Latin Study Thrives; Forum Attracts Many

Latin a dead language? Not any more—not in South Carolina, anyway, for the revival of this classical language has been carried on over the years by the University of South Carolina. In fact, it is one of the oldest and most successful Latin study programs in the United States.

Dr. Bruce Martin, chairman of the department of classics, is a member of the Latin Society of America. He is a member of the American Philological Association, and he is a member of the Classical Association of the Middle States and Canada. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and he is a member of the American Philosophical Society.

Dr. Martin has been a member of the South Carolina Legislature, the South Carolina Board of Education, the South Carolina Board of Regents, the South Carolina Board of Commissioners, and the South Carolina Board of Trustees. He has been a member of the South Carolina Board of Visitors, the South Carolina Board of Trustees, and the South Carolina Board of Regents.

The annual Christmas card sent by Winthrop College is one of the most beautiful Christmas cards sent by any institution in the United States. The card is sent to all the alumni of Winthrop College, and it is sent to all the friends of Winthrop College.

Sociology Dept. Planning Forum

The Sixth Annual Sociology Forum for high school and college students will be held at Winthrop University on February 21. The topic of the Forum will be "The Social Life of a Community." The Forum will be held at Winthrop University, and it will be open to all high school and college students.

COURSES IN SOCIOLOGY

A general social science course in sociology is open to freshmen and sophomore students. The course is open to all high school and college students. The course is open to all high school and college students.

Sociology students are encouraged to participate in the Forum. The Forum is open to all high school and college students.

Miss Hi Misses Are Invited Here

The annual visit of the Miss-Hi Misses to the Winthrop campus is one of the outstanding events of our college year. Misses, after a year's planning to convey in each one of you Winthrop's sincere hope that you can be an answer to the thronging problems of this world. We believe each one of you has a mission. So we invite you to make plans to be at Winthrop this year.

We hope you will enjoy your visit to Winthrop. While you are here, we invite you to enjoy your visit and we hope you will enjoy your visit. While you are here, we invite you to enjoy your visit.

All Students Take Courses In English Dept.

Advanced Courses Offered By Dept.

By Harriett Patterson.

Since the beginning of time man has found it necessary to have some method of communicating his thoughts to others. No other method consisted of grunts or signs or actual words, the more man learned about the method, the more effective the communication became. Thus, man has always strived to improve his method of communication.

A CLASS IN modern drama (above) gets a lesson from the greatest dramatist of them all as they listen to a recording of a Shakespeare play. These students are acquaintances who have elected the drama major, majoring in English literature. Department seniors, Kayla Mitchell of Greer, and Beryl Massey of North Augusta, are students of Kitty Mitchell of Greenville, Ann Garrett of Columbia, Anne Henrietta R. Smith of Columbia and Nancy Stroope of Latta. The student body will be presented with the play.

A certain degree of preparation for marriage and family life.

For potential professional social workers, the department offers courses in survey of social work and social work methods.

An outstanding feature of the sociology department is its extensive use of visual aids. Bulletin boards, exhibits, overhead projectors, and films are used in all courses. In order to get first-hand information, students go on field trips to visit various agencies, communities, institutions, and schools.

DEPARTMENT ACTIVITIES

Every Winthrop student takes a course in English during her first years. The advanced English courses are generally open to only juniors and seniors.

Student Prayer

The student body last year adopted a Winthrop College student prayer, written by and for Winthrop students.

This prayer is:

O Father, who are Thy children come for guidance from Thy holy will and forgiveness from Thy holy spirit. Give us, we pray, the guidance of Thy spirit and the forgiveness of Thy holy will. Give us the guidance of Thy holy will and the forgiveness of Thy holy spirit.

Thy grace and Thy guidance.

Major Is Offered In Journalism

By CALLIE ATKINSON

Winthrop is one of the two colleges in South Carolina offering a major in journalism. Students may work toward both the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees are available to students interested in making a career of journalism.

A major in journalism consists of 24 semester hours of journalism courses. Ninety hours of academic courses are necessary for the B.A. degree and 40 hours for the B.S. degree for the journalism major.

From Fall through 1957, 21 students have graduated from the journalism major. Various positions in the journalism field are now held by members of the program. Graduates are with daily papers and others are with weekly publications.

Radio work is also being done by several Winthrop students. Teaching and public relations positions are listed in the careers of other Winthrop journalism majors.

The women's editors of the Anderson Daily Mail and the Wofford Observer are Mrs. and Miss hats, respectively. The Winthrop News Service is also diversified by a daily publication in journalism. \n
Actual experience and practical background supplements the classroom lectures. Field trips are taken to newspaper plants, radio and television stations.

Journalism students have been published in the News and the Sun, two newspapers published by the college. \n
A modern radio station is in the basement of the Administration Building provides actual experience for the students of radio journalism. News broadcasts and other programs are made on and between over radio stations in Rock Hill and throughout South and North Carolina.

A writing laboratory for the potential reporter in the journalism program provides opportunities for the student to practice and improve his writing. The laboratory is in its own large, up-to-date office, by journalism students and others who are interested in newspaper work. Independents of the journalism department, the paper is edited by Miss Anne Hardcastle, of the college News Service.

The Winthrop College Department of Journalism offers two programs for high school students: one in the summer and one in the winter.

In addition to the annual Miss Hi Film program, conducted by Miss Helen Baker, the writer talks to the student newspaper editors in South Carolina.

The newspapers of South Carolina are eligible to participate in the program. Each month for a period of six months, schools send one story, feature, sports story, or editorial. These stories are judged by staffs of daily newspapers in South Carolina, and the winners are awarded. Science Majors Have Variety Of Fields To Enter

Courses Give Training In Medicine, Technology

Science is an expansion area at Winthrop, offering more than 50 courses from which a student can prepare himself for a career as a medical secretary, or for work in laboratories. Basic courses needed to prepare students for the training leading to careers in medicine, research, college and university teaching, nursing, medical technology, physical therapy, and medical art are offered.

For much of this training in special schools, fellowships covering necessary expenditures are available to the student who does暑期 work on the college level. This helps to offset the cost of the student's education, and adds to the student's pay for his summer work. These fellowships are open to all the science courses, with the exception of agriculture.

A junior will begin within the next future to house Winthrop's expanding science departments of biology, chemistry, and physics. Tillman Hall has its own library of science books and some of the best current periodicals in which recent researches to science is given in detail.

Frosh in Tillman include showcases of scientific interest and ability. Popular in Tillman include showcases of biological evolution among plants and animals.

The Biology Club is open to all students interested in the study of life. The club has as its purpose developing individual ability, stimulating scientific interest and encouraging practical application of science. The club was founded by the students as a result of the interest shown in the biology courses at Winthrop. The Biology Club holds weekly meetings and meets every Friday at 11:30 A.M. in the biology laboratory. The club is open to all students interested in the study of life.

The Johnsonian proudly presents the Misses of South Carolina.

Science and technology have become increasingly important fields of study as the demands of modern society have grown. With the advancement of scientific knowledge, new opportunities have arisen for individuals to pursue careers in various fields related to science and technology. The following article highlights the diversity of fields that science majors can explore and the training they receive at Winthrop College.

Courses in medicine, technology, and related sciences are available to students, offering preparation for careers in medicine, research, college and university teaching, nursing, medical technology, and other fields. Basic courses are needed to prepare students for these career paths, and fellowships covering necessary expenditures are available to those who participate in summer work at the college.

In biology, chemistry, and physics, students can find opportunities to expand their knowledge and skills, with showcases of scientific interest and ability. The Biology Club, open to all students interested in the study of life, is one example of a student group that fosters scientific interest and encourages practical application of science.

Winthrop College offers a variety of science courses, including anatomy and physiology, human body, medicine, student unions, and more. Students can choose from a range of courses to develop their understanding of the living world.

In summary, science majors at Winthrop College have a wide range of fields to explore and training to prepare them for careers in diverse fields related to science and technology.
Study Of History Gives Valuable Background

WINTHROP DEPARTMENT HEADS

In addition to helping students understand the weekly or in which they live, the study of history prepares them for certain fields of activity.

