Ebonites: Changing Their Colors?

By Ralph Johnson

The Association of Ebonites is one of those organizations that people hear of but know little about. This organization was started in 1969 and has played a role in Winthrop Campus life ever since.

In an interview with members of the Executive Board of the Ebonites last week, the purpose of the organization and the direction they are seeking to go was discussed.

First of all, the president of the Ebonites, Gall Boler, explained that the purpose of the Association is to promote Black Culture. The Association is seeking to do this through sponsoring educational and cultural events designed to acquaint the public with the culture of Blacks. They are also attempting to get White students involved in the Organization. Contrary to popular belief, the club is not for Blacks only. Though, currently the club is all-black, Gall Boler stated that this is due to no fault of the Association.

When asked about the negative attitude that many students have about the organization, Boler said that this probably came about because of poor leadership in the past. The Association has its own methods of selecting their officers and this has sometimes not provided for the best leadership.

When asked whether they think there is any overt discrimination against Blacks on this campus, one member, Dwayne Banks, stated that he has not experienced any himself, but has heard stories of discrimination against students because they were Black. The Association itself felt that it has been discriminated against.

They offered the example of when they went before the Senate last year to get their budget confirmed. The money was to be used for Black Week which was intended to benefit the whole campus. One senator kept referring to the event as “their Black Week” and suggested that the association raise their own funds for the event. They also said they have a problem getting use of buildings during this time also. There were minor complaints about the entertainment that performs at Winthrop College. The Ebolite feel there should be more Black entertainers invited to the Campus.

When asked what the average Black Student can do to benefit himself and the Association stated that Black students on this campus must get involved and be less sympathetic to the school. This whole “song and dance” of sympathy and indifference that Winthrop students seem to play at this school semester to semester is bordering on the ridiculous. Par- ticipation in the events put on by the Association is actively recruited on the whole campus. One of the organizers also issued a challenge to the White students of Winthrop College to come and attend one of their meetings and see what they are about. Are you willing to accept the challenge?

Get Involved In Winthrop

By Ralph Johnson

Freshmen, do you want your stay here at Winthrop to be exciting, rewarding and full of fun? Upperclassmen, are you tired of being bored and having nothing to do? Do any of you desire leadership and a chance to make your views known?

Do you want to be popular on campus and have people know you as you walk by? Are you tired of the same old routine day in and day out? If you answered yes to one or more of the above, “Get Involved in Winthrop” program is for you.

This program, sponsored by SOA and Dinkins Program Board, is designed to give students the opportunity to find out about all the clubs and organizations at Winthrop College. Each Club or organization will be represented on Thursday, September 15 at 7:00 P.M. in Dinkins Auditorium to give students a chance to find out about their respective organization.

There will be a period of information by each club leader and then there will be a question and answer session. The group will then break up and move to their separate areas to give students a chance to talk to the club leaders about the club, its purpose and requirements for joining.

Possibly the greatest thing you can do for yourself is to get involved in society. Don’t be apathetic, get your hands dirty. It all goes into making you a well rounded person. Remember there are three kinds of people: people who make things happen, people who watch it happen and people who ask what happened. Which are you?

Graduating Seniors
Not Guaranteed Jobs!

By Becky Ferguson

Seniors need to take heed of the fact that the Office of Placement and Career Planning DOES NOT graduating students a job. It does, however, play an important role in helping students find a job after graduation from Winthrop.

The Office of Placement and Career Planning, located in 142 Bancroft, offers many services to all students, seniors and others alike. An addition of two members to the Placement Office staff, Frank Joseph and Jerry Smith, will help find the career best suited for your personal interests. The Office will also help schedule interviews with employers, begin a Placement file on individuals, and offer workshops in such topics as Resume Writing, Interviewing, Job Search, and Graduate Study. All of these services and more are provided through the Placement Office.

