DR. PHELPS ADDRESSES STATE LIBRARY GROUP

Winthrop Ensemble and Sextette Perform at Library Meeting Held Here

Dr. Shelton Phelps addressed the South Carolina Library Association at its closing session, Friday night, October 8, in Johnson Hall, on the subject, "Trends Toward Independent Study." In his speech, Dr. Phelps outlined and explained the principles of the college using the independent system of study. As he set forth in a doctoral dissertation entitled "The Library Arts College."

"The basis of this college," he stated, "is the gift of a library. The college is a Utopia in which the president, the teachers, and the librarians are gone. Instead, there is a librarian instructor. The class rooms have been turned into reading rooms. Independent study has replaced study as we know it now; recitations are gone. The climax is a final oral examination."

Schools like this, he stated, would be based on intellectual selection. There would be, consequently, a policy of education for the intellectual elite -- the few, not the masses. The people who adopt it must ask, "Which profits more -- lift the whole mass a little bit, or a small part a very much greater bit?"

Dr. Phelps declared that this plan would meet opposition from those parents, a large majority of whom believe the function of the school is to teach them to support selection; but selection is the only way for schools to have a high scholastic average. "In the Library Arts College," he said, "the methods are different, but the fundamentals are the same; and the purposes are the same, but the processes call for adaptation."

In citing qualifications for the librarian instructor, Dr. Phelps listed the following: he must be adept, a very superior tutor, broadly and generally educated, able to guide students in any field, intimate enough with students to direct aid, competent of checking on the achievement of the student to prepare him for the final examination, competent of checking on parts of the college and restoring those that are "broken" and capable of performing tasks pertaining to the library.

"I do not believe," he concluded, "that the Library Arts College can assume all these duties immediately. There is, I believe, a place in every university for a Library Arts College. It is not to absorb the university or the teaching of the masses, but the university to supply the independent study courses talked about for the last decade."

Following Dr. Phelps' address, Miss Marian Beal, Director of the North Carolina Library Commission, discussed co-operation among libraries of the United States. Miss Beal spoke briefly of the increasing establishment of libraries by the extension workers, and of the widening circulation of books through the extension department. Miss Beal concluded her speech by asking the Library Association to co-operate in placing libraries within reach of everyone, regardless of county or state boundaries.

The Winthrop string ensemble played "Eureka" (Ortiz) and "Serenade" (Chambliss); and the sextette sang "Sweetheart" (Harbert) and "Auf Wiedersehen" (Romberg) prior to the address.

TATLER AWARDED FIRST CLASS HONOR

1935-36 Winthrop Annual Rated With Thirteen Others in United States

Ora Belle Huck, editor-in-chief of The Tatler for 1935-36, has recently been informed that last year's Tatler (1934-35) has been awarded first class honor rating by the National Scholastic Press Association. The book was one among thirteen others in the United States which were awarded first class honors. Last year's year-books were criticized by Fred Nor and judged by scores from the All American Critical Service. Mr. Nor is the present editor of the Collegiate Digest. For three years previous to this he had been a member of the editorial staff of The Wisconsin Badger.

REPRESENT WINTHROP AT HOCKEY CONFERENCE

Southern Field Hockey Conference Held in Alabama Last Week

Mrs. Lillian Welner, Katie Coker, Virginia Harley, Lorena Galloway, and Marjorie Mitchell attended the Southern Field Hockey Conference on the Alabama State College campus, Friday and Saturday, October 4 and 5, in Montevallo, Alabama. This conference was held under the auspices of the Physical Education Department of Alabama State.

A very concentrated course in hockey technique was presented by Miss Alfred Moser, Head of the Physical Education Department.

Faculty and students of nine southern colleges were present. The schools represented were: Florida State College for Women, Agnes Scott, Mississippi State College, Judson College, Huntington College, University of Georgia, Howard College, Winthrop College, and Alabama State.

Friday, October 4, strokes, rules, tactics, forward line play, and defense play were discussed. All hockey teams were chosen and a game was played. Play was resumed Saturday morning after ample discussion and further stroke practice. After dinner, tactics and team play were the topics of interest. During the play Saturday afternoon Miss Moser and Welner demonstrated umpiring.

Invitations to a "ball held" dance, at the gymnasium Saturday, October 5, from 7:30 to 10 p. m., were given to visitors in the form of subsequent commanding that they be present. An orchestra playing behind the bars furnished the music for the dance, which closed the hockey conference.

ETA SIGMA PHI IN INITIATION

Six Pledges Formally Taken Into National Classical Fraternity Here Saturday Night

Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classical fraternity, received into membership six pledges, Saturday night, October 5, in the music room of Johnson Hall. After the normal initiation, the neophytes were conducted on "A Trip to Mount Olympus." Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the initiation.

The new members include two juniors, Carl Woods and Gary Johnson; and four seniors, Mary Caroline Umar, Anne Rosenblum, Rachel Ray, and Virginia McKelthen.

