HONORS ANNOUNCED AT 1935 COMMENCEMENT

Awards Are Made to Students Outstanding in Scholarship

Announcements were made at the 1934 commencement concerning the award of medals and scholarships.

The Sylvan Medal was presented to Christine White. This medal is awarded upon recommendation of the faculty to the member of the Senior Class who for four years has maintained the highest scholastic average.

The honorary scholarships are awarded upon the recommendation of the faculty to the students who complete without condition the work of their class in any of the four-year courses. In making this recommendation, the faculty takes into consideration the scholarship and deportment of the student. These scholarships were awarded as follows:

To three students completing the Junior class: Anna Pitts, Maxine Dye, and Walter Lee Gray; to four students completing the Sophomore class: Vicki McKeithen, Anna Little, Eddie Kardon, and Lila Bush; to five students completing the work of the Freshman class: Annie White, Adelaide Brookbank, Dorothy Rogers, Kate Hardin, and Mary Clever.

The A. Markley Lee Scholarship is awarded on recommendation of the faculty to a student who has completed without condition the full work of the Junior year of the regular normal course. In making this recommendation the faculty takes into consideration intellectual, moral and physical excellence during the Junior year. The A. Markley Lee Scholarship was awarded this year to Mary Stuart Mills and Virginia Scott.

Mr. Julius Friedheim, of Rock Hill, endowed two scholarships: one to be awarded to the member of the Junior class who has made the highest average in the first two years of college; and the other to the member of the Senior class who has made the highest average for the first three years of college work. The Freshman Scholarships were awarded this year to Anna Pitts and Virginia McKeithen.

Mr. Gill Wyche, of New York City, has provided two scholarships, one to be named for his mother, Mrs. Juliet Agnes Wyche, the other for his daughter, Mrs. Lucille Cannon Wyche Berg.

These scholarships are awarded to the two students making the highest average in their regular college work during the Freshman year. In awarding these scholarships general character is taken into consideration. To fill this vacancy created for the session 1934-35, this scholarship was awarded to Anna White and Mary Gallman.

For many years Dr. Donald Bancroft Johnson, founder and first President of Winthrop College, gave a gold medal to the student who contributed the best short story during the session to the Winthrop Journal. Mrs. Johnson has continued this award and has named it the Founder's Medal. It was presented to Ethel Carrington.

JULIAN MILLER ADDRESSES STUDENTS

Editor of Charlotte Observer Discusses Education in Chapel Wednesday

Mr. Julian Miller, newly-elected editor of the Charlotte Observer, discussed "The Function of Education and the Responsibilities of the Educated," in chapel Wednesday, September 14.

Mr. Miller stressed the three major functions of education: the development of the attributes of self-reliance, self-expression, and self-discipline.

Self-confidence and self-reliance, he pointed out, are synonymous. In discussing self-expression, Mr. Miller dwelt on the necessity of making the self express the best person possible.

As the supreme example of one who had practiced self-discipline, Mr. Miller pointed to Jesus Christ.

His final counsel expressed the idea, "Be good and all the good in the world will come out to greet you; and it will be safe and immovable."

After chapel Mr. Miller was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Phelps in the college dining room.

Winthrop Senate Passes Rules Endorsed By Faculty Committee

Approval of the following action taken by the Winthrop College Senate was included in a report of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs at a meeting of Senate, convened in Johnson Hall, Wednesday, September 17.

Students, when two or more are together, may accept rides directly to and from church and business districts of Rock Hill. At all other times permission to ride must be obtained from the Dean of Women or the dormitory hostess.

Students who have a general permission from their parents and the approval of their hostesses may have dates in the parlors of their own dormitories in Saturday and Sunday evenings, or on front campus Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Students are not allowed to go to the theaters of Rock Hill. Students may go to the hotels only with the permission of their hostesses or the Dean of Women. Students may go to the telegraph office, the postoffice, and the depot.

