THE OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF THE STUDENT BODY OF WINTHROP COLLEGE

VOL. 14, NO. 13

ROCK HILL, SOUTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1934

We repeat—a trifle unnecessarily—how good time during the holidays!

SUBSCRIPTION, $1.50 A YEAR

Featured Facts

What's the matter with the microphones in Main Auditorium? Few people stand before the microphones and talk freely and those who do have their voices distorted.

On Bulletin Board A is posted a map of the United States as a New Yorker sees it. Among the first states west of the Mississippi are Reno, San Francisco, and Hollywood, while all the rivers in the south are labelled "Sevane River."

While students are home for the holidays several of the classrooms will be weather-ordered so that they may be kept at a warmer and more comfortable temperature.

Melchior said he was particularly impressed by the beauty of the lighted Christmas tree on front campus. He remarked that he wished his wife could see it.

A surprisingly large number of girls complain of not being able to fall asleep quickly. What is the cause of insomnia among girls leading the lives of Winthrop students?

No student is allowed to stay at the college during Christmas holidays. Regardless of how far away a girl may live, she cannot remain at school.

First class mail is forwarded to the students during the holidays. Papers and magazines are kept safe and delivered when the girls return.

KAPPA DELTA PI HOLDS INITIATION

Dr. Phelps Speaks At Meeting of Education Fraternity

Initiation for Kappa Delta Pi, national education fraternity, was held Tuesday afternoon, December 11, at 4:30 p.m.

Dr. Phelps spoke at the initiation on "Why I Want a Kappa Delta Pi on the Campus."

Members initiated were Mary Harnden Davis, Miss Nussener, Kathie Coker, Virginia McMillan, Martha Miller Moore, Virginia Williams, Alice Johnson, and Laura Dean Dill.

DR. HART WILL GIVE LECTURES

Adviser At University of Pennsylvania To Visit Winthrop Campus

Y SPONSORS DISCUSSIONS
Author of "Fourteen Reasons Why I Believe in God" May Speak in Chapel

Dr. John Robbins Hart, "friend, adviser, and leader" of University of Pennsylvania students, will appear on the campus the week after Christmas in a series of lectures, discussions, and private interviews, sponsored by the Y. W. C. A.

Although plans are not yet complete, the "Y" expects Dr. Hart to come in to speak in chapel Wednesday morning and at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday night, and they hope that he will be able to stay through supper Sunday night, according to Miss Jesse Wardlaw, student counselor.

Dr. Hart is author of "Fourteen Reasons Why I Believe in God," president of the Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs of America; president of the Optimist Club of Pennsylvania; chaplain of the Philadelphia Eagles and Philadelphia Sports Writers' Association; and speaker at Swannick, England, International Student Conference.

He obtained his B. S. degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1911, his M. A. in economics and sociology at the University of Pennsylvania in 1914, and his Ph.D. in psychology at the same university in 1927.

DORMITORIES GIVE PARTIES

Visits by Santa Claus, Dancing, and Bingo Feature Celebrations

Dormitory Christmas parties last night and tonight will probably be the last Christmas celebrations at Winthrop before the students leave Saturday for the holidays.

Rodney and North dormitories had their regular Christmas parties last night and tonight. At the Rodney party, Santa Claus in person gave presents and fruit, after which Christmas carols were sung. Santa Claus also distributed presents.

North dormitory party will continue again tonight after the picture show at a Christmas dance on first floor of the dormitory.

Bancroft, Brezales, and South will have their annual dormitory Christmas parties tonight after the picture show. Entertainment and refreshments have been provided for each of the parties.

Again South women in a new idea. This dormitory Christmas party will be in the Music Hall auditorium at 9:15. Entertainment will consist of bingo on the balcony, dancing on the main floor, special music, and singing of carols. Punch will be served.

Freshman Foods Class Gives Buffet Supper

The freshman foods class gave a Christmas buffet supper for Miss Sarah Crawford, Tuesday night, at 8 o'clock, in the home economics dining room.

