CAN YOU STUDY?

One out of three Winthrop Freshmen failed in two or more subjects last year.

These statistics are quoted in the discussion of many campus problems. Everyone is asking, "Why so many failures?"

We believe that Freshmen, like many upperclassmen, simply do not know how to study. Too often we neglect during our high school years to form study habits. We manage to get by.

In college we are required to make adjustments to a new kind of life, to tackle difficult subjects, and to work out some kind of method of study.

Freshman advisers try to help students make these adjustments. We feel that something more is needed. Could there be worked out a series of lectures or group discussions on how to study?

Group discussions or study lectures would furnish for the Freshman who really wants to know how to study an opportunity to learn in such discussions, upperclassmen could thresh out some of their own problems.

Lectures or discussions of how to study may be, we feel, one step in solving the problem of student failures. The Johnsonian, beginning this issue, will attempt to offer definite suggestions on "How to Study" through the eyes of persons who ought to know.

"I GO TO WINTHROP"

When you say "I go to Winthrop," what is the reaction of your hearer? Does he think of a college where girls are developed into fine women? Where intellectual freedom is a principle of classroom work, and students make a use of these principles in meeting situations outside the classroom? Where girls lead normal, healthy lives and develop versatile interests?

If not, it's your fault.

You can make Winthrop what you want it to be: Classes can become stimulating, for teachers grasp at the chance to conduct a class that is responsive. Dormitory life can be rid of hampering restrictions. Everyone realizes that rules in themselves are useless. No rule ever devised can make you do what you don't want to do. It's the attitude of students that determines what acts are acceptable.

Never before, we believe, has Winthrop been so ready for change. The administration is pleading with us to take matters into our own hands—to make of Winthrop an ideal college.

Let's do it!

WORTHY OF MORE PRIVILEGES?

Do you want radios? The privilege of having them is one which, as most of us know, is now under consideration by the student Senate.

According to the opinion of most of us, the sooner we are permitted to have radios, the better off we shall be. But are we worthy of receiving any more privileges from the administration? Consider for a moment the way in which we regard a few of the rules and regulations which we now have.

Each of us understands clearly that we are allowed only one light-cut per week. Yet, since we have been granted this privilege, how many of us have used only one light-cut each week? Most of us have kept our lights on every night as long as we pleased, unless one in authority had happened to see them.

Through the efforts of the Senate, we have been permitted to accept rides to and from town. We, however, have gone beyond the point of accepting rides. We have engaged in the objectionable practice of soliciting rides; or, as we put it, "thumbing to town." By this practice, we not only break the letter and spirit of the law, but we cast discredit upon ourselves and on our Alma Mater.

And despite the recent action taken in some dormitories, our conduct during quiet hour and our respect for "Do Not Disturb" signs are still very far from ideal.

By our disregard for these rules, we are showing the administration that we will not conform to the regulations which we now have; that we will not accept in the right spirit the privileges already granted. If the administration should permit us to have radios, what proof has it that we will use this privilege with reason and thought for these about us? Until we show ourselves worthy of new privileges because we regard the old rightly, can we expect to be given any further advantages?

If we are not "faithful in little things", can we expect to be made "truer over many things"?

WINTHROP DAY BY DAY

The canteen pays tribute to the Senior: Amongst the costume jewelry on display there, now, is a bracelet, chain, buttons and a college seal. Senior class mascot, you will recall, is the bulldog. . . . The social clubs on the campus have suddenly gone Rah-Rah. Joe Collier, Betty Coop or you name it, with their favors and place-cards at banquets. By count, there's the possibility of more, seven clubs have used the idea of pennants for their club badges, accompanied by miniature footballs and men's phones. It may be that they were working up a little steam for the State Fair game.

Bagatelles—Alice Johnson always takes her phone calls from home at 3 A. M. Sunday—Miss Anderson, night shift, admits of whistling as she treks measuredly from North to South via the Canteen. . . . Eva Bishop has a strong dislike for hats, especially with broad brims. . . . Helen Fenn clinches stairs two steps at a time.

Chapel affords a grand opportunity for studying softballs. In the senior section, eight out of every ten have long hair, turned up in the back. This, combined with the uniformity of dress, tends to leave little opportunity for individuality.

Nomination for most stylishly dressed—Doris Ballinger . . . chokes through name—Thrash Ketchin McAlpin. . . . More unpopular girls than ever are seen in those who borrow fountain pens and complain because they aren't good.

Nursery rhymes are all right until they are repeated so often that they sound just as good written thusly: "Mary Lamb had a little lamb. His sow what fleece as white. And every went that Mary where Her go was lamb to sure."

Or the story about:

I have a little dog named Doff. I've had him since he was a little puppy wusp. He sits back on his hind legs And holds his little front frugs up He tags his little wall And says Wow-wow.

