Featured Facts

Some Winthrop students heard the opinion expressed recently that uniforms seem to emphasize the difference in students. The speaker, one who often observes the student body as a group, said that the individual faces were clear-cut against the blue background.

There was a time, not very long ago, when students considered chapel a burden. The increasingly interesting programs are changing this attitude.

Bankers seem to be in a quandary about whether they want to participate in the teacher exchange. They are faced with the prospect of missing a week of classes or foregoing the experience of the exchange.

The Teller staff is planning to keep the senior statistics a close secret until the annuals come out in the spring. Secrets of this kind usually develop into behind-the-scenes knowledge.

Winthrop girls did work up some enthusiasm for the national election at last. Tuesday night was an exciting occasion for the 1,800 who had voted for Roosevelt at the student poll.

A remark was overheard to the effect that students are noisier when guests are in the dining room than at any other time. One explanation is that the ear is better attuned to the noise under such conditions.

BURSAR NAMES NEW PICTURES

"Mary, Queen of Scots" and "Girls' Dormitory" Among Shows Scheduled

"Satisfactory arrangements have been worked out now with some of the major motion picture producers for the showing of their leading features at Winthrop College," announced Mr. Alex Graham, bursar. There will be no dearth of good pictures this year. Due to be shown soon are: "Mary, Queen of Scots," "Girls' Dormitory," "To Mary With Love," "Ramona," "Ladies in Love," "Road to Glory," and "Dimples."

Doctor of Pens Describe Ingrossing Life of Nomads

"All makes of fountain pens repaired here. Your name engraved for free." If you look advantage of this offer then you met Mr. and Mrs. Herman Windolph from Chicago. Mr. Windolph—tall, dark, slim—resembled the pen; Mrs. Windolph—short, blond, plump—matched him. It is quite apparent, then, that Mrs. Windolph's interest lies not so much in fountain pens, but in their relation to her husband. He, however, really enjoys the work and finds it most interesting. Not only is the work itself interesting, but the various places that it takes him are also engaging. Mr. and Mrs. Windolph regard men in practically every large college in the South when asked to name some of them, they began with Winthrop and continued with Peabody, Vanderbilt,

STUDENTS WILL TUTOR FRESHMEN

Members of Kappa Delta Phi Plan to Coach Students Needing Help

PROJECT OF FRATERNITY

Faculty to Name Students Needing Aid—Acceptance of Coaching Optional

Free tutoring for freshmen is being planned by members of the Winthrop chapter of Kappa Delta Phi, national education fraternity. The freshmen will be recommended by their teachers or faculty advisers as needing some coaching outside of class.

The subjects in which coaching will be given are English, mathematics, history, commerce, sociology, and government. The tutoring periods will be arranged to suit the girl who is doing the coaching and the girls who are receiving the help; they will probably be half-hour periods two or three times a week.

In this tutoring, emphasis will be laid upon the course as a whole, not each day's assignment.

According to a statement made by Lilla Bush, president of Kappa Delta Phi, there will be no compensation for this extra-class coaching. The students are recommended for this help by their teachers, but they are not required to accept it. "Kappa Delta Phi's object," said Lilla, is to be of real service to the campus, and we believe that we can help those who are distrustful of help."

WINTHROP AT PRESS MEET

The Johnsonian and Journal Submit Work in Contest of Press Conference

Six members of the Journal and Johnsonian staffs will represent Winthrop at the State Press Conference in Charleston, Thursday and Friday, November 12-13.

Marguerite Ziegler, Florence, editor-in-chief of The Journal; Mary Buford Pegram, Chester, business manager; Hazelina Pardee, Alton, Journal representative; Annie Rosenblum, Laurens, editor-in-chief of The Johnsonian; Elizabeth Kernulus, Tryon, business manager; and Rose Rudnick, Alton, journal representative.

The Journal has submitted in the contest, for the best story, essay, sketch, play, and book review of last year, a story by Mary Ball, an essay by C. Lois Young, a sketch by Mary Stuart Kells, a play by Madeline Haysworth, and a book review by Thelma McAlpine.

Students Bet High Stakes On Presidential Election

Our gambling blood came to the fore as speculation went sky high over who would be elected the next President of the United States.

Here and there, all over the campus, students not only bet, but even offered by a large majority. The president of our student body is now poorer by the price of one ginger ale than she was Monday, because Roosevelt was swept to office by a large majority.

