EXCHANGE WEEK SENDS TEACHERS OVER CAROLINAS

Mitchell Announces Teacher Exchange April 12-17

110 SENIORS PARTICIPATE
Dr. Leavelle, of Psychology, Will Continue Discussion of Modern School
One hundred and ten Winthrop seniors are exchanging with teachers in North and South Carolina during the week of April 12-17, according to Superintendent C. M. Mitchell of Winthrop Training School.

Dr. U. W. Leavelle, professor of education at George Peck College for Teachers, will continue a discussion he began last April on "The Place of Tool and Control Subjects in the Modern School Program."

Four Days at Winthrop
The spring exchange program offers the opportunity of four days at Winthrop—demonstration teaching; check up on methods, materials, and technique; and general round table discussion. In addition to this the visiting teacher has the opportunity of special conferences with members of the college faculty and of nine hours of class as a visitor.

Through the system of exchange teaching, the Winthrop senior offers special practical experience in field work and becomes acquainted with the problems found under actual teaching conditions.

Participants
Those participating in the teacher exchange program are as follows: Alexandria—Eleanor Oughman with Miss Elizabeth Moore; Asheville—Annette Caldwell, Ansonville, N. C.—Betty Martin with Miss Minnie Haiswell; Bennettsville—Jane Bailey; Columbia—Kathryn Paris, Ruth

Year Round April Showers Are Hooked Up On Campus

BY DOROTHY HARR
April showers the year 'round and their advantages (?) to Winthrop is added to its already overflowing list. Don't that sound definitely daffy? Then consider that a crew of men is now working on the installation of the apparatus, and that when completed, the total amount expended will have been between $45,000 and $50,000. You guessed it—4½ the new sprinkler system.

Tri Beta Initiates

Five Pledges Formally Initiated into Beta Beta Beta, National Biology Fraternity, Thursday, March 18, in Johnson Hall.
New members are: Louise Pace, Margaret Gaffard, Mary Lee Oetzel, Mary Louise Greene, Margaret McCanta, Kathryn Moore, Lucy McKeown, Helen Moore, Melissa Williams, and Lois Young.

Monkeys and Students

Stare at Each Other
Even the monkeys stared at a truck load of Winthrop girls stopped two weeks ago in front of the Wallace Brothers Cream, now in winter quarters at York.
But the staring was mutual; for the Elementary Education Club members and Miss Lockhead saw everything to be seen, including the monkeys.
"We peered into elephant's mouths, strained our necks watching trapeze swingers, and...well, we learned everything about the circus and our student who went on the excursion."

NATIONAL BAND AND ORCHESTRA CONTESTS HERE

Eighth Regional District of National Association Meets June 7-9
Contents of the Eighth Regional District of the National School Band and Orchestra Association will be held at Winthrop June 7-9, according to an announcement made by Prof. W. B. Roberts, head of the music department, who was instrumental in getting the meeting for Winthrop.
Winners of the state band and orchestra contests, which will be held April 29-31 at Winthrop, will assemble at that time to determine the winners of the national association. This year inaugurates the division of the original National School Band and Orchestra Association, the association having been divided into ten regional districts to replace the one centralized national contest.

Dr. Phelps represented the South Carolina colleges and universities and the American Council on Education; Dr. James P. Kiegar, represented Winthrop College; Mrs. W. D. Maguire, Ohio University; Mr. Thomas W. Neal, the American Association of University Professors; Dr. Elizabeth Johnson, the American Association of University Women.

Orchestra Members Give Views in Many Languages

BY ROSE RUDNICK
John De Jann's favorite food is roast beef, favorite accent Southern, and favorite type of girl 5'7" brunette with ability to sing.
Despite the fact that Winthrop learned about this in the afternoon, she turned out on stage that evening to hear the music of Hans Knidder's orchestra, showing her utter appreciation by not clapping during movements.
Winthrop girls were described as peppy, friendly, and enthusiastic in many languages than are described in the catalogue.
Francis Gerard, who frequently lapses into French, made the committee for revision. Among the changes recommended was one reading that twenty-five members of the Y should sign additional nominations for new officers instead of five.

FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1937

CONGRATULATIONS, U. S. C.

Winthrop sends its congratulations to a sister institution, the University of South Carolina, upon the inauguration of Dr. J. Hon McKisack as president.

Dr. McKisack, a former editor, and a well-known Southern educator, has proved his ability and popularity as a university president in the nine months he has been serving in that capacity since the retirement of Dr. L. T. Baker.

For Dr. McKisack and the University of South Carolina, Winthrop sincerely wishes a most successful future.

TO THE GRAND EASTERN DELEGATES!

Although you, the delegates to the first annual Grand Eastern Tournament, have been welcome and re-welcomed to our campus by the time, The Johnsonian takes this opportunity to say it again, in behalf of the student body: "We are glad you are here."