The Quantity

Outweighs The Quality

Hooray! Most of us have lived through the mass runaround typical to our first week or so of classes. Unfortunately, it's just a little too soon to celebrate. In fact, many freshmen and upperclassmen taking required/optional courses have great cause to mourn. Those of you who fall into this category, particularly upperclassmen, are certainly aware of the unusually large class sizes in many of your courses. Well, they are here to stay, at least until the end of the semester. If large classes, Winthrop College Station, Rock Hill, SC, do not feel like a nobody - then you've probably, by this time, asked yourself why you came here in the first place. Winthrop College built up much of its reputation on its smaller, more personal classroom situations. Many prospective students were drawn to this atmosphere. Perhaps they thought they would be able to read and effectively guide, say, 100 people. But you and I know, Winthrop College Station, Rock Hill, SC 29733. We're the ones with the faded cut and dried walls. We're the ones in the middle of the sidewalk which is an almost non-existent space. That is to say, this is no middle of the sidewalk issue. One student runs, jogs, chicks or sweats one or does not. The trouble is you and I haven't the slightest notion of who does. We're the ones with the faded Keds and the tie-dye boxer shorts stuffing around the college who will be feeding the gour. We lumber forward toward the ambitious goal of a diploma. We want to be on the one with the dead branch and a deserted decade lock. We're befuddled that bush, woo it from a distance, wonder what has happened to that branch in. In the meantime, we push one foot in front of the other, wearing our sneakers and middle-aged poodle fur with its fuzzy rings of fur and red toes.

TO RUN.

Not TO RUN.

I just lost the other half.

Not running is the most difficult thing to do. There are too many students in a 50-200 person class to require easy/disability for another reason, and since professors cannot be expected to remember 100 or 200 face.

There are many more problems which instructors must face:

- dwindling attendance,
- poor interaction, numbers and names with nothing of substance behind them.

Instructors, as always, are left at the disadvantage, freshmen, in particular. Names are replaced by social security numbers. Even if names are not replaced by numbers, there is no personality or questioning soul behind the name. You are simply some object that will go to class, read chapters 1-20, take the test, and make a grade. The face is cut and dried. It represents any mental stimulation, self-expression, experience, and existing students in order to make the class worth their time and attention. Furthermore, the Winthrop College because this college supposedly offered small class-room situations which enabled students to learn and live more fully than in larger colleges and universities. Part of the Winthrop College, Winthrop College Station, Rock Hill, SC 29733.

Winthrop College is small, is still in the process of Transition. Many students on this Campus still seem to have their own cliques and groups and rarely have any type of social interaction outside of the classroom. This was explained to be because of different interests. This thing is utter bullshit! Black students hang out with Black students because they want to and White students hang out with White students for the same reason. This whole process of the idea of unspoken separations between Whites and Blacks sickens me to my core. This is utter bullshit. Black students hang out with Black students because they want to and White students hang out with White students for the same reason. This whole process is one that is not being addressed on this campus. The problem here is that if you attempt to be free of this terrible plague are often times criticized and belittled for our actions. I know of many White students who have been, called "Nigger Lovers" because they accept people for what they are. Blacks who do the same are called "Uncle Tom". Friends, the archaic and obsolete attitude is one that is not being addressed on this campus. It is time that the time is come for to throw off the shackles of misguided and misguided beliefs about people because of their color. It is about time that we stop mistaking people for what they are and learn about how to protect and provide for them.

Winthrop College Station, Rock Hill, SC 29733.

DO YOU HAVE THE GALL TO COME ON A TOWN MEETING AND TRY TO TALK TO ME ABOUT A HOMELESS PERSON?

"What's that?"

"Probable one of their infernal jobs?"

"Noonoo... Look It's Xeb and his little friend '"

"Hi, it's you! They're going to save the pelibees? Go, Xeb!

He shook and cried in his excitement.

The avalanche of angry rocks swarmed across the roof, a great roar and a cloud of dust, mercilessly leaving Son of and Miley Amzoke unharmed.

As Vleerzak and Zleep sat in the settling cloud of dust, Zleep spokewared and said, "She, Xeb was planning on moving away."

Vleerzak shrugged and said, "Well, Xeb was planning on moving away."

The sheer number of students will cause an increase in cheating. It is an impossible task for any instructor to watch one hundred or so students taking a test. Also, any veteran of a given course can take a test for another student, and since professors cannot be expected to remember 100 or 200 face.

Sometimes A Not-So-Great Notion

The Creature From The Black Lagoon: A Psychological Profile

By Julie Spahn

They called him a monster. He came helpless women of the murky depths! He himself murdered scientists who were only trying to do their jobs! What kind of Creature was this? Well, to begin with, legend had it that he had lived in a remote portion of the Amazon jungle for centuries. An area only the bravest men dared to explore! He was ugly, horribly ugly. His body was covered with scales and slime from the Black Lagoon. His eyes were too close together. He had no nose, no hair, and no teeth. The only woman who had ever seen him screamed in terror when he approached.

