100 WINTHROP GIRLS VISIT IN COLUMBIA

Students Render Choric Reading, Song, and English Folk Dance

About one hundred Winthrop girls will go on a good tour to Columbia, where the college was first located, to present a fifteen-minute program, Monday evening, March 23, as part of the city's Sequi-Centennial celebration, which will begin March 22 and last for four days.

The city has planned a pageant for each of the three nights of its celebration, and Winthrop's contribution will be a part of the first program. About twenty students, under the direction of Miss Florence A. Mims, will give a choric reading of Tennyson's "Coriolanus," after which "Coriolanus" will be sung by about fifty girls under the direction of Prof. Walter B. Roberts. Miss Julia Post is taking twenty-four girls to do an English folk-dance. In conclusion the Winthrop song, "Fairer Flower of the Southland" will be sung.

FRIDAY, MARCH 20, 1932

We, the students of Winthrop College, feel that we have experienced a personal loss in the death of our friend and trustee, Mr. W. L. Riley; and extend our deepest sympathy to his family.

"THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH"

Now that this time of year has rolled around once more, we realize with surprise that we must declare our work on the Johnsonian finished and place it in other hands. We do this reluctantly, because we have come to love the weekly rush of putting the news in print, and the associations which we have formed and must, necessarily, break; but we also relinquish it gladly because we feel that the ideas, which we so enthusiastically introduced last spring have become worn out and old, and because we know that we are leaving it with people who are capable.

First of all we wish to thank the students of Winthrop College for reading our paper, for commenting on it to us, thus helping us to please them. We have written it always with them in mind, and it has been heartening to have their interest and support.

We wish to thank our faculty editor for helping us at all times and in all ways, and second, for understanding us. The knowledge of her sympathy and support has given us the feeling of treading on firm ground.

The Johnsonian staff, both reportorial and business, have contributed invaluable to the maintenance of the paper. Without their untiring efforts, news could not have been written or printed.

Throughout the year we have appreciated the suggestions, criticisms, and, now and then, the words of encouragement that the professors and college officers have given us. And we particularly want to thank Mrs. Hardin and Mrs. Gibson for allowing us to print such matters as we had termed doubtful. We are greatly indebted to Mr. Graham for the shining new typewriter which has become the pride of The Johnsonian office, and to Miss Bishop for "telling us the news."

And so we say a little reluctantly that "the old order changeth, yielding place to new" as we place our paper in other hands. We shall watch with interest and sympathy the undertakings of the new staff, and we wish them luck.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE MARSHALS

Ever since there have been Marshals at Winthrop College, they have been selected from among the members of the three Literary Societies on the campus.

In the beginning this standard was set probably because membership in one of the Literary Societies showed an interest in campus life but also because the Literary Societies had a combined membership that was nearly equal to the size of the student body; very few students on the campus did not belong to a Literary Society.

With the growth of Winthrop College, however, has come a larger student body, an extended curriculum, and an increase in varying student activities, so that it is no longer true that Literary Societies include a large part of the student body.

They are no longer a representative group of students. Students who are interested in fields other than literary studies join societies and clubs nearer their interests: home economics clubs, commercial clubs, science clubs, athletic clubs, education clubs, etc. These groups are not well-represented in the Literary Societies, and therefore have had no representation in the Marshal line.

So far as the duties of Marshals are concerned, these students are as eligible as any others. No literary work is required of Marshals, yet all the honor of the position is bestowed through membership in a Literary Society.

It is true that a certain scholastic record is a requisite of marshaldom, also an interest in campus activities, but these requisites can be met by many girls outside of the Literary Societies. It is true also that this year the Societies have adopted a credit system in which a girl must have a certain number of points to her credit before she is eligible for marshaldom; but this system is for the benefit of the Societies rather than for the Marshals so long as the Societies are not representative.

It has been said, too, that to take away the Literary Societies' privilege of having Marshals come from their members will kill those Societies. If that is true, the Societies are living only on that privilege and not on any merit within themselves. We think, however, that that statement is false. Other clubs and societies on the campus are alive and working without such a motive; and the Literary Societies can do likewise. The removal of this privilege, moreover, may coincide with the removal of many dead members from the Societies, students who are willing to enter a Society and pretend an interest a year in order to be eligible for marshaldom.

We would like to see a new system of Marshal selection instituted—a system that is more representative of the whole student body, a system that continues to maintain the high standards and builds up the feeling of honor that should come with marshaldom.

BLUE SPECTATOR

Speciating hasn't been particularly good this week what with everybody being so busy getting their friends elected to one office or another, but we suppose we might just as well reconcile ourselves to such a state of affairs and spend our spare time praying that some kind souls will have time for a little real gossip during the ensuing month or so of elections. If not this column will probably be conspicuous for its absence.