Virginia Guyton is in charge of the entertaining group; Mary Anderson, of the group preparing the main course; and Velma Ward, of the desert and decoration group.

Y. W. PRESENTS 'ADESTE FIDELIS'

Students Take Offering For Virginia Bell, Orphan, Wednesday

"Adeste Fideles," a Christmas oratorio by Louise Ayres Carter, was presented by the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday, December 12, at 7 o'clock, in Main Auditorium.

The paper, directed by Renner Linley, is the story of the nativity in pantomime; it was told by Elizabeth Ann Mitchell. The scene of the pageant was laid in Bethlehem of Judea, in the courtyard of an inn.

Dorothy Stroud played the part of Mary, the Madonna, and Eliza Neuse took the part of Joseph. Mr. Roberts, head of the music department, was in charge of the musical part of the program. The Winthrop glee club, Harry Sealy, a soloist from Rock Hill, and children from the Training School sang the choruses of the pageant.

Before the program, a silver offering was taken for the education of Virginia Bell, an orphan whom the "Y" supports.

Singing Cook Is Not Fond Of Swing Music

Sam Bailey, Winthrop's singing cook, has no use for modern jazz. Questioned as to the reason, he said, "I jes nary 'don't like it." Sam prefers spirituals and hymns like "I Shall Not Be Moved" to "Oogie Boogie's Swing."

The 58-year-old, 46-year-old dandy, who led the singing at the servants' Christmas party, has been cooking bread for Winthrop girls and singing on the side for almost 25 years. He has a remarkable tenor voice, untrained except for a few months of study, and he once sang in Billy Sunday's choir when the evangelist was in Rock Hill.

When asked about his ambitions, Sam said he would like to go on the stage.

Christmas Party Given By Delta Sigma Chi

Delta Sigma Chi, home economics club, entertained at a Christmas party Thursday, December 11. Stockings of candy and fruit were served after the members had exchanged presents.

Y GIVES NEGRO SERVANTS PARTY

Dr. Phelps Expresses Appreciation of College For Negroes' Services

A Christmas party for Winthrop's 107 negro servants was given Thursday from 1:30 to 4:30 in the basement of Johnson Hall by the Y. W. C. A. Virle Crow, chairman of the Maid's Bible Class committee, was in charge.

President Shelton Phelps, in a brief speech, expressed his appreciation to these negroes for their services to the college. Leonard Thompson, college chaplain, answered for the servants.

Sam Bailey, of the kitchen forces, led the singing of carols and spirituals. Mary Frances O'Neill, in the role of Santa Claus, distributed gifts from the Christmas tree. Fruit and candy were served to the group.

Carollers Grand Finale Of Winthrop's Season

When you've seen Freddy Ataire and Olinger Hays, a virtuosic band, have had the last club-Christmas party, and have signed as the chimes sounded "Home, Sweet Home," you'll hear outside your window the final performance of the Winthrop Christmas season—the carolers.

Each year the Y. W. C. A. cabinet members make the circuit of the campus, and lighting their own way, stop before each dormitory and nearby home of faculty members to sing the familiar carols. Tonight they will begin in Rodday Court, and from the home of the president and of Mrs. D. B. Johnson, go to the dormitories, Joyce Hall, and the home management.

When they have made the complete tour the carollers will be served coffee in Johnson Hall by the members of Brother Order. They will then depart for their rooms and open bags that are waiting to be packed.

They were chosen by the eight members elected last year and selected the twelve members of the order.

Martha is an editor of The Tidings and an editor of The Journal. She is on the Y. W. C. A. cabinet, and is Standards representative of the Kappa Phi social club. She is a member of the Elementary Education Club.

Jessie is President of the Senior Class; a Johnsonian reporter; a member of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity; Glee Club; Managers; the Staff; Beta Pi Theta, national honorary French fraternity; the Writers' Club; Secondary Education Club; Joe Newman, and Phi Sigma Phi social club. She was on the '33 Varsity Basketball team.

