Editorial Asides

We've done it again! By that we mean the student body has again argued social clubs pro and con and the majority have seen enough of good in them to vote affirmatively.

Now it is up to Standards and the Federation to reform the present system, for obviously reform is needed, judging by the opposition the clubs have met.

No college self scholarship about?

According to an article in Scribner's

(Oct.) by John R. Tumis,

Rochester's higher education is a racket today. He maintains that because of the large number of colleges and small number of students, relatively, these institutions must make their college life an attractive one that scholarship is submerged to the point of almost being forgotten. Mr. Tumis, also, gives interesting accounts of methods used to entice students by different colleges. And from our not so distant days of high school scholarship, we know that many of his accusations are just.

The weather is certainly helping hold up the reputation of a large number of those who have propagated Cold and an unusually cold winter. Perhaps even Charlestonians will see snow again for the first time since the winter of '36-'37. To Northerners it sounds rather funny when we say we are "snowed in" with 18 inches on the ground, but it is literally true in this part of the South.

No doubt the rapid changes in weather conditions this month can account for the large majority of the colds in the infirmary. The "turnover" has been quite rapid in the past ten days, but our efficient new physician and her staff "have the situation well in hand."

Marion Vespers Speaker

The Rev. H. M. Marion Jr. of the Oakland Avenue church of Rock Hill will speak at vespers Sunday night at 8:30 in the amphitheater. In case of inclement weather the service will be held in Johnson hall at the same hour.

SPORTS EXHIBITION TO BE GIVEN FOR FRESHMEN

Night Hockey Game To Climax Entertainment

In order to demonstrate the variety of athletic opportunities offered by the athletic association, a sports exhibition was sponsored by the association for the benefit of the freshmen and new students Monday night on the athletic field.

The first part of the demonstration was a review of all the sports going on at one time: swimming, under the direction of Catherine Easterlin; tennis, Kline Evans; recreational sports, Grace Funderburk; baseball, Florence McPherson; archery, Edith Gentry; basketball, Mary Kneese; bowling, Louis Loring; golf, swimming and the Cutting club; tennis, Dorgan.

A minute entertainment will follow in which Margie Mitchell, Leila Sifton, Bert Marsh, and Alice Willmar clog, and Frances Edwards does a tap dance.

The climax of this exhibition is the night hockey game of which Margie Mitchell is in charge. The following will play: Bert Marsh, Florence McPherson, Alice Willmar, E. McElroy, Mary Edwards, Edith Gentry, Ruth Snellings, Dot Clark, Mary Jane Philpott, Sarah Ferguson, Harriet Wannamaker, Selva Craig, Irisa Anderson, Margie McKechnie, Frances Feltner, Kline Evans, Irene Kelley, Grace Funderburk, Mary Kneese, Dolly Stigle, and Hayworth Pendragone.

Alpha Psi Zeta Bids Four New Members

Honorary Psychology Club Votes In Anderson, Jody, Palmer, Klag

Mary Johnson of Anderson, John Anderson, William S. Fuller of Greenville, and Ann King of Wilmette, were elected members of Alpha Psi Zeta, honorary psychology club, at a meeting Wednesday afternoon in Johnson hall.

Sarah Bishop, president of the club, reports that bids have been sent out and have all been accepted. The requirement for membership in Alpha Psi Zeta is to have a B average on two courses of advanced psychology and the new members must be voted in by a majority of the club.

'Achievements' Is Topic At Vespers

McLaurin Presides Over Senior Program

Fourth in the series of class vespers on the senior program in Johnson hall Wednesday night at 8:30, Jean McLaurin, president of the senior class, presided over the program on "Achievements".

Mary Allen Stone told of industry. For an example she used Raiford Cooper, a former Winthrop student, who is now an architect.

Edith Praesler, class of '32, and author of "Women in Business," was the center of Alice Willmar's discussion of beauty, and Mary Louise Fletcher talked on Dr. Cora Lenox, class of '28, who is a present medical missionary.