From all accounts, the Knoxville Convention that all the physical ed seniors attended was a whit-bang success. "Beck" Cook got two letters in one day from somebody she met out there. Well, that's what we call making time. . . . Miss Pot considered it her duty as a rhapsodist to lead "Ellie" King and "Diddie" Burnette off to bed at the unreasonable hour of 10:30 to keep them from filling the four dates they each had made.

When it rains during the night, Hazel Moore has to go upstairs to put her freshman sister's window down. . . . When Annie Rosenblum got up to escape a talk in class the other day everybody was so fascinated with the cute little musical notes on her belt that nobody listened to what she said. . . . It has become a regular occurrence for Ruby Lou Heustess to receive a box of candy from her Sunday-afternoon date. Lucky for her room-mate, we'd say.

Betty Hickson had a date with the piccolo player in the Ballet Russe orchestra. Well, we all can't boast of that, but we did have a good time. . . . One man asked her how he could go to take a drink. When the girl whom he asked the information looked rather astonished, he hurriedly said, "Well, could you just tell me where the smoking parlor is?"

One girl (and a senior, at that) chanced to spend the night in Brazil. . . . Mary Elizabeth Berry, who was accused by her training school pupils of laughing too much, wrote an essay, "In Defense of Laughter," and presented it to her supervisor. Now he professes himself mostly in favor of the practice. . . . We know one girl who actually copies love letters from newspapers, books, and other available sources in order to send the daily epistle to her. . . . Furman admires. At that it may be better than making carbon copies to send to different boys, as I hear some girls do. . . . Maryland says she can't help but be suspicious as to the sender of a certain anonymous Valentine, postmarked "Charleston" which she received recently. . . . The story of Winthrop daughter's suggestion to the key of the Blue Stocking Key Hole that postmen are not the same everywhere

STUDENT OPINION

Female Classes—This year we have been given many privileges that several years ago were not even thought of. These privileges have been abused on every hand. Every day someone, conscious of the fact that she isn't doing exactly the right thing, ill-uses them.

Winthrop is such a large college that, naturally, there must be some restrictions. But to come right down to facts, there really are comparatively few limitations upon pleasures which are reasonable for us to enjoy. It is evident, moreover, that during this year these limitations have been lessened greatly. But if we are to continue to have them, we must not abuse them. It seems that as soon as a privilege is granted us, we immediately begin to hope for "more." Let's recognize and appreciate the amount of freedom we have now; then, in time, gradually the apparently unnecessary restrictions may eventually be eliminated.

Recently an unusual bill has been passed by the senate, and is at present being presented to the faculty for approval. If approved, how will we accept it? Will we conform strictly to its rules, or will we neglect our responsibility of complying with its provisions?

Titled: "Law" Speech.

SPOKEN IN CHESTER

Dr. W. D. Maguire spoke to the Winthrop Daughters in Chester Tuesday, March 15.

4-H Club Groups Held Conference Saturday

Winthrop 4-H Club members and delegates from Clemson's 4-H Club held a joint meeting in Kinard Hall on Saturday, March 7. Plans were made for the South Carolina Interstate College 4-H Conference to be held at Camp Long, in Alken County, April 24-26.

The delegation from Clemson included the 4-H Club President, W. A. King, and the following members: J. A. Jaxon, O. H. Folk, D. H. Shelby, P. D. Huff, J. R. Huff, G. H. Rankin, and W. M. Epps.

Mr. Leon Clayton, Assistant State Boys' Club Agent, and Mrs. Clayton accompanied the group.

Alpha Psi Zeta Meets Thursday

"The Significance of Psychology" was the topic of discussion at the regular meeting of Alpha Psi Zeta, psychology fraternity, Thursday afternoon, March 17, in Johnson Hall.

Mary Elizabeth Berry gave a report by Arthur Wiggam's book, "Let's Explore Your Mind," in which stress was laid upon the importance of psychology to sociology, advertising, and numerous other phases of man's life.

Miss Louise Remmer talked on "The Psychology of Musical Ability." In her discussion, she presented the basis of the various conflicting views of whether musical ability is inherited or acquired. After her talk the subject was discussed by the whole group.

Debaters' League Has Discussion Wednesday

"Resolved: That this city should adopt the city-manager plan of government" was the query discussed at a meeting of the Debaters' League, Wednesday, March 16, in Clio Hall, at 4:30.

Caris Hooks and Ellen Alderman were leaders of the government; Louise Johnson and Grace Stuckey, of the opposition; and Dimples Thomas and Virginia Walker, of the back-benchers. Clara Pritchard, Athale Carter, and Elmer Chandler were accepted into membership of the League.