ZETA ALPHA HAS NEW MEMBERS

Thirty-Eight Students Meet Requirements For Chemistry Club

Thirty-eight new members were formally initiated into Zeta Alpha, chemistry club, at a party in Johnson Hall, Monday, December 14, at 4:30 p.m.

Barth Harper was in charge of the program. Mary Harcey was chairman of the refreshment committee consisting of Cecile Hunsley, Joe Newman, Lila Miller, Dot Crowley, Louise Dorsey, and Elizabeth Picklesimer.

Refreshments were served by the social committee of the Winthrop club.

Requirements for membership in Zeta Alpha are an A or B average, or a major in chemistry.

Mims Contrasts English With American Students

"I certainly didn't soft-soap the English—I told them that they were woefully ignorant of American literature," asserted Dr. Edwin Mims, professor of English at Vanderbilt, who visited a number of British Universities as Carnegie Visiting Professor. Among the schools at which he gave a series of eight lectures were St. Andrews, the University of Edinburgh, and the University of Dublin.

Over five months one cannot decide whether he resembles most, a pastor, an Oxford professor, or a statesman. The three-cornered eyes, the charming smile, the goatee beard, though, to Dr. Mims, cosmopolitan and scholar.

Dr. Mims' trip abroad lasted over a year, but only five months were spent on the continent, where he finally landed in Moscow. He does not feel though, that his brief visit to Russia entitles him "to go forth and establish the word on Communistdom." This trip, he says, was different from the other trips he has taken, since he was interested primarily in meeting people. And he went "well fortified with letters of introduction."

New Senior Order Members

Martha Lang, Jennie Teague, Virginia Walker, and Margaret Zeigler, who were announced this week to complete the membership of the 1937 Senior Order, leadership body of the campus.

Senor de la Rosa Depicts Typical Mexican Courtship

"Just call me 'Bob,'" said Senor Roberto Guerrero de la Rosa, from Mexico City, as he introduced himself to the Model League of Nations Assembly.

In describing courtship in Mexico, de la Rosa stated that it was absolutely necessary for the young man to play a guitar; for he must secure the lady of his choice. He obtains from the police a permit to procure a lady (at the price of two dollars per lady). He then must compose a song to sing under her balcony. If she is at home and pleased with the song, she lets the man know by turning her light quickly on and off. She may invite him into the house. If he desires to court her to the picture show, he must invite her whole family. "And," says the Senor, "they generally accept the invitation."

If he dances with the senorita at her home, then he must invite her mother to dance with him, too. "And how they enjoy it," he said. "When a Mexican secures a girl to a dance," said Senor, "the dance with her all evening. I like our way much better than yours. I took a group like a dance in Chicago, and everybody danced with her but me."

Senor de la Rosa says that he has never seen a girl catching on to English class. "But I like it very much, and I like our Southern accent, too."

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1934

IT GIVES US GREAT PLEASURE—We have thought long and earnestly about the kind of editorial we would write for this occasion—solemn or witty, weighty or flippant, moralistic or pointless...

ONE THING—When you reach home tomorrow, you'll probably want to forget your Winthrop troubles—term papers, notebooks, exams. What's more, you'll be quite right in trying to forget them.

But there is one thing—a very important thing—you might keep in mind: Whatever you say about Winthrop actually makes Winthrop better or worse. If you speak well of your college, you give her the chance to progress; if you low-rate your college, you push her back.

At present, Dr. Phelps is attempting to eliminate the six vital needs of Winthrop. These needs are self-evident to you who are here—repairs in dormitories, laboratories, a laundry and a dry cleaning plant, salary and wage increases, and a sprinkler system.

Talk about these needs while you are at home. Your remarks will benefit Winthrop and you.

CAN IT BE DONE?—To make the school a university is a true fortress of democracy; to win students through appeals of reaction; to consider new political movements; to extend the student movement for peace.

Let us analyze these aims to see exactly what the Union wishes to accomplish at this meeting.