Lights may be kept on each night until 10:30 except Saturday nights and nights before holidays, when they may be kept until 11:00. Absent students must be registered after light bell. Each student must have one light cut each week, which will permit her to keep her light on not later than 12 o'clock. Permission for these light cuts must be given by proctors appointed by the Student Government Board.

The Faculty Committee approved the recommendation of the Senate that the rule "Students are not allowed to drive mails or tasks in the walls or dashes in any way the property of the college" be taken from under student government jurisdiction.

RATTING

Next Thursday and Friday Freshmen will undergo what has in some cases become an ordeal—rattting. It need not necessarily be made an ordeal, however. It can be just as much fun for both Freshmen and Sophomores if some of the "rites" which have become customary are omitted.

Last year we heard many wild tales (probably many of them fictitious) about such hair-raising stunts as tarring and feathering orgies, tobacco-spitting contests, and soap-chewing sprees. Let's be a little less drastic this year.

Everyone agrees that it's right to put the Freshmen to many tests before they are allowed the freedom of our venerable campus along with our venerable Sophomores. But it's all in a spirit of fun so, Freshmen and Sophomores, bring your sporting spirits along with you and go into it in a big way.

COULD WE HAVE KEYS?

Some of us would like to have the privilege of locking our rooms if we so desire. Although most of us do not like to admit it, still there is an occasional theft in the dormitories. We feel that if we had keys a double privilege would be enjoyed: We ourselves could enjoy a greater sense of security while we are away from our rooms for any length of time; and we would thereby remove temptation from weaker, easily-tempted individuals.

As a safety measure—such as in case of sickness, fire, etc., it would be a simple matter to supply our matrons or board members (or both) with either a duplicate key or a master key.

COLORED BLOUSES—THEN WHAT?

"Colored blouses may be worn," said the bulletin boards; and immediately the campus broke out in a rash of bright green and orange and yellow plaids. After pleading all these years for colored blouses, we show our appreciation by wearing the colors and combinations that are most unbecoming with navy blue, and the most flashy with white clothes.

So up goes another sign: "Pastel shades may be worn, but not red, plaids, checks, or deep shades of colors." And it's no more than we deserve; but it's less than we had hoped for. Although pastel shades are the most becoming with white clothes, the brighter solid colors are very enlivening with navy blue, especially during the winter months when navy blue begins to make one feel dreary. Particularly does a bright touch—a 'kerchief, for example—lighten a plain dark blue dress.

But, hurrah for pastels! It won't be too blue a winter.

THE "IDEAL MAN"

Anybody knows that a good proportion of the conversation among members of one sex is about members of the other sex.

Young women in a writing seminar at Wellesley colleges were enough interested in each other's "phantasias" about men to write a canvas of the class in order to determine each girl's qualifications for her "ideal man."

One list, that of a brilliant postscript, includes these points:

1. He must take a woman as a person, not as a woman.

2. He must be honorable.

3. He must be considerate in every way—this is most important.

4. He must have a broad interest (character, social ease, intelligence).

Another young author's list was very short:

1. He must be generous.

2. He must be ambitious.

The third list, that of a millionaire's daughter:

1. He should be gracious—the sort of graciousness that goes with a pipe and tweeds.

2. He must be helpless at times.

3. He must be a real person—three-fourths of all men have only a superficial knowledge of life.

4. He doesn't have to have a "moral" character.

Strangely enough, not one of the girls mentioned wealth or social position. After the answers were read in the class a visiting married woman asked for the room and declared, "You girls have been plotting suds, not men. In the first place, men should be intensely masculine. Then he should be broad-minded—that's about all you can ask!"—The Blue Stocking.

Father: "So you and the boy friend were reading with the lights out?"

Daughter: "Yes, sir, reading."