Let's look at this from another angle. This poor fellow has been isolated for a long time and had no chance to develop the social skills necessary for successful interaction with others. Furthermore, looking like he does, he must be extremely sensitive about his appearance. Who wouldn't be, with people yelling and running every time he came into view? Which brings us to the issue of public opinion. Anyone, confronted with such negative sentiment and given no chance to defend himself could very possibly turn antisocial. And we all know the severe deprivation that human males claim to feel when they haven't seen a woman for any length of time. So imagine the uncontrollable urge The Creature must have felt when a woman appeared on the scene. You've never heard of a lady Creature, have you? He must have been pretty lonesome. Perhaps, instead of killing him, the scientists should have given him lots of Tender Loving Care and taught him Transcendental Meditation. What better way to reduce aggressiveness?

Archives Increase Collection

By Su Taylor

During the past summer the Archives collected a number of manuscript collections relating to women's history in South Carolina. This included diaries, letters, tapes, club and organizational records.

Among recent acquisitions were records of the South Carolina International Women's Year Conference, including sixteen tapes of the conference; records of the Honeys' Nest Girl Scout Council, (1919-1974); Lucy Hardee Olsen diary (1941-1945), describing her internment in the Philippines by the Japanese; the South Carolina Federal Feminist Credit Union, describing the organization of the first credit union of its kind in the Southeast; Mary Johnson Gates papers (1914-1971), relating to the history of home demonstration and economics in South Carolina; records of the Amelia Pride Book Club of Rock Hill (1906-1975), the city's oldest book club; Mary Louise Holter papers (1908-1965), describing the life of a Chester, Virginia, female academy student; and records of the Mr. U.S.A. Pageant, the first alternative feminist pageant to the Miss U.S.A. Pageant, held in Charleston, S.C.

The Archives is open for research by students 8:30 to 5:00 Monday through Friday.

This will be one of the finest years, not only for Winthrop itself, but for its clubs and organizations. A great deal of activities are planned, especially relating to the students. Everyone wants a good year.

The fraternity is new and young. We are trying to build our image. We want everyone to know that the fraternity and the sororities are here not only for partying and social life, but as service organizations too. We want to be helpful to Winthrop.

This should be a pretty productive year. We've got people in key positions that are willing to do a good job and lots of programs planned.

This year's success though, lies in communication and involvement. That means input from the students. The S.G.A. is here to serve, but it can't without more representation from the students.

That's where our new constitution will come in. It's an entirely different animal from the old one. It will take power out of the hands of the officers and into the hands of the people who care. It's the end of just the three people at the top doing everything.

-I want to see the S.G.A. get rolling this year.

There will be lots of change this year, especially with traditions and the new athletic director. Some traditions, like Clause Night, will be less and less important. Several traditions it will be hard to see go.

This year will bring in new blood and new ideas. A strong freshmen class of 1200 is bound to bring in excellence.

The S.G.A.'s major task will be putting together our new constitution. We spent all summer trying to make it solid. Our past one had too many leas and clauses. This year we want to get it together.

Volleyball, Anyone?

By Dave Burreage

Remember the 'good ole days' in high school when your P.E. teacher would say, "O.K. gang--today we’ll learn the fundamentals of volleyball"? Your first thoughts probably were, "Oh boy, something simple for a change" (as you thought about the wind spirits or muletrain you ran the day before). "No sweat!" you kept thinking. But that was high school, and now you're in college, and although you may not still be playing volleyball, it is still around. However, at WC, playing on the college level separates the men from the boys -- or should I say, "the women from the girls." According to Miss Linda Warren, women's volleyball and basketball coach at WC, the main difference between high school league volleyball and college level volleyball is the intensity. "College volleyball is much more intense than that played in high school," Coach Warren said.

Warren, a graduate of UNC-G (with graduate work done at Florida State University), coached at Coker College (with graduate work done at Florida State University) before joining WC in her third year of coaching at WC. She has also taught in Jacksonville, Florida, coached volleyball, basketball, and softball at Florida State, and coached the Junior High in Adela, Georgia. As an athlete, she played basketball and tennis in high school.