Since Roosevelt received over 300,000 votes more than London in New York City, Mr. Furr is enjoying putting away on a free cigar—the fulfillment of Mary Spaulding's J. O. U. (Explanation, Mary would have received a coo-coa if she had won). Neither loss, however, reports that she is sorry to have lost.

Miss Rollings held a contest with her class to see who could estimate the electoral vote the closest. She refused, however, to tell the name of the winner yet. The only piece of information that she divulged was that no student estimated for London as few as fifty electoral votes!

One fair, young senior spent Monday afternoon and evening weeping because "something had told her" that London would win by an overwhelming vote. Never could she be comforted until the election returns came in. She had trusted to her intuition enough to bet a coo-coa that London would win.

Phi Kappa Delta's biographical Senior Order's vote and the Young Democrats' election party attracted the betting speculation, and suspense of the election of Roosevelt.

WHAT'S RIGHT ABOUT WINTHROP?

What's right about Winthrop? We may well ask this question, for there is a pronounced tendency to criticize Winthrop adversely. We are always discussing how faculty rules may be remedied, how courses may be improved...

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

At least once in the life of each college editor there comes a time when he promotes The Box. Having reached that stage in our development, we have obtained a box and placed it below Bulletin Board A...

PUT AWAY CHILDISH THINGS

We are always objecting to being treated like children; but as long as we persist in acting like children, it is only natural that we be so regarded.

Try to choose a picture show each week that will please thirteen hundred girls! Our point is, of course, that Mr. Graham, who picks the shows, has an unenviable job if pleasing the students is his only consideration...

The disturbances that you go on during the chapel hour are not necessary. Did you notice how attentive and well-behaved the audience was at the Vespers conducted by the Clemson students?

The University of Minnesota offers a course in student leadership. There are fifty-two students attending this course, which consists of lectures by prominent campus leaders and discussion of campus problems.

WINTHROP DAY BY DAY

Diary: The room mate and I, deciding that waffles (collectively used) was the best the morning and Miss Erskine had to offer, went out to Miss Er's for waffles. Several girls with visiting mothers and their friend dropped by to extend extended greetings to the room mate. The folks from home have been gone to the mountains this Sunday, or maybe they just stopped dropping by. Trying of existing conditions in the room and seeking escape from the screaming odds and odds, I happened into the library—looked at dogs and furniture in Home Beautiful and American Home. Devoured the last issue of Life and am sure I can never be accustomed to an existence that doesn't include the "Are You Burn" column. Maybe the new publication under Times's direction will be good for even more thought. Ran across this little bit on the magazine rack and find the underlying principle rather amusing:

"When you're away, I'm restless, lonely, Wretched, bare, dejected; only when I'm home, my darling dear, I feel the same when you are near."

Concluded "me, too" and went home.

Martha Moore, the Modern Language enthusiast has a real find in Caroline Sand, freshman from Long Island, who speaks German and French fluently, speaks Spanish and Italian passably. She, too, is a Modern Language enthusiast. For murder mystery fans, Eric Stander Gardner's "The Case of the Stuttering Bishop" will doubtless prove exciting, if not exciting...

Thoughts while strolling and crunching acorns: Dr. Keith would make a good Santa Claus. Mary Libba Welch could never be described as working at a thing singly.

Why not a comic debate between Mr. J. W. McCain and Miss Stella Bradford?

Some of the seniors are rather inclined to be belated with dignity, with the sophomores cracking almost too wise. The freshmen and juniors will come into their own one day.

The "well" doesn't add enough to my sentence to warrant its existence. A Winthrop fire drill in news reel would be surprising, to say the least.

Recommended for week-end pastime: Ping-pong parley in the gym.

Books In Brief

Mr. White, The Red Barr, Red, and Strigevans, by Booth Tarkington. Four short stories—projections of the idea that "we might be less fools did we suspect we might be immortal." Not very like Booth Tarkington.

Songs From the Sierra, Toyohiko Kagawa.

Written when he was a consumptive boy living in the slums of Japan, surrounded by filth and disease. Full of pity and hope.

In the November issue of Esquire there is an article about the experiment that Jasper Dexter is making with the Hogcrow Theater. This group has played at Winthrop for the last two years.