Miss Chlo Fink Will Sponsor Writers' Club

Miss Chlo Fink has been elected sponsor of the Writers Club to succeed Miss Kansas Hall who organized the club and has been its sponsor heretofore.

Miss Fink, because of her interest in creative writing and her ability as a critic, has many qualifications for the sponsorship.

The present members of the Writers Club are Dimple Thomas, president; Micky Speight, secretary; Marydell Wilson, Caroline Crum, Ora Bell Huck, Betty Carrison, and Mary Stuart Mills.

MADAME RETHBERG SINGS AT WINTHROP

Metropolitan Opera Star Appears in First Artist Course Number of Year

Elizabeth Rethberg, leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will appear as the first number of the Artist Course in Main Auditorium, Thursday, October 17, at 8 o'clock.

Rethberg is known to audiences in every part of America and Europe, and is recognized by them as the reigning lyric-dramatic soprano. Some of her greatest successes have been as Isolde in Tristan and Isolda, and as Desdemona in Otello, and as the title character of Toscanini. She has often been chosen by renowned composers to create the prima donna role in world premieres of their operas.

Elizabeth Rethberg was born in a village in the Erz Mountains, which make a barrier between Saxony and Bohemia. At seven she already knew many songs from the repertory of her father, who was an amateur singer of ability; at ten she played the piano well enough to be in demand for concerts by local talent. Her sixteenth birthday brought her departure for Dresden, where she entered the noted conservatory for vocal training and piano. There Elizabeth Rethberg was near by Fritz Reiner, at that time conductor of the famous Dresden Opera; and she was offered a contract with the opera. When Dresden heard the young Elizabeth at her debut, the career of Rethberg was started. On leave of absence she sang in Vienna, and the neighboring cities. Word of her success reached New York; and the Metropolitan secured her. Her debut and first concert in New York created sensations. Ever since, Rethberg's powers have kept her singing throughout this country in the fields of concert and opera. At the end of the musical season here, she is in demand for foreign engagements in London, Rome, Paris, Milan, Dresden, Budapest, and other European capitals.

Madame Rethberg's appearances are followed by loud praise from the critics, one of whom has said, "This artist has exceptional gifts to offer her public. A voice of rare beauty and purity of tone, a free, effortless production, and above all, an ability to interpret great music so that the intention of both poet and composer come through to her audience."

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1935

It is with the deepest sorrow that the student body learns of the death of Margaret Rainey, Class of '35, which occurred yesterday morning. Our profound sympathy goes out to her family.

LET'S DRESS!

We would all like to join together, and with one big voice, thank Dr. Phelps and Mrs. McBryde for our weekly dinners at night. These dinners, coming in the midst of the hodge-podge and rush of our every days, help us to remember that there are things that can be done slowly and with pleasure, and should be done in that way.

Through the ages writers have told us of the peace and happiness that can be found in having a meal with one's friends forming a smiling circle around the table. Let's set aside our Wednesday nights particularly to smile at each other (of course smiles are appreciated at any time) and, in order to make it seem more as it should be, let's dress. Of course we don't mean dinner dresses; we mean clean, fresh uniforms. Freshly laundered collars would help and freshly combed hair can make a world of difference. Let's get out our party faces and party manners and try it.

THE SOUTH "COMES BACK"

Seventy-five years after Lee's surrender at Appomattox, the South has staged a remarkable comeback—from quite an unexpected direction. She has, at last, found an agreeable way of "cashing in" on her negro population—the grandchildren of those self-same slaves who were wrested away from her three-quarters of a century ago. The rise in popularity of negro literature has been the main factor in this comeback.

The enthusiastic reception accorded Du Bose Heyward's "Porgy and Bess" in Boston a few nights ago dispels any doubts as to the popularity of negro literature. The Southerner, wise fellow that he is, is commercializing the illiterate negro amongst whom he has grown up. He does not glorify the negro as northern writers are prone to do; he presents the negro in his every-day rags and tags, and what happens? The northerners eat it up, and ask for more! Need we look beyond the warm reception of Joel Chandler Harris, Julia Peterkin, and Marc Connelly for further proof?

Strange as may be the twistings and turnings of fate, it seems somehow fitting that the descendants of those who first caused the trouble between North and South should be the medium through which they are welded together again. Truly, the South has come back. Through the ingenuity of her own people, the South has come back.

ON FILLING FOUNTAIN PENS

Do you fill a fountain pen correctly? Yes? Well, if you do, you are one of the few people whom we know that has mastered the art.

Really, the large number of human beings that can't perform this simple task well would amaze you—and we aren't speaking of the more complicated types of fountain pens, either.

How often do we go to class and discover at the crucial moment when the teacher tells us to write something that must be in ink—that our pen is as dry as Will Rogers' humor. Or perhaps you get halfway through a test and then your pen fails you. (It would fail just as you were signing an important contract if you were in business.)

Not speaking as authorities on the subject, we would like to suggest from our position on the sidelines that this might be remedied by leaving your pen in the ink bottle thirty seconds instead of fifteen.