School Nurse Gives First Aid Course

Miss Kathleen Malone, school nurse for this district, is giving a first aid course in two parts to the members of the Social Service Club. The first part was given Monday, March 9, and the second part will be given Monday, March 23, at 4:30 in Johnson Hall.

Miss Malone distributed first aid booklets to the club members and she is endeavoring to teach practical first aid in this course.

Davidson Professor Recent Chapel Speaker

Dr. Thomas Lingle, Professor of European and Ancient History at Davidson College, was speaker at the chapel hour on Wednesday, March 15. Dr. Lingle talked on his trip through the Balkan countries.

In describing the Balkan people, Dr. Lingle pointed out the fact that their progress in industry and education is remarkable. He expressed the belief that if these "hood-saturated" people were given a chance they would be able to work out their own salvation and maintain peace with the other countries of the world.

Senior Order Holds Reunion

Senior Order of 1896 sponsored a reunion last week-end, March 13, 14, and 15.

Former members of the order returning for the reunion attended the artist course, the Ballet Revue, on Saturday evening. All members of Senior Order spent the night at Catawba Hall Saturday night and had breakfast there Sunday morning.

Dr. James P. Kinard and Mrs. Kate C. Hardin met with the members in Johnson Hall at 12:30 on Sunday to discuss campus problems and other topics of common interest. Dr. Kinard, Mrs. Hardin, and Mrs. Kinard had dinner with the Order in the college dining room on Sunday. Senate Adjourns After Second Recession

The Senate reconvened on Monday, March 16, at 4:30 o'clock, ending a recess of ten days.

The business which had been slated was concluded at this session, which was the third convocation of the body. Two recesses having been voted during the scheduled February meeting. A report from a committee on "Dates" and a re-evaluation of the rules passed by the Senate during the past year were considered.

This meeting was the last one for the 1935-36 members of Senate. The newly-elected members meet for their first session in May.

Fellowship Pageant Presented at A. U. W.

American Association of University Women, Rock Hill Branch, met on Monday, March 16, in Johnson Hall, for the purpose of electing officers for next year as well as appointing delegates to a forthcoming conference. A Fellowship Pageant was also witnessed.

Hostesses, Misses Ruth Rollings, Margaret Gregg, Harriette Christoffers, Clara Smith, Dr. Helen Crenshaw, and Dr. Donald Martin, received in the music room of Johnson Hall and served tea to members on arrival. A social hour was held after refreshments when Dr. Helen Puseell, president, invited members to the auditorium to witness "The Spirit of Fellowship." Miss Isabel Potter, chairman of the fellowship committee of the local branch, directed the pageant.

Depicting the history and achievements of the fellowship unit of the A. U. W., the pageant took the form of a meeting of the committee on awards before which passed in review various holders of fellowships of many lands and periods. Fellowship, portrayed by Mrs. R. I. Terry, and the fellows, except those from Latin-America, were academic gowns and caps. The Latin-American fellows wore touches of native costume, but the members of the committee, Dr. Helen C. Macdonald, Miss Pettie Dargal, and Mrs. R. C. Burt, wore historic costumes of the period they represented. Misses Margaret Bell, Isabel Potter, Eana Wilson, Margaret Gregg, Evelyn Tibbitts, Gladys Smith, Ethel McVetty, Alice Tingley, and Dr. Alma Long represented the fellows from various parts of the world.

After the presentation, Dr. Bussell presided over an important business session. These nominations were made: Mrs. R. E. Baea, president; Mrs. J. H. Marlon, Jr., vice-president; Miss Isabel Potter, secretary; Miss Ethel Jones, treasurer. Nominations were accepted and the officers duly elected by ballot as required by the constitution of the organization.

delegates chosen to represent the local chapter at the South Atlantic regional meeting of the A. U. W. in Washington, March 27-28 were Dr. Helen Macdonald and Miss Clara Abernethy. The alternates were Dr. Helen Bussell and Mrs. R. E. Baea.

Dean U. S. C. Graduate School Speaks Here

"Graduate Work and Graduate Schools" was the subject of the talk made by Dr. Reed Smith, dean of the graduate school of the University of South Carolina, in chapel Wednesday, March 18.

Dr. Smith introduced his talk with a short discussion of the undergraduate curriculum, which he described as a sort of mental gymnastics. It is to the undergraduate who does not spend too much of his time in specializing, a vast panorama of knowledge.

There are, continued Dr. Smith, three great aims or purposes of graduate work. The first is for research; this field is closed to all except the few who have a great deal of time, money, and facilities. The second reason for graduate work is for specialization. The third is to acquire increased professional skill or efficiency.