They may become teachers of history and the social sciences or they may gain essential background information for various types of government service. Journalism is another.

Students may enter in history, either in history or in some other field from which they take advantage. They may move to a career suited for them in the field of government.

Some courses are general, others are specialized, but whatever the period, topic or geographical area, college teachers and students work together to understand both the past and the present and their relationship.

Textbooks and conferences history surveys are of the general survey type. One course traces the development of civilization from prehistoric times through the Reformation. Another continues the study to the present.

These courses are devoted to the study of modern history. The growth of American civilization is outlined in the other courses.

The main factors in the economic history of the United States are stressed in a one semester course designed primarily for commerce majors.

Business and service may show from a variety of advanced courses. Students history deals with the early Nondescripts as well as the early Nondescripts as well as the early writers with social emphasis in Greaves and France. Medieval history emphasizes the cultural development in Europe during the Middle Ages.

In the course on the Renaissance and Reformation an analysis of the intellectual, economic and political changes of this period is followed by a study of the rise of national states in the 17th century. The history of England stresses the British cultural, economic and national development.

Courses are offered also in the history of Europe since 1776. Latin America, and the Far East.

A core course is a comprehensive history survey of the current world. History offers no student elective in the field of American history. Only one or two electives or with the students in which the students are enrolled or with the students in which the students are enrolled in the field of American history.

The general course in American government emphasizes the place of the federal government in the federal government. An attempt is made to concentrate on the political and economic affairs of the United States.

The structure and operation of state, municipal and local government are studied in the course on state and local government. The South Carolina state and local governments are covered particularly.

Another course deals primarily with American political parties. Democracy and the federal system are studied in other elective courses.

Examination and policy courses are also offered in social legislation, the constitution, political administration and international relations.

The International Relations Club is one of these student organizations at Winthrop sponsored by the Department of History and Government. Clubs at left at a meeting of the International Relations Club are: Dr. Harold Wolfe, head of the history department; Mr. E. T. Levenson and Dr. Mildred Ford of the history department; Grace Foster of Winthrop, Betty King of Florence, Mary Gruss of Greenville; Annice Revell of Monroe, H. C. Second and K. C. Second. Commander of the United States, the Far Eastern Defense, and the American Defense. The International Relations Club is open to all students interested in national and international understanding. Other organizations under the sponsorship of the history department are Phi Alpha Theta, a national honorary history fraternity, and the department club.

Knowledge Of Math Aids In Many Positions And Tasks

Mathematics is being emphasized in public school and college curricula because it is to be useful professionally in, in the home, and in the community. Women have shown themselves to be capable of successfully pursuing such careers. Female Winthrop graduates in mathematics now hold positions in the Federal Security Agency in Washington, in the jet aircraft center of the United States, and in high schools in many places.

Many students other than mathe- matics majors take courses in this department. Commerce majors are required to take two semesters of business mathematics. Courses may also be taken to fulfill science requirement for the B.S. degree. Advanced courses in the principles and applications of elementary arithmetic is offered for those majoring in elementary education.

A major in mathematics consists of 26 semester hours of course work. Three courses are selected as to prepare the student for a career in government, business, or graduate work in mathematics, with the eyes broader opportunities which are then open to her.

Students in the Winthrop Journalism Department have recently made three field trips in connection with their class work. They visited the plant of the Yorkville Enquirer, one of the oldest morning newspapers in the area, the office of the Charlotte News, and the studios of WBTV in Charlotte.

Photography is fast becoming a big job, therefore photographers must be assigned two weeks in advance of printing date. They are sent to Charlotte on Saturday to be equipped and have time back in the college on Monday and Wednesday before the paper comes out Friday.

Arthur B. Brown, state director of the South Carolina Department of Public Welfare, spoke at the student assembly in Nov. He discussed the various areas in which the department assists people, naming the old age and survivors insurance, old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and the child welfare service. Mr. Brown said the J.A. of the professional workers on the staff of the S.C. Welfare Department were graduates of Winthrop College.
Winthrop Offers Many Services To Students

A COMMUNITY WITHIN ITSELF. Winthrop has many extras which make life on campus as easy as possible by supplying many of the features of a small town right on the campus. Among the most important places for the girl away from home is the Winthrop Post Office which is a Federal Post Office and a branch of the Rock Hill Post Office Department. All the services of a first class Post Office are available to the Winthrop community. Before arriving at Winthrop in the fall, students receive notification of the Post Office box which has been assigned to them and they may keep this same box all during their stay at the college. For between meal snacks, or a big feast prepared in one of the many dormitory kitchens, Winthrup students may purchase canned goods, coffee, tea, a variety of bakery products, etc., at the Canteen which boasts many of the features of a modern grocery store.

A STUDENT BANK is operated by the college, at an interest to the student, in order that their spending money will receive the proper protection. Students wishing money in the student bank have checking accounts the same as any other bank the only differ-
Slow But Sure Is Old Stuff At WC

"Slow but sure" may be a good motto for tutors.

As a way to read, some Winthrop students still tell you that being slow is "for the birds.

Winthrop offers a course in reading development which is under Dr. William Anderson of the psychology department. By the end of the course it is hoped to help students improve their reading habits. Some students may already have had a good start in developing good reading skills.

Course in reading development is divided into five sections. Students who enter this class will have to pass an aptitude test which measures their reading ability. The test is given to all students who enter the class. The results of the test will be used to determine which group of students will be assigned to each section.

The first section of the course deals with the reading habits of college students. This section includes lectures and discussions on the reading habits of college students. The students are divided into groups and each group is given a reading assignment. The students are then asked to come up with their own reading strategies. The students are encouraged to share their strategies and to discuss them with each other.

The second section of the course deals with the reading habits of middle school students. This section includes lectures and discussions on the reading habits of middle school students. The students are divided into groups and each group is given a reading assignment. The students are then asked to come up with their own reading strategies. The students are encouraged to share their strategies and to discuss them with each other.

The students are divided into groups and each group is given a reading assignment. The students are then asked to come up with their own reading strategies. The students are encouraged to share their strategies and to discuss them with each other.

Performing Original Research

Some students of psychology study a person's efficiency in listening to voices. A test is given with other students standing around watching and talking. First, the talker is placed in a room and given a voice test. Then the voice test is repeated in a different room.

To measure the difference between public and private speaking, students in Winthrop's department of psychology will pontificate and helpfully in any field of work now or ever graduating.

Whether the students are planning to marry and raise a family, teach school, or do any kind of work with people, content in this department will be of value.

The aim of the department can only provide students with a good general background for understanding human behavior and experience.

For the course to be of interest to psychologists and other people is accomplished by demonstrating on problems of individual development and learning, and of biological and social factors which shape the individual.

Improve Your Reading Ability

This course is essential to the framework of high respect for the human individual and his potential.

Job opportunities for women are virtually unlimited, and the Winthrop psychology department offers additional opportunities toward many different careers.

Psychology is useful as a young profession, with the study of individual psychology. Careers in professional psychology include businesses in schools, guidance and mental health clinics, hospitals, industries, and businesses, and in government and the armed services.

Appreciation of the ways in which people behave and understand the motivation for this behavior is developed by such courses as child and adolescent psychology, psychology of personality, and social, abnormal, and industrial psychology.

A course in psychological measurements is a survey of the field of psychological testing.

Students in this class get practical experience by actually administering tests to individuals and by observing tested examiners.

A course in general psychology provides a broad introduction to psychology as a science of behavior and experience.

To some, this course is an experimental laboratory which is seen as an extension of the laboratory experiments of the course.

Methodic studies of behavior and psychological phenomena in development, learning, remembering, thinking, and adjusting are illustrated as well as psychological techniques of intelligence, special abilities, interest and personality.

A group of Winthrop students took a written test and then spoke into a recorder. With referring the personality of the voice they hear, the students then checked with the results of the written tests.

VOICING IN IDIOL READING ABILITY

The following student was selected from a group of students who entered the course. The student's name is E. W. He entered the course on a voluntary basis. Developmental reading material includes work on general reading procedures, vocabulary, speed and comprehension.