And perhaps there are other minor details of living that, if done correctly, would make things run smoother.

CHARACTERISTICS OF A USEFUL COLLEGE

By Dr. Charles Duncan McIver

The love of truth for truth's sake; the belief in equality before the law; the belief in fair play and in the willingness to applaud an honest victory in every contest, whether on the athletic field or in the classroom or in social life; the feeling of common responsibility; the habit of tolerance towards those with whom one does not entirely agree; the giving up of small rights for the sake of greater rights that are essential; the recognition of authority and the dignified voluntary submission to it even when the reason adopted by the authority is not apparent; the spirit of overlooking the blunders of others and of helping those who are weak; the contempt for idlers and shirkers; the love of one's fellow-workers even though they be one's rivals; patience in toll; self-reliance; faith in human progress; confidence in right; and belief in God—these are the characteristics of the atmosphere of a great and useful college.

—The Carolinian.

Blasphemy King-Pep meeting, as it has been staged for the past number of years, is absolutely pointless. The purpose of the whole thing is supposed to be to stimulate interest among the students toward the coming hockey games, so that they will be on the bleachers at the games to spur their team to victory.

As it is now we all have a yelling good time on Friday night—it looks grand and sounds fine. Blatant plans are made for weeks ahead, members of the faculty—some of whom have never seen a game—and probably think it a lot of hoosey! make speeches lauding certain teams. After the cup is presented, everyone goes home, beats and grumbles because, according to their estimation, the wrong class got the cup.

On Monday the games start—the bleachers are empty except for a few stragglers who just "happened by". Everyone has forgotten the connection between Pep Meeting and the Hockey Games—or did they ever know?

So Pep Meeting loses its very reason for being. The classes are no longer interested in showing loyalty to class and class teams, but rather in seeing if they can holler louder than the girls next to them.

If Pep Meeting is to be continued, I suggest we change the name. How about a Hop-Calling Contest?

Diary Of A Maid In Uniform

Oct 8: Spid beetle day trying to get home. Deep seriously down. Don't look up. A Dr. Smarsh's boom, and on Iva's sympathetic and comforting shoulder. Finally phone home (cost: 30c) and at six special perulations and a couple of doctor's certificates, as I should have known to do in the first place. A girl's best friend is her mother.

Oct. 10: Receive greatest shock of a long life. Get letter from Big Sister with a dollar ($1) enclosed, wherewith to pay my room dues. Take it to room and frame immediately. Received five dollars yesterday from Mother, allegedly for same Maquer (dues).

Oct. 11: Roommate at last agrees to dispose of the petrified potatoes she has been trying to sprout in the window next to me. She can no longer refuse to see that the scrofulous ones are gradually smothering off.

She replaces potatoes with large bunch of goldenrod. With longevity for punitive possession.

A Complaint

Hark ye!! Hark ye!! All you lads and ladies!! (Pardon me, there are no ladies!) I beg you to lend an ear of kindest attention for one short moment in the name of Whitman College and colleges of our great U. S. A!

This not swelling any response, I ask it in the name of common sense. "Who are you?" you ask impatiently. Well, to be specific, I'm only a piece of wood, commonly called the closet door, but really, I have a heart of pure gold. Behind me is usually a man, upon all shapes and sizes, but they all add up to what you would call a closet. If you ask me, it's the plain old junk pile, or probably a life-saver in disguise, and you're plenty thankful it is in disguise. In my event, my friend and I have stood things long enough. We beg, please, nob. Implore, ask you to stop mistaking us. Oh, you didn't know you were!! Ah, now, and I ask the age-old question, "What is this generation coming to?" Well, also, they have always been this (in the generation I mean). What a pity it all is, but now I shall endeavor to take Mr. Closet's and my own fate in my hands. Stop slamm'g us, sticking nails in us, pitching clothes in us, tearing us down, beating us as if it were our fate. Cross my heart, we had absolutely nothing to do with any of all this. Forgive this outburst, but it's become quite unbearable! Always remember, my children, if you would do nice people as you would like—many would be the chopped neck!! Oh, I forget, that's all wrong, but I've been here years, and I still haven't learned the Golden Rule right. Have you? F. Z.

Another argument for the virtue of higher education is seen in the statement by Warden Lewis B. Lewis of Sing Sing prison that college graduates make very good prisoners.

Lon's Luscious Limerick

Lon Howe is in the habit of resolving poetic expressions from his friends. The following sample was his most recent acquisition:

CHUB A CHERRY CHAT

The Beginning of a Perfect Day
Poggy Frolicsomeness For Finding Fabulously
Fleekie Friends (For Finding For Fine Folk)
Plumbly, Plumbly, Plumbly, Plumbly
Flaunted From Francis Farrington's
Fruity Fruitful, Fruitfully Fruiting
Fascinatinly Fantastic Feasting.
(Poogy.)

When from my sleep I do awake,
From dreams of drowning in a lake,
I lie and think, "Oe!" "Oe!" "Oe!"
Far from overflowing in my proverbial cup.

