fits and it died. Another little fies had three fits and it died. Another little fies had four fits, but it didn't die. Can you explain why? Survival of the fittest!"

I believe that the members of the debating profession are the only men who can tell a woman to open or close her mouth and get away with it.

WINTHROP WEEK BY WEEK

With Apologies to McIntyre.
Thingumbobs: Mrs. Hardin says she has too much vanity to wear socks... Did you see Mary Glover fall at Mr. Nichol's feet and in the library, of all places?... Harriet Parker had such a large time last week-end that she went to sleep Monday in Dr. Greene's physiology class... Mr. Maggins has devised a brand new method of teaching: the home work system. All our friends struggle nightly on "a paper for Maggie"... Louise Howe is to remind Dr. Wheeler of something or other next November! Question, Who'll remind Lou?... Mrs. Ross (we never can remember her new name) confesses that her new husband has three faults: (1) he smokes a pipe; (2) he is a little too tall; and (3) he says "damn." What a man! (and other trite expressions)... And did you know that Dr. Kinard's pet name for Mr. Graham is "Gendy." It is a "rather appropriate name for the bar-sar at that; it sounds so Roosty."... Dr. Phelps says his idea of good meals is to have strawberries on cereal for breakfast, strawberries on ice cream for luncheon, and strawberry short cake for dinner. To which he adds that his favorite fruit flavor is cherry. Inconsistency, thy name is... And Mrs. Hardin says she'll take raspberry!

We read this somewhere—the pie at present slips our memory: "What does one take on walking trips?" asks a correspondent. After the first five miles, a train... We intend to consult our perennial walking tour-er, Dr. Keith, for further information.

How do you like this little epigram? We found it rather expressive: Glasses Clasp painted modern stuff; He's done his best thing yet. They say the portrait will be brought—Or Query will; I forget.
Punch contributes an interesting bit of news: "A chemist has discovered that Vitamin B is to be found in hank. It is a rather appropriate name for the bar-sar at that; it sounds so Roosty."... We doubt whether there'd be room in our hush for even our little vitamin, however... Which reminds us of a man we know who won't eat hash away from home because he doesn't know what's in it; and he won't eat it at home because he does. Ha, hum!

Purely Personal Puff: Imagine our embarrassment when, upon being summoned to the Dean's office, we found we'd been the subject of conversation at the weekly matron chit-chat Monday morning. Reason: too many colors in our blouse... We felt much better, however, when Dr. Kinard, who had said he liked the aforementioned comment, confessed that he didn't know it was out of uniform... Personal nomination for the most-in-love person on the campus: Ethel Paris (proof: 8 spectators and a dozen American beauty roses since she's been in infirmary)... One of our favorite people: Dr. Jarrell... Mary Maggins has the most elegant photographs we've seen in signs—taken at her piano just after her recital. We'd suggest giving the stores down town warning before the next uniform change. Reason: There's not an anklet left in Rock Hill.

Here's another little jingle we like a lot. It's from the Post: If I seem dull this evening Don't blame it on the weather; It means I'd rather be alone. When we're always together.

Judge remarks: "And in Louisiana, we understand, they teach the 'Share Our Wealth' plan in the schools under the name of 'Loug' division"... We read the other day somebody's personal nomination, by the way, for "America's greatest man"—the other senator from Louisiana!

Here's one contributed by a Sophomore (not original): Spring! Spring! Spring! The bird is on the wing! My word!

How absurd! I thought the wing was on the bird.

Eleanor King told of a demonstration of recently developed sports which was given by Winthrop delegates at the meeting in Greensboro.

Contestants Entertain In Chapel On Tuesday

Visiting contestants at the State High School Music Contest entertained students of Winthrop College in a program given at chapel on Friday, April 19.

Mr. L. C. Maise, supervisor of music as finalist, presented a boys' quartette which sang arrangements of "Ain't Gwine Study No More," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and a piano soloist, Esther Barfield, who played "Violence Value."

Miss Katherine Kennedy, a member of last year's graduating class at Winthrop, and accompanist of the original Winthrop College Quartette, now supervisor of music at Great Falls, presented a girls' quartette in two numbers, "Will You Remember," and "Pirate Dreams." A girls' trio, which sang Kathleen Moxley's "In the Luxembourg Gardens" was presented by Miss Thelma Cook, a member of the graduating class at Winthrop in 1930, now music supervisor at Greer.

Chemistry Club Gives Play, 'The Gold Maker'

"The Gold Maker" is the 157th of a play presented at a meeting of the Chemistry Club, Wednesday, April 24 in the lecture room of Tillman Hall.

The leading character, Master Trevisan, was played by Anna Pitts; The Duke, by Caroline Shaw; Marco, by Frankie Webb; and Sacrabasta, by M. Hedges.

The play was directed by Frances Mealing.

Preceding the presentation of the play, Louise Gray gave a talk on the history of alchemy.