BLUE SPECTATOR

September's here again, and with it comes another load of Freshmen, bless 'em. We tease them, we poke fun at them, we worry them nearly to death, but what would we do without them? . . . First of all we have hardly hit the campus before we hear of the Freshman who wrote Dr. Phelps to ask whether she should wear her skirt-tail in or out. . . . And so the week goes . . . Sunday afternoon we are nearly knocked down by two Freshmen dashing to the Post office "to see if the 2 o'clock mail is up" . . . and on and on . . . The Sophomores are about having Rat week so late—in sheer desperation they've had to fit up their own rooms. . . . And the poor Freshmen heads are in a whirl. . . . As one writes home to mom, "I am, I saw, I did not know". . . . With the steel super tonight, The Johnsonian staff are trying to be back on the legal trail. They're a hungry lot, those reporters and their dinner-parties are famous. . . . Madeline Hayneworth trails merrily around, and dolefully remarks: "It's no fun being a shadow when there's nothing to shadow" (Blair Mary's at the University of North Carolina this year) . . . But isn't it grand to hear her protest that she isn't able to do one earthly thing. The Journal is already in possession of some lovely poetry she wrote last year. . . . Rumor has it that Erskine will play P. C. in York instead of Rock Hill this year. How we hope they'll change their minds! . . . Mary Maginnis is still floating around the campus despite the attractions in New York and at Columbia University. . . . According to the Seniors who enjoyed "Meat on the campus" Sunday afternoon, a most remarkable writer was ushered up to second floor during that time. . . . Ask Miss South about our first experience in diving. . . . Flash: Dr. Wheeler is the father of a 7-9 pound son, born at 3 a. m. Monday morning. Our unanimous suggestion for a name: Paul Mowbray Wheeler, Jr. . . . Encouraging news! British pictures won't go on forever, according to a rumor from a reliable source . . . and Dr. Kinsard says that, as far as he can remember, it hasn't rained on a "Blue-line-Sunday" for forty years.

"INSECURE!"
A physics class out at the University of Montana was being instructed in the laws of the solar system. A pendulum hung from the ceiling was set to swinging and the bob was marked on a flat table. After a few hours measurements of the class were shown that the angle of the pendulum on the mark had changed, indicating the turning of the earth.

"Gosh," a young freshman said as he made his way out of the room, "Gosh, but I felt insecure."—The Blue Stocking.

Gym-Cracks

Back to the athletic field and gym! It is a wonderful feeling, isn't it, upperclassmen? Freshmen, get in the swing!

Be sure here and there around the gym: Bertie Wyman—"scared to death"; Clara Wall and "Pleasant" Claus diving and swimming in the pool. Neil Jackson getting the feel of the diving board again. Miss Wellner very excited over top dog, Scotty, 11½ still in Wisconsin but short time back for it.

Hockey starts next week! The game that thrillers everyone! To those who play it, there's nothing to say but to you who are new we say—"Come out! You couldn't find a better crowd, more fun, or a grander game!" We want everyone of you out there! Eleanor King, chairman of the club, is helping Miss Wellner start the Freshmen a week earlier so they'll have a lead on us.

Swimming Club is to meet next Monday. Then after that every Wednesday afternoon at four in the pool is to be regular meeting time. Miss Hammack and "Diddy" are starting things in a big way. Freshmen, everyone can join—so keep up that trim figure!

Did you hear? "Ellie" had a case of measles at camp this past summer. Sara Touchberry came calling on her alma mater—you remember her athletic prowess. Polly McNeill was another visitor at the gym.

The Seniors are rejoicing! Carrie Morgan is back, and those who remember two years ago can remember what a splendid Hockey player she was!

We're for starting a Recreational Sports Club—play badminton, deck tennis, shuffleboard and the like. Then a notice is posted cancelling the first meeting—show up and hand your name in.

Archery and tennis are to be started. So get the racquets out and Margaret Cone and Babe La Boell furnish the bows and arrows.

The Y. W. C. A.—Athletic Association's party at the Shack seemed to be aousing affair. After the program the "girls" weren't quite ready so the Freshmen entertained themselves with stories ranging from "Ah Sleep Mystery of Life" to "The Man on the Flying Trapeze." Augusta Cochran is the prime pianist—she can play like there was nothing to it—Just hum a song and she'll know it!

So all of you—come to the gym, have a grand and glorious time there! Anything you want to do or play we'll try our best to see that you can. The radio'll be ready for dancing after supper soon and so morning, noon, and night we'd like to please you!