I dress in clothes long since outworn,
The trousers tattered, the jacket torn,
The shirt night air, laden with fog
Has left them damp, they feel like a bog.

I pull on my shoes, breaking a string
(Oh pain),
And I gleefully find a button gone
From my vest.

I prepare my toilet, get soap in my eyes,
Silt my face with the razor, saying things far from nice.

Thence to my breakfast do I take my way;
Some folks seem cheerful, "Good morning!" they say.

But my! Only of gloom can I boast;
Soon I will find that the cook's burnt my toast.

My orange is sour, I choke on the seeds;
Then I pick at some junk that tastes worse than weeds.

My coffee is bitter, has a consistency of mud;
How I envy a cow, peacefully chewing her cud!

My eggs are half cooked, obnoxiously slimy,
I must gulp them so quickly you can't even time me.

I search obliviously for worms in my grits,
If I find one I'm sure I'll be at the end of my wits.

When done I look out upon the dastard-
ing day,
My thought—languorous and far from gay.

I think of the gloom that the day will bring,
Truly there is little of which to stung.

I realize that thousands are going to die,
But that is not what makes me cry;
Just remember the fact, so sad, so forlorn,
That a lot of poor wretches are going to be born.

Poems are made by fools like me,
Til' you've got them 'til you've said 'em.

TWO YEARS BEFORE EXAMS

New York (UPI)—One hundred lucky freshmen at N. Y. U. have been selected to take the new "unified course" which leads to a comprehensive examination at the end of the second year. Until then the students choose for "superior preparation" to be given individual guidance through various courses designed to stimulate "broad cultural appreciation of values in all significant phases of contemporary life."

The program will dovetail into the regular liberal arts course. The first year it will include the fundamentals of the physical sciences; the history of Western culture; art or music and one elective, with special attention on the languages.

In the second year there will be courses in biology and psychology, analyses of the social sciences, social and community problems, literature, philosophy and an elective.

PROFESSORS FORCED TO RESIGN
Professor Kipp of the law faculty at the University of Bonn, Germany, was forced to resign because his maid par-treached a Jewish butcher.

At the University of Berlin, M. Wolf and E. Kaufman, prominent profes-sors of international law were retired. Professor W. Koehler, world famous psychologist and an Aryan, has resigned in protest against the treatment of his colleagues. There are no courses in international law at the University now due to the anti-Semitic purge.

BLUE SPECTATOR

Spectating was very poor last weekend with so many people gone home. But their compensation in the rather essential matters of home that were brought back... Which reminds us—only ten more week-ends till Christmas... Two Seniors and a Junior in Bancroft spent an unusually profitable evening last Saturday. They found some spots and blew bubbles... After the meal and questioning on our part, we found out the whereabouts of the "Sunday dinners" for certain week-day suppers. Dr. Phelps asked Mrs. McBryde to give us dinner one week for supper. (We're getting a little mixed up; it appears but anyway the idea behind all of this is a vote of thanks to Dr. Phelps)... It really does us good to see twelve hundred and ninety-three girls standing up in gloriously patriotic send as the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner" are wafted into the room by the radio. Let some kind soul write to the program manager and ask him to restrain the band from playing the National Anthem during our dinner-hour? It gives our meal a rather hectic quality... There is a new member added to the Junior Class, Lella Louise Evans, of California, paid Whitnorp a visit (Sunday, and liked it so much she decided to enroll and stay awhile... We caught glimpses of two Juniors—and both of them marshall—racing down California avenue Tuesday afternoon. Can somebody give us a suitable quotation about dignity worthy of Juniors, etcetera?... Mary Belle is a quarter to the good as a result of the World Series... But bringing sports a little closer, has anybody been when the Pep Meet's going to be?... There's a appeal to the item in this column last week about a big white cat. When someone presented him to the biology department, he was refused because he wasn't as healthy as he might have been. And he had been making friends right and left throughout the college!... Mrs. Gibson literally awoke in a frenzy on the first morning that we had heat. On hearing the various bumpings and thumpings, the stove in back came on calling a garage man; he demanded a quart of alcohol sent up immediately to keep her car from freezing on the spot... And did you hear about the "rat" that got loose in the covered way between South and the library last night. After much deliberation and explanation on the part of Miss Georgia, Mrs. Cavitt, Miss Ducus, and George Dunlap, it turned out to be a possum... We hear of (as Frobenius who wrote Georgia) Johnson a "rat" who asked him to establish a COO camp on the Whitnorp campus... which reminds us that a COO truck, noticeably empty as to occupants, was parked in front of South all last weekend... A former Whitnorp student doesn't trust the modern generations. It seems some time ago letters were sent to all former U. S. C. presidents, requesting that they send their pictures to be hung in Clio Hall. Imagine the surprise and consternation of the history department when they received a letter, written on a black grocery store bill, requesting that the U. S. C. send as the enclosed picture because it was most like her. Enclosed was the picture of a comedian grinning from ear to ear. It seems our former "Hitler" rat is a little afraid of "Lat Letters."