Figures Don't Lie

If the Freshmen should win the Pop Quiz again this year, instead of being out beaten in their embarrassment, we'll come forward with an excellent reason why. Look at the figures showing the number of students in the various classes:

Table with 2 columns: Class and Number of Students. Rows include Seniors (228), Juniors (228), Sophomores (228), Freshmen (496), and Specials (8).

Personalities

Dickie Williams... president of Freshman Class... majoring in Commerce... four year course... unexpectedly tall... walks with a swing... honor at Meninger High last year... president of Student Body... salutatorian... etcetera... pledged to Omega Gamma Delta social club.

One-Minute Interview

Mr. Roy James in the interview approached this week:

Do you think that students participating in extra-curricular activities do as well in their classwork as those students who do not take part in them?

If the student has a well-balanced program, I think it is beneficial to her if she participates in extra-curricular activities. As a whole, it is safe to say that those girls will make better citizens for their communities, not mere fixtures who sit back and leave all the activities to their husbands. The worst feature, of course, in extra-curricular activity is a girl participating in too many of them.

Do you consider the present methods of examinations a satisfactory way of testing a student's knowledge?

There are many factors involved in our present method which tend to make it unsatisfactory. However, we do need some way of testing a student's knowledge and the method we're using now is perhaps the best available.

Do You Know?

- 1. Who was Margaret Hanson?
2. When was Tillman Hall built?
3. When was Bancroft built?
4. Where on the campus can you find the signature of Daniel Webster?
5. What was where is "Old Faithful"?

Answers to last week's questions: 1. The dining room is wooded after Christ Church, Oxford. 2. The inscription "Allons Pelemus" is found at the foot of an oak tree beside the path leading from Main Building across in front of South to the library. It means "We seek higher things." 3. The five arches on the porch of the gymnasium are all equal. 4. A door opens to a little balcony at the back of New Dining Room. 5. There are 15 terraces in the amphitheater.

HOW TO STUDY

- 1. Begin to study in the class room by determining the purpose and plan of the work as it is presented and by taking only notes that make the purpose and plan clear.
2. If possible, get the material presented in the form of a topical outline by following the three steps suggested by Dr. Keith in THE JOHNSONIAN for October 28, strive to fit a picture of this outline in your mind.
3. Train yourself for rapid study as you would for any other kind of contest. You can not perform brilliantly at your desk or on the athletic field when you are tired or ill.
4. Clarify your mind before beginning to study. Eliminate the thoughts of everything but the material to be studied. Don't try to plan a dance and to diagram sentences at the same time.
5. Budget your time. It may be that your method of studying is profitable. But do you give ENOUGH time to rest? do you feed the perked you devote to it as a responsibility for which you report regularly?
6. If you are not obtaining the results that you think you should from your studying, consult your adviser or the head of the department in which you are doing your major work.

JUST LINES

Dear Mother, Bull-sensational has been the chief occupation and only amusement this week and I've come in for a full dose. I don't know if it's the weather or what, but everyone has been in a scuffling mood—or maybe it's that everyone is just finding out that I'm a sympathetic soul. The room mate went home for the week-end and I've had my first experience at sleeping out. What with its being Halloween and my being in a mischievous mood, my housemates and I had a number of ghostly (that word doesn't look right but I'm as good in grammar as I think I am, the construction is right) exciting adventures. The latest choice hit on my previously dumb classmate is on the girl who came for her Freshman Adviser to ask her for some information on the Ethiopian question. She'd looked through all the books in the library and at last decided that her Adviser would be the best person to get some help from. Love, GALLY.