The student's reading ability at Winthrop has been evaluated in this department. Nancy Durland, a senior from Michigan, illustrates the work. The student's reading ability is good for his age and his reading is not slow. He usually reads a page in about 1 minute, or about 1,200 words a minute. He can finish a novel in two or three hours.

At the same time, Nancy is remembering as much of what he read as he can. He has read a page of a book in about 1 hour. He has read all that he can remember of the book. Nancy can you not start a new version of what happened at the end of the book, he will need time to read what he has read. He will need to catch up on the book, he has read. Nancy is interested in anything that he has read, he needs a lot of time to catch up on the book, he has read. Nancy will be a good reader, he will need a lot of time to catch up on the book, he has read.

Broad without moving your eye or head from side to side, the only time, when you are interested, only to have to turn back and see what is happening. Nancy is interested in anything that he has read, he needs a lot of time to catch up on the book, he has read. Nancy will be a good reader, he will need a lot of time to catch up on the book, he has read. Religion, Philosophy Study Enrich Student Life

To assist the Winthrop College students in this, the college began, in 1934, a department of philosophy and religion which is under the supervision of Dr. Nolan P. Johnson, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Columbia, South Carolina.

"The most important way in which a college career can be protected against failure is to start early and then steadily and at the pace in denominational and institutional studies of education and devotion," Dr. Johnson states.

Numerous courses offered by the department throughout the student's four years at Winthrop are designed to enrich her college life and continue to serve her throughout her life.

A new course this year, philosophy of life, is designed primarily for freshmen and sophomores. It is more interested in stimulating student thinking than in memorizing what great philosophers have thought.

Hennesy and Jane Hendrick, standing—Anne Marie Bagala, Margaret Getza, Evelyn Horton, Sonoma Crouch, Billy Rogers, Ruth Leaver, Pawley McPherson, Patricia Cursay, Harriett Thomas and Bettye Lane.

Students have already begun to work out a philosophy of life long before arriving at Winthrop, and freshmen are encouraged to keep this work underway in order that they may not lose and be overshadowed by all the activities of the campus.

Another popular course is Bible where girls are discovering that a Bible about which they have heard and studied for many years holds rich and colorful stories.

Other courses in religion include a general non-Biblical introduction to religion, designed for freshmen and sophomores as a first course in religion, Jesus and the Prophet, philosophy of religion, and religions of the world.

A course in ethical issues about right and wrong, good and evil. A course in philosophy of science is being added next fall. Other courses include philosophy and literature, problems of philosophy, history of philosophy, major currents in medical thought, and moral and spiritual values in education.

STUDENTS OF ALL DEPARTMENTS find the course in Bible a valuable study in that it reveals rich insights which before were unseen about the Bible with which they are familiar.
Conference On Moral, Spiritual Values Is Held Here

Educators Discuss Developing Values

In keeping with the modern trend to education, Winthrop College sponsored this fall its first conference on the "Advancing Moral and Spiritual Values in Education." Directed by Dr. Helen F. Jordan, head of the department of philosophy and religion, the purpose of the supplement was to assist the educators in developing a basis for moral and spiritual values in young people.

Approximately 1,500 people attended the first session at which Charles F. Taft of Cincinnati, C. C. speaker, Mr. Taft to the son of former president William Howard Taft and a brother of the late Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, spoke in his own right, as a statesman and Christian layman.

High on the scale of important values found at the conference was the opportunity which the conference afforded for these responsible officials and leaders to meet together for the purpose of discussing the greatest values of life.

In charge of the second day's program was Dean J. B. White of the College of Education, University of Florida. In addition to Dr. White as chairman, a number of outstanding educators, school authorities, and other professionals concerned with youth participated in the group discussions and workshops.

The group discussions centered around such questions as: What are the great values of life and how are these values determined? What can schools do about value judgments? How can the school prepare habits of honesty? How shall religion be treated in schools?

Many Winthrop students also participated in the Winthrop conference. Students interested in teaching as well as students studying in the philosophy and religious departments participated in the conference. A panel of Winthrop students set up one of the displays.

Outstanding Teachers and Educators from throughout North and South Carolina took part in the conference which was designed to point teachers in helping their students find a base for the major values of life.

Winners in the University of Florida's Tenth Annual Conference for Teachers of the University of Florida, in charge of the second session, was Mrs. Nancy Marshall of Orangeburg, president of the South Carolina Education Association.

Fine Arts Courses Available To WC Students

44 Courses Are Offered In Seven Fields Of Art

Designed to serve all members of the Winthrop College student body desiring such courses, the department of fine arts offers 44 courses, many of which may be taken as electives as well as credit towards a major or minor in the fine arts.

This department is one of the major fields in which students may begin taking courses in their freshman year.

The department has something to offer every student regardless of his particular field of interest. Courses are available in the fields of commercial art, ceramics, crafts, painting, photography, sculpture, and art education.

Workshop students may take 12 hours of basic art courses during their freshman and sophomore years. These courses include figure sketching, an introduction to painting and sculpture, and an introduction to basic art education.

Students majoring in other fields are urged to include an introductory course in their major courses. Many fine arts courses may be taken as electives.

The wide range of courses available is made possible by the purchase and use of modern art equipment and the furnishing of adequate facilities for the department. Among the equipment purchased for the department are默默陶器 machine, a pottery wheel, and a kiln.

Experiences in these courses include study of such art media as ceramics, photography, printmaking, sculpture, painting, and graphic design.

Further courses provide advanced instruction in the various fields of study.

The commercial art area is planned to give the student basic training and experience in everyday applications of the principles of design and art. Students are taught how to prepare layouts for mass production and layout design and commercial and industrial art. They are taught how to prepare sketches, designs, and models for use in craft and decoration.

A marked shortage of trained personnel in the ceramic arts is noted. A marked shortage of trained personnel is noted in other fields of art as well.

Many students who wish to concentrate on ceramics as a major field may take part-time and full-time study in the department.

Winthrop is the only college in South Carolina and one of the few women's colleges in the nation offering photography as a course in the department of fine arts.

The equipment has been purchased, and every student interested in this field may obtain the instruction necessary to fulfill his needs.

These courses are valuable for those who wish to concentrate on ceramics as their major field of study.

The elementary course in photography is designed to give students an introduction to basic photographic techniques and processes.

The basic sculpture courses offer a practical introduction in sculpture, and students are given instruction in such problems as modeling in clay, wood, and stone.

Students who wish to pursue their interests in sculpture may do so in their major field.

The fine arts department is designed to develop student skill in order to pursue those for teaching positions or gain employment in industrial and commercial art fields.

WORKING WITH A LIVE MODEL, these Winthrop College fine arts students are pursuing their interests in figure composition. They are studying under Professor William L. McDermott, head of the fine arts department.

ENHANCING THEIR DRAWING SKILLS, fine arts students learn the principles of drawing design and color by using basic and advanced courses for students interested in creating art in this area. The 44 courses offered by the department include something of interest for every student from the fine arts major to the student who takes the courses as electives.

Additional fine arts courses include modern art, American art, history of costume, commercial art, and contemporary art.
Work Scholarships Help Students Go To College

Scholarship Students Earn While Learning

"Working my way through school" is a popular expression often used by students. This semester Winthrop students have reason to be proud of their scholarships. Work scholarships are awarded on the basis of ability to perform the service needed. Financial need, and some academic average times there is a limited number of scholarships available each year, their requirements must be met.

It isn't always possible for a prospective student to get the kind of work and school experience that qualifies for a work scholarship. In order to keep the position, the job offered to the student is varied. At left is Lorraine Barnes, a current student who is employed in the Alumni Office. She is shown here at work in this busy little office. She is a registered nurse, a busy little office. She is a registered nurse, and she is a member of the alumni association, to keep the files for former students up to date. In the center picture, Mary Kate Columbia, who works in the registrar's office, checking the student files. Her right is Alitha Pillot, a student nurse, a student secretary, and a student volunteer. All three positions are beneficial to Winthrop College, a work "scholarship" can mean the difference between "to have or not have" a college education.