We have entertained and been entertained by conferences and tournaments on the campus often. We enjoy exchanging our views and ideas with students from other colleges and states.

So we say sincerely: to those who have been here before, "We're glad to have you back"; to those who are here for the first time, "We hope you like us well enough to visit us again."

NEW BUILDINGS FOR WINTHROP?

Last week the state Senate passed a $330,000 bill to construct a new auditorium and home economics building at Winthrop. As The Johnsonian goes to press, this bill has not been acted upon by the House of Representatives.

Winthrop has needed these buildings a long time. The state has a chance to provide them now for 50 per cent of their cost. The $330,000 is not the total cost of the building in question. The federal government will add $270,000 to this amount from WPA funds, making a total of $600,000 available for the two buildings.

The need for the auditorium is well-known. The present auditorium has a seating capacity of 1,850, while the enrollment at Winthrop is 1,938. The only reason the entire student body and faculty can attend the weekly assembly exercises at one time is that about 75 students in chapel choir are seated on the stage.

Besides the need for an auditorium for assembly, Winthrop needs more seating capacity and better facilities for the cultural entertainments. Last year at the Monte Carlo Ballet Russes, not only were visitors (some even from out of town) seated in chairs placed in the aisles, but many were turned away at the door. The same thing happened this year when the Vienna Choir Boys appeared.

The need for a home economics building is equally as great.

Winthrop is one of the outstanding teacher training schools in the South. It is the only state-supported school training home economics teachers and workers. Yet Winthrop's equipment is so poor that many of her graduates go into high schools of this state and find better-equipped laboratories.

We have listed only a few of the reasons Winthrop needs a new auditorium and home economics building. Space forbids elaborating on the subject.

Years ago Winthrop assumed her role as a leader in the field of education. She will have difficulty in maintaining this position if her facilities are out-moded and inadequate.

IN APPRECIATION

The staff of The Johnsonian wishes to take this opportunity to express its appreciation for the aid rendered by the alumnae in the distribution of the special edition of The Johnsonian. Four thousand two hundred and twenty-eight copies of this edition were sent to alumnae to be distributed to the senior high school girls of the state.

Personalities

WINTHROP DAY BY DAY

Diary: Up and to church as usual breakfast and the usual levelly spirit weather. Discovering such a gloom: Sunday, decided 'twould be rather nice to make it the typical day of rest--so spent all afternoon reading works of Thomas Hardy--at intervals between irrevocable nods and yawns.

Personal Opinion: Incidentally, Thomas Hardy's manner of treating minute details in his "Far From the Madding Crowd" is insatiable.

Yours: JENNIE JUNIOR.

Symphony Orchestra

Demonstrates Sympathy: The National Symphony Orchestra might well be called the National Sympathy Orchestra.

Thoughts While Striding: If Mr. Gore is as good at tennis as he is at violin, then the Perry had better look to his laurels--The immortal would-be automobile on back campus between South and main building, could easily be termed the "Book of Ages"--Wonder if the time between Spring holidays and Commencement is really as long as it is?

Just Lines: Dear Mother, I'm early in the morning before anyone else to the dormitory has even thought of awaking. The only other things up are the birds chirping outside the window. I could wax poetic now--about the spring, the trees, and the birds--but I'll refrain.

One Minute Interview: Miss Ida J. Dacet, college librarian, answered questions this week.

Superstitious Students: Cut Bananas Carefully "It's written in the stars." Well, not really, but it is hidden in bananas. At least that's what most Winthrop students seem to think.

Opportunities for Students of Psychology: Psychology offers the best possible training for living the fullest life that is possible. It also fits by contributing to a better understanding of self and others.

Free Advice Offered For Roommate Troubles: The following pointers on how to have the minimum number of fusses with your roommate, have been submitted and are being turned on for what they may be worth:

What I Expect of A Beginning Teacher: In selecting a beginning teacher, an interested know that her college work was up to acceptable standards, and that it was varied and sufficiently unified to assure a satisfactory degree of culture and refinement.

Peoples National Bank: One of a series of messages to this year's Winthrop graduates and the graduates of high schools and colleges all over South Carolina, sponsored by the above bank.

Dear Editor . . .

What's wrong with this school is that too much time is wasted, precious time for which we are forfeiting our home life and our fathers' money.

Now that the spring months have come and the mornings are at five, I notice that we are spending a great many of the dewy, auroral hours a-bed. We are too tired to take advantage of this precocious daylight, but we cannot sleep with the sun pouring in at the window.

Many of our great metropolises have adopted daylight saving time. These in authority must, therefore, think it practical. I can see no reason why it should not be practical here. I am a strong advocate for the change and am sure you will be, also, when you give the matter due consideration.