When asked about this year's team, Warren said, "We have never had an overabundance of height, but we are in pretty good shape this year. We have a girl at six feet, she's a junior (from South Carolina) and was "All State" last year." Other front line players include 5 ft. 10 in. Jooby Williams, a junior in her second year of volleyball, and a 5 ft. 11 in. freshman from Hartsville. Warren continued, "We have seven players returning from last year. I lost three people out of my starting lineup from last year. (pause) "We're in pretty good shape."

WC's season starts on the 24th of this month. On that date several South Carolina schools will participate in the Third Annual South Carolina Collegiate scrimmage Day. This season Gwynn provides a chance to see the level of play. The event is very informal, and matches do not count on the regular schedule. The total number of matches will vary depending on how WC does in tournament play (winners play more, losers play less). Recently, WC played 48 matches. All home games are played in uptown Greenville.

When asked, "Are there any post-season tournaments that you have planned?" Coach Warren replied, "We PLAN to go to the state tournament."

Restaurant Rating, Or
"The Indigention Suggestion"

Picture this. You're sitting in your room, hoovering somewhere above the surface of your chair after having bathed in the sun or five bowls of Columbia. As you lean, the scent of the New York planted on your lips, the sound of your friends is talking in a language that has you nodding your affirmative to something you are not really sure of. But, you open your mouth, because you can, and you slide the pillow out aside from a few stoned mouths. You could sit and listen to R&B, or maybe crush land on your mattress, never to be heard or seen again, but before you are able to entertain either of the aforementioned ideas, you are suddenly faced with the most fiendish arch enemy known to man - the munchies.

The Munchies.

The Kitchen.

You're using in your room (because they really laid waste to the summer mentalities), you kick back and enjoy your food.

Of course, the kitchen is just a small group on Tuesday, until September 25. Students from Clemson and Spartanburg are also interested in this event. The kitchen is held at the Grace Lutheran Church in Rock Hill. It is open to interested students of any college or university.

Food includes:

- A Soup and Sandwich Buffet
- A complete menu
- A separate children's meal
- A variety of Chinese and other Asian specialties
- A complete menu for those with dietary restrictions

POLI-SCI OFFERS NEW PROGRAMS

The Political Science department has developed two new programs which it is now offering students.

The first program is on the undergraduate level. It will give the student a B.S. in Government and Public Service. The program will offer the student experience in government administration. It includes an internship which allows students experience working in a local government agency.

The second program is a Masters Degree in Public Administration. It is being accomplished through a cooperative effort with the University of South Carolina. Both University of South Carolina and Winthrop College professors are teaching the courses. You can receive 18 of the 36 hours required at Winthrop.

Dr. Richard O'Bre, Amt. of South Carolina Political Science, is mainly responsible for bringing these programs about.

Faculty Followups

CHEMISTRY

Dr. Frederick Elston has been hired by Winthrop's Chemistry and Physics Department for a part-time teaching position for one year.

Dr. Elston recently received his Ph.D. from the University of South Carolina. At Winthrop, Dr. Elston is presenting several physics and chemistry classes.

“One more or less has to work hard to understand anything in science and it is difficult to do if you don't care. If I expect the students to work hard, I'll have to make the subject interesting,” said Dr. Elston. From his own undergraduate work at the California Institute of Technology, Dr. Elston said he felt that many aspects of chemistry were... just thrown at him and unless there was prior enthusiasm for the material it was hard to follow.

Dr. Elston has a favorable first impression of Winthrop. He said that he likes the location, size, and people of Winthrop. Unlike schools Dr. Elston was previously associated with, Dr. Elston had found at Winthrop an easier exchange between different departments and that students pay more attention in class. Also, he feels that Winthrop has given him more freedom in his teaching and research, than he had in any other school he worked at before coming to Winthrop this fall.

Dr. Elston has published two papers on his research. One was in the JOURNAL OF MATHEMATICAL PHYSICS (July, 1976), and the other paper was in the PHYSICS LETTERS (January, 1977). Both of these papers deal with Dr. Elston's specialty—general relativity.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Three members of the Winthrop Undergraduate faculty staff received their Ph.D. degrees during the past summer. Assistant Professor Dr. Mickey Taylor received her degree at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Dr. Mabelta Bobb, A.A.T. Prof. of P.E. and Special Education received her degree at the University of Georgia. Dr. Yvonne Bowman, Assistant Prof. of P.E. and Health, received her degree at the University of Alabama.

JOYNES CENTER

Mary Jeanne Byrd, M.A., is in the process of putting together a program on women and politics, which would be sponsored by the Joyce Center.