About The Gym

Seen here and there about the gym: Visitors last week-end—Physical Education instructors from O. W. C. ... Misses Post and Hammack having dinner at the guest table—Miss Hammack's first peep into the place where we "go and get it" thrice daily... New books and material being catalogued for the P. E. library... Senior majors teaching corrective exercises in Therapeutic... Just imagine: "Scottie" and Kinsey—two of Winthrop's best tennis players—taking beginners' tennis! Hockey games just two weeks off! Class rivalry will again be dragged forth from the moth balls, assuring plenty of spirit, when the Senior cohorts play the Sophs and the Fresh team is given a baptism of fire by their heretofore helping sisters—the rugged Junior outfit—in the first game of the youthful 36 season. Tips on teams: Elms Pearson is slated to serve as goalkeeper for the Seniors—the bouquet to her! Mated question: soccer and group; all change teaching conflicting with tournament work. Juniors along with each other class aspiring to the cup. For pretty playing keep an eye on Julia Thomas! Personal nomination for improvement goes to the Sophs. Fresh are under the injury flux—Dot Clark, fullback, is shelved maybe for the rest of the season—damaged ankle keeping her out of action. Leading up to the tourney is the annual pep meet—Friday, November 13—amphitheater! Sophs are spreading the news that they're out to win the cup again this year. The Olympic medals purchased by the Athletic Association have arrived—shots of the opening, track events, riding, swimming, and diving—the films within the week—soon after they will be presented so that everybody will get to take a flying trip to Berlin—1936 Olympics! Speaking or movies—the ones Miss Wellner took at the International Hockey Conference in Philadelphia are top-notch! A treat in store for the Hockey Club... Cat Watson back to take charge of the Archery Club... thanks to Venetia Trillock for carrying on in her absence.

We stole this yell from THE IOWA STATE STUDENT so we could give it to Clemson before their next game:

Bah, bah, toot, toot! Farmer boy! Institute! Moooooooooooooooooooo! Swish!

We're grateful to The Davidsonian for supplying us with a toast with which to begin our columns—and having read their paper through, we find a few others we think you'd like.

Toast... Here's to the girls—the good ones. But not too good. For the good girls young. And nobody wants a dead one.

Here's to the girls—the old ones! But not too old. For the old, too. And nobody wants a dyed one.

N. Y. A. paid $2,240.70 to 849 students at Iowa State University on November 1. The payroll for November is expected to total $10,000. This amount was not available for paying the entire cost for students, but distributed so as to help low maximum number needing some aid.

If we hadn't seen this in The Wellesley College News we would have written one just like it, after noticing the energetic letter-writing of the past week-end. But since Wellesley has already done it...

We wonder if The Los Angeles Arg. Collegian sent a reporter to the Halloween party to get this bit of information:

At the annual medical college masquerade party, the first prize went to the lady with the varicose veins who represented a road map.

Because one student (one out of more than a thousand) up here happens to know a "Pulver Brush Man" she has asked that The Johnsonian reprint the following verse from The Yellow Jacket, Ashland, Virginia. We said we wouldn't.

The Thinker What is she thinking, the little... Of her man far away, selling Pulver brushes? He left her flat broke, with the seven-year itch, But she loves him to death and she dreams and guesses About his technique and his dreary eyes. Yes, "Woman is fickle," the poet cries, The man who said that is a dirty bum, For woman's not fickle; she's just plain dumb.

Series thought for today: The student point system at Boston University, which allows a student to carry no more than 18 points net just goes into effect. However, it does not apply to Juniors and Seniors. We think that here it has proved very effective in the Junior and Senior classes as well as the Freshman and Sophomore, for under this ruling no student participates in too many extra-curricular activities, and no student monopolizes the coveted Senior offices.

PRACTICE HOUSE MAKES CHANGES

Miss Majors, Faculty Adviser, Plans Semi-Formal Garden

Hammers saw, wooden horses, paint, and palm-plattered canvas protectors are very much in evidence at the Horse Management House on Oakhill and Lancaster Avenues.

Workers are busy putting in hardwood floors throughout the house, adding a bath upstairs, lengthening and widening the back stairs, cutting steps from the inside to the basement, repapering the faculty adviser's bedroom and bath, enlarging the bath, and adding a clothes closet, papering all the ceilings, and repainting the bedroom walls, changing the places of the pantry and the butler's pantry, adding a sink, and painting the walls and ceiling of the kitchen.

Miss Etta Majors, faculty adviser, states that she is planning a semi-formal garden built around a rectangular pool. Bulbs and rose bushes have been ordered for this garden.

Advice For Leap Year Dates

It's fairly late to be giving advice to men who are about to experience a Leap Year date, according to the Associated Collegiate Press, but makes at Washington University, knowing that such a date will be going on until December 31st, offering these suggestions to all collegians: Be sure to keep your escort waiting at least 20 minutes.

Load your pockets with combs, powder puffs, and mirrors. She will be disappointed if she hasn't anything to carry.

Of course she'll provide you with cigarettes and gum. Under no circumstances light your own cigarette. It would make her feel bad.