Two of Winthrop's, State Fair delegation, they refuse to be mentioned, were the first to play in the hall of the picture booth yesterday, to add a collegiate atmosphere to its show window. The room, they say, was an ideal, not typical, and they feared lest they feel lost amidst foreign surroundings. To continue—the room was set with Old American style maple furniture, chairs longue in blue and yellow chintz, blue and white spreads, and red and white curtains, radio, golf clubs, tennis rackets and other such items along around in carefree fashion. And now to end—the girls played Bingo instead.

One-Minute Interview

Mrs. Tuittier, hostess of Bancroft Hall, has given her opinion on a question which is now being discussed.

Do you consider that the present system of government in the dormitories is satisfactory?

So far as the preservation of order and the observation of light-cut were concerned, the present system with the faithful and tactful performance of house officers and the cooperation of dormitory residents has made effective. "Light-cut" regulations have not yet been satisfactorily worked out.

How do you think the relations between dormitory board members and the student residents could be improved?

With the maintenance of high standards as the chief objective, the portion of house privilege might be broadened to include that of student board, which would involve a more vital interest in dormitory family life, promoting not only a spirit of family responsibility and obligation, but also one of good fellowship, achieved by occasional social activities.

We read of radio receiving-sets which are practically fool-proof. Another widely-felt want is the fool-proof microphone—Punch.

JUST LINES

Dear Mother,
Six weeks' test, work, and homesickness have filled the past week. This letter, therefore, might take a philosophical turn.

The campus has been quite active this week-end with last year's graduates who came back for Senior Order and Book and Key initiation. I overheard one exclaim: "I feel even worse now than a freshman. I don't quite know how to act, but my heart goes out in sympathy."

Life has quieted down since we've been fully invited and pledged into a club—no more parties, no more attention. This, I think, would be the logical time and place to get philosophical, but I think I won't.

My days really are filled up, but when it comes to writing you this weekly letter I am as though nothing ever happened. Life is quite boring, which isn't so at all.

I should end this with some cheery note of sunshine, but I'll only send

Love,

GALLIV.

CO-ED CHEERLEADERS
OF SANTA BARBARA STATE COLLEGE
WERE PRESENTED WITH A SAMPLING OF MEAT MEASURINGS 22 INCHES IN DIAMETER. IT CONSISTED OF 65 POUNDS OF GROUND STEAK, 15 POUNDS OF CHEESE, 8 DOZEN EGGS, 1 QUART OF MILK, 3 QUARTS OF SAUCE, 2 BOTTLES OF VINEGAR, 1 BOTTLE OF PEPPER, AND 8 HEADS OF LETTUCE.

Perhaps it's getting a bit late to start teaching football etiquette, but we are rushing in—before the last and most important games—a few hints to football fans:

To Co-eds:

1. Dress carefully and remember that clothes make a football game.

2. Don't ask your escort why they're chasing the poor boy with the ball. But, on the contrary, don't display a technical knowledge of the game. No date likes Ted Husing. Just cheer with the rest of the crowd and you'll be safe.

3. Don't ever wear smoked glasses. They may be such a complete disguise that no one will realize you are the girl in the stunning new costume—and what a tragedy that would be!

To the Men:

(The reason we print this part is obvious to you Winthropians, of course.)

1. You may dress carefully, too, if you wish, but it's just like a wedding—no one ever looks at the man.

2. Make bets on the game (one each way, if possible), and mention them. Men who take chances are always admired.

3. Get all the dope you can and then talk plenty about the game. Your girl friend may know more about it than you, but if she has read Rule 2 to Co-eds, she'll play dumb and let you talk.

To Both:

Come a few minutes late and step over other people's feet to avoid the same thing happening to you if you're earlier.

P. C. Blue Stocking:

P. C.'s Gleamer seems to be trying to usurp the place of Oscar of the Tiger in our affections. Incidentally, we're curious to see how The Blue Stocking world finds their Little epigrams.

According to The Citadel Bulldog:

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of things which women have been thinking of all winter.

We notice that in "The Old Gold and Black" Wofford has expressed, by an editorial, the need of extended rushing and rehazing requirements for pledging in order to improve upon their present system of obtaining new members in their fraternities. It's pleasant to notice that we have already established something on our campus that other schools are a Kennedy far, isn't it?

Her name is really Brown, not Jones,
But Brown didn't rhyme with polished stones.

We feel, too, that anything—even if it's literary—pertaining to football is also timely.

"I drew the line at blushing," she said in accents fine;
But he was a football hero,
So he crossed the line.

According to The Boston Evening Transcript:
"Women are going to pay more attention to their stockings this fall and winter, says Miss Edna Gray, home economics specialist at University of Illinois, because the new style skirt will be shorter." And snaklets?