These women, in the course of last year together earned approximately $12,000. Thirty-five girls put in approximately 30 hours a week and clear 2,000 tables in the college dining room assisted by another 35 students working there part time. An additional 350 girls, including seasonal part-time assistants, attend the work scholarships. Ten percent of the total amount of money spent in the dining rooms. These employment provide a scholarship of $250 to any student employed 20 hours a week. Those of the five full-time students employed with part-time assistants and five girls five part-time workers each earning $2.50.

There are this year 115 of these part-time assistants working as nurses, librarians, laboratory workers, clerks, office assistants, lab assistants, and a variety of other jobs.

May Court Queen, Attendants Elected

Students at Winthrop College have elected the class for May to appear in the traditional May Day ceremonies at the South Carolina College for Women.

Kinging as Queen will be Jane Gray Kemmert of Sumter, The Maid of Honor is Dela D. Shafer of Spartanburg, Mary Ann Long of Conway, and Mary Jean Math of Rock Hill.

From the junior class the attendants are Lorentta Lewis of Winthrop, Mary Anne Guinn of Rock Hill, Catherine Cahill of Beaufort, and Betty Ann Lancaster of Charleston.

Attendants elected for the sophomore class are Janice Allen of Sumter, Betty Ann Anderson of Columbia, James Allen and Missy Anderson of Columbia, and Missy Anderson of Columbia, and Mary Ann Lancaster of Charleston.

Representing the freshman class are Janet Groves from Sumter, Janet Finkelman of Beaufort, Mary Ann Palmer of Fort Hill, and Emma Lee Adams of Chester.

The Winthrop College Caravan library celebrated the 100th anniversary of Walt Whitman's Leaves of Grass with an exhibition of autographs, letters and drawings by the poet. The exhibition is open daily from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. in the library on the campus of the school.

Health Courses Benefit All Winthrop Students

In the personal interest of Winthrop students as well as their formal education, Winthrop maintains a department of health.

Under the instruction of Miss Katherine Adams, the health courses are designed to be beneficial to the student as well as the future teachers.

Health education in personal health which stresses the importance of personal hygiene.

The students are encouraged to participate in the activities of the home health and practical experience in the dietary department gained in this course, and they are given frequent opportunities to evaluate their personal health habits.

History Professors Attend Memphis Meet

Winthrop College was represented at the meeting of the Southern Historical Association in Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 14-16 by Dr. Mary Elizabeth Mauzy and Dr. Walter White.

During the past year Dr. Mauzy served as general chairman of the membership committee for the association.

Meeting the spiritual needs of Winthrop College students is the Winthrop Christian Association to which all students belong.

Under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Shaw as executive secretary, the W.C.A. has a wide-range program which affords the lives of all Winthrop students.

Elective students compose a Cabinet which helps to further the activities of W.C.A. and to make its influence more real to both corpor members of the student body. W.C.A. Services, Religious Emphasis Week and the Foreign Student Scholarship Fund are just a few of the larger programs directed by W.C.A.

In addition, there are vaper services, fellowships, and meetings throughout every week of the school year.

The Christian Association is responsible for the devotional programs given during the student assembly held each Thursday evening.

On Sunday nights a vaper program is held in the Johnson Hall Auditorium. The programs are directed by ministers in Black Hill deputation teams from various local churches or minister groups.

Following this service which is comparable to a Sunday night church service, there is often a fellowship hour in Johnson Hall.

It is believed that a service such as this brings all students together after they have attended various services of their choice for the morning worship service in the spirit of Christian unity necessary in campus life.

The Foreign Student Scholarship Fund is one of the biggest drives of the W.C.A. Services, Religious Emphasis Week and the W.C.A. conducts a drive for money to bring students of foreign countries to the South Carolina College for Women.

This program, which is so beneficial to Winthrop students as it is to recipients of the fund, was begun in 1944.

Since then 32 students from 14 different countries have receive the W.C.A scholarship. They take part in the academic campus activities and occasionally bring their families or friends to the campus throughout the state.

The opportunities for spiritual growth are almost unlimited on the Winthrop College campus. The extent to which one may participate is determined by each student.

Frosh Views Religious Life On Campus

By MARY KERS SMITH

The religious life of Winthrop is very active. Most of the students seem to realize that God must be a definite part of their lives.

There are church meetings at all times of day and night. Although it takes a lot of planning to make time for God, those who do take time find their effort well repaid.

Denominational student groups have some devotionals after church services. It is wonderful to see the united bodies and united minds in the student center.

At Vespers each Sunday night a large number of students attend. Those who attend are so strong and a fellow student discusses some current problem and offers solutions.

The choir present programs as if it will live through the year.

The choir which has such a high bar, Taps, Taps, makes an impressive worship center from their dais, and always direc- tor of the choir, miss, and a fellow student discusses some current problem and offers solutions. The choir present programs as if it will live through the year.

There are Sunday School and church to attend every Sunday morning. The Wesleyan Church has an Association group. These groups can be a help in understanding their area.

Worship with music is used in many ways. Sometimes an entire program of songs is presented as Vespers by the double choir. The choir presents programs for the dedication of the church and the Christian concert. These are always more impressive songs to use for worship services. The music made around the old school in the park is also used at the spiritual center for recreation, parties, dances and tea. The building is equipped with a auditorium, which will seat 60 people, offices, kitchen and reception room. This building is located also the division of dramatic art.

EACH YEAR SHORTLY AFTER the beginning of the second semester, the Winthrop Christian Association sponsors Religious Emphasis Week on the campus of the South Carolina College for Women. Services are held after church and after supper every day by a minister brought to the campus under the direction of the W.C.A. In the past few years, two well-known clergymen of the Church of England have visited Winthrop as well as American clergymen sent for their ministry among young people. The students are shown here attending a service at the Administration Building Auditorium.

Winthrop Alumnae Association Acts As Contact Between Former Winthrop Students and College

Winthrop College publishes this alumnae news feature, "Winthrop College Alumnae News," though the printed edition, not free to all Alumnae Association members, are available to the college and of their students who are members of the Association. The Association has voted over $50,000 for the W. C. A. Memorial Organ which was dedicated at the college in Reynolds.

Daughters of former students who are currently residents of the dormitories, are held by the Association, at its annual meeting, for the purpose of providing information on the campus life of the college. At this time, these alumnae and former students exchange ideas and suggestions. The alumnae are to be met and entertained by the student body.

Within the state of South Carolina, the alumnae Association is meeting this year devoted to a special drive, sponsoring the alumnae Association's Viridian, a literary magazine of poems, stories, and essays. The magazine is distributed by the alumnae Association and is available to all alumnae and former students.

The Winthrop Alumnae Association serves as a contact between the alumnae and the college, providing information on the activities of the college, its alumni, and its students. The alumnae Association is also involved in the planning of events and activities on the campus, such as the annual Homecoming Week, which includes a variety of events and activities for the alumnae and students.

SOPHIS LIVE IT UP FOR ONE GRAND SPECIAL WEEK

By CALLIE ATKINSON

Corin-coke pipes, tube neck chains, patched up jeans, and "that good old' mountain dew" set the stage for this year's Sophomore Week with a hill-billy theme.

The traditional occasion honors the sophomores each year when they take over the campus.

Plan to endear yourself with the Sophomore Hop in Johnson Hall on Saturday. Homework & Studie was by the Harry Mason Brothers of Newberry. The whole place was hung up "right partisner" with a bunting over back ing and a big sign of corn stalks standing round.

A fruit sir was added with glasses after nine on the windows and the spirited ball fell on the spotlights casting hollertenet shadows on the wall and dancing floor. You were, every one of them mountains- men and their city-dweller fellow boys agreed that it was putterful!

Some of the freshmen girls all decked out in jeans, denim feel, and baring-dress came in to help with pastin' just three quarters.

Dr. Fred W. Bragg delivered the testimonial address at special sophomore Virginia Sheats makes a fine, point of the Southern Methodist Church in Columbia, was an outstanding woman at Religious Embrace week in 1931.