DISCOVERED: WINTHROP HAS SOCIAL LAG!

A comparison of the Winthrop student social life with that of the average American college girl as determined by a recent survey made by the National Student Federation of America shows plainly that our rules are far behind the times. In fact about the only Winthrop regulation which tallies with that of more liberal schools is the one which leaves the matter of three square meals a day to the judgment of the individual girl.

Just what are the "do's and don'ts" of the average college girl? What are the social regulations which the majority of girls' schools require? Briefly, it is taken for granted that she may dance at school and away from it. Of course she smokes, but (and here Winthrop scores No. 2) alcoholic beverages are strictly forbidden.

The dormitory life is as much like that of her own home as possible. There is the radio in her room, but during quiet hour its volume must not carry beyond the room.

There is also unrestricted use of lights. Most astounding of all—she does not have to be in her place of residence until 10:15 P. M. on all nights except Saturday when the hour is raised to 12 P. M.

As for the matter-of-facts freedom and individual responsibility are the keynotes here. She may have as many "engagements" as she wishes, but they must be recorded on a card system in her dormitory office. The places where she may date are somewhat restricted, the most common ban being "No Parking." (The very mention of a chance to park makes the Winthrop girl laugh.) With the permission of her parents she may ride in cars and during her senior year may have one of her own on the campus.

The number of weekends and the number of cuts depends either on her class rating or on scholastic averages. Usually seniors have unlimited weekends and those with the highest scholastic averages are allowed unlimited cuts. In every case at least one cut for each semester hour of credit on each subject is granted. The permission prerequisites for weekends away from school are practically the same demanded of us (Score No. 3 for Winthrop). Finally, attendance at either a daily, weekly, or bi-monthly chapel is necessary. (Score No. 4 for Winthrop.)

A comparison of each privilege with its corresponding restriction at Winthrop is unnecessary. Can we not go further and state that in view of this survey the rules themselves are just as unnecessary?

Obviously the present conditions do not insure a happy, normal, nor inspiring life for any girl, for fundamentally they prevent the doing of natural, normal activities. All our lives we have been comparatively unrestricted in our social activities. With our parents' permission and knowledge we have played cards, smoked, lived by radio, and entertained our gentlemen friends at home if it suited us, or away from home just as easily.

Long before we came to college we had formed certain standards and set certain limits in the pursuit of all duties and pleasures. We are no younger, no more protected, nor any less experienced than our sisters of the outer world—yet we are treated as if we were 1,250 Dimpled Darlings away at boarding school for the first time.

Nevertheless, the fact remains that the outworn, detested rules remain and are enforced. We don't dance, we don't smoke, we bravely stretch three tiny cuts over a whole semester, we go to bed sweetly at 10:30 four nights every week, and we do have dates on Saturday and Sunday nights in stuffy dormitory parlors, and in dormitory parlors only.

We don't floss so very much, we do like Winthrop, and we do manage to have a fairily good time; but when we read a report like that of the N. E. S. A., we stop and think with regret, how much better it could be and how much we're missing. Inevitably, we wonder "why" these things are so.

Why is the social life at Winthrop behind the times? Is it that South Carolina is a conservative state? Definitely, no! Our people back home are not content to struggle along with pre-war methods and machines. Indeed, very often they have taken the initiative in revolt against the existing order.

Is it because of a total lack of association and cooperation between the board of trustees and the students? Is it the failure of the students to cooperate with the administration? Is it because the students don't care enough to fight for change? Perhaps it is, because after numerous attempts we've lamely decided that "it's no use after all."

Whatever the reason, the cause back of it should be erased. Winthrop's scholastic standing is superior and well-established but if its social life is so markedly inferior and "poor-grade," the school standing will inevitably suffer.

SPORTS VARY COLLEGE LIFE

Monday an Athletic association-sponsored display of all types of sports available to Winthrop students in club form will for a time turn our minds from the intellect to the physical.