To make the school and university into a true fortress of democracy. By the carrying out of this principle, the Union would destroy class hatred and distrust among students.

To win students from the appeals of reaction. If the association is successful in the accomplishment of this aim, then the danger of such revolutions as frequently occur in France and Spain—revolution which cause an ever-changing government—will be reduced to a minimum.

To consider new political movements. In considering the new political movements, the Student Association would examine each one to find out its worth.

To extend the student movement for peace. With the perfection of this intention, the Association would enlist every student in the strike against war. Last year the call to peace was the chief aim of the Union; and 500,000 students responded to the call.

Certainly the American Student Union has "hitched its wagon to a star." Whether it will be able to keep the altitude clear of the star remains for the coming convention to show.

WHAT DO YOU TALK ABOUT?—What do you talk about? was a challenge that Dr. Mims made.

The question naturally brings to mind many of our so-called conversations. We speak of approaching holidays, of parties we have planned, of the loads of parallel we are supposed to read, and of quizzes that we are dreading.

Perhaps we sometimes have what we term inspirations. Generally these ideas die, however, for want of help in developing them or testing their true worth.

A question we need to face, in fact, is this: Shall we continue to chatter or shall we try our hand at conversation?

DEAR SANTA...

Dear Santa, There's a glimmer at the dim, the inchelors are putting on a masquerade ball, Tommy Thompson is giving a dinner party at the hotel, Penelope Rhodes is having a tea and Cynthia Stevens, a New Year's party.

WINTHROP DAY BY DAY

Thoughts while browsing: "Bill" McCuen and "Booker" Ball are perfect heroes. "Wettable" (something should be done about inappropriate and ineptible nicknames) Zeigler might write a pamphlet on "The Preparation of an Efficient Woman and I defy anybody to doubt it worth. Julia Barnwell and Miss Constance Wardle look enough alike to sisters. Katie again encounters "Coker" luck in being sent to N. Y. to the National Student Government Convention.

Orie has adopted Sunday "Earn easy Christmas money" methods. Summery sets, such as they are, handled in the actiolebor manner. Have proved very fruitful for some. For the talented art student, money matters become tricky. Five, ten, and fifteen cent cards may be bought within any door marked by a sign stating the above.

The college beauticians thrive on the Christmas trade. Kitty Foster and Gene Plinn have one of the hairdressing business. (Hope they appreciate this free advertisement.) Marsha Lang makes pretty cards and the Walker Cockfield does well as a hair-dresser.

Time flies—There have been only twelve issues of The Johnsonian this season. (Would you care to believe that?)

Persons—Daphnigina from the Carolina Swells to go with the cup of coffee you get at Phillips.

Warning: All resolutions for the New Year shall, of necessity, be kept.

Did you know? That by act of the athletic board the old system of giving black "W"s has been changed to a plus. Very dainty gold W. A. A. pin shall now be worn where the "W" was once proudly exhibited.

Activities For The Student Of Education

- 1. Classroom Teaching. This is a professional position. 2. Supervisor of Instruction. Such positions are growing in importance. 3. Administrator. Positions are growing in importance. 4. Visual Education. The motion picture and the means of Education are new instruments to be mastered. 5. Radio in Education. 6. Adult Education. 7. Research workers. 8. Outward workers. 9. Professional study of Education should result in an ability to coordinate all the forces of a community so that the individual and society will develop "the good life."

Canvassing Campuses

THEIR ARE BIG COLLEGE STADIUMS IN THE COUNTRY WITH A SEATING CAPACITY OF 50,000 OR AN AVERAGE OF 10,000 PER SCHOOL.

We think that it would take little imagination to see that this poem from The Sewanee Purple is equally applicable to Winthrop as at Sewanee:

'Twas the week before Christmas, And all through the school, Only one man was studying— And he was a fool. Everyone was day-dreaming Of holiday fun, While the books gathered cobwebs With dust on each one. And then said Mr. Kayden 'Tl give an exam Because they'd discovered 'There's no Santa Claus.