Yours: JENNIE JUNIOR.

About the Gym

Now that the sun has reappeared, tennis fans are anxiously waiting for it to dry the courts--the classes in tennis, etc.

Anyone hanging around the gym after classes is sure to notice scores of figures tripping the light, fantastic loo--rehearsing all that Miss Rankin has taught them to natural dancing--you've guessed it! May Day practice has begun--Everyone has acquired a light and airy mood as they stop to practice.

Chief topic of conversation about the gym: Florida--explored by Miss Clague and Virginia Harty, after a trip around Jacksonville and Miami during the holidays. They even got the tropical atmosphere before they left--to Miss Clague's crossing "Moon Over Miami" under the window of Virginia's last class on Friday.

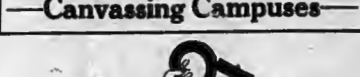

Now with the swimming meet over all eyes are turned towards the dormitory meet--a choice bit of circus for those who forget to be in the other meet.

Harby's boner on the Florida trip--when asked the distance from Savannah to Brunswick this wise Seneca looked on the map and returned "25 miles"--After traveling 90 miles to Brunswick, Miss Clague decided the map must have made a mistake--She had! They were traveling on Highway 25!

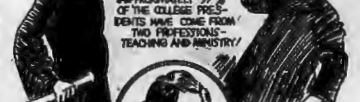

What "saw-my-to-victory" food have the sophomore been eating? Maybe it's the weather, but something has certainly put pep in the old girl. Not satisfied with two cups in one semester they say they're going with baseball, too! How 'bout it, Juniors?

We've heard that "Scottie" and Miss Hoffman have ambitious plans for the tennis club--good luck to them both!

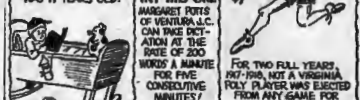

Canvassing Campuses

APPROXIMATELY 57% OF THE COLLEGE FRESH-DEBITS HAVE COME FROM TWO PROFESSIONS--TEACHING AND MINISTRY!

THE YOUNGEST COLLEGE STUDENT WAS 11 YEARS OLD!

TRY THIS ONE: MARGARET FORTS OF WINTHROP, S.C. CAN TAKE DIRECTION AT THE AGE OF 22!

FOR TWO FULL YEARS 1937-1938, NOT A VIRGINIA STATE PLAYER WAS ELECTED FROM ANY GAME FOR PERSONAL FOUL!

The Outfitter, ripped at random: "College Lover"
Freakman: 1. Blunder 2. Chewing gum 3. Cream hair 4. Hat
Sophomore: 1. Hat 2. Shuffing 3. Blunder
Junior: 1. Knowledge (?) 2. Flattery 3. Blunder
Senior: 1. Blunder 2. Blunder 3. Blunder

And from one of our own student body comes these suggestions for the Five Hatched Things to do or Not to Do at Winthrop:
1. To control the de's to peep through the parlor keyholes on Saturday and Sunday nights.
2. To make an A on a supposedly easy course.
3. To start working on a term paper more than twenty-four hours before it must be in.
4. To get up for breakfast.
5. To keep up for going to the post-office more than two dozen times a day.

What I Expect of A Beginning Teacher: In selecting a beginning teacher, an interested know that her college work was up to acceptable standards, and that it was varied and sufficiently unified to assure a satisfactory degree of culture and refinement.

I expect a teacher to be prepared to do more than regular classroom work. That teacher is worth more to a school who can and will, cheerfully assume leadership in some phase of extra-curricular activity.

I expect a beginning teacher to know a few well-chosen professional books and magazines, and to understand how they can be of help to her in her work.

Many teachers fail because they do not talk frankly with their superintendents or principals about their problems before the situation becomes acute. It is not an admission of weakness to ask advice on problem, even before the principal sees the difficulties being encountered. Frankness and honest facing of facts are always appreciated by an administrator.

I am interested to know whether the beginning teacher expects to teach more than one year. Each school should take its share of beginning teachers, but it is reasonable to expect that a teacher should give the school the benefit of the training and experience received during the first year by remaining longer than one session.

I have said nothing about a pleasing personality, attractive personal appearance, poise, enthusiasm, health, and character. These essential qualities are so generally accepted as to be almost taken for granted. Rather, I have tried to emphasize a few other points that, in my opinion, at least, have an important bearing on a beginning teacher's success.

Miss Mims Entertains With Oriental Tea

Dressed in a Chinese robe against a Chinese background, Miss Florence Mims entertained the members of her classes and of Alpha Psi Omega at a tea in the Music Room of Johnson Hall, Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

While Miss Mims was abroad last summer she collected many souvenirs which she used to create a "Chinese" atmosphere for her party. She wore a black satin Chinese robe brocaded in gold with green accessories. During the description of her experience in the East and the narration of a Chinese love story, five sticks, a kind of oriental incense, were burned.