MONKEY HOUSE

"Look at that one—the one starting at us through the bars. Doesn't he look intelligent?"

"Yes. There's something uncanny about it."

"He looks as if he understood every word we're saying."

"Walks on his hind legs, too, and swings his arms."

"There! He's got a peanut. Let's see what he does with it."

"Well, what do you know about that! He knows enough to take the shell off before he eats it just like we do."

"That's a female alongside him. Listen to her chattering at him. He doesn't seem to be paying much attention to her, but..."

"They look kind of sad, don't they?"

"Yes. I guess they wish they were in here with us monkeys."—Everybody's Weekly.

Masquers Present "Midnight Fantasy"

"A Midnight Fantasy," a play consisting of 17th and 18th, was given at a Masquer meeting, Thursday, October 10, in Johnson Hall. Dimpley Thomas represented 17th, and Frances Roughton, 18th. Mary Glover coached the play. Lucetta Daniel gave a summary of current events to the drama.

WORLD'S SMALLEST NEWSPAPER The world's smallest newspaper, The Tryon Daily Bulletin, is published every day with the exception of Sunday in Tryon, North Carolina. Beth M. Vining, who is editor, owner, and chief writer, depends upon this paper for his sole income for his family of four and for himself.

This miniature publication is printed on yellow sheets, eight and three quarters by five and three quarters inches and contains practically everything to be found in any ordinary journal. Sometimes there is only the folded sheet, while at others the size of the paper is increased from one to four pages.

Editorials are not a daily occurrence, but are more apt to be written when extra sheets are added; yet the social news and the New York Stock Exchange Quotations are never omitted. The current news items are usually mastered throughout the entire paper by brief paragraphs.

You who are not familiar with this particular daily edition may be greatly amused as you read it, but it is a matter of serious interest to the citizens of the well known summer resort who are faithful and loyal subscribers. These ancient devices absorb each and every word with interest, and verify all reports—unfounded or otherwise—by reading the accounts in The Daily Bulletin; births and deaths, whether of barnyard geese or the human race, constitute the topics of most vital interest. Thus has the community grown to depend upon and look forward to the regular appearance of The Tryon Daily Bulletin.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE DEBATE TEAMS ARRIVE OCT. 25

New York (NSFA)—Debate teams representing Oxford and Cambridge Universities will arrive here October 25 on the Burgin for four speakers by the National Students Federation. Approximately thirty engagements have been arranged for each team. The Oxford speakers will tour the mid-western states; the Cambridge men to the east and south. The length of their stay in this country has not yet been determined due to many additional requests for dates being received at the NSFA office.

Dancing lessons and contract bridge lessons are being sponsored by the directors of Graham Memorial at the University of North Carolina. A freshman will have control of the dancing lessons.

With Gestures. Father (indignant with excitement)—"Well, boy, what happened when you asked the boss for a raise?" Son—"Why, he was like a lamb." Father—"What did he say?" Son—"Esa."—Drean's Own.

A thief entered the Alpha Xi Delta chapter house at Florida State College for Women and stole all the furnishings and winter wardrobe of house. The gals are wondering if furniture will be.

CAMPUSIN' AROUND

DO YOU KNOW THAT— We will start off the November with a few snappy definitions which will never be found in the Century dictionary:

Acquire—A group of church singers. Aims—To question, or to "accuse" a question. Alibi—A form of greeting. Bump—Something we clean our shoes with. Cremate—To create into cream. Female—A parasitical organism dependent on male for existence. Tower Times. Beam—low form of humanity. Beer—a wager. Batter—something cake is made from. Catch—something to put rubbish in. Fly—letters always annoying peaceful citizens. Mill—love's name for the human hand. Runner—something girls get in stockings. Spikes—that which makes drinks worth drinking. Florida Flambeau.

With graceful feet maiden sweet. Was tripping the light fantastic. When suddenly she trow for the dressing room door— You never can start elastic. Florida Flambeau.

FROM HOME Listen, little prom date, and I'll explain The reason if you're curious, why you came. It's true that you weren't the first she asked, And you darned sure wouldn't have been the last! You can't dance; if you stop on her toes; You croon in her ear, you can't wear clothes; You've got no style; you're a homely man, But she doesn't care, for, thank Heaven, you're a man. Power Times.

The latest college craze, X Peet Pulte's poems, comes from Temple University. We reprint some of the fillity

I feel futile: Like a book without a reader, Like a taxi less a motor, Like a queen without a cheater, I feel futile. I feel futile: Like a sale without commission, Like war without munition, Like a Dionce with more additions, I feel futile.

I feel futile: Like a madrat wearing clothes, Like a legless man with hose, Like an arrow without bows, I feel futile. I feel futile: Though I never smoke or drink, And I have both pen and ink, I cannot so help me think, I feel futile. Florida Flambeau.