And by the fashionable, Pinky Hill, and Virginia Floyd of Newberry, the trio of 'Emmanuel' seems to be grinning with南部-Mark's book on "Mustard of Our Week,

Images of "Tuscan, Tuscan, and Tuscan", followed by "Drake's Jap, and Girl Your Gem" and warnings that "Homework's not where it's at!" passed through the auditorium without N. J. Arnold with key timely (and husky) life against the walls.

A real sad, fashion-edged dressing room seat was the place. Each room of dressing room was fitted with the dressing table, mirror, chair, and a stashed sewing box. The door was the only other thing that was white, and the rest was a mixture of mending, shoes, and socks.

For better or for worse, William College gladness and the thrill of being a fresh man at its highest in spirit. The whole week was a beautiful, colorful tapestry of the souls of the students.

Parties, parades, and a Student-Breakfast Day climax were some of the events of the week. The afterlife model of a former Sophomore Hop on Saturday night in Johnson Hall.

THE GLOW OF MANY a fine-woven stole to make her own wedding dress, and that’s exactly what Priscilla Bland did. First graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in home economics in May and was married shortly afterwards.

AN ANNUAL CHRISTMAS BAZAAR is one of the highlights of the Christmas season at Winthrop. Sponsored by the Home Economics Department, the bazaar features many items which relieve the Christmas shopping problems of the students. Above, Joyce Hackman of Florence shops in a rack of chimney slips.

SEWING A FINE SEAM are Shirley Underwood of Union and Betty Thompson of Greenville. A wide variety of exhibits and displays were set up for the open house of the home economics department last May. The open house attracted interested groups from throughout North and South Carolina. At left, Barbara Ann Rice of Newberry and Maggie Cartin of Lancaster display a few of the food displays.

THURMONT HALL — Recognized by the American Home Economics Association as one of the best home economics buildings in the United States, Thurmond Hall has well-equipped suites of rooms designed to provide facilities for teacher training and for instruction in foods and nutrition, clothing and textiles, consumer education, home management and child care, marketing, interior decorating, social efficiency and graceful living. The building serves as a teaching aid in that a variety of floor finishes, wall finishes and lighting fixtures have been used and various rooms have been equipped to show what can be done in different income levels.

THE WELL-EQUIPPED NURSERY SCHOOL has been a source of interest to students in the home economics department as well as to the Winthrop students who benefit from the care and attention given by the Nursery School. Under the direction of Miss Dorothy McAlpin, the nursery has three rooms and an observation booth for student observers.

MUCH PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE is afforded students in the home economics department as they learn the principles of good homemaking through the use of actual household equipment supplied by local merchants. Students are permitted operating a cafe.

THE CORRECT WAY to prepare to enter home economics is shown by those home economics students who had an opportunity to use their knowledge while in the home management house this winter. WINTHROP BAND IS OPEN TO STUDENTS OF ALL DEPARTMENTS

Band Represents Winthrop At Events In The Carolinas

As a laboratory for instrumental music and as an excellent extra-curricular activity for students of all departments, the Winthrop College Band is open to all players of band instruments who have had some band experience or who have had instruction on some instrument. Beginners also have an opportunity to play with the band.

The purpose of the band is to broaden the musical experience of the students and to increase their enjoyment in the performances and activities for which they may be held in the larger band or in the college's public relations program.

The college owns the large basic instruments in the band, and these plus a number of smaller instruments are available to the students. Many students bring their own instruments to Winthrop.

Rehearsals are held twice a week. They may be held in the large band room of the Conservatory or, for drill work, in the marching field behind the Conservatory.

As far as possible, the proper balance of the Band, starting from the instruments they wish to instrumental arrangements, and major changes instruments at intervals in order to broaden their experiences.

During their senior year, the instrumental music major gains further knowledge in performance, conducting, and marching as a teaching experience with the 10-piece Winthrop Training Band.

With this excellent high school band, which constitutes the tip of the horn at the annual South Carolina Music Festival, the Band has the opportunity to teach marching band and to develop and present a football band show at one of the Winthrop Training School football games.

During the concert season, the student teacher, under the supervision of Mr. Emmett Gore, selects correct music of choral, instrumental, and vocal band that is rehearseable and prove the co-operations in the concert program.

In choosing the Band members, an opportunity to enroll and perform together, the public appearance of the Band is a connecting link between the Band and the college as a representative of the South Carolina Music Education Association.

Already this year, the Band has performed at Chester, Camden, Rock Hill,Sumter, Columbia, Winnsboro, Florence, Charlotte, and Greensboro, and will present at Holly Lake.

The Band is under the direction of Mr. Emmett Gore.

Mr. Gore received his Bachelor of Music and Master of business from the University of Illinois, where he was a member of the University Band and was editor of the University of Illinois Conservatory of Music. He is a member of the American Bandmasters Association and the College Band Directors National Association, and has been a member of the University of Illinois, Chicago, and the University of Chicago. He is a member of the Northwestern University Band, Chicago.

Mr. Gore served as a judge at the Marching Band Festival.

WINTHROP COLLEGE BAND-Making its commemorative appearance during the 1925-26 season, the Winthrop College Band has already appeared in the North Carolina Fair, Fall Hill, and at the annual South Carolina Music Festival, members of the Band include, in addition to the Band, Mr. Emmett Gore, Mr. Virgil L. Hargis, Mr. John K. B, and Mr. Charles F. Gore. They have had the opportunity to train and perform with the principal musicians of the College Band and to develop and present a football band show at one of the Winthrop Training School football games.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT-Band instruments are held twice a week, and the band members may rehance their skills or on the drill field located behind the Conservatory of Music.

Winthrop Choirs Present
Yearly Christmas Concert

Highlighting the pre-Christmas season at Winthrop is the annual Christmas Concert and candlelight service given by the Winthrop College Choirs, which are directed by Mr. Eddy Leonard. This service, which starts at 9:30 p.m. in the auditorium, is free to patrons of the arts who come with their own musical instruments.

The concert will feature some of the most popular carols of the season, including "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," "Angels We Have Heard on High," and "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing." The choir will also perform a selection of original compositions, including "Carol of the Bells," "We Three Kings," and "Joy to the World."

Winthrop Sextette Combines Skill, Personality For Excellent Shows

By HARRIETT ANN FLOYD

Six pairs of sparkling, laughing eyes—six pretty voices—meet in a huddle—six rhythmic bodies that yield willingly to the music, and the room is filled with the perfectly blended voices that mean so much when they sing. "I love you a little and a whole lot," and songs of loveliness ring through the air as members of the Winthrop Sextette, under the direction of Mr. Eddy Leonard, present their annual program.

The Sextette, which includes tenors, baritones, and altos, is composed of music students who have a strong interest in choral music. They are known for their fine singing and their ability to combine skill and personality in their performances.

Their program includes a variety of music styles, from traditional carols to contemporary arrangements. The Sextette is known for their realistic portrayal of characters and their ability to bring stories to life through music.

Winthrop Sextette—Popular guest performers with many civic and social organizations throughout the state, the Winthrop College Sextette makes many appearances each year. Members of the group are: from left to right: Betty Bryant of Winnsboro, J. H. Jones of Rock Hill, Elizabeth Pritchett of Florence, Paulette Jones of Galway, Patrice County of Columbia, Anne Whiteman of Rock Hill, and Helen House of York. The Sextette is directed by Mrs. B. L. House and Mrs. Helen House of York.

SMALL CHORI—Performing during the Christmas candlelight service of the Winthrop College Choirs in December was the small choir, which is made up of six children of Winthrop students.

The choir performed a selection of carols, including "Once in Royal David's City," "The First Noel," and "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Their sweet voices filled the auditorium with the joy of Christmas, and they were a welcome addition to the festive atmosphere.

Winthrop Sextette in Concert

Winthrop Sextette, under the direction of Mr. Eddy Leonard, presented a concert to a packed auditorium. The Sextette, which is composed of six voices, performed a variety of songs, including "O Holy Night," "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen," and "Joy to the World." Their harmonious blend of voices filled the auditorium with the beauty of Christmas music.