The speaker named a number of universities which have excellent graduate schools. At the top of the list are Harvard and Michigan, and others are Columbia, Chicago, New York, Princeton, Yale, Wisconsin, and California. Of the schools in the Carolinas the University of North Carolina, Duke, and the University of South Carolina offer recognized degrees.

Dr. Smith concluded by saying that, although graduate work makes one a happier and more useful person, he would not advise it for any except those in the upper quartile in their regular college work. However, if one wishes to increase his professional efficiency, a higher degree is within his grasp and should be worked for.

Freshman Cabinet Sees Beauty Demonstration

Miss Ann Joyner, representative of "Lady Lindsay" facial products, gave a demonstration facial for the Freshman Cabinet Tuesday, March 17, at 4:30, in the Music Room of Johnson Hall.

Miss Joyner, who did this demonstration work at Eitel's Department Store from March 10 to March 13, used as her model Frances Kemp, secretary of the Cabinet. She explained the various processes and offered suggestions to the members as to the type of cosmetics they should use.

After the demonstration, tea, sandwiches, and crackers were served.

PLANS FOR SPRING EXCHANGE ANNOUNCED

Teacher Exchange Program Will Be Held April 6-11—Many Participate

The Spring Teacher Exchange program at Winthrop will be the week of April 6-11. Student teachers are prepared to fill places in the three schools—primary, intermediate, high school—and special subjects—school music, home economics, commercial science, physical education, and art. In addition to the usual program of demonstration teaching by supervisors, round-table discussions, and special conferences, Dr. Ullin W. Leavell, Professor of Elementary Education, George Peabody College for Teachers, will be at Winthrop three days—Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, April 6-8 inclusive.

The exchange plan in order that the teacher may be relieved of her work at Winthrop sends a senior who has training, including student teaching, in the grade or subject matter that enables her to fill into the position at the teacher who is to return to Winthrop. The senior reports for work Monday morning. She spends the day as assistant teacher, then becoming oriented in the work and the schedule. Monday evening or Tuesday morning the teacher comes to Winthrop, leaving the senior in charge of her room for the remainder of the week. The senior is accepted into the home or boarding place of the teacher with no expense except meals for the first day. For the rest of the week there is an exchange of lodging and board. The teacher takes the senior's place in the dining room at Winthrop without expense. Each pays her own transportation charges.

One hundred and thirty teachers participated in the exchange program last season.

Prof. Eugene Steinach of Vienna has indicated the result of new experiments which he says hold out definite hope for effective rejuvenation, or "reactivation" of the aged.

W. T. S. SENIOR CLASS PRESENTS A COMEDY

Ziegfeld's "There Goes the Bride" Given Last Night—Large Cast

"There Goes the Bride," a three-act farce by Kay Ziegfeld, was presented by the Senior class of Winthrop Training School last night in the Training School Auditorium, with Betty Wiggins, Phoebe Pitts, Alex Graham, and Bill Quants taking the leading roles.

The curtain rose as Phyllis was having a fitting of her wedding gown, while her fiancé and her girl friend were off playing tennis. The loyal girl sister, Beachy, saw which way the wind was blowing, but it took real evidence to convince Phyllis that Lewis was marrying her for her money. Then, hurt and humiliated, she told Lewis that the wedding was off and that she would marry the first man she saw.

Right then, in walked the hero—Tom—considerably the worse from an auto accident, and in a suit of clothes that made him look like a tramp. Phyllis proposed to Tom, and he accepted. Of course, Phyllis repeated her hasty words and tried to evade the agreement in spite of the fact that there was a charm about this nameless stranger that made her realize she didn't regret.

Tom, however, had fallen in love with pretty, quick-tempered Phyllis at first sight. When Phyllis, in her perplexity, agreed to elope with Lewis, Beachy put Tom wise and he was right there with a heavy swag to the jaw and eloped with Phyllis himself. There was a great scene when the elopers returned for the family blessing and even Lewis proved to be a right guy for he decided that love is more important than money, and he and Natalie follow the example of Tom and Phyllis.

The cast of characters included Betty Wiggins as Phyllis; Irene Barron, Mrs. Curtis; Headen Bynum, Mr. Clark; Billy, Alex Grollis; Anastasia, Bill Williams, Officer O'Flynn; Norma Roberts, Natalie; Alex Graham, Lewis; Archie Bethes, Sally; Bill Quants, Tom Eldridge; and Bill Pugh, Dinky. Dorothy Thackston and Eleanor Johnson coached the performance. Miss Beattie Peag is sponsor of the senior class.