During intermissions in dancing, order at least a couple chocolate malted milk. She doesn't want you to think she's a miser.

Be subdued and meek at all times, but insist on your rights. Taxis are available at all hours.

Aside from the interval of running days, girls seem to be continuing their hard studying. A number of students have commented on the new spirit of earnest working that we noted recently.

Not a bit superstitious about the 13 per cent increase in enrollment in his department, the dean of the college of Agriculture at the University of Vermont predicts greater increases next year.

Before Breakfast Parade Features First Armistice

Can you imagine Winthrop girls parading over Rock Hill before breakfast?

Well they did—and in 1914, too. About four o'clock on the morning of November 11, news came to Rock Hill that the Armistice had been signed. Bells rang, whistles blew.

Even the bell in main building of Winthrop was rung—and by the janitor, but by an enterprising Winthrop student who wished to be sure her classmates had been wakened.

Workers Complete Erection of Columns

Work on the brick columns erected on either side of the Lancaster Avenue and Park Avenue gates is now complete, and all the roads through the campus are open to use again.

The columns correspond to those at the Oakland Avenue gates. On each is a welcome sign which gives information concerning closing hours. These signs are made of frosted glass and a lighted from within.

The gates on Lancaster Avenue are open at all times, but the Park and Oakland Avenue gates are closed at night.

On Professors Who Lecture Overtime

What do students think of professors who continue to lecture after the bell has rung?

The following are one sentence interviews on the subject recorded, according to the Associated Collegiate Press, by a reporter at the University of New Mexico:

"They are lunatics and abuse their authority."

"It makes me madder than heck."

"They are good professors, but they shouldn't forget the clock."

"They are a swell bunch of fellows."

"They haven't been brought up correctly."

"I believe that they are selfish and cause a lot of inconvenience."

"I have never developed any feeling against them."

"They ought to be tarred and feathered."

Plumed knight, Desert chief, passionate lover, Soldier, blaring with decorations, Irish comber blarney—You are none of these.

According to a psychologist, a young man should always hold firmly to his ideal except, of course, when he is driving a car.—Punch.

"Why has democracy succeeded in this country when it has failed in so many countries? The success of our government is due to a balance between freedom of the individual protected against the powers of the state and freedom of the community protected against a powerful central government."

"I make a request and believe me, it is a request, not a veiled administrative command—that you do not take your seats before or after the Thanksgiving holiday."

—President Shelton Phelps to the Senior Class.

SOCIETIES HOLD MEETING MONDAY

Wade Hampton Discusses "Rusland Culture"; "Swing Music" Winthrop's Topic

"Rusland Culture" was the topic discussed at a meeting of Wade Hampton Literary Society, Johnson Hall, Monday night, November 2, at 8:30.

Crystal Theodore sketched the background of pre- and post-revolutionary Russia. Dorothy Craig pointed out developments in Russian literature before the Revolution, while Grace Taylor discussed Russian literature since the Revolution.

Katherine Hunter outlined the development of Russian art, concluding the program. Ruth Beaman explained the influence of Russia on the arts of the rest of the world. "Swing" Music was the subject of the program for the Winthrop Literary Society.

The program consisted of a talk on "A Jam Session" by Marguerite Zeigler; "The History of Swing," by Louise Paul; and definitions of terms used in discussing the new types of music by Nancy Beatty. Mary Frances Council sang "When Did You Leave Heaven?" and "Renew With a Dream."

I.R.C. Discusses Italy Today

"Italy Today" was the topic discussed at a meeting of the I.R.C. Wednesday afternoon, November 4, in Clio Hall, at 4:30.

Mary Ostman was winner of the extemporaneous contest held in connection with the meeting. Members of the Strawberry Leaf, honorary debating society, elected Frances Holland, secretary of the organization.

Medical Auxiliary Holds Meeting

The Woman's Auxiliary to the South Carolina Medical Association met Thursday, November 5, at 11 o'clock in Johnson Hall. Approximately seventy members attended the meeting.

Business to the visiting members were Mrs. J. L. Bundy, Mrs. W. R. Blackmon, Mrs. Roddy Miller, and Mrs. F. W. Strain.