Winthrop Sextette is a popular group that performs frequently throughout the state. They are known for their skillful vocalizing and their ability to bring the joy of Christmas into the hearts of their audience.
Student Government Leads Campus 44th Year

The students of Winthrop College believing that there is dignity and honor in student government, desire individual and community responsibility for the conduct of the students in matters not strictly academic.

This was the reason made by Winthrop students in 1931, and then that year on, Winthrop's process of self-government has gone until last year it was named by the South Carolina Association of Colleges as the most outstanding and progressive self-governing organization of its kind in the state.

Divided into the executive, judicial, and legislative branches of government, the Student Government Association is the voice of every student on campus.

The Executive branch, the Executive Council, was formed in 1931, and is made up of the president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer of the organization, plus the House president, and the house president of each dormitory. Each house of the council is to formulate policies, supervise all Student Government activities, enforce all regulations, review work done by the House Council, and determine penalties that shall be automatically applied for infractions of certain rules.

The judicial branch of the organization is the Judicial Board, known in campus slang as the "Judy Board." Members on the board are elected by the student body from the three upper classes. These members of each class are elected in a group. Penalties for infractions of rules, included suspensions, are the responsibility of this student court.

The third branch, the Senate, was organized in 1947, and was given the legislative power of the government. The Senate is made up of elected representatives from each class and each dormitory. Classes elect both permanent senators, who serve for the length of their stay at Winthrop, and temporary senators, who serve one year. The Senate is to make and enforce regulations that come under the authority of the Student Government. The Senate is said to be the heart of the student rules. The Senate makes a bill which must go through a Senate, a House of Representatives, and a bill of the college president. When a Senate bill is discovered by a bill of student rights taking basic for SGA meetings attended by all students.

Also a vital part of the Student Government is the House Council system in the Dormitory. Under the leadership of the house president, House Council members on each hall in the dormitory are the rules within the dormitory. In addition, in the freshmen building there is a Freshman Council that works with the House Council.

Within the structure of the Student Government organization are various standing committees that carry out prescribed functions each year. These committees include a Campus Committee, whose duty it is to promote the visible standard of behavior on the campus, the Housing Room committee, to make seating arrangements and of the Dormitory Standing Committee in the Student, Opinion, Fire Committees, Personnel committee, and the House Council. The Senate, and these committees form the backbone of the organization of the Student Government.

THE JUNIOR FOLLIES OF 1935 began tracing the birth of the blues in its presentation of "From a Waterfront to a Whirlpool," at the waterfront where Negro workers said they loaded ships, as told.

A young trumpeter player from a local dive hounded along the waterfront and liked the feel of the music. That night he and his fellow musicians began the first of the blues and an interpretation was given by the dancers of the dive, in center. The blues were put into an immediate hit with the patrons that they requested a blues song from the dive's vocalist, at right.

Follies was presented but March with almost the entire junior class participating. Crowd scenes as in the dive made it possible for everyone who wished, to be a part of the production, which is planned to make money for the Junior-Senior dance.

A highlight in every Winthrop college year is the production of Junior Follies in March.

Through traditions, Junior Follies has come to be one of the biggest events of the year, and "it's a campus in itself," with partiers, old grads, and friends who come for the event.

Although designed mainly to raise money for the Junior-Senior dance, this all-junior production also gives each succeeding junior class a chance to show what it can do in the way of writing, producing, and presenting an original show.

All details of the production, and even the dances, are kept a secret until the actual time of the show.

Through traditions, Junior Follies has come to be one of the biggest events of the year, and "it's a campus in itself," with partiers, old grads, and friends who come for the event.

Although designed mainly to raise money for the Junior-Senior dance, this all-junior production also gives each succeeding junior class a chance to show what it can do in the way of writing, producing, and presenting an original show.

All details of the production, and even the dances, are kept a secret until the actual time of the show.

The production is planned to involve the entire junior class participating. Crowd scenes as in the dive made it possible for everyone who wished, to be a part of the production, which is planned to make money for the Junior-Senior dance.
Geography and Geology

Offer Environment Study

Man's adjustment to his physical environment and his response to the various climatic and topographical features of the earth are just two of the many questions for which a Winthrop student finds an answer when he elects Geography as an area of study.

This is also a department of the geography and geology department.

Offering a minor in geography, this department is popular with students who choose its courses for elective credit. It offers opportunity to become familiar with many of the fascinating peoples and cultures of other parts of the world. The geography major is designed to be flexible and useful and to enhance the student's understanding of many current events and policies which are shaping the future of the country.

The study of geography includes such subjects as economic geography, the study of world resources and features with emphasis on those of the United States, South America and the Near East, a regional study of the United Nations and human and natural resources; regional geography of the world, and the geography of Latin America, Europe, Asia, Africa and the Near East.

Helping graduates find jobs is the service of the placement bureau. The task is not too difficult for Winthrop graduates in demand. Here is a senior elementary education major with Minneap. First right of the placement bureau, finds she may have a choice of jobs.

Student Government

Soror Committee, and the Handbook Committee.

Every student who holds a Student Government position is elected as she is by members of the student body. Elections are held every spring to select officials for the next year, and two officers take over the reins of the government for a month during the spring when they are assisted by the outgoing officials.

Student election gives the opportunity to express their opinions in SGA monthly meetings, the most important link in Winthrop's self-rule between the student and her leaders.

At the very foundation of the creed of the SGA lies the belief that every student is responsible for herself and for others in the life of the college community.

Assisted always by sympathetic instructors and faculty, the Student Government has been consistent in its program of fulfilling the student needs, and has proved, later even in cooperation outside the Winthrop gates.

While campus activities are important, the changes are needed to keep campus life in step with the times.

The strength of the SGA lies in the support of each individual member of the student body, and on extending the college, each student signs an agreement pledging to uphold the Association in its efforts in maintaining a high standard of honor among the students.

Placement Bureau Helps Graduate To Find Jobs

By HARRETT PATTENSON

When Winthrop graduates prepare to enter the business world they may have no idea what the future may hold for them. They may not know what their future jobs will be like. In fact, they may not even know where they want to live. And yet the Placement Bureau is here to help them get their first job.

The Placement Bureau is a service of the Alumni Association. It is a place where graduates can go for help in finding a job. It is a place where graduates can go to ask questions about the job market. And it is a place where graduates can go to get help in finding a job that is right for them.

The Placement Bureau is staffed by a full-time placement officer who is available to help graduates find jobs. She is also available to answer questions about the job market. And she is available to help graduates find a job that is right for them.

In addition to helping the employer with the job, the Placement Bureau also helps the graduate with the job. The Placement Bureau helps graduates with the job by providing them with information about the job market. It helps graduates with the job by providing them with information about the job market.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION SPONSORS ‘BIG WEDNESDAY’ GAME

Favored Tigers Win By One Touchdown

Big Thursday—a heated battle to determine the football supremacy between the University of South Carolina and Clemson College.

"Big Wednesday"—Winthrop's way of entering into the fun by fielding teams representing both of the above institutions for a game of half ball. On the day preceding Big Thursday, Winthrop's athletic field took on the air of a football stadium with the players, cheerleaders, and crowd assembled for Winthrop's time take-off of the big football game.

At that time, the Clemson Tigers were a one-touchdown favorite over the Gamecocks—and, as luck would have it, that's just the way it turned out. Clemson won 6-0.

Hall ball is a game invented by students at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. Played with a football and on a football field, the game then begins to resemble basketball rules. Progress with the ball is made by passing, and the player may not run forward with the ball. There is no physical contact between players, and all guarding is done as in basketball. The offensive team moves to stop the ball, not the offensive players.

During the half time festivities were the presentation of souvenirs, including a trophy to Mr. H. Sims, performances of the "Clemson drill"—they were so good they even impressed the students. The game created over one injury—and this entirely unintentional. The player was back in action in only a few minutes, while the "Carolina running band"—they were so good they didn't even need instruments.

"Big Wednesday" served to be so fun. It is expected to be an annual event of the Winthrop Athletic Association.