It is necessary, in order to build a well-rounded life at college, that include athletics. In times past, participation in college sports has meant spending a great deal of time and energy on a limited number of activities.

Now it is different. Perhaps you have only a few half-hours a week to give to sports and don't want anything very strenuous. The Athletic association offers a variety of recreational sports that can be played during spare minutes. Nor does it require a great deal of skill to enjoy them.

There are many other sports requiring various degrees of skill, energy, and time. But the important thing is that there are athletic activities for every type student. And every student should avail himself with one of these clubs, not only for the physical exercise aspect of the situation, but also from the point of view of varying her daily and weekly program, and from the point of social gain resulting from mixing with your fellow students on grounds of common interest.

You may not be used to it: it may require effort at first; but the benefits to be derived from participation in the sports are well worth the time and effort consumed.

ANY OLD HOSE?

What do you do with your old hose? Do you throw them away, burn them, or give them to the maids?

No matter what you've been doing with them in the past, here's the place for them in the future.

Hettie and Meta Smith have placed a huge box in North (and there are to be similar ones in the other dormitories) with a sign "Put Your Old Hose Here" on it. Upon further investigation one finds that the old hose are to be sent to the Sir Wlfred Grenfell Labrador Industries to be made into rugs by invalids in the Labrador sanatorium.

The Smith twins spent three months in Connecticut this summer doing volunteer work for Sir Wlfred Grenfell. They became very much interested in the work and thought of the idea that will take care of old hose that are useless to Winthrop girls but are priceless to Labrador patients.

We all have old hose that we don't use so let's save them for the box and do our bit toward the great Labrador missionary work.

JUST LINES

Dearest Mother,

I'm now living in an orange crate—or rather out of it. They've stored my trunk, and that's what we got to put our junk in. My roommates and I have decided to paint all of our purple, the better to blend with Alice's pink spread. Only the green and white of yesterdays' Alice's brother ever let us get away with it. And I can't decide whether I'm more from putting them up or from eating the cookies that came with them. They were all frilly around the edges, the cookies, I mean. The curtains were plain.

The curtains were plain.

A terrible catastrophe almost happened to me Sunday night. John (you remember, the boy I met at the beach last summer) and I were scrambling for the top bunk. We were both in a heap, bashing each other, and I can't decide whether I'm more from putting them up or from eating the cookies that came with them. They were all frilly around the edges, the cookies, I mean.

Mother, when was Daddy's payday?

Lots of love,

Sally.

Fairies which usually end in marriage.

Lovre knows no bounds. It strikes the male and the female, the fat and the skinny, the love-legged and the knock-kneed, the smug-toothed and the lame-teethed, the dumb but not the smart.

Love—Ask a Winthrop girl!

Blue Tooth Brush Epidemic Found Raging in Campus

Astounding Facts and Statistics Revealed By Inquiring into College Dental Habits

BY DOROTHY HAIR

"Miss Winthrop College" has "the tooth brush"! Miss Winthrop girls have blue tooth brushes. Astounding! Coming in close behind, the pinkies have "ganged up" to a sweet 261, the greens to 183, and the other colors range down to three black ones. (For more accurate statistics try counting them!)

Four hundred three Winthrop tooth brushes rate the shelf after their dubious performances. That figure definitely places "Miss Winthrop" well up in the "obnoxious" scale, based on the number of toothbrushes on nail. Some hang them on hooks. And some are reported as sticking them in the holes meant for towel rods.

Tooth paste loads three times as many brushes as does tooth powder. It appears that Miss Winthrop would rather not be called "upsetting" and "savage" because of gnawing some sort of tough food—as some ads put it—and so she takes the fastidious way out and uses tooth paste. However, who should she worry?—she has blue, not pink, tooth brush!

Then there are those who brush their teeth six times a day and those who ease around to the process only once a day. Anyway, the total number of brushings divided by the number of people that brush equals 2.7-8.

