Winthrop is facing a limit on its own resources and will have to make some important decisions in the near future.

Winthrop has been trying to cut costs and increase efficiency in recent years. The university has been facing financial difficulties and has had to make some tough decisions.

Winthrop is looking for ways to improve its services while reducing costs. The university is exploring new ways to increase revenue, such as through partnerships with other institutions. The university is also considering ways to reduce expenses, such as by consolidating departments and eliminating unnecessary positions.

Winthrop is committed to providing a high-quality education to its students, and the university is working hard to ensure that its students have the resources they need to succeed.

Winthrop University, located in Rock Hill, South Carolina, is a private, co-educational, liberal arts institution. The university offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs.
Election Task

Immediately after Senate changed the old nomination process, the student body at large had to run for major campus-wide offices to the country. As a result, in order to be eligible for nomination, each student must fulfill this important presidential requirement. Each voting student must consider the plan of the candidates, look at their past experience and then decide upon her candidate. We must vote wisely.

We must also keep in mind that the shift in responsibility from the Senate nominating committee to the student body was a wholesome and progressive move.

This trend is the capabilities of students was apparent, easily placed for all of the student organizations which are seeking new officers in this first campus-wide election. We have at least one candidate for each office.

We removed the student body from the acceptance of the task which was given to them this year for the first time. The result might be better; and, perhaps, as the system of nomination by petition proves more feasible for all students, there will be a greater response.

Now, only one half of the process of student representation in the form of election task remains. The first, and perhaps the most difficult, is the assurance of participation by each voting student. Only by each student considering the plan of the candidates, looking at their past experience and then deciding upon her candidate, can we vote wisely.

The Johnsonian Editor-

Dear Editor:

I am sorry to quibble about the old election system, as I am on the side of change. The old system was a difficult one to work with, and I believe it not only wasted a great deal of time but also took away from the ability of students to campaign effectively for their candidates. The old system also made it difficult for students to be aware of the issues at hand and to form their opinions accordingly.

I was pleased to see that the new system of election was put into place this year. The new system is much more efficient and allows for greater participation by the student body.

I look forward to seeing the results of the new system and hope that it will continue to be successful.

Sincerely,

Three Respond To Review

Questioning Judicial Board

Dear Editor:

I would like to comment on the "Review" editorial, July 25. It is quite evident that the editorial was not well thought out or written. One sentence reads, "We believe that the judicial board has no authority to question the decisions of the Senate." This is simply not true. The judicial board has the authority to question the decisions of the Senate, and it is their responsibility to do so.

For example, if the Senate were to pass a resolution that violated the constitution, the judicial board would have the authority to question it. This is a fundamental aspect of their role, and it is not up to the Senate to decide whether or not the judicial board can question their decisions.

I hope that future editorials will be more thoughtful and well-written.

Sincerely,

CANDIDATES STATE PLANS

KARIN WOLFE

Karin Wolfe, a candidate for the Winthrop Recreation Association, is not to provide, promote and direct a campus-wide program of elective and co-recreational activities. She also stresses that the Executive Board should become more involved in the day-to-day running of the Association and that individual group or an individual effective and require vested effort for the few people involved. Student unions already have many recreation programs, and this is not a plan of having between the numbers for the students. The students should be the primary goal of the Recreation Association and their views will be heard. We need a more prominent and active role for the Recreation Association.

LINDA D. "BAY" POWELL

Carried on entirely separate from the student body budget, the Recreation Association would become more prominent and active role for the Recreation Association.

Students have stated that they want to feel that their input is valued and that the Recreation Association is not just a group of people who make decisions for them. Students should be actively involved in the planning and decision-making processes of the Recreation Association.

The Recreation Association should be made up of elected members who are accountable to the students. The elected members should be selected through a democratic process and should be responsive to the needs and desires of the students.

The Recreation Association should be responsible for the planning and implementation of recreational activities on campus. This includes the development of policies and procedures for the delivery of recreational services, as well as the provision of funds for the implementation of these activities.

The Recreation Association should also be responsible for the evaluation of the effectiveness of the recreational programs on campus. This includes the collection of data on the use of these programs and the assessment of their impact on the students.

The Recreation Association should work closely with other university committees and organizations in order to ensure the best possible use of resources.

The Recreation Association should be accountable to the students, and its decisions should be made in the best interests of the students. The students should have a voice in the decision-making process and should be able to express their concerns and ideas.

Three Run For Judicial Post

By BARBARA BENNETT

Barbara said, "I wonder how many students at Winthrop take time to understand the workings and purpose of our Judicial Board? Most students would neither care or even discuss issues of Judicial Board at all.

"Our Judicial Board is comprised of six students from the various classes who are elected by the student body. This board serves as an impartial plus in helping students resolve their disputes and understand how the student body has a say in the decision-making process. It is our responsibility to be fair and impartial when resolving these issues.

"The purpose of our Judicial Board is to see that the principles of a democratic society, which break major college rules are fairly punished, if necessary. Because, as we all know, everyone has an equal chance to be heard.

Gagner Unopposed For SGA President

The highest campaign-wise to be offered, the president of the student government association has one only candidate. Frank Gagner, announced for this office. Frank stated his platform in the following:

"I am sure each student realizes the importance of his President. It is imperative that we maintain a balance between study and fun for the student involved but also for the rest of the student body, which may be tolerated and ignored. A college as a whole, A college is a community, integrity and loyalty are most important. Our system of government is therefore based on the whole atmosphere of the school. It is the best part of it.

TREAGA PELLE

"With this in mind, the rules must be amended to accommodate the needs of students. Currently, the student government association has made many changes to meet the needs of an ever increasing student body. As I move to every one of these amendments, the board must change. Only through the cooperation of the student body can the Judicial Board ever continue to meet the needs of Winthrop."