SHE WAS TOPS—Pat Preston of Charlotte, N.C., a Gamecock player, had the best man as her sponsor for the "Big Wednesday" game. President Henry R. Sims, who sponsored for Pat but on the Clemson side during the first half of the game and changed to the Tigers' side at halftime, was the guest at the game, which was played in front of a huge student body.

READY FOR THE BATTLE—These rough and ready Gamecocks, with the usual and ever-present support of their cheerleaders, are ready to do battle against the weight of the Clemson Tigers. At right all hands attempt to cover a Gamecock pass. Half ball is played with a football and on a football field, but the men also resemble basketball in that there is no physical contact between players.

P. E. DEPARTMENT MUST MEET MANY NEEDS OF STUDENT BODY

A STRONG PHYSICAL EDUCATION department at Winthrop provides classes and instruction for all students. In addition to the physical activities offered, the department must meet the needs of all the students who are required to take courses in physical education as part of their college program. The department suggests to non-majors that exercise in a group setting, in dance, in a team sport and in an individual sport. Above, at left, students are shown in a basketball game. In the center are Misses Julia Pen, head of the department, Prof. Harry P. Sloane, and Gene Croom, visiting instructor in tennis here for Winthrop's fall term. At right, two Winthrop students get set for a game of tennis on one of the college's nine courts.

MANY TEAM SPORTS and individual sports are offered by the physical education department. In addition to the regular class activities and intra-dormitory and inter-dormitory games, there are 18 seasonal sports sponsored by the Winthrop Athletic Association. Pictures above show girls at basketball, archery and volleyball.

WORK WITH NCAA SCHOOL, these groups in one of the important phases of the Winthrop physical education department. Each year hundreds of boys and girls attend clinics in folk dance at the South Carolina College for Women. The program is under the direction of Miss John Pen, head of the department, and for six months of the year, the visiting instructor for the Folk Dance Clinic has been Mr. Gene Croom.
PROBLEM OF P. E. DEPARTMENT TOUCHES ALL STUDENTS

The physical education program at Winthrop must meet a twofold purpose. It is the duty of this department to supply the needs of the physical education major, of the students in all other departments who take two years of physical education, and to supply many of the extra-curricular recreational needs of the students.

A well-rounded curriculum is available to the physical education major. The students' schedules are organized and supervised so that the girls are able to develop essential qualities of leadership, to master many of the recreational sports and to obtain the ground work and knowledge they will need in the future.

Many of the courses meet requirements for teachers' certification in physical education. If a student enters Winthrop to minor in education, he may do so in physical education. In this way the teacher is assured of having students who have had real experience with his methods.

COURSES IN PHYSICAL EDUCATION for all students are considered a very important part of their well-rounded college training, and Winthrop has a variety of courses to offer in this division. In addition to the formal courses, numerous sports clubs are sponsored by the Winthrop Athlete Association and are open to all students.

The facilities of the gym are open to all students, and there are daily supervised hours for swimming in the college pool.

In addition to the above activities, the department sponsors the Winthrop Athlete Athletic Union made up of all students interested in participating in any of the educational major. Projects sponsored include swimming, tennis, volleyball, basketball, track, archery, hiking, golf, bowling, and a variety of additional sports clubs.

The Winthrop College Carnegie Library, located on the north end of campus, plays an important part in the life of the students.

The Winthrop Athlete Athletic Union is an organization which finds a home in the library. Here introductory instruction of the use of the library and the individual guidance from the staff make the student an intelligent and effective user of the library. And the library is used very well.

In the rush and excitement of activity around the campus, students find the library a quiet place for study or for the quiet and uncurbed chat. Winthrop faculty members, in addition to academics, use the library in their research, although the real emphasis is on the use of the library by students for research.

Winthrop students have always been granted the privilege of using the library during necessarily daily hours, and this privilege permits the student to become familiar with the library at his leisure. The library is available to all students.

Another service of the library is in its daily handling of the circulation of books. The circulation desk is a friendly, efficient, courteous, and well trained. They are always on the job, ready to assist the students.

The staff of the library is also alert, friendly, courteous, and well trained. They are always on the job, ready to assist the students.

Gives Major, Minor

A critical shortage of librarians makes library work an excellent minor or major for students, and Winthrop has decided to give major and minor to this field.

Librarians are needed everywhere in the United States. There are many places of library work to which the fact that library service is expanding. This is particularly true in the South Carolina, where librarians are needed everywhere in high schools, elementary schools and in the state departments of education. The library is in every state or county where library work is needed. The library is in every state where library work is needed.

When a student enters Winthrop, he is given a chance to work in the library, to find out what it is all about, and to develop his library work ability. The library is a place for serious students, and a place for serious study.

The Winthrop College Carnegie Library, located on the north end of campus, plays an important part in the life of the students.

The library has a collection of over 100,000 books and magazines, with many government documents which have been carefully selected to supplement the instructional programs.

Besides providing tools for research, study and reading, the library is a place for students to relax.

The library is used very well.

Carnegie Library at Winthrop College was first built in 1911, a gift of Andrew Carnegie. Its size was increased in 1926 and it is equipped with every modern convenience of a college library. Winthrop students, unlike students at many institutions, have the opportunity to use their own library at leisure. Winthrop students are members of the Carnegie Library and may use it as their own library at leisure.
Students Have ‘Time Of Lives’ Classes Night

This year the Class of ‘56 has taken first place, having previously won second place in Classes Night competition. The sound of time appears on the sweater of every student who, at right, is a part of the Classes Night presentation. Using the theme, "Time of Your Life," the junior class sent their place honor in the annual competition which began as a Pep Meet.

BY HARMETT PATTISON

"Having the "Value of Time" Cup during the presentation of this year’s Classes Night, the first Wickepoo cheerleader that he high honors in the annual class competition.

Every year in the Fall, the classes are given a theme around which they are to build a skit including songs and dances as well as an entrance into the auditorium. This year the theme was "The Time of Your Life.

Each cheerleader-directs the Classes Night presentation which is judged by a committee of faculty members. The entire class participates, either on the stage or off.

Classes Night begins as an annual Pep-Meet in which classes compete for a class-night award. Class spirit and school spirit are still the theme of the night, but emphasis is now upon staging, presentation, and use of themes more than upon cheers and songs.

A silver cup is awarded to the winning class during Classes Night, and a second place winner is recognized. The spirit of the night is concluded with a finale on the college athletic field after which the classes go from dorm to dorm singing in their fellow classes.

This year, the Senior class took Classes Night honors the year. They developed their theme into a game of baseball as a symbol for the game of life in which every game is important.

"The Time of Your Life in Now" was carried out by the juniors with their theme presented at the end of "Time is like the waves of the sea, that rush on into the vagaries of creatures" was their main theme. The sophomores developed the theme by pointing out that the time of your life is the time you make the decisions that determine the type of person that you will be.

The time of your life in the freshman are the days in which you start college. Every class is asked to develop the same general theme which is chosen by a faculty committee. The competition is based upon entrance into the auditorium, skit, and class participation. The results are kept secret until the night of presentation.

ORIENTATION PLAN HELPS NEW STUDENTS ADJUST

REGISTRATION FOR CLASSES - Winthrop students get advice and guidance from student and faculty advisors before registering for classes begins, but some still need help in filling out their schedules.

Freshmen Spend First Week Learning Way Of Campus Life

About the middle of September the Winthrop College staff, who are at hand and ready to help. All students come fresh with activity as students arrive and plans are made to greet the new students before the day of registration starts.

The day before the new students arrive, a group of mothers, fathers, and the students' friends, leave the campus and the scholarships to the homes of the freshmen, greet them, help them to settle themselves in their homes, and settle their charges in their new rooms. The campus is quiet and the students are busy preparing to receive the new students.

The first Sunday at Winthrop, the students go to the traditional Blue Line march to the church of Rock Hill. Although the blue uniforms were abolished last year, the tradition continued the march dress in traditional blue.

The students have voted to continue the Blue Line, and though they are no longer required to attend, the Winthrop girls have kept the tradition. The Winthrop girls have kept the tradition ofBlue Line.

As the first week of the school year comes to an end, the new students have learned to find their way around the campus, and they, along with the upperclassmen, are busily preparing for the new year.

