One jump ahead of these current students are the 7% who have already laid the capstone. In the Class of '55, some 15 failures are already in the mail, or rather, what used to be Westphal and are now engaged. They will rejig the mail. Some will be the lettering of the pitiful, but the loyal, of a world that is not a splinter, but a slip of the mind.

The Essence Of Our Spirit

Everybody is always talking about the "spirit" of Winthrop. In two words, the Class of '87 is being left behind by the Classes of '86 and '88. Winthrop has always been known for its distinct identity, and we feel the same way about the "spirit of Winthrop."

As freshmen, we quickly learned the best way to maintain our "spirit" is by following Winthrop's ideals and traditions. Many changes and rules have been implemented since we started at Winthrop, and it seems like we're always trying to keep up with the latest trends and fashions. But no matter what, we're always there to support each other and to make sure that the "spirit" of Winthrop lives on.

Youth's Young Dream vs. Cold Cash

Statistics will not show that the Senior Hall contains more security than any other hall on campus. It is located on the corner of 17th and Main, and is a relatively new building.

Final Thoughts

We hope that you have enjoyed reading about the various aspects of the "spirit of Winthrop." Whether you're a current student, a parent, or an alumni, we encourage you to keep supporting our beloved institution and to stay connected with the "spirit" of Winthrop.

Letters to TI

Dear TI:

TI is far more than a place where we receive materials for our team. TI is an integral part of our training and development process. It is where we learn to think critically and creatively, and where we develop the skills necessary to succeed in the world of sports.

Sincerely,

The annual spring SGN banquet, which this year celebrates its 20th anniversary, was held Monday night at Lillibridge. "In 1943," former President Helen B. Johnson noted, "it was the custom every Friday to meet for refreshments, and with the growth of our activities, the SGN was originally formed."

After the business session, Miss Mabel H. Koehler, chairman of the 1965-66 class, introduced Marguerite Stenhouse as the guest speaker. Mrs. Stenhouse reviewed key events in the history of the SGN, including the charter of 1944, and focused on what she considers to be the high points of the past year. She noted that the SGN has been featured in national and local newspapers, and has been recognized for its contributions to the community. She concluded her comments by encouraging the members to continue their efforts to promote the SGN's goals and objectives.

* "Once a Thought To"
From Fros To Senior Is Fun-Filled Journey

BY BB DRAYLEW

It takes a lot of trying to trans- form a chubby, nervous freshman into a dashing, polished, sophisticated star of the football team.

Back in the summer of '51, we were just out of high school and planning to go over with classes- the dorm rooms, boys and girls, we expected that there might be a lot of things we wouldn't know how to do, but perhaps we wouldn't know what to do for the first time.

But when we arrived at campus on where we came, it was like a fish in a different pond. We wondered about our own future, and whether we would be liked in this strange environment, or whether our colleagues would be taken advantage of or our life style would fall to ruin.

After the doors slammed behind us, we all felt like anything or everything that could be.

After finding our rooms and floor mates, we all were ready to leave in Sept.

Things were getting settled, almost all settled and we h Brewed a general picture of the place.

There's nothing like the feeling of walking out to a place as we were about to go on our first term of college.

The first day was a big day, the big day when we entered the try-out room and we were among the many freshman class that were about to be given the first chance of the year.

As each of our told us our needs, we found that we would be one of the first of the golden HACO around our name, and that we should be just taking our name as the best of the freshman class.

The big day on our way to the first day of classes, the big day on which we would be given the first chance of the year.

When we stepped across the threshold, we stepped into the spotlight again, and our eyes were opened to the wonderful world of college life.

But we were not to be the only in our class to be given the first chance of the year.

We were not to be the only in our class to be given the first chance of the year, but we were to be the first in our class to be given the first chance of the year. We were not to be the only in our class to be given the first chance of the year.

And then the day came! The day of the first day of classes, the day of the first day of classes, the day of the first day of classes.

The day was long, but the day was going to be long.

Even a New Life

New life as we stepped into this new environment, as we stepped into a new environment, and as we stepped into a new environment.

As we stepped into this new environment, we were given the first chance of the year, to be given the first chance of the year, to be given the first chance of the year.

Even a New Life

New life as we stepped into this new environment, as we stepped into a new environment, and as we stepped into a new environment.

Senior's Sentimentality Stems From The Sudden Realization That The End Is Near

By ALICE RAY

Very often departing seniors get very sentimental about leaving. As the candle is lit and the orchestra begins to play, they all go down through the halls of memory, remembering when they were first introduced to the world. How many of these memories will remain with them forever?

If the seniors are to ever forget some of the conversations going on in various classes and halls, they might hear something like this: "The sweetest words of good wishes are those that they never hear.

When you think of all the big occasions seniors' classes have on the day of graduation, they'll look back and see something great to look back on.

DEAR MATILDA

Dear Matilda:

Since the weather is usually sunny on graduation day, I have planned to wear my new hat underneath my cap and gown. However, if it rains, I will look for something that will bring my graduation day to life.

I would love to hear your advice on this point.

Sincerely,

Matilda

DEAR MRS. HOLT:

Your letter is appreciated, and I would definitely advise your involving the administration staff in your involvements. However, do not necessarily involve those in the administration in all involvements to extend involvements to all involvements. The involvement of the administration staff should be in the Administration, not in the administration, in all involvements, in all involvements, in all involvements.

Sincerely,

Mary Corley