So what? So if you would be a typical Winthrop student—dentist—then have your requirements.

clothes (of which there were 15) and traveled to gym and to speedball, where a stray ball, practically mangled the cranium of yours truly, which made me very much

"touched in the head" for the time being??

Eventually, time marched on—I was in a "day" and found myself spelbound, listening to the classmate's voices in "Appreciation of Music." Truly I appreciated everything but the knot on

"ole ole bean!" My dad, but you always have something by which to remember something's or something of the kind.

But the hall wasn't kind, so I don't remember. Spent rest of morning indoling in "Analogy" —I don't know why?

Personal Nomination for most en-courageous: Winthrop's Hubs—those of Lydia Shimmon.

Thought: I have a most passionate liking for individuals who are definitely indefinite and yet could be definite!

(That is, if they could be that way.)

Thought: While Shirley and Matilda are Apple: Those flicker folk most certainly have the ability to bring people to tears or laughter—Flanigan, the film,

"Seventh Heaven," showed Saturday night—Great display of both, but mostly of the latter. I am sure Shirley was always that Helen Farren could never be perfect double for Anne Shirley. . . .

Jean Moore has an air of calm sophistication which is unsurpassed by any of Winthrop's supposedly "sophisticates".

. . . The nights and days maintainance of the same length—but are they?

. . . Sunday night feasts seem to always, and inevitably, get out down-until another Sunday night . . . So many varied colored bathing caps in the pool—so many girls in blue, green, yellow, or balloons on green sheets.

When seen from the balcony, of course! (P. S.: I've reached my destination and the once-was apple has been isolated.)

Dialogue:

Judge (after giving prisoner a 99-year sentence)—"Do you anything else?"

Prisoner—"Nothing, except that you are mighty liberal with other people's time."

Since this applies beautifully to yours truly, I feel guilty, so, tweet-tweet, my dears.

The freshman Glee club will alternate with the college Glee club for Sunday night vespers.

Wins National Contest

During the feelings of so many people.

Helen Wallace Minns, sophomore: "My main objection is that only a small percentage of girls join the clubs. It's especially unfortunate for the freshmen, since it creates more unhappiness."

Natherine McMillen, junior president: "I think it would be a wonderful thing to abolish them. Blushing is so deceptive, and it takes so much time and money. This is supposed to be a democratic school, but the very theory of clubs is far from democratic."

During the early part of this week, the Socialites (not printer's error for Socialists) finally realized that the pride and joy of their beauties was just about to be taken away. On Saturday, they joined millions of other disgraced school bands of union. No more social club! Never! We like our club and we'll fight for it! And the refrain changed to tunes like those recorded in the dim dawn just before the final conflict.

Dickie Brown, senior: "I definitely like the clubs, for they furnish the main source of social life at Whinthrop. Without them we wouldn't have anything at all."

Virginia Workman, junior: "Hope they'll stay. I like the principle, but not the machinery. Of course that could be changed; but if we have no organization at all, millions of secret clubs would pop up at every turn."

Jacy McArthur, freshman from Ardmore: "We new students have only seen the surface of social clubs, but they're certainly made there these weeks a lot of fun. So far I'm for them."

Howard Atkinson: "My closest friends have been made through contacts with my club members. This social life afforded is more needed by underclassmen than seniors. I've enjoyed my three years of club life very much."

Of course there could be no real conflict without the neutrals. These fence-sitters were clubbers, non-clubbers, or freshmen (the innocent darlings) who were slightly biased over the confusion. "The decision was made early in the day, and closed doors the Federation of Social Clubs met to decide its fate. True to human nature, people are loath to give up what to which they have belonged. Sure enough, traditions and customs triumphed. By a vote of

Alumnae Teaching in Korea
Mrs. Mildred Bradford of Abbeville, a former Whinthrop student, is in Korea at the moment, having been appointed to teach the American and foreign children of that place.

23 for and 17 against, the social clubs of Whinthrop college won the most serious battle in their struggle for existence.

The Greeks remain on the Whinthrop campus.

How long, oh Oracle, how long?
