ROCK HILL, S.C. - Winthrop University Galleries will explore the mysteries of space and form with several exhibitions and artist talks in fall 2011.

The exhibitions will offer a counterpoint to the Galleries own summer space renovations and lighting upgrade. "Either/Or," an exhibition of work by Chicago artist Cherith Lundin, will run Sept. 12-Oct. 28 in Rutledge Gallery. In "Either/Or," Lundin uses mixed media to investigate private space. The exhibition also will include a large-scale drawing intervention across the walls of the Rutledge Gallery. Lundin's own drawings, paintings and site-specific installations explore ideas of transience, time and wonder. Lundin will give an artist talk on the exhibition Sept. 15 at 8 p.m. in Rutledge Building 119.

Also opening Sept. 12 is "Counterpoints: Space and Form," which will spotlight the artwork of Greenville, S.C., artists Alice Ballard, Roger Dalrymple, Paul Yanko and Enid Williams. The exhibition will highlight 2- and 3D pieces that express each artist's viewpoint on space and form. Housed in the Elizabeth Dunlap Patrick Gallery, the exhibition continues through Oct. 28. There will be two artist talks on "Counterpoints": Ballard and Dalrymple will discuss their work Sept. 29 at 8 p.m., while Yanko and Williams will speak Oct. 6 at 8 p.m. Both talks will be held in the Elizabeth Dunlap Patrick Gallery.

The work of M.F.A. candidate Pam Winegard and Janet Lasher will be the focus of a mixed-media installation Sept. 5-16 in Lewandowski Student Gallery. A more in-depth look at Winegard's work, "Neighbors," her M.F.A. thesis exhibition, will be on display Nov. 28-Dec.9, also in the student gallery.

September's final exhibition, the "Art of the Book Retrospective," will remain on display Sept. 26-Oct. 7 in Lewandowski Student Gallery. The opening reception for these early fall exhibitions will be held Sept. 16 at 6:30 p.m. in Rutledge and Patrick Galleries.