P. S.: We wonder if he's read "Your Money's Worth."

Our serious thought for today happened to come from several earlier chapters. In one of a book we have, a wise thought:

We wish that the present distinctions and hideous ordinary etiquette shown in chapel will cease, and that the students who offer as frosty strong competition to the speakers will be quiet long enough to hear that the man and woman on the platform can be almost as witty and entertaining as they.

WINTHROP IN "WHO'S WHO"

Book of Notables Lists Dr. Phelps, Dr. Kinard, and Dr. Neudan

President Shelton Phelps, Dr. James P. Kinard, and Dr. Glenn G. Neudan of Winthrop, are listed in the 1936-37 edition of "Who's Who in America."

Dr. Phelps received his B. S. degree from Missouri State College and his M. A. and Ph.D. degrees from George Peabody College for Teachers. He has been a member of the faculty of Missouri State Teachers' College, of the University of Vermont, and George Peabody College for Teachers. From 1931 till 1934, while he came to Winthrop to serve as president, Dr. Phelps was dean of the graduate school of George Peabody College. He is the author of several books on school administration.

Dr. James P. Kinard, President, Winthrop, received his B. S. and LL. D. degrees from The Citadel, and the Ph. D. degree from Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Kinard has been a member of The Citadel and Winthrop faculties and staff as well as director of Winthrop from 1927 till 1934, and as assistant from 1929 to 1934. He is the author of "Our English," "English Language and Literature," and editor of "Old English Ballads."

Dr. Glenn G. Neudan, head of the chemistry department at Winthrop, received his B. S., M. S., and Ph. D. degrees from Iowa State College. He also received a B. Ed. degree from Kansas State Teachers' College. Dr. Neudan has been a member of the faculty of Iowa State College Agriculture and Mechanical Arts and Kansas State College. He is the author of "Food and Physiological Chemistry."

B. S. U. HOLDS CONVENTION

Helen Craig of Winthrop Elected First Vice-President

Helen Craig, Winthrop freshman, of Warrenton, was elected first vice-president of the South Carolina Baptist Student Union at the state convention held at Clemson, Friday through Sunday, October 18-19.

Mrs. A. C. Payne, of Clemson College, was elected president of R. S. U. Convention for the coming year. The theme of the conference was "The Will of God." Evelyn Brock, Winthrop senior, was president of the convention.

Among the speakers were Dr. E. W. Smith, president of Clemson College; Dr. W. D. Maguire, Winthrop College; Dr. John L. Hill, Nashville, Tennessee; Mr. W. H. Preston, Nashville, Tennessee; and Dr. Charles A. Jones, of Columbia.

Teacher-Librarian Trained By Course

"The new library science course is designed to fit Winthrop graduates to fill the position of teacher-librarian in the high schools of Southern Association of Secondary Schools requires schools to have libraries in order to be accredited; there will be an even greater demand for the teacher-librarian," said Miss Spain in speaking of the course.

This course in library science is for Juniors and Seniors, and may be counted as a minor or as an elective. It includes study on the administration and management of school library, the technical problems of cataloging and classification being simplified for school use. Courses on children's and adolescents' literature will include both recreational and reference books, ways of getting books to students and the use of books. The final course is the actual practice to the Training School Library. Then the students will carry out to practice the active management of library and see how it works in reality.

"Students who take this library work have two fields open to them, because they are not limited to teaching only," said Mrs. Spain in emphasizing the great demand for the teacher-librarian.

SOCIETIES HEAR MRS. J. P. KINARD

Reviews "Gone With the Wind"; Miss Wardle Sings

Mrs. James P. Kinard discussed "Gone With the Wind" by Margaret Mitchell, at a joint meeting of the Literary Societies, Monday, October 29.

Giving the story of the book, Mrs. Kinard remarked of it, "Once you start reading this book you just can't stop until you have finished its one thousand and thirty-seven pages. At first I thought to myself that the book had no thesis; but after reading it twice I concluded that the thesis was the weakness of Southern society, at the time of the Civil War."

Proceeding, Mrs. Kinard's discussion, Miss Constance Wardle sang compositions belonging to the Civil War period. "Long, Long Ago," "Last Rose of Summer," "I Dream of Jeanie," and "O Susanna," were her selections.

At the business session following the program, the three societies voted jointly to ask the Senate to submit some plan for the selection of marshals.

Tri Beta Sponsors Masquerade Ball

A masquerade ball, sponsored by Tri Beta, will be held Saturday night, October 26, in Johnson Hall, from nine to eleven o'clock.

All members of the student body are invited.

A floor show, parties for the best dancing couple and the best costume will be features of the ball. A small admission fee will be charged.