Students at Winthrop who will depart tomorrow, leaving their finance books in an inextricable condition, should be thinking over the axiom established at Syracuse University. They have a loss often on the campus. When the treasury becomes depleted a drive is started and money is raised to relieve needy students—that is, needs for extra money. Anyway, it would be a good way for some of us to spend Christmas holidays. And what a help it would probably be to the cautions.

Two North Carolina State students recently made safety talks before the Freshman Assembly. It seems that the two applicants were standing on a corner thumbing for a ride. A car stopped and picked them up, but the driver happened to be the chief of police of the town. In spite of an ordinance fixing hitch-hikers $15 for the act, charges against them were dismissed—provided they make the safety talks.

Wetley College News asks us that we, after all, do wish for about the same things whether in the North or South, university or college:

Santa, please, to please a hunk, Let her choose a brand new chank. I can think of nothing finer Than the smile of Lorraine Rainer. Perhaps, the pet, and coy Tip-titled one of Myra Loy. Simon Simon's post will please me; Ginger Rogers' frame appase me; Hopalong's hands, and Dietrich's hollow Checkmates would make my Apollo. Garbo's eyes would be misleading, Joined with Irene Dunn's good breeding. Oh, to slightly scold at highbrows— Crawford's frankness—Lombard's eyes!

Wetley College News goes on into quite a different note from Santa in:

PANNING PLEASURE Dinner at eight (Hope he will be late). Formal at ten (What roses again!). Supper at one (Which feels like a leg). Taxi at three (Harvard Library). Breakfast at seven (Oh, mother's heaven!). Students at Furman have been called down in THE FURMAN HONNET for their discourteous behavior in the dining room. It may be a little overdone, even though very slight, to our dining room chairman to know that behavior such as that displayed in our dining room when announcements are being made is not peculiar to Winthrop students alone.

For lots ago The Princeton Tiger sent out a "form chart" asking what other colleges (if) thought of the Princeton boys. The following was received from Radcliffe, as appeared in Sweet River News: A Princeton man is easy to pick. At sparty parties he's sure to pick. The best dressed—clashy colors best. The most drunk—but stays on his feet. The most beautiful—girls—neglects his own date. The last to go—but sure to come last. The first to fume, if the drinks are wrong. The blindest talker—all trouble and song. The barling of all, though he ends up in jail (For business, we recommend Harvard or Yale).

President Phelps Outlines Great Needs of Winthrop

Higher Salaries, Repairs, and New Equipment Listed Among Necessities

If Winthrop College is to continue its progress and expansions, six great needs, according to President Shelton Phelps, require immediate attention. These needs are (1) repairs, (2) laboratories, (3) libraries, (4) laundry, (5) salary and wage increase, and (6) a sprinkler system.

It was stated that while the appropriation which has been asked of the legislature is larger than the expenditures of the present year, it is a great deal smaller than the request for 1935-36.

Repairs—Dr. Phelps stressed the fact that improvements which were delayed during the depression are now essential. The repairs he mentioned are replastering in North and South, replacements of floors, increase in bathroom and toilet facilities, addition of water cooler, and improved lighting in halls and corridors of the newer dormitories.

Laboratories—Stating that the home economics laboratories in high schools are usually better equipped than Winthrop laboratories in which the high school teachers are trained, Dr. Phelps emphasized the necessity for improved laboratory facilities. He mentioned the importance with which the federal government regards this field as demonstrated by the additional funds placed at the disposal of trainers in home economics.

Libraries—Dr. Phelps included in the request for purchase of library books the requirements in the College and in the Training School libraries. He emphasized the immediate necessity for funds since the Carnegie Foundation has stopped its grants for buying books.

Salaries—Believing that the South has behind the other parts of the country in number and size of libraries, he asked that the handouts be minimized as much as possible.

Laundry—In describing the condition of the laundry, the president noted that the college laundry had paid for several times over, but that it is now inadequate for Winthrop students.