He was a senior at Sewannee
And his friends all called him Johnny
Who for the dances had secured a date
Now this flossie's name was Flo
And she was his o. o.—
But Johnny's invitation was too late.

She accepted it all right,
But Johnny's awful plight
Was locating her a place in which to stay;
Like Harken's Smoky Joe.
He looked high and he looked low
And his outlook soon became exceeding gray.

He went to Mrs. Rogers
Who was loaded down with lodgers.
And then he hid himself to Mrs. Hale;
But he found her house replete
With the feminine elite
And he couldn't get a room to put his cruff.

He went over to Monteglas
(Where the rates are high illegal)
An' there he found the story just the same.
Johnny wasn't even able
To secure an empty stable
In which to lodge his unsuspecting dame.

But he didn't give a rip—
For he couldn't keep his worries off his mind;
He was losing all his sleep
In spite of counting flocks of sheep—
For the housing problem had him in a bind.

Out of mental persecution
There emerged the sole solution.
But then Johnny always had been quite astute—

He telegraphed his sugar
(Who abode in Chattanooga).
"My Darling, I must ask you to come in."

One Clerk to Another: "Junior asked me where he came from today! What shall I tell him?"

The Parker Vacumatic—Invented by a University Professor to replace pens that suddenly run dry in Classes and Exams

Holds 12,000 of ink—10% more than old style . . . When held to the light you can see the Ink Level—see token to refill!

THE marvelous new Parker Vacumatic is no more like the pens of yesterday than your 1936 car is like '28 model.

It's the identical pen you've often used that someone ought to invent.

Scores of inventors tried to—fully 250 various pens were patented before this miracle writer was born. But none found a way to surmount the mechanical faults of squat-gum piston pumps, valves, etc.

Then a scientist at the University of Wisconsin conceived the Vacumatic. After many experiments with a leading pen maker, agreed to develop it because it contained no rubber sac or lever filler like sac-type pens—no piston pump as in ordinary sac pens.

That's why Parker can—and DOES—guarantee the Vacumatic MECHANICALLY PERFECT!

Because there is nothing else like it in the United States and foreign countries have granted Parker patents.

Selected Limericks

There was a young woman named Florence;
Who for kissing professed great abhorrence;
But when she'd been kissed
And found what she'd missed
She cried till the tears came in torrents.

I'd rather have tingers than toes,
I'd rather have ears than a nose,
And as far my hair;
I'm glad it's all there;
I'll be awfully sad when it goes.

There was a man in Henderson,
Who had a tall and slender son,
A handsome rat;
Who used a nail
To fasten his suspenders.

There was a young man from Japan,
Who wrote poetry nobody could scan;
When told this was so
He said, "Yes, I know;
But I always put as many words in the very last line as I possibly can."

There was an old man in a hearse,
Who murmured, "This might have been worse;
Of course the expense
Is simply imm...na,
But it doesn't come out of my purse."

There once was an old man of Lyme,
Who married three wives at a time:
When asked, "Why a third?"
He replied, "One's absurd!
And bigamy, sir, is a crime."

For beauty I am not a star,
There are others more handsome by far;
But my face—I don't mind it;
For I am behind it;
It's the people in front that I jar.

Said an old bear in the sea,
"When I have nothing to do—
It's boring, you know,
To walk to and fro—
I reverse it and walk fro and to."

There was an old fellow named Green,
Who grew so abnormally lean,
And flat, and compressed,
That his back touched his chest,
And sideways he couldn't be seen.

A tutor who taught the flute
Tried to teach two young tochers to too;
Said the two to the tutor,
"It's harder to too or
To tutor two tooters to too!"

There was a young person named Ned,
Who dined, before going to bed,
On lobster and cream,
And salad and jam;
And when he awoke he was dead.

The Sultan got sick on his harem
And invented a scheme for to scare 'em;
He caught him a mouse
Which he locked in his house;
(The confusion is called harem-scarem.)