CHURCH TO MEET WITH DIRECTORS

Columbia Professor to Help With Plans for Spring

SUPERVISORS MEET

Sextette, Orchestra, and Band Will Perform—All Supervisors Invited Again

Mr. Howell Church, Associate Professor of Music Education at Columbia University, will meet with the music directors of South Carolina schools, tomorrow in Johnson Hall, to discuss the annual spring contest.

All supervisors who have ever entered students in this contest, have been invited back to plan for the contest next spring, and to select the contest committee.

The college sextette will sing several of the vocal numbers contested. The college orchestra will play the selections for the orchestra contest, and a select band of thirty pieces from the Charlotte High School, under the direction of Mr. L. R. Sides, will play the band selection.

By his criticism, suggestions, and comments, Mr. Church will enable the supervisors to get the correct interpretation of the numbers.

Faculty, officers, and students of Winthrop are invited to attend any of the discussions which will be held from 9:30 to 11:30.

NOEL OVERWHELMING GOGGANS IN FIERCE BATTLE OF WORDS

(Continued From Page One) quite simply but quite convincingly waste no time in tearing down the eloquent speech of the affirmative. He proved with examples from Biblical history, ordinary history, and contemporary history, women's accomplishments in every field of life.

Mrs. Ruth, Esther, Delilah, Cleopatra,

Maria, Helen, Eleanor Roosevelt,

and Mrs. Simpson.

"Women are more astute politicians than men," he declared. "They show more intelligence in that they dress more comfortably than men; that they spend ninety per cent of the money; that they do all the cooking, although they are not concerned about it; that they are the ones that think about the housework; that they do more in the home." Then, to put teeth into his argument, Mr. Noel stated that women are as much more intelligent than their male friends that they have rights at the tender age of eighteen which are withheld from men until they are twenty-one.

Dr. Johnson presented the coveted blue ribbon, denoting first place to Master Thomas. Sadie received the consolation red ribbon of second place.

Miss Mims Gives Hawaiian Party

Members of the Masquers were guests at a Hawaiian party given by their sponsor, Miss Florence Mims, at 9:30 o'clock Thursday, October 16, in the Masquer room in Johnson Hall.

Miss Mims, wearing a lei, a garland of hibiscus, talked to the club about Hawaii, and Eva Fair, also wearing a lei of flowers, sang "Aloha Oe," a Hawaiian song.

Louise Knigh, as the winner of a rhyme-writing contest, was given a picture of a Hawaiian scene, which Miss Mims had brought with her from Hawaii.

Hawaiian consisted of little cakes and a salad appropriately made of Hawaiian fruit: pineapple, banana, coconut, and cherries.

Ware Shoals Plans Winthrop Chapter

Plans for organizing a Ware Shoals Chapter of Winthrop Daughters are being made, according to Miss Lella Russell, alumna executive secretary, who has been visiting Winthrop chapters in Abbeville, McCormick, Pendleton, and Greenville this week.

In Greenwood, Miss Russell is attending the district meeting of the Federated club.

Freshmen Debaters Discuss Election

"Should the Freshmen Debaters' League support President Roosevelt in the coming election?" was the question discussed at a meeting of the Freshmen Debaters' League in Glio Hall, Thursday, October 15, at five o'clock.

Upholding the government were Elizabeth Rogers and Sarah Rosenblum. Supporting the opposition were Nancy Black, Bertha Metta, and Thelma Wells. Mary Leutkin was the leader of the Backbenchers.

The vote of the League upheld the government.

President Addresses Associated Collegiate Press Meet in Kentucky

Dr. Shelton Phelps, representing college presidents, will give one of his five addresses on the subject, "If I were a College Editor," at the fifteenth annual meeting of the Associated Collegiate Press, to be held at the University of Louisville, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, October 26, 27, and 28.

Other speakers will be Mark Erdmann, general manager of The Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, representing professional journalism; Dean D. H. Gardner, University of Akron, Akron, Ohio, representing college deans; Frank S. Elliott, director of publicity, Indiana University, representing college publicity directors; and Rabbi Dr. Joseph W. Neimark, Temple Adath Israel, member of the board of trustees of Louisville University, who will represent the reading public.

Miss Lillian Walker, Miss Maude Hammack, Mary Sean, Maude Murray, Mary Elizur, Margie McMechan, and Margaret Mitchell are the six representatives of Winthrop at the International Hockey Conference before held in Philadelphia, October 21-26.

Four foreign countries, England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Australia, and South Africa, are represented at this meeting.

Topics such as "Keeping Up Interest in Hockey Clubs" and "Spreading Hockey" are the main items of discussion.

These teams met in Philadelphia October 20 for the conference. They are playing match games every other day during the meeting, after which they will again tour the United States.

In Greenwood, Miss Russell is attending the district meeting of the Federated club.