REFLECTIONS

I remember her From last Year. Her face, nose— Yes, she went to school here. She was majoring in "Jellyology" the even out. One class Fifteen times— Forget she had a class that hour, And as for Grades— German could go Call on the Devil, While she longed To dance with the "even out" Boy standing By the Vic! I heard her say She'd she Was going Away, To a large University, Couldn't stand This "dusky" say Longer— There she would knock 'em Over with her Personality— But school days Are here, And she still Is here— Jolting, Not going to School any where— Guess her Daddy had a Tough break and Couldn't stand Her— But rather go To this "Dump," as She calls it, She loath— That's the one At night, Her face, nose— Yes, but she And her Personality Aren't attending School this Year, somehow— The Egyptian.

TO MOTHERS OF FRESHMEN

Editorial in "Providence Bulletin" If the deans of freshmen will copy the following note in their own handwriting—just to give the thing a personal touch—filling in the blank spaces and mailing copies to the thousands of anxious mothers whose boys are sleeping from under the parental roof for the first time, we are sure it will win a tremendous amount of hearsach.

Dear Mrs. You will be more than happy to know that your son arrived on campus at exactly 8.5 A. T. so was immediately escorted to his room— charming, well ventilated room formerly occupied by Judge Spool or whoever it was; and overlooking the historic old campus. President and his wife were waiting for him with outstretched arms.

President and I have had a long talk about and we agreed that he is, as you say, different from other boys, in fact, quite exceptional. I noticed it the moment I laid eyes on him and so did the president. Such a manly fellow, so clean, and yet so shrewd, too. It is only to see that nothing worthwhile is going to escape—and I am happy to say that he has instinctively chosen the right group as associates—all fine upstanding young men of the right sort.

You did wisely in putting in the heavier underwear, and be sure that will see that he puts it on at the first sign of frost; though as to his enticing acid you need have no fear, for the clean, dry climate of is one of its outstanding features. The professor, you will be gratified to know, were delighted to learn that is to be with us for one term at least, and have gone out of their way to assure me that they will do all in their power to bring out the hidden qualities of which you, if not his father, are so well aware.

It affords me deep satisfaction to write you this regarding (He and a group of laughing companions are this minute crossing the campus with Professor— (the noted economist.) He undoubtedly has a future.

We will keep a sharp eye on his welfare without in any way hindering his growth—as you yourself have done. I'm sure. Believe me, madama, Your respectful friend, Dean of Freshmen.

P. S.—The slight cough which you mentioned has entirely disappeared, and he is calling ap'ndedly.

No Peas Have you a little pea in your home? If you do, see if he (or she) can toss this little ditty.

Of all disappointments The very worst by far Is to have a pretty girl When you haven't a car.

But a worse predicament Much harder, alas— Is to have the girl and car But no coin for gas.

Another situation That wouldn't be so thrilling To have the car, the coin, the gas But not a gal that's either.

But worst of all— It makes you feel so low; The coin, the car, the gas, no gal, And nary a place to go.

An Answer To the above poem, a very important answer was received by the editor of this sheet, which read thusly:

Little brother made a date But sadly had to lose it— Only have a family car; Big Bro's time to use it.

Reckless Driving She was pinched for reckless driving, But she never faced the court, Though her fast and reckless driving Was an act of bad report; For the pinch for reckless driving That had turned the maiden pale Was the pinch beneath the hammer, When she tried to drive the nail.

College Dictionary Affix—affixural phrase (Goliath started affixural).

Balm—hobo (You're a balm). Oynce—what lead does when put in to water. Decit—to remove chair from beneath unwary individual.

Gracious—large anthropoid ape (e. g. "King Kong"). Yulet—to stug as they do in Switzerland.

Zeus—liquid in fruits. The Co's Key to Oridiron Terminology: Forward Pass: Something no nice girl allows.

Spinner: One-third brandy, one-third creme de mentha, and a Cherry. Ours Buck: Your date if his team is losing.

Hodgie: Lots of fun. Why penalize 'em for taking too long? Sir Man Lint: Just what she's always wanted.

End Run: Can be very embarrassing if not stopped. Safety Man: The boy from the old home town.

Open Field: When it's every girl for herself. Delayed Buck: Well, you shouldn't have borrowed in the first place.

Triple Threat: ? ? ?

To all girls whose big moments are playing football this season, we optically dedicate the following: He made a run around the end, Was tackled from the rear, The right guard sat upon his neck, The fullback on his ear; The center sat upon his back, Two ends upon his chest, The quarter and the halfback then sat down on him to rest. The left guard sat upon his head, Two tacklers on his face; The corner was then called in To sit upon his case.

Log. We wonder if any boy on the campus ever received a letter from home without shaking the envelope several times to be sure he had not overlooked a check—Blue Book.

Figures that have attracted men: Venus de Milo, Ruth St. Dennis, and Jean Harlow.

Figures that have attracted women: $20.

Chemistry of the Faber Six Symbol—WO. Member of the human family. Specific Gravity—Variable; molecular structure exceedingly variable.