Salaries—Dr. Phelps made a request for increase in the salaries of faculty members. After commending them for their conscientious work during the last seven years while their wages have been held out, he stated that salary increase is necessary if faculty members are to do their classroom work untroubled by financial problems.

Sprinkler System—The danger of disastrous fires was particularly emphasized by Dr. Phelps in his enumeration of needs. He presented the necessity of a sprinkler system to make Winthrop safe.

Since the request was made to the legislature of South Carolina, work has begun on the installation of a sprinkler system in the dormitories. Following the discussion of each of these needs, Dr. Phelps mentioned new buildings which should be built within the next few years. Among the buildings to be considered are a home economics building and a new residence hall.

Policemen, Clocks Gifts Of Matrons Student Opinion

From policemen to alarm-clocks range the gifts which the matrons have received from the dormitory Christmas trees.

And we say we have a sense of appreciation. Yes, we say it, but that is as far as we go. We certainly don't support our statements by our actions!

Just imagine a great artist's arrangement which he comes back upon the stage to give an encore and finds a large portion of his audience leaving the auditorium, and then has to wait for many of them to come back in and take their seats! Mr. Melchior was very generous and willing to entertain his audience, having a deep feeling for students, since he has sung before similar groups in his native land. In several direct ways he facilitated that he would have gladly sung longer for us if we had not been so eager to leave.

Even though students were in the majority, we do not deserve all the appreciation, for there were outsiders who did the same thing. It certainly looks as if we don't appreciate talent when we have a chance to be honored by great performers.

Common-sense courtesy demands that we be considerate in public, even though some of us may not be so elsewhere. It has been requested that we not leave the auditorium until Dr. Phelps so signifies, but from your appearance such requests are completely ignored. If we don't show public everyday politeness in public, where are we going to show it?

We are least interested in our Artist Cousins or we would not attend. For they certainly are not compulsory. If interested, then why can't we enjoy the program without being so anxious to leave rudely and discourteously, when the performer is gracious enough to favor us with other numbers? If we appreciate highly cultured and rare occasions, it seems to me that we need to prove it, at least through courtesy to our guest and to Dr. Phelps.

JUST LINES—Dearest Mother, 'Til all exclamations and interjections—Christmas, how! I had been thinking of you for some time against the demoralization of the two weeks before Christmas, but I have been so hard at work that I haven't had time enough to become militaristic.

The Freshman Counselors gave us a party Saturday night, where we did everything from dancing the minutest to playing charades and singing Christmas carols.

Carol, by the way, have taken the place of the blottings at meals. They are played on the chimes too—all of which have put us in such a Christmas atmosphere that my neighbors who usually interrupt my slumbers by "The Green Christmas" have been serenading me with "I Came Upon A Midnight Clear."

Another thing which has taken the campus by storm is the imagination but ever-present Blarney. You see no less than five girls at a time exhibiting and making their fingers at its equally terrible dog.

Love, BALLEY. Princeton University's faculty received 18 books, 113 reviews, and 266 articles during the academic year 1934-35.

HOCKEY CLUB GIVES BANQUET

Marjorie Mitchell To Head Hockey Club For '37-'38 Season

The Hockey Club ended its season with a banquet Monday night, December 14, at 6 o'clock in the Johnson Hall Cafeteria.

Mary Orem, president of the Athletic Association, presented good W. A. A. pins to Julia Thomas, Marjorie Mitchell, and Margie McMeekin, who have made the required eleven sport seasons and eight first teams.

Marjorie Mitchell was re-elected chairman of the hockey club for the year '37-'38.

Forty members of the club and Miss Welser, Pop, Hamack, and Hoffman were present. Dancing between courses and the singing of camp as well as Christmas songs were features of the entertainment.

"Follow the Fleet" Stars Astaire and Rogers Team

"Follow the Fleet" (BRO Radio), a musical comedy starring Glueck Burgers and Fred Astaire, will be shown here at 7:30 Friday evening, December 15, in Main Auditorium.