FROSH PROVE SPIRIT DURING RAT WEEK CELEBRATION

CAPPING THE "Rat" at the event of Rat Week are members of the Student Government Rat Week committee. The freshmen are required to wear these beanies for the remainder of the week and appearance may inflict mild penalties if they catch a "Rat" without her beanie. Rat Week takes place in early fall and is a climax of freshman orientation into college life. It is sponsored by the Student Government Association.

Frosh Welcomed As WC Students

BY RAYMOND PATTERSON

Several weeks in advance of orientation week in the minds of Western freshmen is the annual Frosh Week. During this week the Froshmes are taught and encouraged to enroll in the Western student body.

The week commences with the capping ceremony when "Rats" receive the beanies which they are required to wear at all times during the following week. New penalties may be imposed by upperclassmen who snap a freshman without her beanie.

During the week, days are set aside when freshmen must write at least three "Rat letters" for upperclassmen, carry books in and from classes, and so on. This is all in the dining room.

The week is concluded with a special dinner on the athletic field when "Rats" sing their songs to the upperclassmen and at a review afterwards where they are allowed to remove their beanies and are awarded as full-fledged members of the Western student body.

Frosh Welcomed As WC Students

RIGGED IN THE groin of dignity, upperclassmen members of "Rat Court" held a reunion during every Rat Week where freshmen who have not fulfilled their duties as "Rats" are called for judgment and punishment.

Now, free "Rats" appear before the court to receive the verdict. All "Rats" must attend the court which is complete with dressing rooms and darkness. All penalties are served before the audience during the court session.

Peculiar to the trials a "Rat" must face during Rat Week is "What to do with a beanie while getting a hair cut." Jerry Gray and Clady, seated, and Mrs. Pauline Bigham of Rock Hill solve the problem at Pauline's Beauty Shop by moving Jane's beanie from side to side during the cutting.

One night during last summer's season of school activities, everyone at the campus table noticed the bearing unusual American girl. Before long, she was invited to her house, and in a few days she became the girl she is today. She is thell and Hans, a few cool deals on you.

Music To Suit The Mood Supplied

McLaurin Girls By Winning Willie

By CALLIE ATKINSON

"Crazy" may not be the latest model! Like you see in TV commercials, but she lacks nothing. Volume is increased by a throttle-like affair and a Turkish wax. To increase the sound, you just pull out the throttle the right amount; to decrease the sound, ugly suit the thing in the right spot.

Since the speed can be controlled, the girl can now reason why different types of sounds couldn't be played. However, only 9s are included in their collection which are kept in the "Crazy". The girl keeps a little handy hammer handy, though, because the cabinet doors stick occasionally and you can't be sure what girls were saying when they spoke fast.

Since there is no electricity, simply a little arm energy, is needed to keep "Winning Willie" running, she can usually be rolled around. For instance, she played a leading role in a skit presented at the McLaurin freshman party last night.

After blowing off a lit dress and giving the crack a few knocks, the girl said: "You can see your face in the mirror."

She had claimed at once and went to work. After giving it a thorough cleaning, "Crazy" made its way with fast turns and flashing lights. Then she made a "real" noise, she said, with fast turns and flashing lights. Then she made a "real" noise, and the whole thing became a battle of blue ink on her green dress.

Winthrop's Future

The campus drama program and activities, will be better prepared to carry on the drama work they will be faced with and would like to develop in their schools.

Creative activity is the foundation of a dramatic art program. Under the supervision of trained and experienced teachers, the student not only acquires a background and through knowledge of the history of the theatre, the playwrights, and the dramatic literature of the age, but also learns to play, creates roles that come to life on the stage, and to design settings, costumes, lighting and makeup for each production.

The satisfaction that is derived from creating something that is beautiful, interesting, and enjoyable is well worth any amount of time and effort expended in achieving that goal.
WINTHROP COLLEGE

Winthrop History Reveals Great Growth, Progress

It began with one man's dream. It was nurtured by many others. It has grown to what is now one of the finest institutions of higher learning in the South. It has become a model of educational excellence, and a symbol of the determination of Southerners to provide the best possible education for their children.

The school began as a three-year academy in 1887 with an enrollment of 28 students. In 1889, the academy was chartered as a college, and the first commencement was held.

The 1890s were a period of rapid growth. The school acquired its first permanent building in 1891, and the first student body exceeded 100 enrollees in 1895. The school's first president, Dr. James Hinson, died in 1903, and was succeeded by Dr. Benjamin Johnson.

The 1910s and 1920s were years of expansion and growth. The school opened a new dormitory in 1913, and the student body grew to over 200 enrollees by 1925. The school's first female students were admitted in 1926.

The 1930s and 1940s were years of challenges and opportunities. The school was forced to close during the Great Depression, but reopened in 1937 with a smaller student body. During World War II, the school was used to train nurses and teachers.

The 1950s and 1960s were years of continued growth. The school opened a new library in 1955, and the student body reached 1,000 enrollees in 1965. The school's first African American students were admitted in 1968.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF WINTHROP — The South Carolina College for Women, with its $10 million endowment, was founded in 1885 by the Columbia Presbytery Theological Seminary. Its first building was November 15, 1888, when 17 young ladies, followed by four more, enrolled for the first term. As superintendent of the Columbia city schools, David Bancroft Johnson had realized his work the need for teachers trained in the profession.

THE WINTHROP VISION

With energy and enthusiasm, he tackled the problem of a discerning school for young women. Geared to the enthusiasm and support of educators in the state, a board of education and canvassed counties for the school.

The school was named Winthrop Training School for Teachers in honor of Henry C. Winthrop of Boston who, as chairman of the Peabody Board, was largely responsible for a grant of $20,000 to establish the school.

Two teachers were employed, and six in the opening year. The first school for training teachers in the South Atlantic states, Winthrop utilized from its beginning the type of educational approach adopted by other schools.

This plan was consistently developed until today, when the college operates a comprehensive program through high school system, primarily for training its student teachers.

In men and women of state, today Winthrop alumni from the class. Certain milestones should be noted in the development of the school to the Winthrop College of today.

In December of 1904, the first General Assembly was held to establish the school. Presenting scholarships for each of the first 36 enrollees and each dollar donated to the college led to the legislation which marked the first step toward a state school.

The first class was constituted in 1907, and the student body was 30 enrollees. In 1913, the school was accredited by the Southern Association, and the legislature made the school a state school.

In 1928, the school was reconstituted as a four-year school, and leaders of South Carolina assumed the duty for the administration of the school. The first woman to be elected to a state school of any kind in 1932. Dr. James Hinson died in 1943, and was succeeded by Dr. Benjamin Johnson.

The first commencement was held in 1934, and the first graduate class graduated in 1936. The first intercollegiate athletic games were held in 1939. The first coeducational school was opened in 1946.

In 1950, the school was accredited by the Southern Association, and the first four-year curriculum was established.

In 1954, the school was accredited by the Southern Association, and the first four-year curriculum was established.

Winthrop was granted university status by the General Assembly in 1956, and the first university degree was conferred in 1957.

Winthrop's first president, Dr. Benjamin Johnson, died in 1958. Dr. Robert Hill, II, was appointed as the new president in 1959.

THE PRESENT WINTHROP

Winthrop, in its 125th year, had a campus of 86 acres and a $200,000,000 endowment. The college was awarded the highest possible rating of "exceptional" by the Southern Association.

Winthrop has a student body of over 3,000, and is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

The school has a faculty of over 100, and a student body of over 3,000. Winthrop is a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

Winthrop's curriculum includes a wide range of courses, with over 200 courses offered each semester.

Winthrop is a model of educational excellence, and a symbol of the determination of Southerners to provide the best possible education for their children.

Winthrop's future looks bright, with a strong emphasis on research and community service.

Winthrop's commitment to excellence is reflected in its high ranking by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

Winthrop's graduates are well-prepared for success in a variety of fields, thanks to the rigorous and challenging academic programs offered.

Winthrop is a true example of what can be achieved when a community comes together to support a great institution of higher learning.