Occurrence—Can be found wherever man exists. Physical Properties—All colors, sizes and shapes. Generally appears in disguised condition; natural surface rarely free from an extraneous covering of scales of bits of grass and pigments.

Melts rapidly when properly treated. Boils at nothing and may freeze in any moment. Ordinarily sweet, occasionally sour, and sometimes bitter.

Chemical Properties—Exceedingly volatile, highly inflammable and dangerous in the hands of an inexperienced person. Possesses great affinity for gold, silver, platinum, and precious stones of all kinds. Capable of absorbing astonishing quantities of expensive foods and beverages. Reacts violently when left alone. Turns green when placed next to a better appearing specimen. Ages rapidly.

News—Y's and Other Y's

Well, at last they're off, that enthusiastic crowd of conference-ites who've been anxiously waiting to go riding off amidst blankets, mittens, raincoats, etc. (Happy motoring and best of luck to you who are riding with "Philbert"!)... The lucky dogs—they'll be back Sunday night to tell us all about it. That is, unless they freeze to a mountain peak and send an SOS to us to come pick them off. The officers have been working on the conference for quite awhile and have great hopes for the retreat this year. "Dick" Gates of Carolina is president, "Otha" Gates of Carolina is vice-president, and Missa Neumaner, of Winthrop, is secretary. The speakers will be Dr. Frank Peck, of Greenville, and the Reverend Mr. William Walden, of Columbia. And have you heard about the lovely little tea that Miss Wardlaw is giving the Freshman Group? If you haven't, you should.

Sociology Club Has Supper At Shack

Old members of the Sociology Club had a stack supper at the shack from 4 to 7 o'clock Monday afternoon, October 7. All newly initiated members were invited and Dr. Helen G. Macdonald, faculty sponsor of the club, and her sister, Miss Winthrop-Macdonald, were honor guests.

The new members of the club are as follows: Margaret Reid, Alma Cooper, Mary Stone, Sara Schumpert, Sarah Armstrong, Helen Oates, Harriet Morgan, Long, Louise, Mildred Pace, Nellie Sealrover, Edna Hammond, Caroline Estes, and Doris Lovvorn. The old members are Luella Ballen Ute, Betty Carrison, Julia Warren, Mary Lee Harbin, Marguerite Zeigler, Minna Neumaner, Virginia Willis, Mary Frampton, and Margaret McKnight.

MUSICAL NOTES

Winthrop College String Ensemble will include in its repertoire this year "Menuet," composed by Professor Emmett Gore. This piece was written during the Christmas holidays of 1931, and dedicated to the Winthrop Orchestra. The "Menuet" was first played by the college orchestra at its annual spring concert in 1932. This composition affords a solo part for each kind of instrument.

The sextette will broadcast "Catalist" (Hadley), "Spanish Serenade" (Granados), "Clemantina" (Edwards), "Lesterbach" (German folk tune), and "My Cross" (Carrall) over radio station WBT, Sunday, October 19, at 1:30.

A new Glee Club to assist with the music for Sunday night vespers was organized Tuesday, October 10. Members of this Glee Club are Dorothy Gray, Sara Proctor, Mary E. Davis, Meredith Epps, Edis Plant, Louisa McLaure, Mary Steigman, Jo Russell, Mai Mac Bridge, Vera Bennett, Christine Brown, Clara Wall, Harriet McCrorey, Virginia Martin, Geraldine Norris, Beatrice Whitten, Marj Carter, Elizabeth Fetchen, Annie Grace Sellers, Elizabeth Tester, Dorothy Willis, and Helen Milling.

Gym-Cracks

Pull days! Wind blowing across the docky field! Girls running all over everywhere. Freshmen loving it!

Selle Ray Tullingham (have you heard her laugh?) thinks it is wonderful by the way her address is in Washington. The members of the Freshman class remind us of Polly McNeill last year. A. A. president, Freshman. Mary Allen, Alice Kucnos, and Lucille Daniels are welcome additions to this year's Senior squad—along with Corrie. The hockey tournament comes off the middle of November.

Back flippers—Fossie, Kinsey, and Jara! "Diddle Beth" and Miss Hamvick are doing wonderfully with the Swimming Club meetings on Monday afternoons at four. Catherine Hunt Paulling will make a wonderful teacher! She said she quite a few things at Life Savers the other night. Better start life saving and get in on the fun. See Nell Jackson for particulars!

Personal nomination for biggest "breaks": made by Virginia Harby. Ask her about them! It's worth walking up to her—even if you've never met her—and saying "Give us a break!"

The Alabama trip was a huge success. Let's hope it will lead to go into the technicalities of the Hockey Convention—and also "Oh, I bumped my head"—wait a minute and I'll tell you in! Marjorie Mitchell got to stop by her house and see "Mr. Price." Oh! Miss Weller made a goal too! They're quite tickled.

By special request we'd like to put this in headlines—"Shadow" Haynsworth made 100 on her Fundamentals test! She's quite elated!