DOCTORS OF PENS DESCRIBE ENGROSSING LIFE OF NOMADS

(Continued from Page One) Mr. Windolph remarks that he has since learned of the existence of the word penology. Mr. and Mrs. Windolph did not notice any great differences between the students of Winthrop and the students of the other colleges they have visited. "All Southerners," they said, "are friendly and congenial." It is for that reason, they continued, that they prefer the South to any other section of the country. They added, however, that Winthrop students did differ from any others they had come in contact with in that they were all dressed alike and that it was rather hard to distinguish one girl from another.

Mr. Windolph, who once owned a store but had to close it up along with the closing of the banks, expressed his desire to keep on with this "medical profession—penology," which he entered accidentally, merely because of the suggestion by one of his friends.

Asked why he liked his work so much, Mr. Windolph replied, "In this work I'm a free man to do as I please. And I hate to take orders from others!"

"Farmer In The Dell" Stars Fred Stone and Jean Parker

"Farmer in the Dell," starring Fred Stone and Jean Parker, will be shown in Main Auditorium Saturday night, November 7.

The picture opens just as the Beyer family is selling its farm in Iowa to a new home and plans to settle in California. The family, with ambitions for making a film star of her daughter (Jean Parker), manages to obtain a studio pass. The father (Fred Stone) starts the family's life in the studio.

He makes a few suggestions to the company whose set he is viewing. Much to his surprise, he is engaged for a part. At some Stone is skeptical to start with. Either Dale, after her husband becomes a real celebrity, immediately "goes Hollywood." She acquires a new home and plans to betroth her daughter to a fake nobleman.

Come see Stone as he regains the control of his home, curbs the social aspirations of his wife, and settles the romantic difficulties of his daughter.

"Peace Is Subject Vespers Discussion"

"Peace" was the subject of vespers Wednesday, November 5, at 8:30 in Johnson Hall. Briggs Anderson, chairman of the Y. W. O. A. committee on Public Affairs, led the program.

After a brief talk in which she explained that the "real issue is not to defend the nation by war but against war," Briggs turned the program into a round-table discussion on "How Peace Can Best Be Obtained."

Mary Herndon Davis, accompanied by Virginia McCuen, sang "Be Oath Keep These in Perfect Peace."

Plans For Annual Pep Meet Underway

Winthrop's annual Pep Meeting will be held in the amphitheatre Friday, November 13, at 6:30. Faculty members, officials of the college, and students are invited.

The Hokey teams will come from the side of the stage of the amphitheatre to the sections reserved for them by their classes.

Checkers Cookfield, Mitchell Flynn, and Johnson will lead their classes in songs and yells. The cup will be awarded to the class that shows most originality in pep and stater songs, pep and vitality in yell, and vim in general.

Board Approves Financial Plan

A new method of handling the finances of Winthrop College was recommended by President Phelps and approved by the board of trustees at a meeting, October 27.

Under this new plan, the bursar will present to the president on the first of each month a budget for that month. The president will issue a check covering the amount, and this check will be deposited in a special fund subject to the bursar's draft. All bills will be paid from this special fund by checks drawn by the bursar.

In the past, bills were paid on the direct check of the president, counter-signed by the bursar. This made necessary the signing of checks in blank on many occasions.

DEAN'S NOTICE

"Manners form the great charm of women."—Oester.
Assembly in chapel occurs only once a week and lasts little more than half an hour. The President provides varied programs and wishes to make assembly a happy occasion. That we students co-operate by showing respectful attention; by excluding reading or studying, talking, and other diverting interests, remembering the speaker looks out over the audience and is disappointed by lack of attention! Shall we show our college spirit by assembling in proper attire and allowing the polite situation leaving a group of the young women favored in being able to attend college?

Let's commend the admiration of our chapel leaders by our charming attention.

"Picturesque Cities" Beta Pi Theta Topic

"Des Colons Pittoresques de France" will be the subject of the program presented at the meeting of Beta Pi Theta this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Johnson Hall.

"La Cité des Trois Valleys," "La Grande Brière," and "Toulon" will be the subjects of talks about the places in France that various members of the fraternity will discuss.

Gaffney Alumnae Will Organize

Gaffney alumnae are making plans to organize, according to Miss Letta Russell, alumnae executive secretary, who met with a committee of "Winthrop Daughters" of that town Tuesday, October 27.

At this meeting the group made plans for a "Dutch" supper soon, at which time they hope to complete plans for organization.