"Follow the Fleet" is a musical play, one of gods and girls. As the Pacific fleet arrives in San Francisco, Astaire and his pal, Buddy Scott, discover the former's old vaudeville partner, Miss Rogers, and her sister, Harriet Hilliard. The old team re-unites to win a contest, and, as the manager presents the prize to Miss Rogers, her partner accuses her to lose her job by his reunion. He promises to get a better job for her, however, and all appears well.

SOUTH HALL GIVES TEA

Matrons in McLaurin Give Display Of Artex and Japanese Prints

Artex prints and 170 Japanese prints were on display last Saturday afternoon in South dormitory at the regular weekly tea. The Artex prints were works of old and new masters. They were sent by the Art Extension Press of Westport, Conn. The Japanese prints came from the Shibusha Art Company of New York City.

Miss Shine and Miss Burgess, matrons of South, obtained the prints and presented them for exhibition at the tea held in the dormitory parlors Saturday afternoon. The girls of the dormitory, members of the faculty, and a few other guests were present.

When asked to express his opinion about the admirability of a girl attending a girl's school at a good school, Dr. Mims was reluctant to answer. "You couldn't generalize at all in answering that question," he stated. "It all depends upon the lecturer considers that the art of conversation is dying out on the stage. But not, of course, in the stalls."

Breazeale Girls Swing Partners In Dance

To the music of Miss Julia Post, head of the physical education department, Mary Boone, and Elizabeth Ferguson, the residents of Breazeale swung into folk dances the Virginia Reel, O Susanna, and Brown-eyed Mary, at a bare dance Saturday night in the gymnasium.

A feature of the night was a grand march led by Miss Post and Grace Puderbach, assisted by Mrs. Harbin and Mary Boone. Mrs. Kate Glenn Hardin, dean of women; Mrs. Mary M. Gibson, assistant dean; and Mrs. Mary B. Jones, hostess of Breazeale, supervised the group. Mary Champion played for the dancing.

DORMITORIES GIVE PARTIES

It may be a party; it may be a dance; it may be a group of carols—it could be any one of these, but whichever it is, each dormitory will celebrate Christmas in a big way before the students leave for the holidays.

And Winthrop Says, "Bitto"

The business firms of Rock Hill are using The Johnsonian to extend to Winthrop students and faculty the season's compliments. It is a gesture of good will and friendship. Rock Hill and Winthrop ought to be friendly. Both mean a great deal to each other.

The Johnsonian hopes that it will be pardoned if it injects a bit of the commerce into this editorial. But we have something on our mind we want to get off. We want to reveal an ambition or two, the realization of which will depend greatly upon our advertisers.

We want to be the best college newspaper in the country. We want students and faculty members and our other host of readers to look forward with eager anticipation to each issue of The Johnsonian. We want to cover every news event on the campus in a brightly written series of stories. We want to include features and other human interest articles about campus people and things. We want pictures of the students and faculty who stand out in campus affairs. We want a cleanly edited, interestingly written, and ethically handled college newspaper.

It all means that we want a paper that is eagerly read, highly respected, and widely circulated. Any advertiser knows that such a paper is valuable as an advertising medium. A better Johnsonian means more reader interest. More reader interest means greater results from advertising messages. The merchant who advertises in the Johnsonian helps us realize our ambitions. But he is also helping to build a bigger, richer market for his own goods. It is a cycle which pays both The Johnsonian and the advertiser.

We hope, then, that our Rock Hill friends will include The Johnsonian in their advertising budgets for 1937. We think it will be an investment that will mean much to both The Johnsonian and the merchant. We will do everything we can to make it such.

We are grateful for the business you have given to us in the past. You have been courteous to our young ladies who have been seeing you each week. In this issue of our paper you are wishing Winthrop "A MERRY CHRISTMAS" . . .

The Johnsonian takes this opportunity to reciprocate. We extend to Rock Hill firms our sincerest wishes for a glorious Christmas and a PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR.