Lighted tapers in the flowers, Chinese fans, and umbrellas, completed the decorations. White jasmine tea, likewise brought from China, was served. Elizabeth Walker played a selection by Schubert.

Stanwyck and McCrea Star in Sat. Night Movie

"Banjo on My Knee" (1934 Century-Fox), starring Barbara Stanwyck and Rod McCrea, will be shown in Main Auditorium, Saturday night at 7:30.

The setting of the story is laid among the shanty dwellers on the Winthrop, Ernie Hickey (Rod McCrea), river boat boy, marries Pearl (Barbara Stanwyck), land girl. The plot becomes involved when the new husband has to fire because he thinks he has killed a man.

Pearl, convinced that Ernie has run out on her, flies to New Orleans, where she becomes a ragging popular floor show attraction, along with Buddy (Buddy Ebsen), singing and dancing river boat. The story ends with Pearl and Ernie reunited and living again on the river.

Juniors Give Recital

Mary O'Dell and Misses Lynch Walker Play Thursday

The regular weekly recital of the music department was given over Thursday to a recital by two juniors, Mary O'Dell of Spartanburg and Minnie Lynch Walker of Johnson, who were assisted by Elizabeth Colbran.

This recital was the first of a group to be given this spring by juniors in the music department.

Miss Edith Fraser Speaks In Assembly

Author of "Say Leaver" Urges Students to "Maintain Their Heritage"

Mrs. Edith Fraser, graduate of Winthrop College in 1913 and author of the volume of poems, "Say Leaver" (1928), addressed the Winthrop student body at chapel Wednesday on "Maintaining Our Heritage."

Mrs. Fraser asserted that each individual has a heritage which should be guarded carefully. She stressed the value of observing customs and allowing thoughts of it to beautify course of living. "It is a beautiful habit to look consciously for beauty each day. It draws us nearer to the highest thing," said Miss Fraser. Miss Fraser stated that our heritage consists of the right to enjoy friendship, a sense of spiritualism, a knowledge of what ourselves love is, and joy derived from working. In conclusion Miss Fraser read one of her recent poems.

College Gardener Advises Education Before Marriage

BY LOUISE FANT

"Yes, Missa, I like all the Winthrop girls and teachers I've seen. If they come to me for flowers, I give them just as many as I can. I don't know any names, but I do know lots of faces."

Robert Buchanan, Winthrop's native horticulturist, leaning against his bicycle in front of the Winthrop greenhouse, his kingdom for over twenty years, confided it was the first time in his life that he had been interviewed.

Naturally he talked about his job first. As a gardener, Robert is in charge of the hotboxes and of all the pruning and cutting of tumpus shrubs. He calls himself the "horticultural man" and loves his work. He tells his story:

"Yes, I'd rather work with plants outdoors than anything else I know. And if I had to choose one plant I'd say azaleas."

23 Years - As Winthrop "When I first came to Winthrop twenty-three years ago next September, I was a dishwasher and got $2.50 a week. Then for awhile I was just getting ready man at practice house. Soon I was sent over here, and I guess I'll stay as long as they keep me. I work ten hours a day and am paid $7 a week. That's not very much to live on, and I've been here a mighty long time."

Robert went on to say that his mother, three small children, and one grandchild were entirely dependent on him.

In describing his life before he started to work at Winthrop, he said that he was born on August 2, 1894. He was an only child and his mother did not make him go to school. However, when he grew older and realized how much he had missed, he started right in the last grade, despite the teasing of the other boys.

Married Early

"I was in the fourth reader when I got married," he said. "That was on December 20, 1914, as you see if I hadn't fallen in love I might have been an educated man. You can say that my advice to Winthrop girls is," he added philosophically, "When asked about his ideals, he immediately smiled and said that he always tries to follow the Golden Rule."

"If there's anything I don't like more than anything else, it's being humored," he said with a good-humored grin. "But don't think I'm a George Washington myself." As present Robert is chairman of the Board of Deacons of the Baptist Church. Ever since he "got religion" at the age of 15, he has been going regularly to Sunday school, morning services, and evening worship. As for education, he wants all of his children to go "as far as high school; whether they go farther or not will be left to them. In answer to what he thought was the worst thing students did, he replied emphatically, "Well, sometimes they pick flowers from back campus without permission."

Exhibition in Library Science Room Sponsored by Mrs. Spahr's Classes

An exhibition on the process of bookmaking and printing is being displayed in the library science room, sponsored by Mrs. Frances Spahr and the library science classes. It will continue until April 14. The editors of Compton's Pictorial Encyclopedia have completed the exhibit which consists of seven large panels on engravings and several smaller ones. There is also a section on the reproduction of colored pictures.