Have you seen the changes in Natural Dancing? We have a lovely time. Mary Wright seems to be adept. Do come look at the various better suits—and does it look funny for girls to walk about in bathing suits. Looks good to me!

Oh, yes! Recreational Swimming is definitely to be Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday at four. Everybody's invited.

If you'd like to play hockey or go swimming Saturday afternoon, tell Middle, Nell, Loren, or Dot. We'd love to let you—so do let us know if you would like it. Watch the bulletin board for notices.

Training School News—Someone says "Children, we're going to play leap up games to see who's the best." "Teacher, what's soccer? Can I sock her?" Which the child proceeds to do. Beats me—But leave it to Betty Hickson to take care of her children if they aren't up to the right thing—we're taking lessons.

Margie McKee—whom we have missed from tennis hockey, and the gym—is back at the Infirmary after an appendicitis operation and is doing excellently! Welcome back.

Young Democrats Study Louisiana Problem

"The Effect of They Long's Death on the State of Louisiana" was the subject discussed at the meeting of the Young Democrats Club in Johnson Hall, Tuesday, October 1.

NEW COMMUNICATION SYSTEM INSTALLED

Telephoning Between Main Offices Is Made Easier—Explanation of System

A new system of telephone communication has been installed recently in the main office.

Instead of one telephone there are three telephones in the President's office. One of these telephones is not used in the telephone directory. It is used only for outside calls. By throwing a key, however, this unlisted phone may be answered over one of the other instruments.

The telephone at the desk in the President's office serves two main lines in the central office, 34 and 35. The line which a call being called is determined by the tone of the bell. Number 34 is listed in the telephone directory. If a lengthy conversation is being held over 34 and another person calls 34, the telephone operator, instead of answering "line is busy" rings 35. The secretary hearing the bell, can ask the person with whom she is talking to hold the line. She then depresses a red button, called the "hold" button, which enables the person with whom she is talking to hold the line. By depressing another button she can then, over the same instrument she is using, answer 35, after adjusting the conversation over 35, she can, by depressing the 34 button, renew her conversation with the person who had been holding the line.

The depressing of an intercommunication button enables one to call one of the other offices at the college without going through the central office. The offices of the President, the Secretary, the Bureau, and the Bookkeeper, are connected by the intercommunication system. The Registrar's office is soon to be connected with this system.

If someone calls the President, the call is answered in the office of the Secretary. The President is informed of the line on which he is being called by a buzzer. One ring is for intercommunication, two rings for line 34, and three rings for line 35. The Bureau's office is connected with lines 34 and 35 and the Registrar's office will soon be connected with 34 and 35. Thus, if a person calls the President's office on line 34 but the information he wishes should come from the Bureau or Registrar's offices he may be connected with that office without the inconvenience of calling central again.

ASPIRING FROSH PROVIDE YEARLY CAMPUS LAUGHS

Sageacious Upperclassmen Enjoy Usual "Breaker" of the Levity

It seems that the Freshman at the Florida State College for Women are as dumb as usual. They are called "And then there was the freshman," is a phrase getting to be as common as "That wasn't no lady; that was my wife." Unlike the old-timer, however, the former's story grows better each year.

Of course, you heard the new-comers lumbering down to breakfast at 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning, just as you were turning over for a second beauty nap, but maybe you didn't hear the little number from last year's crop of greenies who end up by appearing along the silver covered at the tables in the dining-hall. "What a cute new way to set a table!"

One freshman, during the post-exam at the gym, announced that she would "go back home to Mother" rather than take gym in those "monstrous" angel robes—all the while clutching said robe frantically.

Still another frosh, when asked to serve the plume at breakfast, timidly inquired if they weren't to be served for dessert.

During registration, one member of the lovely class, told Dr. X not to sign her up for Dr. X's class because she had heard he was hard as nails. Dr. X, who is a genuine chargin, did not sign the young lady for his class.

After church Sunday one aspiring frosh hurried up the aisle, asking everyone if she knew the attractive preacher. "I want to meet some of the better class in this town," was her intention. Apparently, she did not know of the existence of a better element on campus.

"And then there was the freshman"—Florida Flambance.

"INTEREST DAY" Next Tuesday may well be termed "Interest Day" to the people of York County and all other depositors residing out of York County who have savings accounts with the Fifth Congressional District's financial strong-hold—the Peoples National Bank of Rock Hill. All savings depositors are hereby notified that semi-annual interest will be added to their accounts next Tuesday, October 15th, and we now extend the invitation to them to add to their accounts at that time in addition to the interest. We take this opportunity to extend to the people of this section an invitation to take advantage of the unexcelled facilities of this bank, a National institution chartered by the Federal Government, a member of the Federal Reserve System, and also a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation which insures your deposit up to $5,000 100% under the Government Plan. Among the large number of patrons of this institution are parents of present and former Winthrop Students. 2 1/2% Interest paid on savings and Time Certificates of Deposits.
